A CLERGYMAN'S APPEAL.

The Rev. W. F. Brownlee, Ridgetown, Anglican minister, has written the following letter to the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives:—

Dear Sir,—I fell in with a case to-day in my parish, a young woman very ill with consumption and I promised I would write you regarding her entrance into the hospital for consumptives in Muskoka. The case is one of great necessity and charity. The applicant is about 18 years of age. She is practically without a home, staying at present with a relative. She is bright and amiable, and would like to live. As I understand, you reject none on account of poverty. I commend the case to you as one most needy, and if you can send me instructions or papers for application to the hospital, I will see to raising necessary means for her transportation and have her sent at once, as I imagine she is not beyond receiving benefit.

[Note by Editor.—Sir Wm. R. Meredith, Kt., Vice-President of the National Sanitarium Association, or Mr. W. J. Gage, Chairman of the Executive Committee, Toronto, will gladly receive contributions for this and several other equally piteous cases calling for help.]

High Class Investment

THE OREGON MINING AND SMELTING COMPANY

Offer to Canadian investors a limited amount of stock of the above company The property owned by the Company consists at the present time of about 500 acres, which are located in the Tarryall District and Park County, Colorado. This whole district has been known for years on account of its rich placer ground, and is now prominently before the public owing to the number of very good properties which have been opened up recently producing, principally, gold, and lately some that are producing Platinum. On the Oregon property there are a number of well known veins of low grade ore that will yield a profit by being treated on the ground of the company. The company have recently opened up a fine vein in the Hawkeye group and this vein shows not only good values but an immense amount of ore which alone would make the property very valuable. Assays from ore taken from various parts of this property range from a few dollars to $373 per ton in gold. We have very little silver, lead or copper in the district. The company have a shaft 240 feet deep, with a good shaft house thoroughly well equipped with all modern machinery to develop same. They are now driving a tunnel which is in about 700 feet and which will cut the Hawkeye vein about 300 feet deeper than where it is opened at present. There is enough ore exposed on the property of this company to keep them busy for a number of years and the reason for selling stock at the present time is to secure funds to build a mill. The company will probably join with the Almaden Company in building this mill. There is water enough to furnish water power and over 100 acres of fine spruce and pine timber. The affairs of the company have always been managed in a business-like economical manner and there are no officers' salaries. The monies received from the sale of stock go direct into the property.

I can heartily recommend this stock as safe, as well as an unusually good investment, because of the immense amount of ore which the company have already opened up. It is not a mere prospect, but the property has been developed by expense of a considerable amount of money and time.

The company is splendidly officered by men of integrity and high standing. The company has not pushed the sale of stock the last year owing to a delay in getting title to the ground from the Government, but now that has been satisfactorily adjusted and work will be pushed to a finish.

The number of exceedingly rich strikes which have been made during the last few weeks in the various camps in the State of Colorado is the best evidence of the prosperity of the mining business. Almost every camp in the state has opened up rich bodies of ore, and Park County is well in the lead in that line.

There are only $25,000 of stock for sale, at $1.00 per share. The company is capitalized at $200,000, and the advantage to the investor of selling the stock at par, is that every share is fully paid up and non-assessable.

JAPANESE TO CAPTURE PORT ARTHUR IF POSSIBLE

Tokio, May 11—The general retreat of the Russians confirms Japanese advices as to the dimensions of Kuropatkin's army in Manchuria. The Military Council has watched the mobilization of the Czar's forces unremittingly and in its opinion the Russian commander is not prepared to act actively with more than 100,000 men. It is stated that Alexieff up to the very last sought to intimidate the Japanese by throwing a line of troops over a vast reach of country and pretending that this deployment was supported by strong reserves, the number of which was hourly increasing.

The Mikado's advisers, however, preferred to accept the version of affairs supplied by its own Intelligence Department and laid its plans accordingly. There is a feeling growing in official quarters that the Russians intended to retire all along if they found the Japanese worthy antagonists. The fact that the Russian general awaited the demonstration of the mettle of the Mikado's land forces is regarded as a happy circumstance for the Japanese since it puts the Russians in the light of retreating compulsorily before the Islanders instead of falling back in accordance with a preconceived strategic scheme.

This aspect of the case helps the Japanese in Pekin and throughout Asia. It also aids them financially and politically.

Che Foo, May 11.—Returning from a cruise through the northern part of the Liaotheshan channel a Daily Star correspondent is able to report that Port Arthur is now effectively blocked by twelve sunken vessels. The gallant flotilla which accomplished this feat advanced in three divisions under the direction of Commander Hayashi. Transports probably coming from Chinampo where they are believed to have been lying during the past fortnight began landing the second Japanese army, May 4, at Pitsewo, on theses coast, about 50 miles north of Dalny. The naval brigade waded breast deep for 1,000 yards. The gun boats threatened the shore and shelled all the likely positions where Russian troops might have been concealed. The body of troops was landed and entrenched on the hills in remarkably quick time. Only 1,000 Russian soldiers were discovered without making any resistance. About 15,000 men have already disembarked and 50,000 more will follow before May 13. Fighting is going forward daily on the peninsula and a successful attempt has been made to cut the railway near Port Adams.

Port Arthur is narrowly watched by a cordon of Japanese torpedo boats and an outer line of battleships. Other Japanese ships are patrolling the east coast for the purpose of protecting the transports. There is also a squadron in Society Bay which will co-operate with the land forces. The fall of Dalny is expected daily. The collapse of Port Arthur cannot be far off.

Apparently, the Japanese forces that crossed the Yalu and fought the battle of Chiu Ting Cheng are well inland for the Star correspondent was unable to discover any signs of activity from the mouth of the river in the vicinity of Taiungkao, where the despatch boat anchored. It is thought that the land and naval forces will join in a grand attack on Port Arthur within two weeks.

RUSSIAN FORCE SCATTERED.

St. Petersburg, May 11—Russians on every hand are asking despairingly what has become of their main army. The defeat on the Yalu, with its appalling casualty list, the evacuation of Feng Wang Cheng, the investment of Port Arthur and the streaming of the Japanese from the sea into Liao Tung Peninsula and Manchuria produce stupefaction. It is known that General Kuropatkin commands an active army of between 160,000 and 200,000 men. Intelligent Russians wonder why he does not use it. It is feared that he has foolishly scattered his forces over a great extent of territory, thus inviting the Japanese to cut up these small bodies and that concentration is now necessary to his salvation.

London, May 5.—Both Japanese and Russians officially announce the capture of the important junction point of Feng Wang Cheng. The despatch from Tokio is dated May 8 and is as follows:

"Gen. Kuroki, commandant of the first army corps, reports that on May 6 our cavalry detachment dispersed the enemy at Feng Wang Cheng, which was immediately occupied by our infantry detachment. The enemy burnt ammunition before evacuating the stronghold. Refugees of the enemy who have been hiding in the adjoining forest and villages, continue to come in and surrender.

"Natives say that the number of Russians who were carried on litters through Feng Wang Cheng on May 2 amounted to 400. It is believed that the total casualties of the enemy exceeded 3,000."

A St. Petersburg despatch states that General Kuropatkin has sent the following telegram, under date of May 7; "Lieut.-General Sassulitch today reports that the enemy's cavalry and units of their advanced guard occupied Feng Wang Cheng today.

"Two companies and two squadrons of their force proceeded towards Dalainapatse. Our cavalry and units withdrew towards Schendjiane.

"Scouts from Feng Wang Cheng report that two Japanese divisions advanced May 6 towards Feng Wang Cheng by the main road from Pianmin. A third division advancing by the valley of the Iho River occupied a position near Khuandiputse and posted batteries to fire upon Feng Wang Cheng, counting upon finding our troops there.

"The Japanese advanced slowly and very cautiously upon Feng Wang Cheng."

GRAVE DANGER IN CHINA

Russian Authorities Fear That Outbreak May be Precipitated

St. Petersburg, May 10—The effect of the disaster to Russian arms on the Yalu upon the Chinese is being watched with keen interest and considerable apprehension. The Russian government appears to be satisfied with the situation for the moment, and Paul Lessar, the Russian minister at Pekin, is making daily reports to the foreign office. The report received from the minister to-day contained nothing disquieting.

The Pekin government according to Russian report, seems to be acting in perfect good faith and insists that it is intent upon preserving neutrality. It is turning a deaf ear to appeals of anti-Russian leaders, who want China to throw in her lot with Japan, and is doing all possible to suppress anti-foreign agitation among the people.

Nevertheless the Russian authorities regard China as a powder magazine. They realize the danger inherent in the situation and the necessity for constant pressure on the Pekin government.

The danger of an anti-foreign movement throughout the Chinese empire exists not only for Russia but for all the powers, and Russia has at least three times since the outbreak of subject, the last time being less than ten days ago. The answers received uniformly show a full appreciation of the need of exercising a restraining influence on Pekin and all the powers are co-operating to this end.

London, May 11—Englishmen slowly are bringing themselves to realize the possibly stupendous meaning of the Japanese victory on the Yalu. The Spectator classes it with the events which are marking the points of time. It says: "It provides precisely the concrete evidence to obliterate the pride of the white continent which three centuries of history seemed to justify. An Asiatic power now has arisen, which besides defeating a European war fleet is proving itself able to use three great armies of invasion, each sixty thousand strong, with careful provision and strategical skill, clinching the courage of armies directed by great masters of European warfare. This momentous fact diminishes the safety of every white power, including America, whose Philippines will be less defensible. What if Japan, a prey to ambition, and pressed by the inadequacy of her jammed estate to her growing population, should inform France that Suimen must remain a dependency of China or Germany, that Kiaochow had better be evacuated."

So the Spectator spreads fears of a new yellow peril, more formidable to the white races than anything hitherto imagined. Bearing upon these alarms comes the significant announcement that the Chinese Dowager Empress has consented to be photographed. Her people may now worship the Imperial image as in Japan. A Japanese photographer has received orders to attend at the palace for this purpose. "Does not this," asks one writer, "indicate what the result of a Japanese victory will be, namely, the practical alliance of Japan and China? If we do not call this a yellow peril, at all events it will be a very serious and momentous change in the balance of power in Asia."

HIGHER THAN FOR YEARS

The Assiniboine River on the Rampage at Brandon Manitoba.

BRIDGES ARE WEAKENED

People of Winnipeg Fear a Flood When the Water Reaches That Point

Winnipeg, Man., May 11—Considerable alarm has been occasioned in the city by the rapid rise of the water in the Assiniboine, coupled with the report that the Little Saskatchewan near Brandon, has changed its course and has made a channel from near Wheat Lands, making the Assiniboine in a turbulent fury at Manitou instead of following the usual circuitous course.

AT BRANDON.

Brandon, May 11—Not in twenty years has the Assiniboine been as high as now. It rose over three feet in 12 hours and is still rising steadily and rapidly. Already forty buildings are under water. The roadways on First and Eighteenth streets leading from the north side of the river are under water, and fears are entertained that the bridges on both highways will be washed away. Men employed by the city are on both bridges keeping the pier clear of driftwood. Three of the leading butchers have feeding barns on the flats. The barns are now under water almost to the roofs. Knight & Fairar had fifty hogs and fifteen sheep washed away. Burchill & Howjey succeeded in liberating their imprisoned stock, while Jas. Donaldson has nearly 150 hogs and sheep in the loft of his barn. They are safe as long as the barn stands, but the water is running at a terrific rate and the building may be lifted from its foundations at any time.

All residents—principally Galatians—living in what was considered the danger area were removed out of their houses, but the water rose higher, and early to-day others had to make hasty retreats. The banks of the river were lined with household goods. In some instances everything had to be left, and some of the people had to take to the roofs of their dwellings.

BRIDGES IN DANGER.

The bridge which crosses the Assiniboine is so weakened that trains cannot cross. In Hanbury's saw-mill were piled high heaps of slabs. These have all been washed away as has the summer supply of wood gathered by poor foreigners who lived on the flats. Many old settlers predict that the worst is not yet. Hundreds along the bank of the river are watching the rapid rise of the water. The water has risen so high that the waterworks pump is out of business, and the city is without fire protection.

Benefits of Improved Grades

Mr. F. H. McGuigan, General Superintendent of the Grand Trunk Railway, is in Toronto, says the Globe. He would only talk about the work the company has now completed in improving the grades between this city and Port Hope at a cost of $1,500,000. Mr. McGuigan says that previous to these improvements an engine could haul a train of only about 800 tons over this section, but now can haul 2,200 tons just as easily.

TO CANADIAN INVESTORS

I desire to call the attention of investors to the

of which I am the authorized agent

Investments in mining stocks where they can be purchased cheaply whose property contains merit and whose directors are men of unquestionable honor and integrity, and especially when sufficient work has been done to guarantee a producing mine and the leads have been demonstrated to be permanent, offer the greatest opportunity for large returns from modest investments.

The shrewdest capitalists of England and America are giving more attention to mining properties and putting more money into them than at any time in the past history of the world.

The Smuggler Group consists of five full sized claims, to-wit: The Smuggler, Gampon, Black Jack, Star and Bed Rock, located in the Greenhorn District of Eastern Oregon. Surrounding mines are Potosi, Pride of Pendleton, Bonanza and Rockefeller, developing work to the extent of 1,000 feet of tunnelling, drifts and crosscuts have been made, exposing hundreds of tons of high grade ore, averaging from $25 to $45 per ton, based on smelter returns and for the purpose of equipping the mines a limited number of shares of Treasury Stock will be sold at 25 cents per share, the par value of which is $1.00.

HIGH CLASS INVESTMENT

LA ZACUALPA RUBBER PLANTATION COMPANY

Incorporated Under the Laws of the State of California.

La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation is situated in the best location in Mexico for the cultivation of rubber. It has been known for a great many years as a very choice strip of rubber land and subsequent experience has shown that it is equal to all that has been claimed for it. The affairs of the company are in the hands of men of undoubted integrity and high reputation as successful men of business. To those seeking a safe investment which will secure a good income for life, this proposition offers a favorable opportunity

Shares in La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation are not capital stock of a corporation, and carry none of the responsibilities and obligations, or liability to assessment of capital stock; but represent an undivided interest in the plantation itself.

The twelve thousand acres comprising the plantation are divided into twelve thousand shares, each share representing one acre of land, and the holders of shares in La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation are the actual owners of one undivided acre of land, for each share held, with a guarantee expressed upon the certificate by La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation Company, under its official seal, to plant two hundred or more rubber trees per acre for each share sold, and to care for same for a period of five years, and at the expiration of that time to gather the first harvest and deliver the net proceeds thereof to the shareholder.

In other words, La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation Company sells to each shareholder one undivided acre of land in La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation, with two hundred or more rubber trees five years old, and their profits for all time, for each share sold, and agrees to plant so that the first harvest belonging to the shareholder is the one to be gathered from La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation during the sixth year from the date of the certificate.

After the delivery of the first harvest La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation Company will care for the plantation, and harvest and market the crop for ten per cent. of the net proceeds therefrom. Out of this commission the Company agrees to pay all costs of administration, including maintenance of its home and branch offices.

This plan gives the purchaser of shares an interest of definite acreage, and his proportionate share in the total yield of rubber from the entire plantation forever, making it beautifully certain that the interest of each shareholder will receive the same care and attention forever, making it absolutely certain, no matter how large or small, for the success of the plantation will be the mutual gain of all.

The foregoing state of facts makes it impossible for any person or persons to combine against or injure the individual interest of the smallest shareholder in the plantation, or to encumber the same, and it can be readily seen that the success of one means the success of all.

All persons have some money, but more time. A little money and five years of time, if applied to the cultivation of rubber, will produce large profits.

A SUNDAY SPENT IN MONTREAL

Five Thousand Attended "Bullfi ht" in East End

BUT BULL WAS "DOPED."

And Thunders of Church and Civil Power were Not Needed at a Gigantic "Fake."

Montreal, May 9.—If Archbishop Bruchesi would have seen what a somnolent fake the great Sunday bull-fight at the National lacrosse grounds was to be, and how admirably his parishioners would preserve their good humor and part with their good money, he would doubtless not have bothered to launch the archiepiscopal condemnation against those who attended it. Nor could they have had the same foreknowledge, of Provincial Police, McCaskell, that would the Citizens' League have wired Attorney-General Archambault that they would like to have the law observed — without specifying what the law was. Nor would the Attorney-General have wired to Chief he had received such a request, and that Chief of Police McCaskell would please do his duty—without at all specifying what that duty was. Nor would the S.P.C.A. have sent four plain-clothes officers to decide when the bull was being requested uncomfortable. Nor, very possibly, would 5,000 ladies and gentlemen of Montreal have gone, as they did go, to witness what they thought would be an injudicious imitation of the national sport of Spain.

THE BULL WAS OVER-DOPED.

For the ferocious beast was overdoped. Medical and surgical methods and red rage alike failed to restore him to an active interest in life and he regarded all things alike, as one dazed. The audience broke down the barriers, and one small boy reaped illimitable joy by twisting his tail. Finally the noble animal fell asleep on a large red ensign that had been used in an endeavor to rouse him to anger, and had to be prodded up and led away. Nemorous, the toreador, was at no moment in danger of anything worse than rotten eggs and the audience preserved the most extraordinary cheerfulness.

—Mr. Alf. McDonald launched his steam launch, the St. Charles, on Monday and intends taking it to Lakefield at once.

Old Hagar's Secret

BY MRS. M. J. HOLMES

Author of "For a Woman's Sake," "Love's Triumph," "Purified by Suffering," "A Grass Widow," "Woman Against Woman," Etc.

stay to breakfast, saying, though that "they should decamp immediately after, and never darken her doors again."

"But Mr. Douglas is rich," sobbed Theo from behind her pocket handkerchief, "immensely rich and of a very aristocratic family. I am sure, else where did he get his money?"

This remark was timely, and when, fifteen minutes later, Madam Conway was presented to the gentlemen in the hall, her manner was far more gracious toward George Douglas than it was toward Henry Warner, to whom she merely nodded, deigning no answer whatever to his polite apology for having made himself so much at home in her house. The expression of his mouth was, as usual, against him, and fancying he intended adding insult to injury by laughing in her face, she coolly turned her back upon him ere he had finished speaking and walked down stairs, leaving him to wind up his speech with "an old she dragon"

But this time both the sun and the servants had risen, the former shining into the disorderly dining-room, and disclosing to the latter the weary, jaded Anna, who, while Madam Conway was exploring the house, had thrown herself upon the lounge and had fallen asleep.

"Who is she, and where did she come from?" was anxiously inquired, and they were about going in quest of Margaret, when their mistress appeared suddenly in their midst, and their noisy demonstrations of joyful surprise awoke the sleeping girl, who, rubbing her red eyelids, asked for her aunt, and why she did not come to meet her.

"She had been a little excited and forgot you, perhaps," answered Madam Conway, at the same time bidding one of the servants to show the young lady to Mrs. Jeffrey's room.

The good lady had recovered her composure somewhat, and was just wondering why her niece did not come with Madam Conway, as had been arranged, when Anna appeared, and in her delight at once more beholding a child of her only sister and her husband's brother, she forgot, in a measure, how injured she had felt. Ere long the breakfast bell rang; but Anna declared herself too weary to go down, and as Mrs. Jeffrey felt that she could not yet meet Madam Conway face to face, they both remained in their room, Anna again falling asleep, while her aunt, growing more calm, sought, and this time found, comfort in her favorite volume. Very cool indeed, was that breakfast partaken in almost unbroken silence below. The toast was cold, the steak was cold, the coffee was cold, and frosty as an icicle was the lady who sat where the merry Maggie had heretofore presided. Scarcely a word was spoken by any one; but in the laughing eyes of Maggie there was a world of fun, to which the mischievous mouth of Henry Warner responded by a curl exceedingly annoying to his stately hostess, who, in passing him his coffee, turned her head in another direction, lest she should be too civil!

Breakfast being over, George Douglas who began to understand Madam Conway tolerably well, asked of her a private interview, which was granted, when he conciliated her first by apologizing for anything ungentlemanly he might have done in her house, and startled her next by asking for Theo, as his wife.

"You can" said he, "easily ascertain my character and standing in Worcester, where for the last ten years I have been known first as clerk, then as junior partner, and finally as proprietor of the large establishment which I now conduct."

Madam Conway was at first too much astonished to speak. Had it been Maggie for whom he asked, the matter would have been decided at once, for Maggie was her pet, her pride, the intended bride of Arthur Carrollton; but Theo was a different creature altogether, and though the Conway blood flowing in her veins entitled her to much consideration, she was neither showy nor brilliant, and if she could marry $200,000, even though it were American coin, she would perhaps be doing quite as well as could be expected. So Madam Conway replied at last, that "she would consider the matter, and if she found that Theo's feelings were fully enlisted, she would perhaps return a favorable answer. "I know the firm of Douglas & Co. by reputation," said she, "and I know it to be quite a wealthy firm; but with me, family is quite as important as money."

"My family, madam, are certainly respectable," interrupted George Douglas, a deep flush overspreading his face.

He was indignant at her presuming to question his respectability, Madam Conway thought, and so she hastened to appease him, by saying, "Certainly, I have no doubt of it. There are marks by which I can always tell."

George Douglas bowed low to the far-seeing lady, while a train of thought, not altogether complimentary to her discernment in this case, passed through his mind.

Not thus lenient would Madam Conway have been toward Henry Warner, had he presumed to ask her that morning for Maggie; but he knew better than to broach the subject then. "He would write to her," he said, immediately after his return to Worcester, and in the meantime, Maggie, if she saw proper, was to prepare her grandmother for it, by herself announcing the engagement. This, and much more he said to Maggie, as they sat together in the library, so much absorbed in each other as not to notice the approach of Madam Conway, who entered the door just in time to see Henry Warner with his arm around Maggie's waist. She was a woman of bitter prejudices, and had conceived a bitter dislike for Henry, not only on account of the stars and stripes, but because she read to a certain extent the true state of affairs. Her suspicions were now confirmed, and rapidly crossing the noor, she confronted him, saying "Let my granddaughter alone, young man, both now, and forever."

Something of Hagar's firey spirit flashed from Maggie's dark eyes, but forcing down her anger, she answered half earnestly, half playfully, "I am nearly old enough, grandma, to decide the matter for myself."

A fierce expression of scorn passed over Madam Conway's face, and harsh words might have ensued had not the carriage at that moment been announced. Wringing Maggie's hand, Henry arose and left the room, followed by the indignant lady, who would willingly have suffered him to walk, but thinking $200,000 quite too much money to go on foot, she had ordered her carriage, and both the senior and junior partner of Douglas & Co. were long riding a second time away from the old house by the mill.

CHAPTER XII.

"Grandma wishes to see you, Maggie, in her room," said Theo to her sister one morning, three days after the departure of their guests.

"Wishes to see me! For what?" asked Maggie, and Theo answered, "I don't know, unless it is to talk with you about Arthur Carrollton."

"Arthur Carrollton!" repeated Maggie "Much good it will do her to talk to me of him. I hate the very sound of his name;" and rising she walked slowly to her grandmother's room, where in her stiff brown satin dress, her golden spectacles planted firmly upon her nose, and the Valenciennes border of her cap shading but not concealing the determined look on her face, with an open letter upon her lap.

It was from Henry. Maggie knew his handwriting in a moment, and there was another, too, for her, but she was too proud to ask for it, and seating herself by the window she waited for her grandmother to break the silence, which she did ere long as follows:

"I have just received a letter from that Warner, asking me to sanction an engagement which he says exists between himself and you. Is it true? Are you engaged to him?"

"I am," answered Maggie, playing nervously with the tassel of her wrapper, and wondering why Henry had written so soon, before she had prepared the way by a little judicious coaxing.

"Well, then," continued Madam Conway, "the sooner it is broken the better. I am astonished that you should stoop to such an act and I hope you are not in earnest."

"But I am," answered Maggie and in the same cold, decided manner, her grandmother continued: "Then nothing remains for me but to forbid you having any communication

THIBETAN TROOPS TWICE DEFEATED

Col. Branders Dislodged Column of 1500 From Karo Pass

THIBETAN LOSS WAS HEAVY

Another Fight Took Place at Gyangtee British Loss in Both Slight

British Camp, Karo Pass, Thibet, May 11.—A stiff fight Friday drove the Thibetans from their position two miles below the pass. Posted six hundred Thibetans, numbering 1,500, held their position with great tenacity and lost nearly 200 before they were expelled. The British losses were Captain Bethune and three men killed and 21 wounded. A snowstorm prevailed throughout the fight.

The British force was under the command of Colonel Brander and consisted of 300 rifles, the object being to dislodge the Thibetan party from a pass on the British line of supplies.

The force which Col. Brander had to dislodge had built strong defences in the hills, whence they were prepared to repel the attacking column with rocks. Col. Brander ordered a column of Ghurkas to outflank the force while the pioneers made a direct attack. The enemy resisted for two hours in spite of a heavy fire, and were at length driven out by a small body of pioneers who scaled the cliffs, which were twelve hundred feet high.

A PLEASING RECITAL

Given by Miss G. Dennistoun and Miss A Moger in the Y.M.C.A. Last Evening

There was a good attendance at the recital given by Miss Georgie Dennistoun and Miss Alice Roger, assisted by Mr. J. Laurence, in the Y.M.C.A. last evening. Those who were fortunate enough to be present received a musical treat not soon to be forgotten. The pianistes of the evening were heard with great delight as in a simple and unaffected manner they interpreted sweetly and brilliantly the true meaning of the selections given. Miss Roger and Miss Dennistoun are both well known in musical circles, but never did their fine abilities appear to better advantage than last evening. Mr. J. Laurence was at his best and rendered his different numbers with great ease. Much enthusiasm was created by his rendition of the Scotch songs, "Mary or Argyle" and "My Heart is Sair."

At the conclusion of the recital Dr. Pringle gave a delightful and instructive address on his work in the Yukon. The singing of the National Anthem brought the delightful evening to a close.

At 75 Cents per Share

This company now owns the well-known Augusta mine and its extension for over 700 feet in addition to other claims approximating a total acreage of 300 acres. This property has produced over $250,000 in gold, silver and lead ores and is a producer to-day. Has shipped ores of an average net value of $40 per ton for first class and $18 per ton for second class, all the past summer and the summer before smelter and mill returns of which are on file in our office

Has immense bodies of these grades of ore which cannot be exhausted in five years already opened up and its main working tunnel is nearing completion, cutting the apex of the vein at a depth of 1,400 feet.

This block of shares is offered to enable the Company to connect the above tunnel with its concentrating mill and projected terminus of railroad by tramway, a distance of 11,120 feet, thereby permitting shipments during the entire year

A production of at least 125 tons daily will be maintained when these improvements are made, and if completed in the early summer, dividends can be paid from ore settlements before this fall.

We offer for a limited time only a SPECIAL BLOCK OF 50,000 SHARES OF THE TREASURY STOCK of these Companies.

We reserve the right to reject subscriptions over and above the 50,000 shares offered. Each subscription to be booked as received.

Like its sister Company is today giving the best value for the money of any shares offered.

This Company owns and controls over 300 acres of good mineral-producing ground, including the well-known Excelsior and Yankee Blade, which have produced upward of $175,000.

Tunnel B of the Black Queen Company is now going in at a rate of 175 feet per month, and early spring will see this work vieing with Tunnel A of the Augusta Company in its record of production.

Will cut known proven ore bodies 1100 feet from Apex, and open sufficient stoping ground to make an output of 100 tons daily.

Has already cut through a cross vein two feet in width of good marketable Galena ore, the point of intersection being 400 feet beneath the surface. We have 900 feet of this vein in length.

We can show you these facts and ask that you ask us to do so.

If your investment becomes profitable you will tell others; therefore it is much to our interest to have you make money on your investment.

Solicits the co-operation of reputable men in providing means for the thorough and rapid development of two large gold and copper mining estates, which are second to none in intrinsic value, and to this end extends every opportunity for determination as to whether statements made by the company are true or false.

The proposition when developed will pay no less than 50 per cent. per annum on the investment, and it behooves anyone who wishes to better his financial condition, to give immediate attention to this.

Full particulars in every detail will be given to all to whom such a proposition may appeal, but please do not ask for them unless you really are interested, because we waste your own time and ours also.

Capital $1,000,000, 500,000 Shares in Treasury

Property includes two great mining estates—one gold, the other copper—both containing wide, deep, proven veins of high and low grade ore.

Development work has been systematically carried on, with results that more than justify every claim made by the company, and unquestionably proves the destiny of the property to equal that of the greatest successful mining companies of the world.

Above Statement Can be Easily Verified

The following two facts alone will give anyone familiar with mining a rough idea of the great value of the property.

The Upper King Group contains one vein 30 feet wide, 8 feet of which runs from $10 to $100 per ton, and the Company owns 6,000 feet on this vein.

Ore running from $18 to $50 per ton is continually being shipped from the gold property, and 24 samples taken from widely different portions of the vein system averaged $28.25 per ton.

FACILITIES—The Company owns 1,720 acres of placer and timber land, water power of 80 (minimum) horse power. No expensive shaft work necessary, Ore easily treated on Company's property, thus saving freight and smelter charges.

DIVIDENDS—To begin earning and paying large dividends it is only necessary to erect two 50 ton mills, one on each property. To obtain funds for this purpose a limited amount of stock is offered at

POLICE COURT

Was Fined $40 for Selling Liquor to Boys

At the police court yesterday Patrick Hogan, of the Albion Hotel, 5th Ward, was fined $40 and costs, making $46.10 altogether, for selling liquor to minors.

It was shown the four boys drank nine quarts of beer.

A local dealer was charged with selling cigarettes to minors. He was found guilty on three charges and was fined $10 and costs for each offense, amounting in all to $38.45.

Ernest Meyette was fined $2 for being drunk on the streets.

Will Burn Mortgage

On Sunday and Monday evening next an important event in the history of Charlotte street church will be marked. On Sunday the remainder of the debt upon the church will be wiped out and on Monday evening the mortgage, notes, etc., in connection with the debt will be destroyed. The record of the church is one to be proud of. In the past seven years there has been paid off a burden amounting to $13,000, and the fact that the last vestige of this is to be removed is a matter for congratulation.

WOMEN WORKERS FOR CANADA

The Movement goes on Despite Labor Protests

London, May 10.—Miss Broomfield, of the British Woman's Emigration Association, addressing the Manchester branch of the National Union of Women Workers on emigration to Canada said that, contrary to reports circulated by the labor party, there was ample opportunity for women in Canada. One recent estimate which the Association had received from the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, stated that there were 4,408 vacancies for women workers in Canada's factories. Miss Broomfield, in concluding, reminded her audience that the present chances for British workwomen in our richest and soberest colony would not always be offered, for people of other nations were finding their way there in large numbers.

Stamp Your Letters Properly.

Many letters from Canada addressed to Continental countries are insufficiently paid. A Canadian who has returned from Egypt and Italy states that careful inquiry shows that a majority of Egyptian, French, and Italian letters have only a two-cent stamp instead of a five, showing that no attention seems to be paid to weight by Canadian writers. The same may be said of Canadian letters to England. Hundreds come weekly prepaid at single weight instead of double. The same charge applies to American letters. It is estimated that the surcharges caused by the neglect of Canadian correspondents costs the receivers hundreds of pounds annually.

Cold Comfort For Ontario Shippers.

The Financial Times, referring to the appeals made to the railway commissioners to intervene in the matter of the Grand Trunk Railway's increased freight rates, says: "Apparently the good people of Ontario do not realize that railways are not built in Canada solely for the purpose of providing cheap transport for the inhabitants. Outside capital is put in for dividends, and not philanthrophy." The paper declares it learns from a well-informed source source that it is very unlikely the law authorities will intervene.

More New Settlers Sail.

A Bishop's Education Bill.

The House of Lords yesterday gave the first reading to the Bishop of St. Asaph's Education bill. The bill gives both sides a free hand touching the control of religious instruction. The Bishop explained the concordat of 1902, of which the present bill is an extension, and stated that it provides for special religious instruction. The colonial plan had failed because it was lacking in legal sanction and security. The Marquis of Londonderry declined to pledge the Government either way.

OLD WORLD NEWS NOTES.

The depression in the money markets is preventing the flotation of several Canadian companies in London.

The acreage of wheat in Great Britain was nearly 150,000 less in 1903 than in 1902.

The Countess of Aberdeen presided at a meeting of the Executive committee of the Women's Liberal federation, when resolutions were passed condemning the Licensing bill, on the grounds of interference with the magistrates power, and because it creates vested interest in licenses.

Lord Wolseley, replying to a correspondent, says he has always been in favor of compulsory military service on a plan suiting the convenience of the British population generally.

The strike of seamen at Havre has now extended to the officers of the French Trans-Atlantic liners.

CONCERNED ABOUT CHINESE.

The papers here seem more concerned about the effect of the Japanese successes upon the Chinese than the ultimate result of the campaign. The Russ, reviewing the war to date, says:

"The fears expressed as to the effect even of the temporary successes of the Japanese upon the Asiatics are more general, and are beginning to seriously alarm many of the leaders of European politics, who dread further complications. Moderation and caution are now the principal orders of the day for all European Governments."

"THE MORNING WILL COME."

The Bourse Gazette remarks: "It is not given us to know how long the night will last, but we know the morning will come. This is not only a question of the Far East, but of our position in Asia and in the world. Our great development since the Crimean War is not to be destroyed by the Japanese army penetrating into Manchuria."

The Admiralty declares positively that a report of the destruction of the armored cruiser Rurik is false.

It is officially announced that General Kuropatkin's headquarters will remain at Liao-Yang. He has no intention, at least for the present, of retiring from his position there.

PORT ARTHUR ISOLATED

The isolation of Port Arthur is complete. The Japanese official report, dated May 8, is as follows; "Our army, which landed at Liao Tung, reports that a detachment, after repulsing a small body of the enemy, occupied Pulantien on May 6 and destroyed the railway and cut off telegraphic communication with Port Arthur.

St. Petersburg reports that the Japanese have destroyed the railway at Port Adams, blowing up the bridges.

The telegraph communication also is severed, and the Russians are obliged to rely on pigeons and wireless telegraphy.

Among the scattering reports are one that Dalny, on the Talienwan isthmus has been captured, and another that the Russians garrisoning the Liao Tung peninsula have retired to Hai Cheng, an important junction point near New Chwang. Another report says that three Japanese columns landed on Thursday and Saturday, 10,000 at Kinchau Bay, 10,000 at Foochan Bay and 7,000 at Pitwo. Britain was doing more than any disgrace at the revolutionary action

A CULINARY COLLECTION.

Some New Recipes for Dishes That Are Palatable and Seasonable.

To make cocoanut pudding, take three ounces of butter, one-half pound grated cocoanut, one cupful and a half of stale sponge cakes crumbled fine, three ounces sugar, one large cupful of milk, six eggs, one-half teaspoonful of vanilla or rose-water, says the New York Post. Cream the butter and sugar, and add the beaten yolks; when these are well mixed put in the cocoanut; stir well before adding the milk, cake crumbs, and flavoring; lastly, add the whites of three eggs. Pour the mixture into a pie dish—which should not be quite full—and bake for half an hour. At the end of this time whip the other whites to a very stiff froth, with three tablespoonfuls of white sugar, and flavor with vanilla. Pile this in large spoonfuls on the pudding, and close the oven till it is slightly brown. For all meringues the oven should be only moderately hot, or they will burn. These quantities are sufficient for a large pudding.

For gooseberry pudding, which is also a delicious dessert for this season, take one pint of gooseberries, one teacupful of milk, one-half teacupful sugar, one tablespoonful of butter (melted), toasted bread. Stew the gooseberries gently in a little water for about ten minutes. Cut some slices of bread, trim off the crust and toast it to a slight brown. Dip each slice, while hot, into the milk, and spread it with the melted butter. Cover the bottom of the dish with them; next put a layer of gooseberries, sprinkled well with sugar, and so on, till the dish is full. Cover closely, and steam in a moderate oven for 20 or 25 minutes; then remove the cover, and let it brown before serving. Serve with good pudding sauce, if liked.

Those persons who have never tried whirled eggs will find the following receipt worth experimenting with: Take six eggs, one quart boiling water, some thin slices of buttered toast, pepper and salt to taste, a tablespoonful of butter. Put the water, slightly salted, in a saucepan over the fire, and keep it at a fast boil. Stir with a wooden spoon or ladle in one direction until it whirls rapidly. Break the eggs, one at a time, into a cup, and drop each carefully into the center or vortex of the boiling whirlpool, which must be kept in rapid motion until the egg is a soft, round ball. Take it out carefully with a perforated spoon, and put it on a slice of buttered toast laid upon a hot dish. Put a bit of butter on the top, set the dish in the oven to keep it warm, and proceed in the same way with each egg, having but one at a time in the saucepan. When all are done dust lightly with salt and pepper, and send up hot.

CHOOSING BABY'S PICTURE.

A Performance in Which the Photographer Played an Undesirable Part.

A young photographer, when asked what sort of subjects presented the greatest difficulties to him, replied, without a moment's hesitation:

"Babies. I don't mean the babies themselves," he added; "it is not so hard to get what I consider satisfactory negatives of them. It's the relatives that make all the trouble.

"For instance," he continued, "I took photographs of a little ten-months'-old fellow the other day in six different positions. Yesterday I sent the proofs to his mother, and to-day she brought them in.

" 'I'm sorry,' she said, without any obvious grief, 'but none of these negatives will do.'

" 'Not one of the six?' I inquired, though I was prepared for what was to follow.

" 'No,' she said, 'I'm afraid not. You see, I like this one very well, though, of course, it doesn't really do baby justice; but his Aunt Ellen says it's an absolute caricature of the dear little fellow! The one she likes I don't care for at all; and his papa says he never would know for whom it was intended, it looks so cross, and baby is such a sunshiny child! The one he likes, this smiling one, I shouldn't consider for a moment, for it makes the baby's mouth look so much larger than it really is.

" 'His grandmother chose that one, but, as Cousin Fannie said, there's a very queer look to the child's eyes in it—very queer! However, she likes sober ones! You ought to have heard the one where he's almost crying—that baby's grandfather when she said she liked it. He really decided the thing, for what he said seemed so sensible! He asked me why I didn't have some more taken, and see if there wouldn't be at least one that would really look like baby. Now, when can he sit again? It's hard for me to spare the time, but, you see, it's the only thing to be done!' "

To Heal Burns.

How many children are burned about the hands or arms none but mothers know, and a good thing to know is how to cure them without leaving a scar. A sure way, which I have tested, is to place a piece of the inside skin of a raw egg-shell on the burn—the wet side to the burn—as the white of the egg sticks and heals it quickly. This is also good for blister on the back of the heel, caused by wearing new shoes.—Agricultural Epitomist.

Return to the fire, add a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of cayenne and one cupful of cream.—Good Housekeeping.

1,000 Patients Treated in the Two Muskoka Hospitals — the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Surprising Decrease of 25 Per Cent. in the Last Three Years in Deaths from Consumption.

Fifty-five Different Trades and Professions Represented by the Patients Admitted to the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Two Pavilions have had to be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds, and the Number of Patients Reduced from 75 to 50.

$25,000 Wanted this Year to Carry on this Great Work.

With a view of helping to bring to the attention of the public the needs of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have pleasure in publishing the following letter, in which an appeal is made for funds.

Dear Friend,—

It again becomes necessary to make an urgent appeal for funds for the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

A very heavy debt is pressing upon the trustees.

In addition to this, funds must be provided for the maintenance of patients. Last month there was a deficiency of nearly $1,500 over and above receipts from all sources.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives was opened eighteen months ago. 295 patients have been admitted.

No patient has ever been refused admission because of his or her poverty.

1,000 patients have been cared for in the two Muskoka Hospitals, the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The majority of these have either been cured, or so helped that they have been enabled to again become bread-winners for the family.

The public are beginning to find evidence of our work.

Already there has been a decrease of nearly 25 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption in the Province of Ontario.

The last report of the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health shows that in the last three years the deaths from consumption in Ontario have decreased from 3,484 to 2,694, a decrease of 790, or nearly 25 per cent.

This is the more gratifying when we remember that for a number of years previously the same report showed a steadily increasing death-rate prior to 1899.

Who will doubt that the work of our two Hospitals in Muskoka, and the persistent educational campaign carried on, has not helped to secure this surprising result?

In what better way can your gifts bring so good a return?

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 50.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

Very truly yours,

W. J. Gage

Not Only Relief, but Lasting Cure

Is What You Get From Catarrhozone Which Eradicates Every Trace of Catarrh From the System.

Relief is a good thing, but we soon get tired of it and look for a remedy that will drive the seeds of Catarrh right out of the system. It is only a waste of time to trifle with internal dosing. You must treat Catarrh locally because it is a local disease.

The most sensible treatment is Catarrhozone which really does reach the diseased membranes in a most thorough way. Every case of catarrh can be cured if Catarrhozone is used. It unquestionably penetrates every air cell and air passage of the breathing organs. It completely destroys the catarrh germs and heals all the inflamed surfaces.

Every requirement of an ideal catarrh cure is embraced in Catarrhozone. Other treatments may have failed to even bring relief, but one trial is sufficient to prove merit in Catarrhozone not found in the ordinary snuff or wash that unscrupulous people sometimes recommend for catarrh.

If you are subject to colds, catarrh or throat trouble you will find quick relief and lasting cure in fragrant, healing Catarrhozone. Mrs E. P. Fairbanks, of Durham, was cured of chronic catarrh by this remedy and endorses it in the following letter, which speaks for itself:

"I suffered continually from catarrh which affected my throat. My nostrils were usually inflammed and I was greatly bothered with droppings in the throat which made me sick at my stomach. I had a bad taste in my mouth, and felt a ringing in my ears. I read of Catarrhozone and commenced to use it. In a few days it helped me more than I ever expected. I used it four times daily and it two weeks most of the disagreeable symptoms disappeared. I continued the Catarrhozone treatment for six weeks and was perfectly cured. The catarrh has never returned."

Every complete outfit of Catarrhozone sufficient for two months' use is guaranteed to permanently cure. Trial size 25c. Sold by druggists or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co. Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., or Kingston, Ont.

A Diver at Work

A diver has been put to work to remove the gravel washed into the lower lock by the high water. It will take some days to take it away. The water is still so high that the glace booms cannot be put in position above the locks. It is thought that it will be two weeks before boats will be able to get through.

Again at Work

Mr. Fitzgerald, who suffered the destruction of the interior of his carriage works by fire the other night, is again at work, and will be in good running order in a few days. With his usual enterprise, he is already hustling the work of repair, and will lose no time in catching up with the large number of orders which have accumulated.

No Picnic This Year

The Times has been requested to state that the usual Lakefield picnic which has been held for some years by Rev. Father Phelan, on Victoria Day, will not take place this year. This will be a disappointment to many, who have come to look upon this event as an annual affair.

A NEW ASYLUM AT PENETANGUISHENE

Hon. J. R. Stratton and Provincial Architect Hoakes were in Orillia and Penetanguishene yesterday. At the latter place they inspected the progress made in converting the reformatory building into an asylum for the insane. It is expected that the building will be ready for the reception of patients early in June. On Thursday evening an informal banquet will be tendered the Provincial Secretary at Penetanguishene.

A Coming Event

The evening of poetry and song to be given in aid of the sick children's fund of the Children's Aid society, to-morrow evening, promises to be very successful in all respects. The Y.M.C.A. has very kindly loaned their hall for the occasion and popular sympathy with the object of the entertainment is shown by the circumstance of the the seats being sold within forty-eight hours of the issue of the cards. Mr. Sheriff Hall, who gives an evening with the poets, will be assisted by Miss Helen Davies, Miss Kline, Mr. Laurence, Mr. Davis and Mr. Jolliffe.

THE JUNE DELINEATOR.

There is a great deal of pleasant reading in the June Delineator. Fashion's follies, as here set forth by pen and pencil, are well designed to delight the feminine mind, as well as to prove a delusion and a snare to the masculine. There are besides a great many very pretty ideas in dresses for children, which will be welcomed by mothers. In the literary part of the magazine, the first place is given to a graceful Japanese tale, "The Giver of Honour," by Mrs. Hugh Fraser, a sister of Marion Crawford, which is refreshing in its sweetness and purity, and is sympathetically illustrated by Mr. C. D. Weldon. Other items of fiction are two college tales, "At the Window of Paradise," by R. H. Barbour, and "Bailey's Sister," by Allan P. Ames. A contribution of great interest is the Chinese and Indian photographs in the "Around the World" series. These are so beautiful as views, and so realistic so away from the trite, in detail, that everyone who looks at them must experience unusual pleasure. Dr. Grace Peckham Murray's article on the "Care of the Neck and Arms," will be helpful to many women. There are many other stories and articles for both little ones and grown folks and practical papers on domestic topics which go to make up a thoroughly readable number of this favorite magazine.

COME HOME, FATHER.

Father, dear father, come home with me now,
For mother is out to the club,
You said you were coming right home from your work
To get the dear children some grub.
The cook has gone out—her club also meets—
The janitor's gone on a spree,
And poor brother Bennie has swallowed a nail
And no one to help him but me.

Father, dear father, come home with me now;
There's scrubbing and cleaning to do.
While mother is solving the problems of state
The children are crying for you.
The socks must be darned, the patches tacked on,
The beds must be turned back to air,
And mother's shirtwaist must be ironed tonight
Or she will have nothing to wear.

Father, dear father, come home with me now;
It's lonely without any man;
And mother will grieve when she comes from the club
If things are not fixed once and span.
Don't swear, dear papa, it isn't polite;
The children in hearing might be;
So let business slide, for dear mother, you know
May bring home a few friends to tea.

THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL

American Millers Looking Towards Peterborough as a Place of Location.

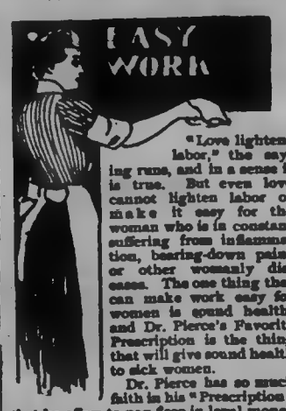
The following dispatch speaks for itself, and shows that the Americans are looking to the Trent Canal as a grain route:

"Washington, May 6.—The danger that flour milling industries, if not the wheat-carrying trade, will be transferred from the United States to Canada, has again been brought to the attention of the department of commerce and labour by the discussion of the project to cut a canal from Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario.

"It is claimed that this could be done for $5,000,000, and that its effect would be to divert the wheat-carrying from the Erie Canal and the American railroads, to an all Canada route. American millers are rapidly interesting themselves in mills at Peterborough, which is on the line of the proposed canal route. Robert Stewart, of Chicago, president of the American Cereal Company is among those interested."

MARRIED

THOMAS—BOOTH.—At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. Jas. Booth, Chamberlin street, on May 10th, 1904, by the Rev. A. H. Brace, Mr. Frederick A. Thomas, of Liverpool, England, to Miss Mary Booth, of Peterborough.



"Love lightens labor," the saying runs, and in a sense it is true. But even love cannot lighten labor or make it easy for the woman who is in constant suffering from inflammation, bearing-down pains or other womanly diseases. The one thing that can make work easy for women is sound health, and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the thing that will give sound health to sick women.

Dr. Pierce has so much faith in his "Prescription" that he offers to pay $500 in legal money of the United States for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which he cannot cure. All he asks is a fair and reasonable trial of his means of cure.

"I suffered from female weakness for five months," writes Miss Belle Hedrick, of Nye, Putnam Co., W. Va. "I was treated by a good physician but he never seemed to do me any good. I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce for advice, which I received, telling me to take his 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' When I had used the medicines a month, my health was much improved. It has continued to improve until now I can work at almost all kinds of housework. I had scarcely any appetite, but it is all right now. Have gained several pounds in weight. Dr. Pierce's medicines have done wonderfully well here. I would advise all who suffer from chronic diseases to write to Dr. Pierce."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the paper-covered book, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A PRETTY WEDDING

Mr. F. A. Thomas of Liverpool Weds Miss Mary Booth

A very pretty wedding took place on Tuesday evening, May 10th, at the residence of Mr. Jas. Booth, 62 Chamberlin street, when his eldest daughter, Mary, was married to Mr. F. A. Thomas, of Liverpool, England. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. H. Brace, of the Park street Baptist church, in the presence of about forty-nine friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride wore a pretty suit of pearl grey voile over blue and a white silk waist, and carried a bouquet of white roses. She was attended by her sister, who was similarly attired and carried pink and white carnations. Mr. S. L. Thomas, brother of the groom, was best man. Little Miss Eva Booth acted as flower girl, and carried the ring in a bouquet of flowers. The wedding march was played by Master Ernest Hubel.

A great number of handsome and costly presents were received by the bride, among them being a china teaset from the girls in the lamp department of the C.G.E. The groomsman's gift was a very handsome lamp and a celery and fruit dish combined. After the ceremony the guests partook of an elaborate wedding dejeuner.

Among those invited from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas and Miss Sarah, Liverpool, Eng.; Mr. and Mrs. W. Booth and Miss Annie, of Green River; Mr. and Mrs. A. Booth, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. J. Stiner, of Uxbridge; Mr. and Mrs. J. Stiner and Miss Lillie, of Uxbridge; Miss Margaret Oldham, of Montreal; Miss Eva Beckett, of Fernie, B.C., and Mr. J. S. Booth, of Mt. Albert.

Canadian General Electric Company Close Their Shops in Montreal.

Montreal Gazette: Mr. Hazen Ritchie, general superintendent of the Canadian General Electric Company, Montreal, was on Saturday the recipient of an address from the members of the Montreal branch, on the occasion of the parting of six of the foremen from the company's employ, owing to the closing of the Montreal factory, which takes place immediately. A photograph was taken of the heads of the departments. Among these are several who have been connected with electric industries for more than twenty years, and it was an occasion of profound regret that the management had seen fit to close up the factory, and in doing so break up companionships of so long standing. All the employees will remain in Montreal. Following is the address:

Mr. Hazen Ritchie, general superintendent Canadian General Electric Company, Montreal:

Owing to the consolidation in Peterborough of the manufacturing interests of the Canadian General Electric Company, the foremen of the Montreal factory realize that they will very soon be obliged to sever their connection with you as general superintendent.

Previous to the severance of the business relationships existing between us as superintendent and foremen, we take this opportunity to express our appreciation of the uniform kindness and courtesy with which you have always treated us during the last three and one-half years.

We wish you every success in your future career.

Permit us also to hope for ourselves that it may be our good fortune to be always guided by so able and genial a head.

The address was signed by a number of the employees.

WHEN FISH WERE PLENTIFUL

How Bears on Our Back Lakes Get Favorite Food.

It was in the back parlor of the Snowden House, and the boys were relating their experiences in fishing and hunting. A knight of the grip had just told of how he once caught 26 four pound bass in eleven minutes by the watch.

"That's nothing to what I saw with my own eyes," said the genial proprietor, as he reached for a match to light his pipe from Jack Rose. "You see we were fishing away up north—a party of us, including Tom Rutherford, Geordy Fitzgerald, Tom Reddy and others—in 1894, and our catch had been enormous. About 3 o'clock in the afternoon we heard a peculiar noise on the bank of the lake like tearing of roots. So we went to investigate, and on nearing the shore were surprised to see a black bear digging up the ground to beat mine of a kind.

We lay low to watch, and what do you think he was doing? Why, he was digging worms, and after putting nine nice fat angle worms on each of his forepaws he ventured out in the lake on an old sunken log, put down his forefeet in the water and actually scooped out bass so thick and fast that he almost darkened the sun. After a while, thinking there was enough fish for us, we put an ounce ball in his head. Talk about fish! Great Scott! There lay bass two feet deep on which two young cubs were gorging themselves. Well we skinned that bear and, wishing to secure the cubs alive, I just threw the bearskin over me and got down on all fours, and those cubs followed me right into camp, thinking it was mother bear.

"The cubs I afterwards sold for $25 each, and the hide of the mother bear, which was a very large one, brought me $40 from Billy Loch, not too bad for a day's work. Oh, yes, about those fish on the bank. Well, we went back the next day and barreled up twenty-four barrels of the best of those bass. The rest were left to rot in the sun. We put those fish in cold storage and we have some of them yet.

"If you don't believe this, you can ask any of the boys who were there," and the boys filed out into the chilly night, wondering what had happened.

with their kicking the ball and running. The backs played a strong game and broke up many a neat piece of combination of the visitors. The forwards worked well together and their combination at times was very effective. P. Fitzgerald at center half played a very strong game and made a very favorable impression. The first goal was scored by the Quakers after 10 minutes play, C. Fitzgerald finding the flags. The next two went to the visitors, making the score 2-1, the Quakers failing to add to their number.

Mr. Arthur Noble handled the whistle, but had little to do, as the players played the game as it should be played and not a man was ruled off.

The Cunghawaga boys speak in the highest terms of the treatment they received both on and off the field.

The return game will be played on May 28th.

Following players represented the Quakers.

NOTES.

Capt. Coughlin, of Caughnawaga, is to be complimented on getting together such a fast bunch, and every man is a thorough gentleman both on and off the field.

After the game the visitors were banquetted at the National hotel by the Quaker boys.

The Quakers will meet the Harwood team on the Oval on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. This should prove another very interesting and exciting game, as the Harwood team are a pretty saucy bunch of players.

BEST ADVERTISING MEDIUM IN EASTERN ONTARIO

VOL XXXII, NO. 112 PETERBOROUGH ONTARIO, FRIDAY MAY 13 1904 PRICE TWO CENTS

NEW TELEPHONE COMPANY MAY LOCATE HERE.

Canadian Machine Telephone Company After a Franchise--Council will Decide Within a Week--Lock Mfg. Co's. By-Law Adopted

The Canadian Machine Telephone Company applied for a franchise to operate their system in Peterborough. In their communication they said they would not erect poles or string wires on the principal streets, but run the wires underground. The system is operated by a machine switchboard or automatic apparatus, which the company claims will give a more efficient, absolutely private, and cheaper service, than by the manually operated system. Mr. F. D. McKay, manager of this company, addressed the Council and pointed out that the system in question is one in which many local gentlemen are interested. This is one reason why they are anxious that Peterborough should be the town where this modern and perfected telephone system is first installed. They do not want an exclusive franchise, having full confidence in the merits of this system to secure the endorsation of the public. He asked that the matter be dealt with without delay, as should they be given a franchise they wish to commence on the outside construction at once.

Ald. Morrison thought this question should be referred to the Committee of the Whole, with power to enter into a contract.

The Mayor—"It would be necessary for the Council to enter into a contract, although the committee could arrange all detail."

Mr. McKay.—"I would like very much if we could conclude the arrangements next week. Several members of the Council have already seen this system in operation, and are aware of its advantages over the old one. If the matter is decided next week we could commence outside construction at once, which would take a few months to complete, when the apparatus would be at hand for installation."

The Council will meet in Committee of the Whole next Monday night to discuss this matter.

His Worship said the Council were very glad to have this proposition, and are prepared to give it the most favorable consideration.

MORE RAILWAY SIDING.

Mr. T. F. Matthews wants another siding into his factory. The matter has been before the Council for some time now, and last night he asked for an early discussion.

Mr. W. S. Dodds, the C.P.R. station agent, pointed out that his company are favorable to the scheme. The present siding would be used for outward shipping and the new one for inward shipping. This would mean that where the cars have to cross George street four times now, with another siding they would cross but twice. This would be not only advantageous to the railway and the Matthews Company, but also to the general public. This was referred to the Committee of the Whole Council.

MARKET REPAIRS

Ald. Batten's report, recommending new gates at the cattle pens on the market and at the scales and repairs to the pens, was adopted.

PAID IN ERROR.

Ald. Adams here submitted that some of the volunteers for South Africa, who were citizens of the town, had been paid their bounty by the county in error, and this money should be refunded to the county. He produced certificates from Col. Miller and County Clerk Watt showing that citizens of the town came under this head, and on his motion, the grants thus paid were ordered to be refunded the county.

His Worship incidentally remarked that a good deal of trickery had been attempted in connection with the grants to South African volunteers. Some men had attempted to secure bounties from both municipalities. They got them from the county first and then applied to the town, but the latter authorities were too sharp for them.

LOCK WORKS BYLAW.

The bylaw granting the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company a free grant of land and fixed assessment, the details of which have been already published, passed its three readings.

But Ald. Best recorded his protest.

The original draft of the bylaw has been amended to read that the $25,000 to be spent in buildings shall cover the sprinkler system, heating appliances and shafting, and the number of days the company are to operate each year shall be 250, the works to have a capacity of 150 hands.

Ald. Best took strong exception to this. The sprinkler system, heating appliances and shafting would reduce the actual cost of the buildings to $12,000. Then the company should be bound to employ a stipulated number of hands as at first intended, say 150 for instance.

Ald. Adams—"They are to 'substantially' operate the works, which practically comes to the same thing."

Ald. Morrison explained that Mr. Stratton had pointed out the impossibility of the company being bound to employ 150 hands. There may be times of depression, which would render such action out of the question. They would be glad to employ 150 hands if business warranted it; today they have 100 hands at work and could employ many more had they the facilities. As to the sprinkler system, heating apparatus and shafting being included in the cost of the building, they would involve an expenditure of but $5,000.

Ald. Johnston's only objection was the grant of land; he was given to understand that when the Lock Manufacturing Company took hold of the business it was $5,000 behind, but now it is on a good financial basis. He could not see why such a prosperous an institution should expect a free site.

Ald. Edgecumbe pointed out that the town had been willing to give the same terms to a Shovel Company, who were to employ but 25 hands. There was no doubt in his mind that the Lock Company would employ 150 hands.

EXTENSION OF GEORGE ST.

Ald. Rush here introduced the question of extending George street south straight through to the Driving Park, which has been agitated now for 20 years. Ald. Hall, Mason and himself had gone over the ground and had concluded that it would be cheaper to secure this extension now than later on. Owners of four ten acre lots will have a free right of way, and some are willing to sell at a fair valuation. Others, however, are asking unreasonable prices. He would like to see the extension made without unnecessary delay, specially as it would be very acceptable to have the street railway run in a direct line to the Driving Park.

This matter was referred back to the committee to furnish a detailed report as to the value of the property for which they cannot enter into an agreement with its owners, and the probable cost of acquiring all the necessary land, together with the cost of expropriation proceedings.

INSTITUTE SITE.

Ald. Rush submitted the following report:

Gentlemen,—Your Committee of the Whole Council beg leave to report as follows:

1. That, at the request of the Board of Education, we instructed the Town Solicitor, in co-operation with the Solicitor of the Board of Education, to secure an option on the Separate school property on Murray and McDonnell streets, for a site for the new Armouries and Collegiate Institute.

2. We recommend that the Chairman of the Board of Works be authorised to make the best arrangements he can for storing and testing cement purchased by the Town and to purchase three or four cars of cement at once.

3. We instructed the Solicitor to amend the bylaw prepared to grant a site to the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company to make the $25,000 to be expended in buildings cover the fixtures, the fixtures to be the sprinkler system, heating appliances and shafting, and to make the number of days they are to operate each year 250, and that the works shall have a capacity to employ 150 hands.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

The report was adopted as read.

MORE HYDRANTS.

Ald. Edgecumbe submitted the following report:

Gentlemen,—Your Fire, Water and Light committee beg leave to report and recommend that, in pursuance of the arrangement made with the Water Commissioners for 25 additional hydrants on existing mains, the Council order the hydrants to be placed at the points recommended by the Chief of the Fire Brigade and Town Engineer, whose recommendation is attached to this report.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

The report recommended the distribution of these hydrants as follows: 4 on George street, corners of Simcoe, Hunter and Hock; 3 on Aylmer street, corners of Rink, Wolf and Charlotte; 2 on Stewart street, corners of Hunter and Murray; 2 on Bethune street, corners of Dalhousie and Wolf; 2 on Downie street, corners of McDonnell and Hunter; 1 on Simcoe street, near gas works; 1 on Lake street, corner of Bethune; 1 on Perry street, east of Aylmer; 1 on Gilmour street, near west boundary; 1 on McDonnell street, between George and Aylmer; 1 on Donnistoun avenue, corner Inverlee; 1 on Elizabeth street, between Lake and Simcoe; 1 on Stewart street, between Perry and Elizabeth; 1 on McDonnell street, corners of Bethune Stewart and Rubidge.

Ald. Adams thought the committee had exceeded their instructions in some instances and neglected them in others. Especially is this the case with Simcoe street, right in the center of the Town. He moved that the report be amended by putting in a 2-way hydrant on Simcoe street in place of the 1-way hydrant in front of Mr. Batten's shop.

This report was finally referred back to the committee, Mr. Henderson and the Chief of Fire Brigade to be present when the question is again gone into.

MEMBERS PRESENT.

The Council met at 8.30, when there were present His Worship Mayor G. M. Roger and Aldermen Johnston Edgecumbe, Morrison, Rush, Mason, Hicks, Scott, Adams, Clinksmale, Batten, McWilliams.

The minutes of the preceding meeting were confirmed as typewritten and distributed.

(Concluded tomorrow.)

AN INTERESTING WEDDING

Mr. Joseph Stewart Weds Miss Blanche Metcalf

On Wednesday evening a very pretty wedding was celebrated at the residence of Mr. William Metcalf, 901 Water street, when his daughter, Blanche, was married to Mr. Joseph Stewart, of the staff of B. F. Ackerman and Co. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. P. Wilson, B.A., in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. The bride's costume was of blue silk, and she was attended by her cousin, Miss Alice Campbell, who was similarly attired. Mr. W. E. Green was groomsman.

An elaborate wedding breakfast was served at the conclusion of the ceremony, after which a very pleasant evening was enjoyed by the guests. The wedding gifts were both numerous and costly. Mr. and Mrs. Stewart will reside in town.

A BIG CONVENTION

Fourteen Hundred Delegates Attend Y.M.C.A. Convention

Mr. G. H. Williamson, general secretary of the Association here, and Mr. B. F. Ackerman, of the Board of Directors, are attending the Convention of the International Y.M.C.A. at Buffalo. A dispatch says:

"Fourteen hundred delegates, representing 600 city associations, 700 student associations, 200 railroad and a number of miscellaneous associations, were present today at the opening session of the Young Men's Christian Association of North America. The report of the International committee presented this afternoon reviews at great length the work of the association. The increase in the strength and efficiency of the State and Provincial organizations has been steady. The associations have found their chief field among the young men of the cities, but as they enter upon the new century there is a beginning of growth strongly accentuated in two directions, first, among boys, and, second, among young men in country districts.

WARSAW.

Mr. Reg. G. Hendren has purchased a fine new gasoline launch which he has named the "Flying Dutchman." He intends running daily trips to Warminster, weather permitting. He is looking at present to a stoker.

A very unfortunate accident happened the other day. A herd of cows was passing along Queen street west, and one of our citizens stretched out to see them. His neck became fixed in that position and he was carried to the hospital on a stretcher. He now has his neck put up in a plaster of paris cast and looks very forlorn. We hope for a speedy recovery as he is a valuable citizen.

The fire alarm sounded on Tuesday morning and the brazen clang of the reels echoed along the pavement. Captain Will Hawthorne led the boys. Fireman Hendren lost his helmet and was thus handicapped. The fire was soon quenched with great vigor and quickness. Hot coffee was served after the fire.

Mr. G. W. Reid was of great service last week, when, single-handed, he attacked a herd of mad cows which was loose in the village, with no other weapon but a broom stick. The leather medal will be forwarded shortly.

The golf grounds are being fixed up and soon the young men and ladies will be resorting thither. The Warsaw Milling Company intend giving a silver cup to the best lady player in the city and suburbs.

Mr. Reg. G. Hendren is now sole agent for the Spalding tennis racquet and baseball outfits. Give him a call boys.

Dr. Mitchell, Main street, has taken up canoeing as a side line and is very fond of it. As the Norwood correspondent remarks, this is a town of side lines.

Mr. Roland Kidd has accepted a position on the staff of the Warsaw Times and will in future look after the "Children's Corner" of that famous paper.

Mr. Charles Gow, late of the Times staff, is now engaged as correspondent for the Mount Hope and Elgin Arrow, and has purchased a machine for manufacturing poetry by the foot.

THE WHITE RACE IS PLAYED OUT

Prominent College Professor Says Yellow Men will Soon Rule.

WE ARE LIVING TOO FAST.

Thinks Japan will Defeat Russia and Make Real the Real Yellow Peril.

Chicago, May 13.—"The success of Japan over Russia will mean the ultimate supremacy of the yellow race and final subjugation of the white. Every race has its day, just as every dog has his and the day of the white race is about done."

This is the conclusion drawn by Professor Frederick Starr, the anthropologist of the University of Chicago, in a lecture before his class in anthropology yesterday afternoon. Professor Starr had lately visited the seat of war and says that he was dumfounded to see there American and English missionaries praying for Japanese success.

"Russia is the ultimate hope of the white race," said he. "If Russia loses it will mean the annihilation of the white race. The white race has had its day. Statisticians have proved that one English child out of every 100 becomes a lunatic. This is because of the fast life that the English live. Their country is exhausted and their strength is on the wane. No better proof of this is needed than their recent experience with the little Boer republic.

RACE FOR WEALTH WEAKENS.

"So it is with all the European leading countries. They grope for wealth and live beyond their means. If Russia holds out the yellow peril will be staved off for a time. Before the war broke out I was under the impression that Russia would whip the Japanese in about three years. Now I can hardly say that I expect the Russians to win at all. Japan has too strong a foothold and Russia cannot transport troops fast enough. The best thing for Russia would be a peace treaty.

"Russia, I repeat, is the ultimate hope of the white people. There is a much better civilization there than most people believe. I cannot see why anyone should be more affected by hearing of the massacre of 300 Jews by the Russians in a day than to know that we lynch 300 negroes in a year here. The difference is that Russia massacred 300 Jews in the heat of passion in a day, while we go about it deliberately and by a gradual daily process kill the same number of negroes. It seems so easy to see what is going on in Russia, but how hard to see what is going on under our own noses.

FAILS TO UNDERSTAND SYMPATHY.

"I cannot understand why Americans and other white races are shouting for the Japanese. The Japanese are vastly different from the whites in religion, in customs and in the movements of thought. Japanese supremacy would mean the supremacy of the Japanese religion over the Christian religion. Americans do not realize that this war is a war of races and that in upholding the cause of Japan they are courting their own destruction. Americans are too hot tempered and too sympathetic. They are governed too much by their passions. They do not weigh the consequences and get down at the root of things.

"They have placed their sympathy with Japan not because their best interests advise it, but because Japan is the smaller nation. However, in the event of a Japanese victory, yellow supremacy will not necessarily mean a civilization of a lower type. The Japanese are a progressive and we, with foolish generosity, have taught them and continue to teach them all the art and industry they know. We should beware, then, lest this knowledge gained from us be turned against us."

BITTER UNION FIGHT

War Settled in Chicago that May be Far Reaching

Walkout of 900 Bookbinders May Tie Up Printing Trade

Chicago, May 13.—The printing industry in all the large cities of the United States in which the Typothetae has an organization may be affected as the result of the walkout yesterday of 900 union bookbinders because the Chicago branch of the Typothetae refused to sign an agreement for "closed shops." This view of the latest labor trouble in the printing trade in Chicago was expressed yesterday by Secretary Daniel C. Shelley, of the Chicago Typothetae, when he declared that conflict here between employer and employed was regarded as of such vital importance to the large employers in the printing industry throughout the country that the national executive committee of the United Typothetae of America had been called to meet in Chicago to-morrow to consider the local controversy. Employers from New York Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Cleveland and St. Louis compose the executive committee and at its meeting, Secretary Shelley said, action may be taken that will result in a fight of a far reaching effect and the funds of the national organization may be placed at the disposal of the Chicago Typothetae to sustain it in its conflict with the unions.

WALKOUT AFFECTS 3 000.

The walkout of bookbinders yesterday affects sixty of the big printing houses affiliated with the Chicago Typothetae. It will involve fully 3 000 men and women, as 2,100 will be thrown out of employment as a result of the walkout of 900 men.

The members of the Typothetae assert they will stand out for the right to employ whomsoever they choose to the extent of shutting down their bindery plants, unless the unionists recede from their demand for a closed shop agreement. In asking for a closed shop the strikers are demanding for something that has not existed heretofore in the bindery industry, as a number of the big employers employ non-union as well as union binders.

Officials of the strikers' union are threatening an extension of the trouble until the other printing crafts are involved should the employers continue to operate their plants with non-union workmen.

STRIKE OF 30,000

Shipyards Workmen About New York May Walk Out with Boiler-Makers.

New York, May 13.—Thirty thousand workmen in the shipyards in this city, Hoboken, Staten Island and Shooter's Island have agreed to strike in aid of 5,000 boilermakers, who have gone out in an effort to enforce their demand for the "closed ship." The Marine Trades council, representing many organizations of workmen employed in the yards, have decided, at a mass meeting, to order a general sympathetic strike whenever called on to do so by the strikers.

HUMAN CHAIN SAVES BABY

The Mother and Daughter Together Brace Infant from a Well.

Pana, Ill., May 13.—One of the most daring and superhuman rescues known in this section took place yesterday at Edinburg. Mrs. John Stogdell saw her baby fall in a well through an open slide. The mother rushed to the well and crawled into the hole, head foremost, after the child, while the oldest daughter held her mother's feet. The mother saved the child after it had sunk the second time and the daughter, after much exertion, managed to pull both to the top.

FOUR HUNDRED DISCHAGED

New York Central and Hudson River Railway Reduced Staff

Boston, Mass., May 11—Second Vice-President Egan Van Etten of the New York Central and Hudson River Railway received instructions yesterday to discharge 400 of the 5,400 men in the employ of the Boston and Albany division of that system before the close of the month. This is in line with the reduction of expenses being made on other Vanderbilt roads. Mr. Van Etten said: "Wages will not be reduced on the road, but it is intended to lay off the yards on trains, boilermakers, machinists, clerks and in every branch of the service where it is possible to get along with fewer employes."

He added that in common with other roads his company was feeling the recent slump in business.

RUSSIA SENDS PROTEST

Asserts Japanese Fired on Red Cross Train, Wounding Two.

St. Petersburg, May 13.—Russia has protested to the powers signatory of The Hague and Geneva conventions against the action of the Japanese in firing on the Red Cross train from Port Arthur May 6, when of 200 sick and wounded on the cars two were struck by Japanese bullets.

The general staff is authority for the statement that the health of the Russian troops is exceptionally good, considering the filthy Chinese hovels along the line of March, which it was sometimes impossible to keep the men from entering. The total number of cases in the hospitals does not exceed 1 per cent of the Russian forces.

Washington, May 13.—Russia's protest to the United States against the action of the Japanese in firing on the Red Cross train from Port Arthur May 6 and striking two of the 200 wounded aboard was sent to the state department late this evening by Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, in a note to the secretary of state. Similar protests have been addressed to all the powers signatory to The Hague and Geneva conventions. In his note Count Cassini merely says that by direction of his government he respectfully calls the attention of the Washington government this action of the Japanese, which the Russian government is compelled to regard as an open violation of the Geneva and Hague conventions.

KEENE.

Miss Addie English spent Sunday with friends in Westwood.

Mr. John Dixon, of Toronto, is visiting his parents for a few days.

Mr. C. Bell and Miss Bell spent a couple of days in Peterborough this week.

The football team are getting down to hard practice for their game with Caughnawaga.

Everybody in town turned out on Arbor Day, to clean up the streets, burn all sorts of rubbish and plant trees. The members of the Improvement Society were out in full force with rakes, shovels and wagons and raked up and drew away all the small stones, which will be used for cement walks.

From May 15th to Sept. 1st all the stores in Keene will close up at six p. m. three days a week — Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Anderson & Skinner's steam launch "Vivid" which they purchased recently from Mr. D. Simpson, of Birdsall, arrived in port on Tuesday.

During the game between Keene and the Quakers on Saturday, Mr. Jack McIntyre, one of our players, had a couple of ribs fractured.

Several sports in Allandale have been paying rather dearly for "lunge" lately.

The water in the river is falling rapidly.

DALNY DESTROYED BY THE RUSSIANS TO PREVENT JAPS' LANDING.

Russians Blow Up Works Which Cost Millions--Viceroy Alexieff Reports That Docks and Piers Have All Been Destroyed

St. Petersburg, May 12. — Viceroy Alexieff has telegraphed to the Czar announcing that the Russians have blown up the docks and piers at Port Dalny, Liao Tung peninsula, presumably to render more difficult a Japanese landing at that point.

Dalny is situated on Talienwan bay, ten miles north of Port Arthur. Formerly the Chinese city of Talienwan, it was selected by the Russians to be the commercial metropolis of Manchuria. Its harbor is far more commodious than that of Port Arthur, and it formerly was ice-free, no matter how severe the winter. The apparent invulnerability of Port Arthur caused the Russians to retain it as their arsenal and military headquarters, but they planned a magnificent city at Dalny. The city itself was laid out according to an excellent plan, and splendid docks and wharves were constructed. The bay itself is six miles long and six miles wide. "It is well protected from storms," wrote an American traveler a while ago, "and when the improvements now being made are completed will be one of the best harbors on the Western Pacific. The Russians are building breakwaters out from the shore, enclosing a space about two and a half miles wide facing the city. They are dredging to the depth of 30 feet between the breakwaters and are making a 30-foot channel out to the sea. They are also building piers for the steamers, arranging them so that the passengers can step from the cars to the ships, and so that baggage and freight can be cheaply transferred. They are putting up great warehouses. Near the western breakwater they have constructed a pier for vessels loaded with heavy cargoes, and are laying out lumber and coal yards, and building freight warehouses near by, and connecting them by switches with the main line of the railroad."

These improvements are said to have cost upwards of $20,000,000. To the bitter disappointment of the Russians the building of the breakwater had the effect of causing the harbor to freeze—thus losing the advantage which had caused the place to be selected.

No garrison was maintained at Dalny, but the heights commanding it and the bay are fortified.

Fully equipped with all modern improvements, docks, warehouses and railroad facilities, Dalny was opened to commerce in December, 1901. There were two big dry docks, one intended for ordinary ocean steamers, and the other designed to accomodate the largest vessels of war or commerce.

The city of Dalny consists first of the administration portion, in which are located railway shops, for making cars, etc., repair shops, shops for steamship construction and repair, with various offices of the port, steamships and railway, residences of mechanics and general employes, together with hotels, parks, churches, schools, clubs and places of amusement. Then there is the foreign residence section, joining the general mercantile section, but further off towards the hills and on gradually sloping higher ground, commanding a beautiful bay. Over $6,000,000 had been expended on the harbor system before the end of 1902. Dalny and Port Arthur were leased by the Chinese Government to Russia in 1898.

THE DUKE TALKS OF HIS VISIT HERE.

HIS GRACE OF SUTHERLAND WAS PLEASED WITH CANADA

London, May 11.—The Duke of Sutherland, interviewed today at Liverpool, said that during his visit to Canada he had met strong expressions in favor of the Chamberlain policy and that there was an earnest desire that Mr. Joseph Chamberlain should visit Canada. The Duke said there seemed some danger of Canada becoming Americanized. The Canadian and Imperial Governments should devise some means of inducing Britishers to settle there. Canadian manufacturers were willing to work co-operatively with English manufacturers in order not to interfere with each other's property.

The Cattle Embargo Again.

At a meeting of the Glasgow Chamber of Commerce a resolution passed by the Montreal Board of Trade asking support for the movement urging the British Government to remove the unfair interdiction of Canadian cattle was discussed. Sir David Richmond said the Corporation of Glasgow had been knocking at the door of the Government continually. He wanted the resolution supported, but some members urged delay. After further discussion it was referred to the Committee on Home Affairs.

Empire Day in the Schools.

The main outlines suggested by the League of Empire for celebrating Empire Day in the English schools are in the morning a special lesson on Imperial history and geography, preferably form the standpoint of England's relations to the colonies, and her relative position to them graphically. In the afternoon the ordinary school curriculum will be suspended and a special Empire Day entertainment introduced.

A New Railway to the Pacific.

Doctor Conrall Spatzner in an article in Die Reform, an Austrian review, discusses a scheme for a new railway from Europe to the Pacific whereby Vienna will be within eight days of Pekin and Shanghai. The new railway is to start from Constantinople.

Rogging in the Army.

The Army Council has found it necessary again to call attention to cases of rogging in the army, and has directed the notice of commanding officers to their responsibility in the matter.

The Thibetan Expedition.

The latest news from the Thibetan expedition, published in The Times this morning, indicates that the natives are giving determined opposition to the advance of the British. The engagement of May 6 was followed by the killing of 250 Thibetans by a British cavalry column. Col. Younghusband's camp at Gyangtse is surrounded by a large force of natives and further fierce fighting is inevitable.

The Searching of Mail Steamers.

Lord Stanley, the Postmaster-General, discussing in the House of Commons yesterday the recent searching of the mails of the steamer Osiris by the Russian warship Khrabry, said ordinary postal letters were not contraband of war, but possibly despatches between the Government of the belligerent State and its accredited representatives may be so treated. No general rule of international law had been established, giving special immunity to mail ships, but the right of search in the case of such vessels should be so exercised as to minimize the inconvenience.

Expelled From Servia.

The correspondent of The Daily Mail has been expelled from Belgrade, Servia, for his severe comment on the conspirators who planned and executed the assassination of King Alexander and Queen Draga.

Russian Red Cross Scandals.

The Berlin Post publishes a news agency despatch from St. Petersburg which says that Gen. Schwedoff lost over half a million dollars through speculation in stocks, and took the money from the Red Cross treasury. In order to avoid scandal the Empress Dowager, who is the protectress of the Red Cross Society, and a friend of Gen. Schwedoff, reimbursed the sum. The despatch further says that Prince Galitzin and Count Lansky have also been guilty of irregularities in connection with the Red Cross management.

London, May 11.—All doubts as to Mr. Joseph Chamberlain's health will be dispelled tomorrow, when he makes his annual speech to his constituents at Birmingham, an engagement he has not missed for thirty-years past. Great interest attaches to the speech, and tickets of admission to the reserved seats in the Town Hall are at a big premium.

This speech will not only be a practical re-opening of the fiscal campaign, which has somewhat flagged since his departure for Egypt, but will be a sort of preliminary canter for the big fiscal debate in the House of Commons on Wednesday next. This is the date fixed for the discussion of Mr. Wharton's motion of want of confidence in the Government's policy on the fiscal question, as well as of the amendment which, in the face of the strongest dissuasions of his medical advisers and friends, he has put forward to this motion. The amendment is evasive in character, a net constructed to catch the votes even of the free-trade supporters of the Government.

On no occasion even in his stormy and remarkable career has Mr. Chamberlain's appearance in debate been awaited with more intense or curious interest. His task is to not only show that he has the power and vigor to revive his protectionist agitation in the country, but regain his domination of the House of Commons.

Though his amendment is colorless and equivocal, he cannot shirk the issue which will be raised in the speeches of his opponents in the plainest shape.

At St. Peter's cathedral on Monday evening a very pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. Father John O'Brien, when Miss Doris DeLaurier and Mr. John Rouille were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The bride wore a handsome gown of white silk organdie, and was attended by Miss Louise Rouille, sister of the groom, who wore white canvas cloth. Mr. Victor DeLaurier, brother of the bride, supported the groom. At the conclusion of the ceremony dinner was served at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Elliott, McDonnel street. Mr. and Mrs. Rouille will reside at 79 Lake street.

IMITATION FURS

Feminine interest in the Russo-Jato a report that the conflict has interfered so seriously with the fur industry of Siberia that sealskin coats, Russian sables and the rare skins of the dark fox will be much higher in price next winter than ever before.

Whatever increase in price may be made the ladies can rest assured that there will be lack of supply in the rich and costly furs which Siberian Russia furnishes. This assurance is given on the authority of R. T. Greener, United States commercial agent at Vladivostock, Siberia.

According to this officer the manufacturers of imitation furs have become so expert that a common bare skin can now be made to represent a valuable dark brown fox so perfectly that only an expert may discover the difference.

This, however, indicates but feebly the marvelous results produced by the chemical skill of the manufacturers of imitation furs, for Mr. Greener states that the skin of a common rabbit is chemically treated to represent fur seal and that the skins of common marmots are converted into Russian sables and sold as such. The pelt of the common Arctic fox worth $2.50, is transformed into a dark brown fox, worth from $30 to $50.

The manufacture of imitation furs had grown to such large proportions that Commercial Agent Greener reported to the department of commerce previous to the outbreak of the war that genuine furs had declined in price to a point which threatened a panic in the fur trade.

The expose which he makes of the manufacture of imitation furs is all that is needed, however, to reassure the ladies. If the war interferes with the trapping of seals, sables and the much coveted dark brown fox they will not be deprived of these beautiful furs.

Australia and the United States are full of rabbits and common marmots and the dyers will continue to turn out, as they have been doing, imitations that cannot be detected from the genuine.

One of the Russian reasons for plundering and murdering the Jews in Bessarabia, is that "the Jews and England and America' had brought on the war "in revenge for the Kishineff massacre." Such ignorance is hardly to be wondered at among a people only a small proportion of whom can read and write.

Richard Chester, of Tanegashima Island, Japan, a contractor to the Japanese Government, is en route to the Orient. He states that at least 10 per cent. of the Japanese soldiers in the field are women disguised as men. He says that the average Japanese woman of the coolie class is as strong, if not stronger, than the men.

While the Methodist Episcopal Conference was in session at Los Angeles a photographer without warning set off a flashlight in the gallery. Dr. Buckley, of New York, who was presenting a set of resolutions, was greatly startled. He declared that the photographer was ignorant of human nature, and should be stopped in such nerve-wrecking pranks.

One of the neglected industries in Canada is herb farming. The New York Tribune says, herb farms will become a necessity in the United States. Spigelia (pink root), serpentaria and senega (the two varieties of snakeroot), which were formerly found in abundance wild in Maryland and other Atlantic States, are becoming scarce. Senna colocynth, gentian and the poppy have been grown to some extent, and digitalis purpurea (foxglove), atropia belladonna (deadly nightshade), sanguinaria canadensis (blood root) and cimicifuga racemosa (black cohosh), have been grown experimentally. Farmers near Kalamazoo, Mich., raise annually 40,000,000 pounds of peppermint. Valerian is a wild product of Vermont. Many of these herbs and numerous others grow wild in Canada and are a source of profit.

RUSSIA'S AWAKENING

When the St. Petersburg government entered into negotiations with the government at Tokio respecting their relative rights in Manchuria and Corea Russia had only contempt for Japan.

The tone of the Russian correspondence was arbitrary so far as it related to the privileges she claimed for herself and evasive in relation to the privileges claimed by Japan. The entire correspondence is evidence that Russia did not believe Japan would venture to resist a nation of such territorial vastness and military force as the empire of the Czar.

Russia's unpreparedness at the outbreak of the war was clearly due to her contemptuous estimate of Japan and ignorant faith in her own invulnerability and not to her determination to avoid a war, as Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador to the United States, asserts in an ingenious defense of his country contributed to the current number of the North American Review.

Despite her unpreparedness, Russia manifested no evidence that she appreciated the true condition of affairs in the east even when hostilities had begun. Her contempt for Japan was as great as ever and was displayed in denouncing the strategy of Admiral Togo as a cowardly stab in the dark. The same ignorant faith in mere numbers and in her ability to sweep such a puny foe as Japan from land and sea was manifest in all of the early preparations that Russia made for the war.

The Russian view of the situation was expressed in the statements of her chief bureaucrats that Japan by taking a cowardly advantage and striking a severe blow before a declaration of war had been made had thereby gained temporary supremacy at sea, but that the Russian land forces would drive the pusillanimous foe into the sea and avenge Japanese treachery a hundred fold.

In the meantime Japanese naval victories were repeated, and finally there came the clash of arms between the land forces, demonstrating in the opinion of military experts everywhere that the Japanese army is as superior to the Russian forces with which they have to contend as the Japanese navy is to Russia's scattered fleet.

With the Port Arthur squadron bottled up in the harbor and the fortress besieged by a land force, with the Vladivostock squadron unable to take the aggressive through sheer weakness and the entire vanguard of the Russian army in full retreat, with orders to keep on retreating for fear of complete annihilation, Russia at least has awakened from her dream of security in the east. Her ruler and the aristocratic oligarchy which rules him now seem to realize the true condition of affairs and the desperate nature of the military situation.

Never in all the history of the world was there a more emphatic awakening. Never was there a more striking object lesson showing the perils of despotism and ignorance.

Plagued With Poor Digestion

Dont Suffer any Longer—Follow the Advice of Others and Use Ferrozone It Cures Permanently, Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

Mr. Louis Meehan, familar to every one in his native city of Peterboro, writes; "About three years ago I had la grippe, which left me in a run down condition. INDIGESTION CURED BY FERROZONE

AN APPEAL TO THE FASHIONABLE SET IN CANADA.

"Lally Bernard," the Well-known Toronto Journalist, Writes from England of the Battle Against Consumption in Muskoka.

Lally Bernard, of the editorial staff of the Toronto Globe, writing to that paper from London, England, where she is now a resident, shows most clearly that the battle against the great white plague is one that should interest all classes of the community. It will be remembered that this writer entered incog. as a patient in the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, and afterwards in the Globe told of real life in that institution. In her present article she says:

"To-day I have found a letter at the club which nearly missed me, having been addressed 'Lally Bernard.' May I express to my unknown correspondent my warmest thanks for the kindly appreciation for the little I have been able to do in the battle being waged against tuberculosis in Canada. The need of sympathy and interest is a tremendous one, and I am always puzzled when I find really well educated and intelligent people in Canada so criminally ignorant of the extent of the danger, and the means which are being taken to combat it.

"It may be of some interest to those who feel as I do in regard to the responsibility which rests upon each and all to aid in this fight against a most insidious foe, when I tell them, that here in London, where I have been for only a few days, I have already come across the dread enemy four times. First of all, in the back garden of our humble quarters in Kensington I espied, when morning dawned, a tent with two beds in it. I enquired of our landlord why the tent was there, and was told a long story about the coronation and quarters for some boys coming up from the country, and that he, the landlord, had subsequently found it more agreeable to sleep in the tent than in the basement bedroom he had formerly occupied. A little later, in conversation with the lady who secured the lodgings, I learned that the landlord's son was obliged to sleep in a tent! Comment was needless.

"In looking for quarters I found a charming home of a young doctor and his wife, where extraordinarily moderate terms were asked for really exceptionally good accommodation. The doctor in question had been 'ordered south,' and his wife had to keep the house going by accepting 'paying guests.'

"Yet again, in the third place, I found that the lady who was at the head of the establishment had not only lost her husband from the dread disease, but had managed one of the most fashionable sanitariums in England, and her knowledge of the treatment and the extent of the problem in England showed me how tremendous was the need for care and watchfulness in our own country.

"May I ask my correspondent to use all possible influence to make the question of combating tuberculosis one of interest in the 'fashionable set' to which she evidently belongs. I know full well, from the little experience I have had, how tremendously a little genuine interest and help might lighten the burden now resting on the shoulders of the authorities of the Free Hospital for Consumptives at Gravenhurst. It is, of course, far away from wealthy centres, and out of sight is to be out of mind.

"I can quite understand that until people have seen forty or fifty patients together in different stages of consumption they do not realize what an immense amount of aid might be given by those who are fortunate enough to be free from the disease and by those who have little else to do than to invent or learn some new form of recreation.

"Mrs. Torrington has kindly promised me to try and get musical societies and people interested in music to provide a piano for the Hospital, and I feel sure it will be of immense benefit to the patients. Surely my correspondent who evinces such sympathy with the cause could make that sympathy take a practical form and organize a hospital library where books worth reading might be supplied, with some system similar to that of the Aberdeen Association, which has done such excellent work."

[Note.—Readers—and may their number be many—who desire to assist in the work of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives may send their gifts to Sir Wm. R. Meredith, Kt., Vice-President, National Sanitarium Association, Toronto, or Mr. W. J. Gage, Chairman of the Executive Committee.]

MOTHER OF FOUR CHILDREN.

The trustees, secretary, and other officers of the Free Hospital for Consumptives at Muskoka are daily in receipt of many piteous letters.

A few days since Mr. W. J. Gage, of Toronto, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the National Sanitarium Association, received a letter from a resident of Quebec, pleading for the admission of a victim of the dread white plague, living about a hundred miles south-east of Montreal, and asking if it were not possible to admit her into the Free Hospital. The writer says: "The applicant is a Mrs. Wm. Paterson, the mother of four children and the wife of a farmer in a place called Goshen, in the township of Windsor. The doctor says that her left lung only is troubled. She is able to go about, but her appetite is very bad. I believe if she could be admitted into the Free Hospital for Consumptives she might be cured. She could not pay much, if anything. Kindly let me know if you could receive her."

We are told by Mr. Gage that applications for admission to the Free Hospital reach the secretary from all points in the Dominion, and patients have been received from Prince Edward Island on the east to Alberta on the west. Two hundred and twenty-five patients have been admitted in eighteen months, and not a single patient has been refused because of his or her poverty.

We can hardly think of any charity that appeals more pathetically for the support of the Canadian people.

Subscriptions may be sent to Sir Wm. R. Meredith, Kt., Vice-President of the National Sanitarium Association, or to Mr. W. J. Gage.

A CLERGYMAN'S APPEAL.

The Rev. W. F. Brownlee, Ridgetown, Anglican minister, has written the following letter to the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives:—

Dear Sir,—I fell in with a case to-day in my parish, a young woman very ill with consumption and I promised I would write you regarding her entrance into the hospital for consumptives in Muskoka. The case is one of great necessity and charity. The applicant is about 18 years of age. She is practically without a home, staying at present with a relative. She is bright and amiable, and would like to live. As I understand, you reject none on account of poverty. I commend the case to you as one most needy, and if you can send me instructions or papers for application to the hospital, I will see to raising necessary means for her transportation and have her sent at once, as I imagine she is not beyond receiving benefit.

[Note by Editor.—Sir Wm. R. Meredith, Kt., Vice-President of the National Sanitarium Association, or Mr. W. J. Gage, Chairman of the Executive Committee, Toronto, will gladly receive contributions for this and several other equally piteous cases calling for help.]

High Class Investment

THE OREGON MINING AND SMELTING COMPANY

Offer to Canadian investors a limited amount of stock of the above company The property owned by the Company consists at the present time of about 500 acres, which are located in the Tarryall District and Park County, Colorado. This whole district has been known for years on account of its rich placer ground, and is now prominently before the public owing to the number of very good properties which have been opened up recently producing, principally, gold, and lately some that are producing Platinum. On the Oregon property there are a number of well known veins of low grade ore that will yield a profit by being treated on the ground of the company. The company have recently opened up a fine vein in the Hawkeye group and this vein shows not only good values but an immense amount of ore which alone would make the property very valuable. Assays from ore taken from various parts of this property range from a few dollars to $373 per ton in gold. We have very little silver, lead or copper in the district. The company have a shaft 240 feet deep, with a good shaft house thoroughly well equipped with all modern machinery to develop same. They are now driving a tunnel which is in about 700 feet and which will cut the Hawkeye vein about 300 feet deeper than where it is opened at present. There is enough ore exposed on the property of this company to keep them busy for a number of years and the reason for selling stock at the present time is to secure funds to build a mill. The company will probably join with the Almaden Company in building this mill. There is water enough to furnish water power and over 100 acres of fine spruce and pine timber. The affairs of the company have always been managed in a business-like economical manner and there are no officers' salaries. The monies received from the sale of stock go direct into the property.

I can heartily recommend this stock as safe, as well as an unusually good investment, because of the immense amount of ore which the company have already opened up. It is not a mere prospect, but the property has been developed by expense of a considerable amount of money and time.

The company is splendidly officered by men of integrity and high standing. The company has not pushed the sale of stock the last year owing to a delay in getting title to the ground from the Government, but now that has been satisfactorily adjusted and work will be pushed to a finish.

The number of exceedingly rich strikes which have been made during the last few weeks in the various camps in the State of Colorado is the best evidence of the prosperity of the mining business. Almost every camp in the state has opened up rich bodies of ore, and Park County is well in the lead in that line.

There are only $25,000 of stock for sale, at $1.00 per share. The company is capitalized at $200,000, and the advantage to the investor of selling the stock at par, is that every share is fully paid up and non-assessable.

GRAPHIC PICTURE BATTLE OF YALU

The Artillery Gonflict Described by Correspondent

London, May 12.—In a despatch dated near Wiju, J. McHugh, special correstond nt of the Daily Telegraph with the Japanese forces, gives the following description of the artillery battle which took place after the first batch of Japs had crossed the Yalu "The battle which followed the discovery by the Russians that the Japs were on the Manchu ian side of the river, was almost entirely an artillery duel, in which the Japs had much the best of the encounter. It began at 10 o'clock in the morning by the Japs shelling the Russians near Tiger Hill, in order to protect the advance of General Kuroki's infantry. The Russians did not reply for half an hour, when they began a vigorous bombardment of the village and the willow thickets on Kinteao Island, b ing apparently still under a misapprehension as to the real nature of the Jap' movement. The shelling of this position was terrific. A perfect torrent of shells was poured over the island, and the dust knocked up by the shrapnel hid the whole place in a sort of gray mist through which the flash of bursting shells gleamed like lightning among clouds. Never have I seen a fiercer fire. Quickly the Japs' batteries west of Wiju opened fire in reply, getting the range with the first round. They simply covered the eight Russian batteries with a hail of shrapnel.

The whole front of the enemies' position was dotted with white puffs of shell from which shrapnel darted in showers. Soon the Russian fire began to die down and ultimately it stopped and a lull followed. But the Russians broke silence by an attempt to shell the Japs' infantry on the Manchu ian side. Their fire, however, was absolutely ineffectual, the shells bursting far short of their object and affording a perfect example of useless artillery practice. Other of the enemies' batteries opened fire, shelling the Japs' batteries to the northeast of Wiju. Japs replied and the artillery duel broke out with renewed violence till the very hills sobbed with the terrible concussion. The extreme fierceness of the action made one feel that the guns were vieing the one against the other as champions between the contending nations. Splendid practice was made by the Jaras' gunners and their fire seemed much more accurate and effective than that of the enemy. There was a renewal of the bombardment at intervals until sunset, but the Japs' position remained unaffected."

Old Hagar's Secret

BY MRS. M. J. HOLMES

Author of "For a Woman's Sake," "Love's Triumph," "Purified by Suffering," "A Grass Widow," "Woman Against Woman," Etc.

whatever with one whose conduct in my house has been so unpardonably rude and vulgar. You will never marry him, Margaret, never! Nay, I would sooner see you dead than the wife of that low, mean, impertinent fellow."

In the large dark eyes there was a gleam decidedly Hagarish as Maggie arose, and standing before her grandmother, made answer "You must not, in my presence, speak thus of Henry Warner. He is neither low, mean, vulgar, nor impertinent. You are prejudiced against him, because you think him comparatively poor, and because he has dared to look at me, who have yet to understand why the fact of my being a Conway makes me better. I have promised to be Henry Warner's wife, and Margaret Miller never yet has broken her word."

"But in this instance you will," said Madam Conway, now thoroughly aroused. "I will never suffer it, and to prove I am in earnest, I will here, before your face, burn the letter he has presumed to send you; and this I will do to any others which may come to you from him."

Maggie offered no remonstrance; but the fire of a volcano burned within, as she watched the letter blackening upon the coals, and when next her eyes met those of her grandmother, there was in them a fierce, determined look, which prompted that lady at once to change her tactics, and try the power of persuasion, rather than of force. Feigning a smile, she said: "What ails you, child? You look to me like Hagar. It was wrong in me, perhaps, to burn your letter, and had I reflected a moment, I might not have done it; but I cannot suffer you to receive any more. I have other prospects in view for you, and have only waited a favorable opportunity to tell you what they are. Sit down by me, Margaret, while I talk with you on the subject."

The burning of her letter had affected Margaret strangely, and with a benumbed feeling at her heart, she sat down without a word, and listened patiently to praises long and praises loud of Arthur Carrollton, who was described as being every way desirable, both as a friend and a husband. "His father, the elder Mr Carrollton, was an intimate friend of my husband," said Madam Conway, "and wishes our families to be more closely united, by a marriage between you and his son Arthur, who is rather fastidious in his taste, and though twenty-eight years old, has never yet seen a face which suited him. But he is pleased with you, Maggie. He liked your picture, imperfect as it is, and he liked the tone of your letters, which I read to him. They were so original, he said—so much like what he fancied you to be. He has a splendid country seat, and more than one nobleman's daughter would gladly share it with him but I think he fancies you. He has a large estate near Montreal and some difficulty connected with it will ere long bring him to America. Of course he will visit here, and with a little tact on your part you can, I'm sure, secure one of the best matches in England. He is fine looking, too, I have his daguerreotype;" and opening her work-box, she drew it forth and held it before Maggie, who resolutely shut her eyes lest she should see the face of me she was so determined to dislike.

"What do you think of him?" asked Madam Conway, as her arm began to ache, and Maggie had not yet spoken.

"I haven't looked at him," answered Maggie. "I hate him, and if he comes here after me, I'll tell him so, too! I hate him because he is an Englishman, hate him because he is an aristocrat. I hate him for everything, and before I marry him I'll run away!"

Here, wholly overcome, Maggie burst into tears, and precipitately left the room. An hour later and Hagar, sitting by the fire, which the coolness of the day rendered necessary, was startled by the abrupt entrance of Maggie, who, throwing herself upon the floor and burying her face in the old woman's lap, sobbed bitterly.

"What is it, child? What is it, darling?" asked Hagar, and in a few words Maggie explained the whole. "She was persecuted—dreadfully persecuted. Nobody before ever had so much trouble as she. Grandma had burned a letter from Henry Warner, and would not give it to her. Grandma said, too, she should never marry him, should never write to him, nor see anything he might send her. Oh, Hagar, Hagar! isn't it cruel?" and the eyes, whose wrathful, defiant expression was now quenched in tears, looked up in Hagar's face for sympathy.

The right chord was touched, and much as Hagar might have disliked Henry Warner, she was his fast friend now. Her mistress's opposition and Maggie's tears had wrought a change, and henceforth all her energies should be given to the advancement of the young couple's cause.

"I can manage it," she said, smoothing the long silken tresses which lay in disorder upon her lap. "Richland postoffice is only four miles from here; I can walk double that distance easy. Your grandmother never thinks of going there, neither am I known to any one in that neighborhood. Write your letter to Henry Warner, and before the sun goes down it shall be safe in the letter-box. He can write to the same place, but he had better direct to me, as your name might excite suspicion."

This plan seemed perfectly feasible: but it struck Maggie unpleasantly. She had never attempted to deceive in her life, and she shrunk from the first deception. She would rather, she said, try to win her grandmother's consent. But this she found impossible. Madam Conway was determined, and would not listen.

"It grieved her sorely," she said, "thus to cross her favorite child, whom she loved better than her life but 'twas for her good, and must be done."

So she wrote a cold and rather insulting letter to Henry Warner, bidding him, as she had once done before, "let her granddaughter alone," and saying "it was useless for him to attempt anything secret, for Maggie would be closely watched the moment there were indications of a clandestine correspondence."

This letter, which was read to Margaret, destroyed all hope and still she wavered, uncertain whether it would be right to deceive her grandmother. But while she was yet undecided, Hagar's fingers, of late unused to the pen, traced a few lines to Henry Warner, who, acting at once upon her suggestion, wrote to Margaret a letter, which he directed to "Hagar Warren, Richland."

In it he urged so many reasons while Maggie should avail herself of this opportunity for communicating with him, that she yielded at last; and regularly each week old Hagar toiled through sunshine and through storm to the Richland postoffice, feeling amply repaid for her trouble when she saw the bright, expectant face which almost always greeted her return. Occasionally, by way of lulling the suspicions of Madam Conway, Henry would direct a letter to Hillsdale, knowing full well it would never meet the eyes of Margaret, over whom, for the time being, a spy had been set, in the person of Anna Jeffrey.

This young lady, though but little connected with our story, may perhaps deserve a brief notice. Older than either Theo or Margaret, she was neither remarkable for beauty or talent. Dark haired, dark eyed, dark browed, and as the servants said, "dark in her disposition," she was naturally envious of those whose rank in life entitled them to more attention than she herself was accustomed to receive. For this reason, Maggie Miller had from the first been to her an object of dislike, and she was well pleased when Madam Conway, after enjoining upon her the strictest secrecy, appointed her to watch that young lady, and see that no letter was ever carried by her to the postoffice which Madam Conway had not first examined. In the snaky eyes there was a look of exultation as Anna Jeffrey promised to be faithful to her trust, and for a time she became literally Maggie Miller's shadow, following her everywhere, until Maggie complained so bitterly of the annoyance that Madam Conway at last, feeling tolerably sure that no counterplot was intended, revoked her orders, and bade Anna Jeffrey leave Margaret free to do as she pleased.

Thus relieved from espionage, Maggie became a little more like herself, though a sense of the injustice done her by her grandmother, together with the deception she knew she was practicing, wore upon her; and the servants at their work listened in vain for the merry laugh they had loved so well to hear. In the present state of Margaret's feelings, Madam Conway deemed it prudent to say nothing of Arthur Carrollton, whose name was never mentioned save by Theo and Anna, the latter of whom had seen him in England, and was never so well pleased as when talking of his fine country seat, his splendid park, his handsome horses, and last, but not least, of himself. "He was," she said, "without exception, the most elegant and aristocratic young man she had ever seen;" and then for more than an hour she would entertain Theo with a repetition of the many agreeable things he had said to her during the one day she had spent at his house while Madam Conway was visiting there.

In perfect indifference, Maggie, who was frequently present, would listen to these stories, sometimes listlessly turning the leaves of a book, and again smiling scornfully as she thought how impossible it was that the fastidious Arthur Carrollton should have been at all pleased with a girl like Anna Jeffrey; and positive as Maggie was that she hated him, she insensibly began to feel a very slight degree of interest in him, "at least, she would like to know how he looked;" and one day when her grandmother and Theo were riding, she stole cautiously to the box where she knew his picture lay, and, taking it out, looked to see "if he were so very fine-looking."

"Yes, he was," Maggie acknowledged that; and sure that she hated him terribly, she lingered long over that picture, admiring the classically-shaped head, the finely-cut mouth, and more than all, the dark eyes which seemed so full of goodness and truth. "Pshaw!" she exclaimed, at last, restoring the picture to its place, "if Henry were only a little taller, and had as handsome eyes, he'd be a great deal better looking. Anyway, I like him, and I hate Arthur Carrollton, who I know is domineering, and would try to make me mind. He has asked for my daggerreotype, grandma says—one which looks as I do now. I'll send it, too," and she burst into a loud laugh at the novel idea which had crossed her mind.

That day when Madam Conway returned from her drive, she was surprised at Maggie's proposing that Theo and herself should have their likenesses taken for Arthur Carrollton.

"If he wants my picture," said she, "I am willing he shall have it. It is all he'll ever get."

Delighted at this unexpected concession, Madam Conway gave her consent, and the next afternoon found Theo and Maggie at the daguerrean gallery in Hillsdale, where the latter astonished both her sister and the artist by declaring her intention of not only sitting with her bonnet and shawl on, but also of turning her back to the instrument! It was in vain that Theo remonstrated! "That position or none," she said, and the picture was accordingly taken, presenting a very correct likeness when finished of a bonnet, a veil and a shawl, beneath which Maggie Miller was supposed to be.

PORT ARTHUR IS DOOMED

Russian Stronghold Said to be Short of Both Food and Powder.

London, May 12.—General Kuropatkin is in full retreat with his whole army, and the Japanese are supposed to be in active pursuit. The Russians will not make a stand short of Mukden, even if there, if they can avoid doing so, but are in great danger of being forced to fight under adverse conditions somewhere near Liao Yang. If Kuropatkin is allowed sufficient time it is exceedingly probable that he will abandon Mukden and withdraw the whole of his forces to Harbin. So far from the sea the Japs would have to fight under some of the disadvantages from which the Russians are now suffering. In his report to the Czar General Kuropatkin states that realizing that the Russian forces in the Far East as insufficient in numbers to oppose the Japanese, he is withdrawing all the advanced detachments to concentrate them for the defence of Mukden and Harbin. The real stand will, no doubt, be made at Harbin, because the Russians cannot retreat beyond that point without allowing Vladivostock to become as completely isolated as Port Arthur.

A merchant at Shan Kwan, who is deemed to be worth quoting by the Associated Press, is authority for the statement that there is only enough coal in Port Arthur to last the warships for six weeks and only enough food to last eight thousand men for three months. At St. Petersburg it is claimed that the garrison of Port Arthur is thirty thousand strong. If both statements are correct the garrison could be starved out in a little over a month. But if the Shan Hai Kwan merchant knows the quantity of supplies in Port Arthur, presumably he knows the number of troops there also. If there are only eight thousand men to defend Port Arthur, the Japs will make short work of its capture.

It is announced on what seems to be good authority, that the Russian admiralty has definitely abandoned the idea of sending the Baltic fleet to the Far East—a very sensible decision.

JAPAN'S ASCENDANCY IS NOW ASSURED.

Analogy Between Buller's Battle to South Africa and The Fight at Yalu

London, May 11.—The Japanese victories have been received without a trace of exultation in England. The analogies between the battle on the Yalu and General Buller's battle on the Tugela have been unpleasantly close.

The problem for the assailants was the same, for a swollen river had to be crossed after tremendous artillery fire, and a frontal attack attempted on a strongly fortified position, but the Japanese general knew how to plan his battle. Whereas Buller was only equal to grace manoeuvres at Aldershot.

Buller had not taken pains to clear his own bank of the river in advance of the passage and he had left the attacking force at liberty to choose between two fords without locating them accurately on the map and when he lost a few guns gave up fighting and retreated before the battle was half fought.

The Japanese general sent men across the river at two places where the water was fleast high and turned the Russian's left flank, as well as stormed the position in front. The Japanese are using their own brains as well as the guns and powder made by themselves. Their strategy on the Yalu is as good as the British strategy was bad on the Tugela, and they are following up their victory with a thoroughly scientific plan of campaign by landing a second army at Pitsewo, where it can cut off Port Arthur and co-operate with the first army in the advance against the main Russian force. The Japanese campaign against the Chinese has been followed in detail, and Mukden is likely to be the objective point. If that centre of administration can be occupied the Chinese themselves may rise against the Russians and expel them from Manchuria.

The momentous consequences of a Japanese victory over a European nation by land and sea are discerned by thoughtful Englishmen, and there is no jubilation in any quarter over the Russian defeat. The complete demonstration of Japanese capacity for organizing and using military and naval armaments is regarded as a measure to the future peace of the world.

Japan becomes at once a dominant power in the far east, challenging the mastery fo the Pacific, offering a protectorate to China rekindling fires of Oriental imagination and creating a feeling of unrest in India. The balance of power in Asia has been upset by the rise of Japan as a power of tremendous resources in military and naval warfare.

Tokio, May 11.—Heartfelt joy is written on the faces of Japanese officials, who usually mask all emotion behind an affable smile, because at last the Mikado's flag is flying and the Mikado's troops are massing on Russian soil.

When General Kuroki crossed the Yalu and planted his colors on Chinese territory and when the marines of Admiral Hoboya's squadron hoisted their banner on the heights of Pitsewo, they signalized the occupation by the Japanese of Russia's concession in the Liaotun peninsula.

Japanese strategy in connection with Port Arthur, which is now isolated, is problematical. The most prominent officials here are dumb on this point and it is doubtful if at this moment it has been decided. It undoubtedly was the original purpose of the leaders to invest the fortress and await developments so far as it was concerned, but this plan was the result of conditions that may change.

RUSSIANS DESTROYING THEIR WARSHIPS

London, May 11.—Once more there is a plentiful crop of war rumors, and a scarcity of facts. The only real news in the columns of guesses and conjectures, which fill the newspapers, is the official announcement by Viceroy Alexieff that railway communication with Port Arthur was restored during Monday night. This is confirmed by a despatch to The Central News from Liao-Yang, dated today, which says: "A train hence reached Port Arthur yesterday. The railway officials say that no Japanese troops were observed near the railway, but that it was reported that some Japanese cavalry were seen behind Feng-Wang-Cheng."

How officials of a train running from Liao-Yang to Port Arthur would know what was going on at Feng-Wang-Cheng, 110 miles distant from Liao-Yang, is not stated.

AN IMPROBABLE STORY.

A Chefoo despatch says that an unofficial Japanese despatch has been received there to the effect that the Russians had destroyed their fleet in Port Arthur.

A Tokio despatch says that Admiral Togo reports that since the sixth day of May many explosions have been heard coming from the vicinity of Port Arthur, but their cause was not ascertained.

The impression at Tokio is, that the Russians, despairing of their ability to defend Port Arthur, are destroying their ships before evacuating the place. Against this theory is to be placed the statement of officials at St. Petersburg that "the Japanese will not obtain possession of our fleet even if they capture Port Arthur. The orders to the commander there are that he shall, when a fall is inevitable, put to sea and engage the enemy. We do not propose for the Japanese to find in the harbor a number of valuable warships, which they can seize and add to their fleet. Moreover, in battle the Japanese will suffer as well as our ships, and those of the latter which do not escape will go to the bottom."

Of course, this plan depends upon the mouth of the harbor being open, a condition which the Japanese assert does not exist.

There is confirmation of the report from Tokio that a high angle bombardment of Port Arthur was in progress. The Russia garrison there is stated to consist of 20,000 soldiers and 10,000 sailors.

THE ANGLO-FRENCH TREATY.

Mr. Morine Regrets That It Was So Loosely Constructed.

Sydney, C.B., May 12.—A. B. Morine, leader of the Opposition in Newfoundland Legislature, in an interview here stated that while the recent treaty between England and France appeared to have settled the difficulty regarding the French shore, still it contained clauses open to dual construction that might possibly occasion some conflict in the future. He instanced the clause bearing upon the closing of the fishing season which is stated to be October 20, but whether this applies to the English or to the French or both, it does not state. If to the English it would mean that Newfoundland would lose its winter herring so far as those shores were concerned. As to the bait clause it states that the French can enter the ports and procure bait and supplies. The ambiguity here is whether this applies only to the treaty coast or to all Newfoundland. If the latter, then there will follow revival of the fishing industry in St. Pierre at Newfoundlands's expense. The clause bearing upon the patrolling of the coast to prevent smuggling, etc., is open also to dual meaning. Should the French insist upon carrying out what their construction of the treaty might be, the result Mr. Morine fears might be disastrous to Newfoundland. He thinks, however, it is possible that no such conflict will arise. He says that a large element in the colony are far from being satisfied with the settlement apparently affected by the treaty. He thinks it should have been more explicit in its terms and less loosely constructed.

TO CANADIAN INVESTORS

I desire to call the attention of investors to the

Smuggler Gold Mining Co.'s Proposition

of which I am the authorized agent

Investments in mining stocks where they can be purchased cheaply whose property contains merit and whose directors are men of unquestionable honor and integrity, and especially when sufficient work has been done to guarantee a producing mine and the leads have been demonstrated to be permanent, offer the greatest opportunity for large returns from modest investments.

The shrewdest capitalists of England and America are giving more attention to mining properties and putting more money into them than at any time in the past history of the world.

The Smuggler Group consists of five full sized claims, to-wit: The Smuggler, Gangon, Black Jack, Star and Red Rock, located in the Greenhorn District of Eastern Oregon. Surrounding mines are Potosi, Pride of Pendleton, Bonanza and Rockefeller, developing work to the extent of 1,000 feet of tunnelling, drifts and crosscuts have been made, exposing hundreds of tons of high grade ore, averaging from $25 to $45 per ton, based on smelter returns and for the purpose of equipping the mines a limited number of shares of Treasury Stock will be sold at 25 cents per share, the par value of which is $1.00.

HIGH CLASS INVESTMENT

LA ZACUALPA RUBBER PLANTATION COMPANY

Incorporated Under the Laws of the State of California.

La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation is situated in the best location in Mexico for the cultivation of rubber. It has been known for a great many years as a very choice strip of rubber land and subsequent experience has shown that it is equal to all that has been claimed for it. The affairs of the company are in the hands of men of undoubted integrity and high reputation as successful men of business. To those seeking a safe investment which will secure a good income for life, this proposition offers a favorable opportunity

Shares in La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation are not capital stock of a corporation, and carry none of the responsibilities and obligations, or liability to assessment of capital stock; but represent an undivided interest in the plantation itself.

The twelve thousand acres comprising the plantation are divided into twelve thousand shares, each share representing one acre of land, and the holders of shares in La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation are the actual owners of one undivided acre of land, for each share held, with a guarantee expressed upon the certificate by La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation Company, under its official seal, to plant two hundred or more rubber trees per acre for each share sold, and to care for same for a period of five years, and at the expiration of that time to gather the first harvest and deliver the net proceeds thereof to the shareholder.

In other words, La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation Company sells to each shareholder one undivided acre of land in La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation, with two hundred or more rubber trees five years old, and their profits for all time, for each share sold, and agrees to plant so that the first harvest belonging to the shareholder is the one to be gathered from La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation during the sixth year from the date of the certificate.

After the delivery of the first harvest La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation Company will care for the plantation, and harvest and market the crop for ten per cent. of the net proceeds therefrom. Out of this commission the Company agrees to pay all costs of administration, including maintenance of its home and branch offices.

This plan gives the purchaser of shares an interest of definite acreage, and his proportionate share in the total yield of rubber from the entire plantation forever, making it absolutely certain that the interest of each shareholder will receive the same care and attention forever, making it absolutely certain that the interest of each shareholder will receive the same care and attention forever, making it absolutely certain that the interest of each shareholder will receive the same care and attention forever, making it absolutely cer- others, no matter how large or small, for the success of the plantation will be the mutual gain of all.

The foregoing state of facts makes it impossible for any person or persons to combine against, or injure the individual interest of the smallest shareholder in the plantation, or to encumber the same, and it can be readily seen that the success of one means the success of all

All persons have some money, but more time. A little money and five years of time, if applied to the cultivation of rubber, will produce large profits.

Full information will be supplied on application to Mr. Roland Kidd, Fiscal Agent for Ontario, or to

The Monarch Consolidated Gold & Copper Mining and Smelting Company of BOULDER, COLORADO

Solicits the co-operation of reputable men in providing means for the thorough and rapid development of two large gold and copper mining estates, which are second to none in intrinsic value, and to this end extends every opportunity for determination as to whether statements made by the company are true or false.

The proposition when developed will pay no less than 50 per cent. per annum on the investment, and it behooves anyone who wishes to better his financial condition, to give immediate attention to this.

Full particulars in every detail will be given to all to whom such a proposition may appeal, but please do not ask for them unless you really are interested, because on waste your own time and ours also.

Capital $1,000,000, 500,000 Shares in Treasury

Property includes two great mining estates—one gold, the other copper—both containing wide, deep, proven veins of high and low grade ore.

Development work has been systematically carried on, with results that more than justify every claim made by the company, and unquestionably proves the destiny of the property to equal that of the greatest successful mining companies of the world.

Above Statement Can be Easily Verified

The following two facts alone will give anyone familiar with mining a rough idea of the great value of the property.

The Copper King Group contains one vein 30 feet wide, 8 feet of which runs from $10 to $160 per ton, and the Company owns 9 000 feet on this vein.

Ore running from $18 to $50 per ton is continually being shipped from the gold property, and 24 samples taken from widely different portions of the vein system averaged $38 25 per ton.

FACILITIES—The Company owns 1,720 acres of placer and timber land. Water power of 500 (minimum) horse power. No expensive shaft work necessary, Ore easily treated on Company's property, thus saving freight and smelter charges.

DIVIDENDS—To begin earning and paying large dividends it is only necessary to erect two 50 ton mills, one on each property. To obtain funds for this purpose a limited amount of stock is offered at

Again at Work

Mr. Fitzgerald, who suffered the destruction of the interior of his carriage works by fire the other night, is again at work, and will be in good running order in a few days. With his usual energrese, he is already hustling the work of repair, and will lose no time in catching up with the large number of orders which have accumulated.

No Picnic This Year

The Times has been requested to state that the usual Lakefield picnic which has been held for some years by Rev. Father Phelan, on Victoria Day, will not take place this year. This will be a disappointment to many, who have come to look upon this event as an annual affair.

Hon. J. R Stratton and Provincial Architect Heakes were in Orillia and Penetanguishene yesterday. At the latter place they inspected the progress made in converting the reformatory building into an asylum for the insane. It is expected that the building will be ready for the reception of patients early in June. On Thursday evening an informal banquet will be tendered the Provincial Secretary at Penetanguishene.

100,000 FIGHTING MEN BASIS FOR AS MANY MORE

LORD DUNDONALD'S NEW MILITARY SYSTEM ALSO INVOLVES MERIT IN PROMOTION AND LEADERSHIP

Ottawa, May 11.—One hundred thousand men in the first line of Canada's military defence is the provision made by Lord Dundonald's new system of enrolment and training. The peace establishment of all ranks numbers 46,043.

"These establishments," says the annual report of the Minister of Militia, "further provide sufficient officers to form the basis of a second line. For example, each regiment of infantry will have a field officer, and each company a captain, a subaltern, a sergeant, a corporal and two men as their nuclei for this purpose, the intention being that as soon as the first line has been mobilized for active service these nuclei will at once set about training duplicates of the corps which has gone to the front, so in a very short time after hostilities have commenced another line of 100,000 men can be put into the field.

Promotion By Examination.

The provision of ordnance arms, equipment and ammunition, Lord Dundonald wishes made as soon as possible. Vast numbers of leaders are appointed provisionally because they are not qualified professionally for permanent appointments. After obtaining his first qualifying certificate a subaltern can now advance to the command of a regiment without further examination, or any obligation to keep himself up to date in military knowledge. The new plan requires a qualifying examination for each step.

The training of the force as a whole has been considered so as to get the largest possible preparation at the least possible expense. A few in each unit, thoroughly versed, would go straight from the central camp to district camps, and these would form a skeleton upon which to organize the men who could shoot and who had some knowledge of soldiering.

For Five Higher Commands.

In a short time such a force would gain the necessary cohesion, discipline and hardiness, as the South African campaigns demonstrated. In order to secure the best men to undertake training duties, appointments of a prominent nature should be probationary, and only those proving fit shall be confirmed.

To gain decentralization and assimilate the peace and war conditions, five higher commands ought to be created, says Lord Dundonald, these to cover the Maritime Provinces, Quebec, Eastern Ontario, Western Ontario and the North-West.

War Color Honors.

Specially designed colors have been allotted by the British Government in recognition of their services in the South African war to the Royal Dragoons, the Royal Canadian Mounted Rifles, Strathcona Horse, the Royal Canadian Field Artillery, the Royal Garrison Artillery and the Royal Canadian Regiment.

THE CONQUEST A NECESSITY

ANGLO-INDIAN MERCHANT ON THE WAR IN THIBET

Interesting light was thrown upon the causes and probable effects of the British expedition to Thibet by Mr. Norman McLeod, a leading Calcutta merchant was was in the city on his way to the St. Louis Fair.

In conversation with a reporter of The Times this morning, Mr. McLeod stated that the expedition to Thibet was regarded in India as a matter of public necessity. For twenty years the Indian Government had been endeavoring to bring about satisfactory relations, and the recent step had been taken because it seemed impossible to convince the Thibetans that they must do something.

"Is there any great reason for desiring defined relations with Thibet?" queried the reporter.

"Certainly," replied Mr. McLeod. There is a considerable trade between India and Thibet, the latter country importing British and Indian manufactured goods, and the former importing large quantities of wool and products from Thibet. It is therefore necessary to have an official relationship, if only to guarantee the protection of the trade routes, and this up to the present has not been obtainable."

"Do you expect that the expedition will go to Lhassa?"

"I might say in reply," said Mr. McLeod, "that while we had no definite information upon the subject, the feeling throughout India was that it would be necessary for the expedition to proceed to Lhassa before terms could be obtained and that the expedition was prepared with that object in view. Lord Curzon had made to definite announcement in that respect, but the greatest of confidence is felt in anything which the present Viceroy of India undertakes, as he has accomplished much for the whole country."

FAMINE AND PLAGUE.

"Is the famine still prevailing?" was the next question.

"No, I believe it is over, but the plague still rages in some parts of India. Financially The country is in a splendid condition, much better than it has been for many years."

"What about the jute trade?"

"India has practically a monopoly of that trade, and other jute centers are now suffering. Our trade with the United States is very large and no the increase. The jute factories are almost totally confined to Bengal, and while we are not turning out the finest material, our workmen are being educated with that aim in view. Our cotton trade is increasing and there are now a number of cotton Industries at Bombay."

Speaking of business in general, Mr. McLeon said that many of the natives of India were large employers of labor; in fact in Calcutta there were only 15,000 whites to over 1,000,000 natives and much of the trade was in their hands, in fact they controlled a number of independent lines of railway. The main railways were owned by the Government, were splendidly run and were a financial success.

LONDON TIMES LECTURES KING

London, May 11.—King Edward has returned from Ireland immensely enthusiastic over his visit. He was received with respect and cordiality everywhere, the manifestations being spontaneous.

The Times has actually lectured him severely for his sympathetic speeches, which, it fears, will inspire hopes of concession to the Nationalists demands, which are impossible. It reminds him, moreover, his limitations as a constitutional sovereign, and of the danger of overstepping his prerogatives.

The secret of this astonishing outburst is that the ascendency party in Ireland has become aware that the King has been privately discussing Home Rule with prominent Irish Unionists, indicating that at least he has an open mind on the question. In addition they consider that he neglects the Orange Loyalist section of Ireland to cultivate the good opinion of the Nationalist population.

The King is determined to work for the pacification of Ireland, and he is now in constant communication with the Irish Secretary, Mr. Wyndham, as to measures to be adopted to stem the tide of emigration which is draining the life blood of the country.

The Irish Unionists, at the outside one-sixth of the population, fear that if it becomes known that the King is not afraid of Home Rule its passage would be swift and certain.

Queen Alexandra, an enthusiastic photographer, has come back with numerous snapshots of typical scenes to be reproduced on tea sets as presents for intimate friends.

THAT MADE A DIFFERENCE

Employer Advised Economy, But in This Case It Was Entirely Unnecessary.

"They tell me that you're thinking of getting married, William," said the old-fashioned employer to his faithful and steady clerk, relates the Chicago Daily News.

"Yes, sir," said the young man, respectfully, "I expect to be married next month."

"So soon as that?" said the old-fashioned employer, in some surprise. "Well, William, you know best, I suppose, or you think you do. But I imagine that you won't mind if I give you a little advice. I have been married for 34 years myself, and I think I might be able to give you a few points. To begin with, practice frugality.

"You will probably be tempted to many little extravagances at the outset. If you have not bought your furniture, I would recommend you to avoid extravagance in that direction. Bric-a-brac and pictures are not necessities, and I wouldn't spend any money for them if I were you. You will need chairs and tables and household linen, of course. Dishes and culinary utensils, too, you will be obliged to have, but these, for a young couple in your circumstances, should be of the plainest description. The money that you will save by denying yourself expensive decorated china and useless gimcracks you can deposit in the bank, where it will increase slowly but surely with your added savings, as a provision against sickness or other misfortune, and will perhaps even amount to an independence for your old age. I would, in your place, apportion my income—so much for rent, so much for household expenses, so much for clothing and so much for a modest life insurance, always reserving a certain sum to be laid aside for a rainy day and never going beyond that apportionment. I would not waste money upon theaters or similar places of amusement. There are always lectures on improving subjects which may be heard free, and there are museums, also free, which may be visited. Entertainments to friends or acquaintances which involve expense should not be indulged in. As to your table, plain food is the best, as well as the most wholesome. Some of these vegetarian dishes are quite appetizing. Lentils are said to be extremely nourishing and prunes are a valuable article of diet. But, of course, I could not undertake to mention everything that I might think proper for you to eat. I wish that it was in my power to raise your salary a trifle, but—"

"I'm much obliged, sir," said the clerk, "but I don't think we will need it. The lady I am going to marry has an income of $70,000, and I hope to live within that unless she gets some more at her father's death, but—"

"Oh, that's entirely different, my boy," said the old-fashioned employer. "In that case, I'd recommend you to go ahead and enjoy life."

DOUBLE BALLOON AIRSHIP.

Invention of an Englishman That Will Be Something New and Novel.

A new type of dirigible balloon, invented by L. J. Anderson, of London, England, is described in the Scientific American. The principal feature is that two balloons, placed side by side, of identical shape and capacity, are employed to lift the vessel. The model having proved successful to the inventor, a full-sized vessel is now being constructed. The balloons are elliptical in shape, and will measure 70 feet in length by 27 feet diameter at the widest part. They will each hold approximately 27,000 feet of hydrogen gas, thus giving them a lifting power of 4,000 pounds.

The framework, or deck, of the vessel will measure 75 feet in length, and is to be constructed of bamboo. Another feature of the craft will be the employment of three propellers. The main propeller will be placed at the stern, together with the rudder. By an ingenious arrangement, however, the pitch of this driving propeller may be varied from the deck of the vessel as desired, the object of which is to use it as an auxiliary though powerful rudder, for maintaining or altering the ship's course according to the exigencies that arise. Two subsidiary propellers are placed at the bow and stern of the deck respectively, and are intended to supplement the driving power of the mechanism. The whole of machinery is place between the two balloons; for the inventor holds that by this design the improvement of the steering possibilities and the maintenance of a straight course are materially increased. The motion of the propellers and their design are entirely new, coinciding as nearly as possible, to a reciprocatory motion, so that the nearest approach to the motion of a bird's wing is obtained. The propellers are to measure 30 feet in diameter.

The motive power is to be supplied from a 50-horsepower electric motor, and the inventor anticipates that a speed varying from 14 to 30 miles an hour in fair weather will be attained. The total weight of the vessel will be 2,000 pounds, which leaves a balance of 1,000 pounds, after deducting this weight from the lifting capacity of the aerostat, for the carriage of passengers, ballast, etc. It is hoped that the balloon will be ready for trials some time this, and its total cost will approximate $10,000.

THE GREAT WORK GOING ON IN MUSKOKA.

1,000 Patients Treated in the Two Muskoka Hospitals — the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Surprising Decrease of 25 Per Cent. in the Last Three Years in Deaths from Consumption.

Fifty-five Different Trades and Professions Represented by the Patients Admitted to the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Two Pavilions have had to be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds, and the Number of Patients Reduced from 75 to 50.

$25,000 Wanted this Year to Carry on this Great Work.

With a view of helping to bring to the attention of the public the needs of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have pleasure in publishing the following letter, in which an appeal is made for funds.

Dear Friend,—

It again becomes necessary to make an urgent appeal for funds for the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

A very heavy debt is pressing upon the trustees.

In addition to this, funds must be provided for the maintenance of patients. Last month there was a deficiency of nearly $1,500 over and above receipts from all sources.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives was opened eighteen months ago. 225 patients have been admitted.

No patient has ever been refused admission because of his or her poverty.

1,000 patients have been cared for in the two Muskoka Hospitals, the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The majority of these have either been cured, or so helped that they have been enabled to again become bread-winners for the family.

The public are beginning to find evidence of our work.

Already there has been a decrease of nearly 25 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption in the Province of Ontario.

The last report of the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health shows that in the last three years the deaths from consumption in Ontario have decreased from 3,484 to 2,694, a decrease of 790, or nearly 25 per cent.

This is the more gratifying when we remember that for a number of years previously the same report showed a steadily increasing death-rate prior to 1899.

Who will doubt that the work of our two Hospitals in Muskoka, and the persistent educational campaign carried on, has not helped to secure this surprising result?

In what better way can your gifts bring so good a return?

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 50.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

Very truly yours,

W. J. Gage

Air Carries Healing Medicine

THAT CURES COLDS, CATARRH AND DISEASES OF THE THROAT LUNGS AND BRONCHIAL TUBES.

About the healing power of the air of the pine woods everybody knows, but to supply it in the form of medicine seemed almost beyond realization. After many years of careful study a scientific remedy now known as Catarrhosone has been produced which enables the sufferer to breathe into his lungs all the healing properterties of the balsamic pine woods air. This marvellous remedy has conquered catarrh. It unquestionably does cure it permanently.

You cannot fail to be cured by Catarrhosone, because it reaches and destroys the cause of the disease. You simply inhale the antiseptic vapor. It instantly spreads to every part of the breathing organs. The micro-organisms infecting the diseased tissues of your nose, throat and lungs die instantly. There is nothing left to cause inflammation. Any spots that are raw and sore are quickly healed by Catarrhosone and you are soon completely cured.

It is impossible to breathe through a Catarrhosone inhaler without at once feeling better. Your head is cleared of mucous discharge, your nostrils are cleansed of all putrid matter, the phlegm is removed from your throat. Every trace of catarrh is searched out of the system by Catarrhosone, which thoroughly disinfects and purifies every organ of the body.

Catarrhosone is the only natural remedy for catarrh. It cures by cleansing and purifying all diseased tissues, not by deadening this stomach by drugs. It is a clean, simple and satisfactory remedy that is endorsed by the clergy, and universally prescribed by the medical profession because it is scientific and absolutely certain to effect lasting cures.

Don't be misled into accepting a substitute for Catarrhosone, which alone can cure thoroughly. It is so powerfully healing that colds disappear in an hour, coughs in two hours and even chronic catarrh in a comparatively short time. Two months' treatment $1, sample size 25c. Protection Should Be Afforded

A resident of Water street yesterday called the attention of The Times to the danger of allowing herds of cattle to be driven along this street to market. Last summer serious damage was done to the handsome boulevards by cattle in this way, by being insufficiently protected by drivers. It is to be hoped that the Council will afford property owners the necessary protection to their property.

Military Camps

The following are the dates that have been fixed upon for opening the camps of training for the militia.—London, June 7th; Niagara, June 14; Kingston, June 21st; Ottawa, Three Rivers La Prairie, Levis and Sussex, N.B., June 28th; Aldershot, N.S., September 13th. The period of training is twelve days. Ottawa is to have a camp this year, which it is entitled to have, as it is now the center of a military district. The camps as agreed upon will effect a saving as compared with those of last year.

An Exciting Runaway

Considerable excitement was caused on George and Hunter streets last night when a runaway horse, attached to a phaeton, dashed down Water street. On turning the Post-office corner it took to the pavement near the Bank of Commerce, where the only occupant of the rig, a little girl of about six years, was thrown to the sidewalk but was not seriously injured. The frightened animal continued at a break-neck speed, running up George and across Brock, where it was finally captured. The vehicle was badly damaged.

S. A. Musical Festival

A musical festival of a very pleasing character was given last night at the Salvation Army barracks, under the direction of Lieut.-Colonel Pugmire. Those who took part in the program were: Staff-Captain Harry Morris, cornet; Adjutant Arnold, violinist; Adjutant Gillespie, 'cellist; Adjutant Florence Eastin, pianist. These ladies and gentlemen arrived by the 7.30 train last night, and were met by the band of the Salvation Army. During the evening the band played "The Vesper Hymn March," and "The Vital Spark." The festival was a great success.

A Car on Fire

Hastings Star: On Thursday afternoon, while the way-freight going east was at the station here, a car of charcoal was discovered to be on fire and considerable excitement prevailed for about an hour. The car was taken to the tank where a large quantity of water was poured into it but apparently to no avail. After running it around the yard for several minutes, past the elevator and other cars, it was decided to call out the village fire brigade, which was done. After half an hour's work with the engine the fire was subdued enough to allow the charcoal to be shovelled out of the car when it was finally extinguished. The woodwork of the car was nearly all destroyed and also a considerable quantity of charcoal. How the charcoal caught fire is a mystery but it is supposed to have been loaded before it was sufficiently prepared and a live coal was the cause.

WORK HAS COMMENCED

Gang of Men Now at Work on the Street Railway

Work on the street railway has at last begun, a gang of men having been put to work repairing the car barn on King street. There are eight cars at the sheds, three open and five closed, besides the sweeper. The work of repairing and refitting the cars will be begun at once.

Superintendent Learmonth stated to The Times yesterday that work would proceed with vigor. The old track would be raised and graded, and everything put in first class shape.

INSURANCE RATES GO UP

Still Advance on Mercantile and Manufacturing Risks

Peterboroigh, like other towns and cities throughout the country, has got to contribute to the losses sustained by the great fires at Baltimore, Rochester and Toronto. The Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association has just issued a new tariff, and in it the rates in all but a few of the larger cities are raised. In Peterborough the increase amounts to 15c on mercantile risks and 20 per cent. on manufacturing risks. Rates for residences the same.

BOTH ROUTES SUGGESTED

An Ottawa Paper has Something to Say About Trent Canal

The Ottawa Journal says that,—An able-bodied move is being made by some Toronto and Hamilton newspapers to get the outlet of the Trent Valley Canal changed to Port Hope on Lake Ontario, instead of Trenton on the Bay of Quinte. Each proposition has its special advantages. The Trenton outlet would give to canal barges a sheltered passage through the Bay of Quinte to the head of the St. Lawrence at Kingston. The Port Hope outlet would give a somewhat shorter though more risky passage by water to the St. Lawrence, and a much handier access to and from the Trent canal from all Lake Ontario points west of the Bay of Quinte, including, of course, Toronto and Hamilton. How would it do to open up both routes? The point of divergence would be Rice Lake, which is comparatively near both outlets. Considering the amount of money the Trent canal scheme has taken and must take, why not put on a real record-beating top polish?

The strongest castle could be reduced by siege if the garrison could be starved out. The strongest body has to give up the fight when starvation weakens it. There are more deaths from starvation than the world dreams of. When the stomach is diseased and the food eaten is not digested and assimilated, then the strength of the body begins to fail because of lack of nutrition, and the weak body falls an easy victim to the microbes of disease.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores physical strength in the only possible way, by enabling the assimilation of the nutrition contained in food.

"I was sick for over three years with a complication of stomach troubles," writes Mr. John H. Castens, residing at 2925 Arch St., Chicago, Illinois. "Had tried every good physician I knew of, as well as many patent medicines, but received only temporary relief. One day a friend recommended your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I immediately procured some and began to use. Commenced to gain the first week, and after I had taken only one bottle I could eat as well as any one without experiencing ill effects. I took five bottles, and to-day am happy to announce that I am as well and healthy as any one could be. I owe it all to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains. You lose. Therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. A RARE CHANCE
FOR CANADIAN INVESTORS
THOMAS PATTERSON & CO.
BROKERS, PETERBOROUGH
HAVING BEEN APPOINTED CANADIAN FISCAL AGENTS OF THE
CRIPPLE CREEK ENTERPRISE GOLD MINING COMPANY
of Colorado, beg to inform their customers and investors generally that they have secured a block of stock of this Company, which they now offer for sale at 35 cents per share—par value $1.00.

This stock is bound to advance rapidly. All Shareholders are on an equal basis, no preferred stock. This is a proposition in all its details so simple that every shareholder will know at all times the value of his holdings. With the vast quantities of ore now in sight, and the facilities that will be put into operation to mine it, every dollar invested in this way may yield ten, twenty and a hundred fold. As has been chronicled in hundreds of instances in Cripple Creek, where persons have purchased stock in the early stages of a mine, the price at which the stock is offered is such a bargain that it cannot fail to be subscribed for at an early date, therefore investors should act quickly.

The shares are fully paid up and non assessable (no individual liability). Each and every share represents a distinct and liberal portion of an enterprise which it is fully believed will produce millions of dollars.

The Cripple Creek Company is splendidly officered by men of high repute and with an expert knowledge of mining in all its details. The Company was organized to operate in Colorado, and properly incorporated under the laws of that State.

In the incorporation of the Company 500,000 shares of the capital stock were set aside for development purposes, and cannot be used in any other way.

We will be pleased to give full particulars to investors, and would say in conclusion. Buy now! Get in on the ground floor, as the stock will quickly advance.

A CHRISTMAS APPEAL.

The Rev. W. F. Brownlee, Ridgetown, Anglican minister, has written the following letter to the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives:—

Dear Sir,—I fell in with a case to-day in my parish, a young woman very ill with consumption, and I promised I would write you regarding her entrance into the hospital for consumptives in Muskoka. The case is one of great necessity and charity. The applicant is about 18 years of age. She is practically without a home, staying at present with a relative. She is bright and amiable, and would like to live. As I understand, you reject none on account of poverty. I commend the case to you as one most needy, and if you can send me instructions or papers for application to the hospital, I will see to raising necessary means for her transportation and have her sent at once, as I imagine she is not beyond receiving benefit.

[Note by Editor.—Sir Wm. R. Meredith, Kt., Vice-President of the National Sanitarium Association, or Mr. W. J. Gage, Chairman of the Executive Committee, Toronto, will gladly receive contributions for this and several other equally piteous cases calling for help.]

THE MAIN FORCE OF THE JAPANESE ARMY SAID TO BE CONCENTRATED NEAR PORT ARTHUR WITH SIEGE GUNS

Russians Still Hold Newchwang--Japanese Will Attempt to Drive the Russian Fleet Out to Battle--St. Petersburg Dispatches Report Fighting at Port Arthur.

Shanhaikwan, May 13.—The main force of the Japanese army is said to be concentrated near Port Arthur with siege guns, and their intention is believed to be to attempt a repetition of the strategy of the naval and military forces of the United States before Santiago, and to drive the Russian fleet out to battle.

St. Petersburg, May 13.—Reports are widely current here that fighting is in progress at Port Arthur, but there is no official news confirming the reports. The Russians still hold Newchwang.

Shanhaikwan, May 13.—Firing is reported to have been heard today south of Newchwang.

London, May 13.—A St. Petersburg report represents the appearance of a Japanese torpedo boat in the roadstead of Pallada, on the north-east coast of Corea, as being far more important than was at first believed. It says that transports, accompanied by torpedo boats, have arrived there. This is supposed to indicate a landing near Vladivostock. Another report says it doubtful whether the vessels are transports or warships.

VLADIVOSTOCK IS FULLY PREPARED

Fortress is Ready to Withstand Siege.

RUSS BECOMES DESPERATE

Her Second Great Fortress Soon to be Locked Up.

London, May 14.—Although today's despatches from Vladivostock state that no Japanese in sight, private advices assert that the fortress is in a state of siege and that the section of the civil population not driven out by order of the Russian police has received official notice from the commandant as follows: "At the present critical moment all the resources not only of the army, but also of every resident in Vladivostock will hereafter be used, first of all in carrying out the military tasks confronting us. No resident, therefore, should any longer depend on the resources of the fortress or individual subsistence but must prepare at any moment to deprive himself of his own supplies, which may be confiscated by the military authorities.

Residents are further warned that any one remaining in the town may immediately be requisitioned for military service or manual labor in the fortress without guarantee of safety. Any resident leaving the fortress may take fresh supplies as he personally can carry at one time. He may remove any amount in a wagon with the exception of cattle and commissary supplies the removal of which is absolutely forbidden. Vacated hotels, schoolhouses, churches and private houses in Vladivostock have already been converted into barracks and supply depots. The town is confident of its ability to resist a long siege.

NEW TOURIST CARS

Splendid Addition to the Rolling Stock of the C. P. R.

The first eight of an order for twenty-five of a new type of tourist cars, have been placed by the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., on the runs between Boston, Montreal, Toronto, and Vancouver. They are the handsomest tourist sleepers ever built and are highly creditable to the C. P. R. Company's shops, Montreal, at which they were constructed. There magnificent cars are 72 feet long and contain fourteen compartments, seating fifty-six passengers. They have complete kitchen and toilet arrangements and spacious smoking rooms. In fact, with the exception of being upholstered in leather instead of plush or velvet and with interior fittings of birch instead of mahogany, they might easily be taken for first-class sleepers. A noticeable improvement over similar cars which have been previously turned out, is the arrangement of the seats, which are so constructed as to leave ample room beneath them for hand baggage. Tourist cars have always been a great feature of the C. P. R. equipment, and these new ones will make them more popular than ever amongst those who wish to combine economy with all the comfort that is possible to get while on the road.

An unusually fine set of publications descriptive of scenery, places of sport and district for settlement is being issued by the C.P.R. A handbook on glaciers is cleverly written by Geo. S. Vaux. The annual publication of fishing and hunting has been completely revised and will be issued soon. It is heavily illustrated. A new pamphlet on mountains deals exclusively with the country between Calgary and the coast. Others equally as good are also forthcoming, such as "New Highways," and a revised folder on the Imperial Limited train.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE TREATMENT

Peterborough, Ont., May 13th, 1904.

The following is a part of what was said at the Wednesday evening meeting in the First Church of Christ Scientist, 378 Aylmer street, May 11th. The first speaker was a lady, whom I am informed, had previously been a trained nurse, but a little over a year ago, was healed by Christian Science treatment of nervous prostration and decline, a trouble her brother, a druggist, had died with some years ago, her child also had been healed by the same treatment, for which she was very grateful to God and to Mrs. Eddy, through whom He had spoken to this age. Another lady, a devout Methodist, gave grateful testimony for the spiritual uplifting she had received through the study of the text book Science and Health, she laid off her use for eight years and now she can use as well as ever she could.

Another lady said her boy came from school very ill in a high fever, she just read to him from Mrs. Eddy's book and next morning he was alright. A gentleman stated he had been called that morning to a friend who had been suddenly taken down with pneumonia, when he reached the bedside the patient was delirious and in a heavy fever. The medicine of Christian Science, the Truth, as taught by Jesus Christ, was administered mentally to the patient, in half an hour he was resting quietly in sleep, in another half hour he awoke in his right mind, free from pain and knew those around him during the afternoon was resting quietly, although sore and weak.

Another lady read a clipping from the daily paper of the healing by Christian Science of Lord Dunmore of England, after all other means had failed.

What does this all mean? The people once said after listening to Jesus "We have seen strange things today." Luke: 5 chapt, 26 verse, also Acts 17, 20

BLIND GIRL IS A BRIDE

Marriage of Miss Mary McCloskey Reveal a Romance.

Chicago, May 14.—Miss Mary McCloskey, who has been blind five years, was married to William Couch yesterday by Father D. E. O'Reilly of the St. Ocelia Church.

The bride is a beautiful girl of 23 years. She and her husband met at a concert in Steinway Hall last August, given for the benefit of the blind. Miss McCloskey volunteered her services, being an accomplished pianist in spite of her blindness.

Mr. Couch attended the entertainment and became much interested in her. He sought and obtained an introduction and the courtship followed. Miss McCloskey lived at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Octavious Gibbs, of 332 West Forty-seventh street, where the wedding supper was served. The couple left last night for St. Louis.

THE VLADIVOSTOK FLEET BOTTLED UP?

Japs Report First Disaster--Torpedo Boat Blown Up by Mines Near Dalny--Russians Deny Rumor of Big Fight at Watung Tien, Where They Met Defeat

Special to THE TIMES.

Tokio, May 13.—The Japanese torpedo boat No. 48 was destroyed while removing mines from Kerr Bay, north of Talienwan (Port Dalny), yesterday. Seven men were killed and seven were wounded. This is the first warship Japan has lost in the war.

New-Chang, May 13.—The Russians deny the report circulated in London that a fight has occurred near Wafung-Tien, in which the Russians were defeated with great loss. No confirmation of the rumor is obtainable from other sources.

Special to THE TIMES.

Seoul, May 13.—The second Japanese army, numbering 70,000 men, left Chinampo on 83 transports on May 4. The soldiers were crowded on board the vessels in the closest manner, one ship having 3,800 on board. The men were so closely packed between the decks that exercise was impossible, and very little air was obtainable. But, in spite of these discomforts, there was no grumbling.

Every precaution was taken to prevent news of the departure of the army from leaking out. The residents of Chinampo were strictly disciplined, and no one was allowed to enter or leave the town. Three Americans, however, succeeded in escaping from Chinampo on board a junk. Twelve days later they reached Chemulpo.

London, May 13.—Of the great movement which Gen. Kuroki is supposed to be directing against Liao Yang, the only news comes from Russian sources. Much of this is two or three days old, and is apparently based on information from the natives. The position in the neighborhood of New Chwang is obscure. The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Standard reports that the Japanese are about to occupy that place.

According to the New Chwang correspondent of the Daily Mail, numerous bodies of Russian cavalry and infantry have been disposed in the vicinity of the town for the purpose of harassing, if not arresting, the overland movement of the Japanese. The nature of the country is favorable to such an object, which, if successful, will give Gen. Kouropatkin time to strengthen his position at Liao Yang. Reports from various quarters refer to the fortifications at Liao Yang as being very formidable. Many heavy guns command the railway.

St. Petersburg, May 13.—It is evident from a private letter written by an artillery officer at Port Arthur, dated April 20, that Gen. Stoessel, the Russian commander there, was then daily expecting the cutting off of his communications. The officer reported that everything was ready to withstand a siege, and expressed surprise that the enemy had delayed so long. He said the fortress was practically impregnable, adding that there was a triple row of forts around the Port Arthur plain, each position being fronted by a moat with a hedge of barbed wire beyond, with bombproofs behind all the batteries. The officer further declared that they had plenty of supplies and ammunition, and that the garrison was in excellent spirits and confident of holding out for nine months or a year against any number of enemy, if they possessed siege guns. Gen. Kouropatkin offered Gen. Stoessel reinforcements, but the latter declined them, saying that he had enough men, and did not care to run the risk of an epidemic as a result of overcrowding.

Trade Commissioner to Japan

New York, May 14.—After many months of court controversy and private negotiation, the legal battle for the $7,000,000 estate left by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Fair, who were killed on August 14, 1902, in an automobile accident, in France, was settled yesterday in a manner satisfactory to all parties interested. Although the terms of the settlement have not been made public, it is reported that each of Mrs. Fair's relatives received lump sums of cash, some of them getting as much as $500,000. It is said that $1,500,000 was turned over to Mrs. Hannah E. Nelson and her two sons, Wm. Smith and Abraham Nelson. Mrs. Nelson was the mother of Mrs. Fair, Mr. Smith, her brother, and Mr. Nelson, her step-brother

FEARS THE BRITISH NAVY

German Leader Urges Strengthening Fleet for the Kaiser's Defence

Berlin, May 14.—After the third reading of the navy budget in the Reichstag to-day Baron Von Kardoff asked Secretary of the Admiralty Von Tirpitz why the German naval authorities had done nothing in the direction of building submarine boats while all the other navies were experimenting with them. "The Russo-Japanese war," he said, "must warn us that our navy is far from what Germany must demand of its navy. Our navy must be made much stronger." He also said the British navy was growing dangerous for Germany.

Secretary Von Tirpitz answered that the naval authorities had made slight experiments, but even if they proved successful, submarine boats would not produce a great revolution so long as the problem of steering was not solved.

New York Central and Hudson River Railway Reduces Staff

Boston, Mass., May 11—Second Vice-President Egar Van Etten of the new York Central and Hudson River Railway received instructions yesterday to discharge 400 of the 5,400 men in the employ of the Boston and Albany division of that system before the close of the month. This is in line with the reduction of expenses being made on other Vanderbilt roads. Mr. Van Etten said: "Wages will not be reduced on the road, but it is intended to lay off the yards on trains, boilermakers, machinists, clerks and in every branch of the service where it is possible to get along with fewer employes."

He added that in common with other roads his company was feeling the recent slump in business.

Russia's Vladivostok Fleet Reported to be Bottled Up by the Enemy's Fleet, Scouting Vessels are Watching the Harbor, The Second Jap Army Moving

Special To THE TIMES.

The Russian squadron at Vladivostok is practically bottled up by the Japanese fleet. Japanese scouting vessels are watching the harbor.

It is asserted here that only one division of the second Japanese army will be landed on the Liao-Tung peninsula, and it is asserted that the rest of this army will land at Taku Shan.

London, May 13.—Japan today reports the first disaster to her navy since the war began. A torpedo boat was blown up while removing mines near Dalny, seven of her crew being killed and seven wounded.

Observations by Russian outposts make it appear that Gen. Kuroki is working westward, as his predecessors did in 1894-5. It is difficult to identify on the maps the strange spellings of the place names which appear in Russian reports. It is established, however, that the Russians believe the Japanese guard to be moving westward from Feng-Wang-Cheng toward Hai-Cheng. The road runs northwestward, cuts across two southward spurs of the Motien Mountains, and strikes the railway at Hai-Cheng. This town is an important road centre, is behind New-Chwang, and is only about twenty-five miles from Liao-Yang.

Simultaneously, Japanese troops are reported to be near Taku Shan and to be moving towards Siu Yeng. (This is another junction point for roads. A route leads from Taku Shan through Siu Yeng, to Hai Cheng. At Siu Yeng it is intersected by a road which runs northeastward to the Hai Cheng-Feng Wang Cheng road.

The Japanese thus seem to be moving by two roads upon Hai Cheng. At Siu Yeng they can establish lateral communication between their two columns by means of the cross road.

There is also a movement on foot, according to the Russians, toward Samaibra. If this is the same place as Samaja, the Japanese are moving against the Russian left flank. The Hai Cheng movement threatens the right of the Russian covering position on the Motien mountains. The left flank of that position ends at Samaja, and if the Japanese reach that place, they will be behind the mountains and will be at the head of the stream on which Liao Yang is situated.

It is now admitted officially at St. Petersburg that the whole of Dalny was destroyed, not merely the docks as intimated yesterday. It is also acknowledged by the telegraph department that communication with Port Arthur is impossible.

The Japanese have established a naval base at Port Lazaref, on Broughton bay, a short distance north of Gensan. The entrance of Port Lazaref is defended by mines.

Ald. Rush thought the clock should be better protected, and it should be kept in repair for $50 a year, which is now paid.

This was referred to the Property Committee for action.

From a number of ratepayers, asking that Cambridge street be opened up to form a continuation with Walton street. —Referred to the Board of Works.

From S. R. Armstrong, Returning Officer, giving the result of the voting on the by-laws on May 5th. —Received.

From John Corbett, King's Wharf, Emily, asking the mayor to use his best efforts to have the Pigeon Creek bridge repaired at once, and stating that the delay is causing great inconvenience to farmers in that vicinity.—This is being attended to by County and town.

From Jas. Irwin, asking for remission of taxes.—Relegated to the Court of Revision.

From W. H. Roberts, asking the town to provide a pound for impounding stray cattle.—Referred to the Board of Works.

From W. A. Littlejohn, City Clerk, Toronto, as follows: I have the honor to forward herewith a copy of a resolution adopted by the council of the Corporation of the City of Toronto, on the 25th instant, as follows: "Resolved, that this council, on behalf of the citizens of Toronto, take this the first available opportunity of placing on record its profound sense of gratitude, and of tendering its sincere thanks to the Municipal Corporation and Fire Department of the City of Peterborough for the generous and prompt response to the appeal sent to them for assistance on the occasion of the serious conflagration which destroyed a large portion of the central business district of this city on the 19th and 20th instant." The communication further stated that the foregoing resolution will be engrossed and forwarded at the earliest possible date.—Received.

From Boiler Inspector Geo. O. Robb stating that the steam fire engine is in good repair and ready for use when required.—Received.

FINANCE REPORT.

Ald. Adams submitted the above report, recommending payment of a number of accounts, which was adopted as read.

BOARD OF WORKS REPORT.

Ald. Best submitted the following report:

Gentlemen,—Your Board of Works beg leave to report as follows:

1. We recommend that the Treasurer be authorized to pay W. Hyslop $18.00 for painting the water carts in accordance with a certificate of the Town Engineer.

2. We recommend that notice be given of the intention of the council to close that part of Wolfe street east of George street, in accordance with a report of the Board of Works adopted by the council on March 7th last, the closing of the street to be considered by the council at its meeting on June 6th, next.

3. Your Board received a letter from the Peterborough Hardware Co., asking that all moneys held by the town on account of S. Kennedy's contract for sidewalks, be paid to them as Kennedy's assigns, but your Board cannot recommend any further action in this matter.

4. We recommend that Thomas Kelly be given permission to cut down four trees on Simcoe street and several on Downie street in front of his property.

5. We recommend that a 12-inch drain be constructed on Simcoe street from Water street to the creek, to carry away surface water.

6. We recommend that Stewart street, in Ward 5, be watered as far as Sophia street, and the property assessed for the expense at the same rate as other property.

7. We recommend that the Town Engineer be instructed to prepare a plan for numbering the houses in Ward 5.

8. We recommend that the Street Commissioner repair E. Vinette's fence on Lisburn street, which was injured by the snow plough and retain the expense from Z. Biolgett, the contractor for the now ploughing.

9. We recommend that the sale of six yards of stone to $1.50 a yard to J. O'Toole, be approved.

construction of granolithic sidewalks as local improvements having been examined and found to be sufficiently signed, we recommend that they be granted, namely:—

Chamberlain street, north side, from Alfred street to the C. P. R. track.

Dalhousie street, north side, from Stewart street to Bethune street.

Sherbrooke street, north side, from Stewart street to Bethune street.

11. The petition of Geore Monaugan and others for a granolithic sidewalk as a local improvement on Stewart street, west side, from Dalhousie to Townsend street was not sufficiently signed.

12. The petition of R. J. Huffman and others for a sewer on Park street, from Charlotte to King street was not sufficiently signed.

13. We have examined a petition for a sewer as a local improvement on Homewood Avenue, from Walton street to the Monaghan Road, and found it sufficiently signed and recommend that it be granted.

14. We recommend that the Street Commissioner be instructed to fill in the old fire protection water tank at the corner of Bethune and Antrim streets, and also to extend the water service in the corporation yard to the present position of the engine.

15. We examined several petitions objecting to the construction of granolithic sidewalks, of which the council had given notice and recommend that the council do not proceed with the construction of the sidewalks on Lake street, north side, from George to Aylmer streets, and on George street, west side, from Rink to Lake streets.

16. We recommend that the crossings on George and Water streets ordered last year, be put in without delay.

17. We recommend that the Matthews Co. be requested to erect a fence south of the C. P. R. track on the diversion of Wolfe street, all the way along the top of the bank, 8 feet high.

18. We recommend that permission be given to the Peterboorough Light and Power Co. to place three poles on Stewart street, between McDonnell and Murray streets, providing the company files a plan showing the location of the poles and subject to the approval of the Town Engineer.

19. We recommend that the request from Mr. J. Ballantyne for an approach to his property on Concession street be granted.

20. Having examined the petition from James Montgomery and others for the construction of a granolithic sidewalk as a local improvement on the west side of Bethune street, from Charlotte street to King street, and found it sufficiently signed, we recommend that it be granted.

21. We recommend that the chairman and Street Commissioner be requested to report on the advisability of purchasing a concrete mixer with authroity to go to Toronto for that purpose, and that the Treasurer be authorized to pay their expenses on the certificate of the chairman.

22. We recommend that notice be given of the intention of the council to construct sewers as local improvements on the following parts of streets: Sherbrooke street, from Bethune street to Stewart street; Park street, from Weller street to Cedar street; Park street, from Charlotte street to King street; Park street, from King street to Rink street; Antrim street, from George street west to No. 168 Antrim street; London street, from Downie street to Reid street and Dublin street, from George street to Aylmer street.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

His Worship recorded his exception to clause 2. He objected to the Matthews Co reducing the width of the new street from 66 feet to 45 feet. He thought when they were given permission to close Wolfe street and open up a new one they should be restricted to a 66 foot street which was the width of Wolfe street.

Ald. Best explained that there is but barely a 40 foot highway on Wolfe street to-day, the C. P. R's aiding taking up the difference between 66 and 40 feet.

His Worship replied that no street should be less than 66 feet in width. The town and council are responsible for any reduction from this standard.

His Worship also took exception to clause 5, referring to a surface drain on Water street, along Simcoe street to the creek. He was of the opinion that the placing of a trap midway in the block would answer all purposes. The water should certainly be caught on Water street.

These two clauses were referred to the Committee of the Whole, and the report was then adopted.

New York Central and Hudson River Railway Reduces Staff

Boston, Mass., May 11—Second Vice-President Egar Van Etten of the new York Central and Hudson River Railway received instructions yesterday to discharge 400 of the 5,400 men in the employ of the Boston and Albany division of that system before the close of the month. This is in line with the reduction of expenses being made on other Vanderbilt roads. Mr. Van Etten said: "Wages will not be reduced on the road, but it is intended to lay off the yards on trains, boilermakers, machinists, clerks and in every branch of the service where it is possible to get along with fewer employes."

He added that in common with other roads his company was feeling the recent slump in business.

High Class Investment

THE OREGON MINING AND SMELTING COMPANY

Offer to Canadian investors a limited amount of stock of the above company The property owned by the Company consists at the present time of about 500 acres, which are located in the Tarryall District and Park County, Colorado. This whole district has been known for years on account of its rich placer ground, and is now prominently before the public owing to the number of very good properties which have been opened up recently producing, principally, gold, and lately some that are producing Platinum. On the Oregon property there are a number of well known veins of low grade ore that will yield a profit by being treated on the ground of the company. The company have recently opened up a fine vein in the Hawkeye group and this vein shows not only good values but an immense amount of ore which alone would make the property very valuable. Assays from ore taken from various parts of this property range from a few dollars to $373 per ton in gold. We have very little silver, lead or copper in the district. The company have a shaft 240 feet deep, with a good shaft house thoroughly well equipped with all modern machinery to develop same. They are now driving a tunnel which is in about 700 feet and which will cut the Hawkeye vein about 300 feet deeper than where it is opened at present. There is enough ore exposed on the property of this company to keep them busy for a number of years and the reason for selling stock at the present time is to secure funds to build a mill. The company will probably join with the Almaden Company in building this mill. There is water enough to furnish water power and over 100 acres of fine spruce and pine timber. The affairs of the company have always been managed in a business-like economical manner and there are no officers' salaries. The monies received from the sale of stock go direct into the property.

I can heartily recommend this stock as safe, as well as an unusually good investment, because of the immense amount of ore which the company have already opened up. It is not a mere prospect, but the property has been developed by expense of a considerable amount of money and time.

The company is splendidly officered by men of integrity and high standing. The company has not pushed the sale of stock the last year owing to a delay in getting title to the ground from the Government, but now that has been satisfactorily adjusted and work will be pushed to a finish.

The number of exceedingly rich strikes which have been made during the last few weeks in the various camps in the State of Colorado is the best evidence of the prosperity of the mining business. Almost every camp in the state has opened up rich bodies of ore, and Park County is well in the lead in that line.

There are only $25,000 of stock for sale, at $1.00 per share. The company is capitalized at $200,000, and the advantage to the investor of selling the stock at par, is that every share is fully paid up and non-assessable.

BRITISH TROOPS ARE BESIEGED

EXPEDITION TO THIBET IS IN A VERY TIGHT PLACE

Gyang-Tse May 12.—The Thibetans have taken the offensive against the British mission camp here. From a foot about six inchjons away, they are steadily bombarding the camp, with a half-dozen guns carrying solid cannon balls of a pound weight.

Another large gathering of Thibetans is reported from the Rong Valley, and although the British communications in the rear are still open, the mission is practically besieged.

London, May 12.—The Indian Secretary, Mr. St. John Brodrick, informed the House of Commons today that the Government had decided that recent events in Tibet made it inevitable that the British mission must advance to Lhama, the capital, unless the Tibetans consented to negotiate at Gyang-Tse within a given date. The Chinese Ambassador has been notified to this effect.

At the same time, adds Mr. Brodrick the Government does not intend to depart from its policy regarding Tibet, as previously announced.

All the necessary measures will be taken to secure the lines of communication.

A CLOSE CALL

A Man in Brockville Swallowed His False Teeth.

Brockville, Ont., May 12—F. M. Scott, a leading dairyman of this section, retired Friday night and two hours later was awakened by a choking sensation. He quickly discovered that he had swallowed the plate holding his false teeth and that it had become lodged in his throat. He awakened members of the family and was driven to Prescott. The doctors there tried to remove the obstruction but were unable to get a grip on the plate. At the Ogdensburg City Hospital efforts to extricate the teeth were again made without success and after consultation it was agreed that an operation was necessary. By means of an opening in the neck the vesophagus was reached and the plate finally removed. The patient is still in the hospital, but will be able to leave in a few days. Scott suffered intense pain for six hours. The plate had three teeth attached and was so constructed that it presented somewhat of a wedge shape, thus being quite easily drawn into the throat.

Old Hagar's Secret

BY MRS. M. J. HOLMES

struck Madam Conway favorably. Arthur Carrollton knew that Maggie was unlike any other person, and the joke, she thought, would increase rather than diminish the interest he already felt in her. So she made no objection, and in a few days it was on its way to England, together with a lock of Hagar's snow-white hair, which Maggie had coaxed from the old lady, and, unknown to her grandmother, placed in the casing at the last moment.

Several weeks passed away, and then there came an answer—a letter so full of wit and humor that Maggie confessed to herself that he must be very clever to write so many shrewd things, and be withal so perfectly refined. Accompanying the package was a small rosewood box, containing a most exquisite little pin made of Hagar's frosty hair and richly ornamented with gold. Not a word was written concerning it, and as Maggie kept her own counsel, both Theo and her grandmother marveled greatly, admiring its beauty and wondering for whom it was intended.

"For me, of course," said Madam Conway. "The hair is Lady Carrollton's, Arthur's grandmother. I know it by its soft, silky look. She has sent it as a token of respect, for she was always fond of me;" and, going to the glass, she very complacently ornamented her Honiton collar with Hagar's hair, while Maggie, bursting with fun, beat a hasty retreat from the room lest she should betray herself.

Thus the winter passed away, and early in the spring George Douglas, to whom Madam Conway had long ago sent a favorable answer, came to visit his betrothed, bringing to Maggie a note from Rose, who had once or twice sent messages in Henry's letters. She was in Worcester now, and her health was very delicate. "Sometimes," she wrote, "I fear I shall never see you, Maggie Miller—shall never look into your beautiful face, or listen to your voice; but whether in heaven or on earth I am first to meet with you, my heart claims you as a sister—the one whom of all the sisters in the world I would rather call my own."

"Darling Rose!" murmured Maggie, pressing the delicately traced lines to her lips, "how near she seems to me!—nearer almost than Theo." And then involuntarily her thoughts went backward to the night when Henry Warner first told her of his love, and when in her dreams there had been a strange blending together of herself, of Rose and the little grave beneath the pine!

But not yet was that veil of mystery to be lifted. Hagar's secret must be kept a little longer, and, unsuspicious of the truth, Maggie Miller must dream on of sweet Rose Warner, whom she hopes one day to call her sister!

There was also a message from Henry, and this George Douglas delivered in secret, for he did not care to displease his grandmother-elect, who viewing him through a golden setting, thought he was not to be equalled by any one in America. "So gentlemanly," she said, "and so modest, too," basing her last conclusion upon his evident unwillingness to say very much of himself or his family. Concerning the latter she had questioned him in vain, eliciting nothing save the fact that they lived in the country several miles from Worcester, that his father always stayed at home, and consequently his mother went but little into society.

"Despises the vulgar herd, I dare say," thought Madam Conway, contemplating the pleasure she should undoubtedly derive from the acquaintance with Mrs. Douglas, senior!

"There was a sister, too," he said, and at this announcement Theo opened wide her blue eyes, asking her name, and "why he had never mentioned her before."

"I call her Jenny," said he, coloring slightly, and adding playfully, as he caressed Theo's smooth, round cheek, "wives do not usually like husband's sisters."

"But I shall like her, I know," said Theo. "She has a beautiful name—Jennie Douglas—much prettier than Rose Warner, about whom Maggie talks to me so much."

A gathering frown on her grandmother's face warned Theo that she had touched upon a forbidden subject, and as Mr. Douglas manifested no desire to continue the conversation, it ceased for a time, Theo wishing she "could see Jenny Douglas," and George wondering what she would say when she did see her!

For a few days longer he lingered, and ere his return it was arranged that early in July Theo should be his bride. On the morning of his departure, as he stood upon the steps alone with Madam Conway, she said: "I think I can rely upon you, Mr. Douglas, not to carry either letter, note or message from Maggie to that young Warner. I've forbidden him my house, and I mean what I say."

"I assure you, madam, she has not asked me to carry either," answered George; who, though he knew perfectly well of the secret correspondence, had kept it to himself. "You mistake, Mr. Warner, I think," he continued, after a moment. "I have known him long, and esteem him highly."

"Tastes differ," returned Madam Conway, coldly. "No man of good breeding would presume to cut up my grandfather's coat, or drink up my best wine."

"He intended no disrespect, I am sure," answered George. "He only wanted a little fun with the stars and stripes."

"It was fun for which he will pay most dearly, though," answered Madam Conway, as she bade Mr. Douglas good-by; then, walking back to the parlor, she continued, speaking to herself: "Stars and stripes! I'll teach him to cut up my blue bodice for fun! I wouldn't give him Margaret if his life depended upon it;" and sitting down, she wrote to Arthur Carrollton, asking if he really intended visiting America, and when

CHAPTER XIII.

During the remainder of the spring, matters at the old stone house proceeded about as usual, Maggie writing regularly to Henry, who as regularly answered, while old Hagar managed so adroitly that no one suspected the secret correspondence, and Madam Conway began to hope her granddaughter had forgotten the foolish fancy. Arthur Carrollton had replied that his visit to America, though sure to take place, was postponed indefinitely, and so the good lady had nothing in particular with which to busy herself, save the preparations for Theo's wedding, which was to take place near the first of July.

Though setting a high value upon money, Madam Conway was not penurious, and the bridal trousseau far exceeded anything which Theo had expected. As the young couple were not to keep house for a time, a most elegant suite of rooms had been selected in a fashionable hotel; and, determining that Theo should not, in point of dress, be rivaled by any of her fellow-boarders, Madam Conway spared neither time nor money in making the outfit perfect. So, for weeks the old stone house presented a scene of great confusion. Chairs, tables, lounges and piano were piled with finery, on which Anna Jeffrey worked industriously, assisted sometimes by her aunt, whom Madam Conway pronounced altogether too superannuated for a governess, and who, though really an excellent scholar, was herself far better pleased with muslin robes and satin bows than with French idioms and Latin verbs. Perfectly delighted, Mag joined in the general excitement, wondering occasionally when and where her own bridal would be. Once she ventured to ask if Henry Warner and his sister might be invited to Theo's wedding, but Madam Conway answered so decidedly in the negative that she gave it up, consoling herself with thinking that she would some time visit her sister and see Henry, in spite of her grandmother.

The marriage was very quiet, for Madam Conway had no acquaintance, and the family alone witnessed the ceremony. At first Madam Conway had hoped that Mr. and Mrs. Douglas, senior, together with their daughter Jenny, would be present, and she had accordingly requested George to invite them, feeling greatly disappointed when she learned that they could not come.

"I wanted so much to see them," she said to Mag, "and know whether they are worthy to be related to the Conways. But of course they are—as much so as any American family. George has every appearance of refinement and high breeding."

"But his family, for all that, may be as ignorant as Farmer Canfield's," answered Mag; to which her grandmother replied: "You needn't tell me that, for I'm not to be deceived in such matters. I can tell at a glance if a person is low born, no matter what their education or advantages may have been. Who's that?" she added quickly; and, turning around, she saw old Hagar, her eyes lighted up and her lips moving with an incoherent sound, not easily understood.

Hagar had come up to the wedding and had reached the door of Madam Conway's room just in time to hear the last remark, which roused her at once.

"Why don't she discover my secret, then," she muttered, "if she has so much discernment. Why don't she see the Hagar blood in her?—for it's there, plain as day;" and she glanced proudly at Mag, who, in her simple robe of white, was far more beautiful than the bride.

And still Theo, in her handsome traveling dress, was very fair to look upon, and George Douglas felt proud that she was his, resolving, as he kissed away the tears she shed at parting, that the vow he had just made should never be broken. A few weeks of pleasant travel Westward, and then the newly-wedded pair came back to what, for a time, was to be their home.

George Douglas was highly respected in Worcester, both as a man of honor and a man of wealth; consequently every possible attention was paid to Theo, who was patted and admired until she began to wonder why neither Mag, nor yet her all-discerning grandmother, had discovered how charming and faultless she was!

Among George's acquaintance was a Mrs. Morton, a dashing, fashionable woman, who determined to honor the bride with a party, to which all the elite of Worcester were invited, together with many of the Bostonians. Madam Conway and Mag were, of course, upon the list, and as timely notice was given them by Theo, Madam Conway went twice to Springfield in quest of a suitable dress for Mag. "She wanted something becoming," she said, and a delicate rose-colored satin, with a handsome overskirt of lace, was at last decided upon.

"She must have some pearls for her hair," thought Madam Conway, and when next Maggie, who, girl-like, tried the effect of her first party dress at least a dozen times, stood before the glass to see "if it were exactly the right length," she was presented with the pearls, which Anna Jeffrey, with a feeling of envy at her heart, arranged in the shining braids of her hair.

"Oh, isn't it perfectly splendid!" cried Mag, herself half inclined to compliment the beautiful image reflected in the mirror.

"You ought to see Arthur Carrollton's sister when she is dressed. If you think you look handsome," answered Anna, adding that "diamonds were much more fashionable than pearls."

"You have attended a great many parties and seen a great deal of fashion, so I dare say you are right," Mag answered, ironically, and then, as through the open window she saw Hagar approaching, she ran out upon the piazza to see what the old woman would say.

The Augusta Metal Mining Co.
Capitalized at $2,000,000.00.
Par value $1.00. Full Paid and Non-Assessable
At 75 Cents per Share

This company now owns the well-known Augusta mine and its extension for over 1000 feet in addition to other claims approximating a total acreage of 300 acres. This property has produced over $350,000 in gold, silver and lead ores and is a producer to-day. Has shipped ores of an average net value of $40 per ton for first class and $15 per ton for second class, all the past summer and the summer before smelter and mill returns of which are on file in our office.

Has immense bodies of these grades of ore, which cannot be exhausted in five years, already opened up and its main working tunnel is nearing completion, cutting the apex of the vein at a depth of 1,000 feet.

This block of shares is offered to enable the Company to connect the above tunnel with its concentrating mill and projected terminus of railroad by tramway, a distance of 11,320 feet, thereby permitting shipments during the entire year.

A production of at least 125 tons daily will be maintained when these improvements are made, and if completed in the early summer, dividends can be paid from ore settlements before this fall.

We offer for a limited time only a SPECIAL BLOCK OF 50,000 SHARES OF THE TREASURY STOCK of these Companies.

We reserve the right to reject subscriptions over and above the 50,000 shares offered. Each subscription to be booked as received.

Investigate to your heart's content, and quickly, then let us hear from you.

The Black Queen Gold Mining Co.
1,500,000 Shares. Par value $1.00. Full Paid and Non-Assessable.
Selling at 7 Cents a Share

Like its sister Company is today giving the best value for the money of any share offered.

This Company owns and controls over 300 acres of good mineral-producing ground, including the well-known Excelsior and Yankee Blade, which have produced upward of $170,000.

Tunnel B of the Black Queen Company is now going in at a rate of 100 feet per month, and early spring will see this work vieing with Tunnel A of the Augusta Company in its record of production.

Will cut known proven ore bodies 1100 feet from Apex, and open sufficient stoping ground to make an output of 100 tons daily.

Has already cut through a cross vein two feet in width of good marketable Galena ore, the point of intersection being 400 feet beneath the surface. We have 900 feet of this vein in length.

We can show you these facts and ask that you ask us to do so.

If your investment becomes profitable you will tell others; therefore it is much to our interest to have you make money on your investment.

DALNY DESTROYED BY THE RUSSIANS TO PREVENT JAPS LANDING.

Russians Blow Up Works Which Cost Millions--Viceroy Alexieff Reports That Docks and Piers Have All Been Destroyed

St. Petersburg, May 12. — Viceroy Alexieff has telegraphed to the Czar announcing that the Russians have blown up the docks and piers at Port Dalny, Liao Tung peninsula, presumably to render more difficult a Japanese landing at that point.

Dalny is situated on Talienwan bay, ten miles north of Port Arthur. Formerly the Chinese city of Talienwan, it was selected by the Russians to be the commercial metropolis of Manchuria. Its harbor is far more commodious than that of Port Arthur, and it formerly was ice-free, no matter how severe the winter. The apparent invulnerability of Port Arthur caused the Russians to retain it as their arsenal and military headquarters, but they planned a magnificent city at Dalny. The city itself was laid out, according to an excellent plan, and splendid docks and wharves were constructed. The bay itself is six miles long and six miles wide. "It is well protected from storms," wrote an American traveler a while ago, "and when the improvements now being made are completed will be one of the best harbors on the Western Pacific. The Russians are building breakwaters out from the shore, enclosing a space about two and a half miles wide facing the city. They are dredging to the depth of 30 feet between the breakwaters and are making a 30-foot channel out to the sea. They are also building piers for the steamers, arranging them so that the passengers can step from the cars to the ships, and so that baggage and freight can be cheaply transferred. They are putting up great warehouses. Near the western breakwater they have constructed a pier for vessels loaded with heavy cargoes, and are laying out lumber and coal yards, and building freight warehouses near by, and connecting them by switches with the main line of the railroad."

These improvements are said to have cost upwards of $20,000,000. To the bitter disappointment of the Russians the building of the breakwater had the effect of causing the harbor to freeze—thus losing the advantage which had caused the place to be selected.

No garrison was maintained at Dalny, but the heights commanding it and the bay are fortified.

Fully equipped with all modern improvements, docks, warehouses and railroad facilities, Dalny was opened to commerce in December, 1901. There were two big dry docks, one intended for ordinary ocean steamers, and the other designed to accomodate the largest vessels of war or commerce.

The city of Dalny consists first of the administration portion, in which are located railway shops, for making cars, etc., repair shops, shops for steamship construction and repair, with various offices of the port, steamships and railway, residences of mechanics and general employes, together with hotels, parks, churches, schools, clubs and places of amusement. Then there is the foreign residence section, joining the general mercantile section, but further off towards the hills and on gradually sloping higher ground, commanding a beautiful bay. Over $6,000,000 had been expended on the harbor system before the end of 1902. Dalny and Port Arthur were leased by the Chinese Government to Russia in 1898.

TO CANADIAN INVESTORS

I desire to call the attention of investors to the

Smuggler Gold Mining Co.'s Proposition

of which I am the authorized agent

Investments in mining stocks where they can be purchased cheaply whose property contains merit and whose directors are men of unquestionable honor and integrity, and especially when sufficient work has been done to guarantee a producing mine and the leads have been demonstrated to be permanent, offer the greatest opportunity for large returns from modest investments.

The shrewdest capitalists of England and America are giving more attention to mining properties and putting more money into them than at any time in the past history of the world.

The Smuggler Group consists of five full sized claims, to-wit:—The Smuggler, Gangon, Black Jack, Star and Bed Rock, located in the Greenhorn District of Eastern Oregon. Surrounding mines are Potosi, Pride of Pendleton, Bonanza and Rockefeller, developing work to the extent of 1,000 feet of tunnelling, drifts and crosscuts have been made, exposing hundreds of tons of high grade ore, averaging from $25 to $45 per ton, based on smelter returns, and for the purpose of equipping the mines a limited number of shares of Treasury Stock will be sold at 25 cents per share, the par value of which is $1.00.

ROBERT HARRISON
Manager,

THE WHITE RACE IS PLAYED OUT

Prominent College Professor Says Yellow Men will Soon Rule.

WE ARE LIVING TOO FAST.

Thinks Japan will Defeat Russia and Make Real the Real Yellow Peril.

Chicago, May 13.—"The success of Japan over Russia will mean the ultimate supremacy of the yellow race and final subjugation of the white. Every race has its day, just as every dog has his and the day of the white race is about done."

This is the conclusion drawn by Professor Frederick Starr, the anthropologist of the University of Chicago, in a lecture before his class in anthropology yesterday afternoon. Professor Starr has lately visited the seat of war and says that he was dumfounded to see there American and English missionaries praying for Japanese success.

"Russia is the ultimate hope of the white race" said he. "If Russia loses it will mean the annihilation of the white race. The white race has had its day. Statisticians have proved that one English child out of every 100 becomes a lunatic. This is because of the fast life that the English live. Their country is exhausted and their strength is on the wane. No better proof of this is needed than their recent experience with the little Boer republic.

RACE FOR WEALTH WEAKENS.

"So it is with all the European leading countries. They grope for wealth and live beyond their means. If Russia holds out the yellow peril will be staved off for a time. Before the war broke out I was under the impression that Russia would whip the Japanese in about three years. Now I can hardly say that I expect the Russians to win at all. Japan has too strong a foothold and Russia cannot transport troops fast enough. The best thing for Russia would be a peace treaty.

"Russia, I repeat, is the ultimate hope of the white people. There is a much better civilization there than most people believe. I cannot see why anyone should be more affected by hearing of the massacre of 300 Jews by the Russians in a day than to know that we lynch 300 negroes in a year here. The difference is that Russia massacred 300 Jews in the heat of passion in a day, while we go about it deliberately and by a gradual daily process kill the same number of negroes. It seems so easy to see what is going on in Russia, but how hard to see what is going on under our own noses.

FAILS TO UNDERSTAND SYMPATHY.

"I cannot understand why Americans and other white races are shouting for the Japanese. The Japanese are vastly different from the whites in religion, in customs and in the movements of thought. Japanese supremacy would mean the supremacy of the Japanese religion over the Christian religion. Americans do not realize that this war is a war of races and that in upholding the cause of Japan they are courting their own destruction. Americans are too hot tempered and too sympathetic. They are governed too much by their passions. They do not weigh the consequences and get down at the root of things.

"They have placed their sympathy with Japan not because their best interests advise it, but because Japan is the smaller nation. However, in the event of a Japanese victory, yellow supremacy will not necessarily mean a civilization of a lower type. The Japanese are a progressive and we, with foolish generosity, have taught them and continue to teach them all the art and industry they know. We should beware, then, lest this knowledge gained from us be turned against us."

DOURO COUNCIL.

The council met on call from the Reeve. Members all present. The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

Orders on Treasurer: Clerk $25, part of salary; David Condon, refund overcharge on school taxes, $1.19.

BY-LAWS PASSED. No. 617 — To amend the Douro Drainage By-law, was read a third time and passed. No. 618—To amend and confirm By-law No. 605 was read the usual number of times and passed.

On motion the council adjourned to the 30th May next, then to meet as a Court of Revision.

HIGH CLASS INVESTMENT

LA ZACUALPA RUBBER PLANTATION COMPANY

Incorporated Under the Laws of the State of California.

La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation is situated in the best location in Mexico for the cultivation of rubber. It has been known for a great many years as a very choice strip of rubber land and subsequent experience has shown that it is equal to all that has been claimed for it. The affairs of the company are in the hands of men of undoubted integrity and high reputation as successful men of business. To those seeking a safe investment which will secure a good income for life, this proposition offers a favorable opportunity

Shares in La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation are not capital stock of a corporation, and carry none of the responsibilities and obligations, or liability to assessment of capital stock; but represent an undivided interest in the plantation itself.

The twelve thousand acres comprising the plantation are divided into twelve thousand shares, each share representing one acre of land, and the holders of shares in La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation are the actual owners of one undivided acre of land, for each share held, with a guarantee expressed upon the certificate by La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation Company, under its official seal, to plant two hundred or more rubber trees per acre for each share sold, and to care for same for a period of five years, and at the expiration of that time to gather the first harvest and deliver the net proceeds thereof to the shareholder.

In other words, La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation Company sells to each shareholder one undivided acre of land in La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation, with two hundred or more rubber trees five years old, and their profits for all time, for each share sold, and agrees to plant so that the first harvest belonging to the shareholder is the one to be gathered from La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation during the sixth year from the date of the certificate.

After the delivery of the first harvest La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation Company will care for the plantation, and harvest and market the crop for ten per cent. of the net proceeds therefrom. Out of this commission the Company agrees to pay all costs of administration, including maintenance of its home and branch offices.

This plan gives the purchaser of shares an interest of definite acreage, and his proportionate share in the total yield of rubber from the entire plantation forever, making it absolutely certain that the interest of each shareholder will receive the same careful attention

Solicits the co-operation of reputable men in providing means for the thorough and rapid development of two large gold and copper mining estates, which are second to none in intrinsic value, and to this end extends every opportunity for determination as to whether statements made by the company are true or false.

The proposition when developed will pay no less than 50 per cent. per annum on the investment, and it behooves anyone who wishes to better his financial condition, to give immediate attention to this.

Full particulars in every detail will be given to all to whom such a proposition may appeal, but please do not ask for them unless you really are interested, because we waste your own time and ours also.

Capital $1,000,000, 500,000 Shares in Treasury

Property includes two great mining estates—one gold, the other copper—both containing wide, deep, proven veins of high and low grade ore.

Development work has been systematically carried on, with results that more than ratify every claim made by the company, and unquestionably proves the destiny of the property to equal that of the greatest successful mining companies of the world.

Above Statement Can be Easily Verified

The following two facts alone will give anyone familiar with mining a rough idea of the great value of the property.

The Copper King Group contains one vein 30 feet wide, 8 feet of which runs from $10 to $100 per ton, and the Company owns 9 000 feet on this vein.

Ore running from $18 to $50 per ton is continually being shipped from the gold property, and 24 sampler values from widely different portions of the vein system averaged $38 25 per ton.

FACILITIES—The Company owns 1,720 acres of placer and timber land. Water power of 500 (minimum) horse power. No expensive shaft work necessary, Ore easily treated on Company's property, thus saving freight and smelter charges.

DIVIDENDS—To begin earning and paying large dividends it is only necessary to erect two 50 ton mills, one on each property. To obtain funds for this purpose a limited amount of stock is offered at

75 Cents Per Share, Par Value $1.00

INVESTORS are afforded every opportunity for the strictest investigation regarding the property and the reputation of the officers and directors. Highest banking references.

NEW CHWANG EVACUATED

Japanese Troops Guarding Railway are to be Withdrawn and Replaced by Chinese

St. Petersburg, May 11. — Major General Pflug, telegraphing from Mukden under today's date, ascribes the report that New Chwang has been evacuated and that the troops guarding the railway are to be withdrawn, and to be replaced by Chinese, as being devoid of foundation.

London, May 12.—Lloyds Agent at New Chwang telegraphs, by way of Chefoo, under date of May 12, as follows:

Produce is arriving in gerat quantities from up the river. A fair amount of Manchester goods have arrived, but more would come if a British warship was here, which protect trade. New Chwang is in perfect order. I do not anticipate any trouble of fighting in this vicinity. Great credit is due to General Kondradovitch (in command of the Russian troops) and Civil Administrator Etsel.

THE ATTACK ON ANJU.

Tokio, May 12.—Latest details of the Russian attack on Anju last Tuesday state that the fighting lasted all day. Japanese reinforcements arrived from Ping Yang at one o'clock in the afternoon. The Russians retired on Wednesday morning with the approach of further Japanese reinforcements from Kusen. The Japanese are pursuing the Russians in the direction of Kai Chong.

The Japanese casualties at Anju were four killed and six wounded. The Russian casualties were about fifty. A Russian prisoner said that the Cossack raiders number 500.

Seoul May 12.—Infantry reinforcements reached the beleaguered Japanese troops at Anju at 6.50 o'clock on the evening of May 10. The garrison had fought fiercely for twelve hours, the men reserving their fire until the enemy were at close range upon each attempt to storm the gate. The Cossacks then retired over the eastern hills towards Yong Pyong, the provincial capital, having fifty killed and wounded among the dead one non-commissioned officer captured. The Japanese lost four killed and six wounded, besides one telegraph operator. The Japanese troops are now in pursuit of the enemy and an engagement is momentarily expected.

It is supposed that the Cossacks are part of the body which crossed the head waters of the Yalu near Chang Song and occupied Chong Ju. It is supposed that not knowing of the disaster which had attended their armies in the Yalu they are continuing to carry out their orders to harass the enemy and cut off communications, which would now be impossible with even a much larger force.

WARSAW.

Mr. Reg. G. Hendren has purchased a fine new gasoline launch which he has named the "Flying Dutchman." He intends running daily trips to Warminster, weather permitting. He is looking at present for a stoker.

A very unfortunate accident happened the other day. A herd of cows was passing along Queen street west, and one of our citizens stretched out to see them. His neck became fixed in that position and he was carried to the hospital on a stretcher. He now has his neck put up in a plaster of paris cast and looks very forlorn. We hope for a speedy recovery as he is a valuable citizen.

The fire alarm sounded on Tuesday morning and the heavy clang of the reels echoed along the pavement. Captain Will Hawthorne led the boys. Fireman Hendren lost his helmet and was thus handicapped. The fire was soon quenched with great vigor and quickness. Hot coffee was served after the fire.

Mr. G. W. Reid was of great service last week, when, single-handed, he attacked a herd of mad cows which was loose in the village, with no other weapon but a broom stick. The leather medal will be forwarded shortly.

The golf grounds are being fixed up and soon the young men and ladies will be resorting thither. The Warsaw Milling Company intend giving a silver cup to the best lady player in the city and suburbs.

Mr. Reg. G. Hendren is now sole agent for the Spalding tennis racquet and baseball outfits. Give him a call, boys.

Dr. Mitchell, Main street, has taken up canoeing as a side line and is very fond of it. As the Norwood correspondent remarks, this is a town of side lines.

Mr. Roland Kidd has accepted a position on the staff of the Warsaw Times and will in future look after the "Children's Corner" of that famous paper.

Mr. Charles Gow, late of the Times staff, is now engaged as correspondent for the Mount Hope and Elgin Arrow, and has purchased a machine for manufacturing poetry by the foot.

RUN ON A BANK IN QUEBEC CITY

WORKING PEOPLE BECAME NEEDLESSLY ALARMED

Montreal, May 12.—The extraordinary confusion of ideas prevailing among lower-class Quebec people on the subject of banking and savings institutions is shown by an incident which occurred yesterday in the industrial suburb of St. Roch, Quebec. The Notre Dame de Quebec Savings Society, which is a regularly constituted loan company, is the best old standing, was the victim of an extensive "run on the bank," which is ascribed entirely to public disquietude over the revelations in the Credit du Canada speculation.

Nearly $100,000 was paid out by the Notre Dame de Quebec with the assistance of other loan societies and banks which came to the rescue.

The officials are confident that the whole will be redeposited in the course of a few days.

BITTER UNION FIGHT

War Settled in Chicago that May be Far Reaching

Walkout of 300 Bookbinders May Tie Up Printing Trade

Chicago, May 13.—The printing industry in all the large cities of the United States in which the Typothetae has an organization may be affected as the result of the walkout yesterday of 300 union bookbinders because the Chicago branch of the Typothetae refused to sign an agreement for "closed shops." This view of the latest labor trouble in the printing trade in Chicago was expressed yesterday by Secretary Daniel C. Shelley, of the Chicago Typothetae, when he declared that conflict here between employer and employed was regarded as of such vital importance to the large employers in the printing industry throughout the country that the national executive committee of the United Typothetae of America had been called to meet in Chicago to-morrow to consider the local controversy. Employers from New York, Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Cleveland and St. Louis compose the executive committee and at its meeting, Secretary Shelley said, action may be taken that will result in a fight of a far reaching effect and the funds of the national organization may be placed at the disposal of the Chicago Typothetae to sustain it in its conflict with the unions.

WALKOUT AFFECTS 3 000.

The walkout of bookbinders yesterday affects sixty of the big printing houses affiliated with the Chicago Typothetae. It will involve fully 3 000 men and women, as 2,200 will be thrown out of employment as a result of the walkout of 800 men.

The members of the Typothetae assert they will stand out for the right to employ whomsoever they choose to the extent of shutting down their bindery plants, unless the unionists recede from their demand for a closed shop agreement. In asking for a closed shop the strikers are demanding for something that has not existed heretofore in the bindery industry, as a number of the big employers employ non-union as well as union binders.

Officials of the strikers' union are threatening an extension of the trouble until the other printing crafts are involved should the employers continue to operate their plants with non-union workmen.

STRIKE OF 30,000

Shipyards Workmen About New York Way Walk Out with Boiler-Makers.

New York, May 13.—Thirty thousand workmen in the shipyards in this city, Hoboken, Staten Island and Shooter's Island have agreed to strike in aid of 5,000 boilermakers, who have gone out in an effort to enforce their demand for the "closed shop." The Marine Trades council, representing many organizations of workmen employed in the yards, have decided, at a mass meeting, to order a general sympathetic strike whenever called on to do so by the strikers.

A FINE PRODUCT OF OHIO.

Sweets from the Maple Trees of Geauga County to Be Exploited at St. Louis Exposition.

An organized effort is to be made to show visitors to the St. Louis exposition what kind of sugar, sirup and confections are produced in the small county of Geauga, one of the least of the 88 in Ohio in population, and by no means great area. The sweets which come from the noble maple trees of the Geauga hills and little valleys will be displayed attractively and pushed for sale with energy and intelligence. The result, says the Cleveland Leader, will doubtless be a revelation to multitudes of Americans and nearly all the foreigners who test the maple products of Ohio.

Few normal human beings have to acquire a taste for such maple sugar, maple sirup, maple wax, and maple cream as Geauga county and several of its neighbors know how to make. The first sample wins its way. People differ much as to olives. Many people find it hard to learn to enjoy raw oysters Several popular food products gain favor slowly with many persons who come, in the end, to relish them greatly. But pure maple sweets, well prepared, are different. They make instant conquest of the average palate.

The trouble is, in many great centers of population, natural markets for large quantities of any fine food, that maple products, at their best, are hardly known. Doctored and half-spoiled maple sirup and maple sugar, so-called, kill the demand for anything sold under the same name. Imitations prevent the average consumer from understanding how delicious maple sweets can be, when they are well made. Hence the Geauga county undertaking at St. Louis will be a work of education.

Persons of nice and discriminating taste who once try Western Reserve maple sirup and maple sugar have little liking for any other. There are residents of distant cities who have Ohio sugar and Ohio sirup sent to their homes hundreds of miles away, because they cannot get such products of the maple tree anywhere else.

Such appreciation of honest Ohio sirup and sugar, made by the intelligent use of the pure sap of the splendid maple trees which nature planted thickly in many counties of this state, will be much wider and more general after the St. Louis exposition. Many more people will understand what Western Reserve maple products are and how far they outclass most of the stuff sold in other parts of the country as maple sirup and maple sugar.

In the end it will probably be regretted by the owners of farms in such counties as Geauga that more care has not been taken to save the beautiful and stately maples of Ohio. Too many have been cut down for firewood. There has been too much carelessness of the maple groves. A good deal of land has been cleared of fine maple timber which would have been more profitable than the crops grown where the forests used to stand.

Perhaps the appreciation of maple sweets may become so general and so keen that the market demand will lead to the planting and careful nurture of large numbers of maple trees, in the best sugar sections of the Western Reserve. That would be a good thing for the state. It would afford solid promise of much valuable timber, many years hence, as well as great crops of maple sugar and maple sirup.

BIT OF NATURAL HISTORY.

Peculiarities of the Owl Family by One Who Has Made a Study of Birds.

All owls are birds of prey, and according to their size and strength they hunt and kill all manner of creatures, from beetles and grasshoppers to grouse, Canadian hares and skunks. They capture and kill their prey with their feet, and tear it to pieces with their strong hooked bills. With the flesh of their victims they eat more or less of the fur, feathers and bones, and afterwards eject these indigestible parts from the mouth in the form of pellets, says Woman's Home Companion.

In size the American owls vary greatly, the giant great gray owl of the north measuring sometimes 30 inches from the tip of its bill to the tip of its tail, while the tiny elf-owl of southern California, southern Texas and Mexico measures often but five and one-half inches.

Most owls prefer the night and the and the few species which are the exception prove the rule. They are all strange-looking birds, but the strangest looking of them all is the barn-owl, or monkey-faced owl, as some people call it. This weird bird, which is found at least occasionally in almost all parts of the United States, has a faculty of hiding so skilfully in the old wells, deserted mine shafts, bell towers and hollow trees, in which it makes its home, that it is very seldom seen. The capture of a specimen often creates a stir in the neighborhood, many people regarding the captive as half bird and half monkey. Only a few weeks ago I saw a barn-owl described in one of the monthly magazines as a "freak of Nature." Its unbirdlike appearance is accounted for largely by the conspicuous facial disk, which is very light-colored, heart-shaped, and beset with black, almost human eyes and a down-turned, needle bill. Almost all the owls are beneficial to the farmer, but this one is more so than most of the others, preying chiefly on rats, mice, gophers, ground squirrels and cottontails.

THE GREAT WORK GOING ON IN MUSKOKA.

1,000 Patients Treated in the Two Muskoka Hospitals — the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Surprising Decrease of 25 Per Cent. in the Last Three Years in Deaths from Consumption.

Fifty-five Different Trades and Professions Represented by the Patients Admitted to the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Two Pavilions have had to be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds, and the Number of Patients Reduced from 75 to 50.

$25,000 Wanted this Year to Carry on this Great Work.

With a view of helping to bring to the attention of the public the needs of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have pleasure in publishing the following letter, in which an appeal is made for funds.

Dear Friend,—

It again becomes necessary to make an urgent appeal for funds for the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

A very heavy debt is pressing upon the trustees.

In addition to this, funds must be provided for the maintenance of patients. Last month there was a deficiency of nearly $1,500 over and above receipts from all sources.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives was opened eighteen months ago. 225 patients have been admitted.

No patient has ever been refused admission because of his or her poverty.

1,000 patients have been cared for in the two Muskoka Hospitals, the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The majority of these have either been cured, or so helped that they have been enabled to again become bread-winners for the family.

The public are beginning to find evidence of our work.

Already there has been a decrease of nearly 25 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption in the Province of Ontario.

The last report of the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health shows that in the last three years the deaths from consumption in Ontario have decreased from 8,484 to 2,694, a decrease of 790, or nearly 25 per cent.

This is the more gratifying when we remember that for a number of years previously the same report showed a steadily increasing death-rate prior to 1899.

Who will doubt that the work of our two Hospitals in Muskoka, and the persistent educational campaign carried on, has not helped to secure this surprising result?

In what better way can your gifts bring so good a return?

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 50.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

Very truly yours,

W. J. Gage

Thousands Annualy Cured by Catarrhozone

MR. ARCHIBALD BASS, of New Harbor, writes; "Catarrhozone proved itself a remarkable remedy in my case. I suffered terribly from catarrh in the throat and my nose was so stuffed up every morning I could hardly draw my breath. The mucous dropped back into my stomach, upset my digestion and kept me sick all the time. Catarrhozone relieved in a short time and cured perfectly."

MRS. W. F. BREACH, of Chapman, writes; "I have used a great many catarrh remedies but none of them ever helped like Catarrhozone. It cleared out my nose and throat and stopped a ringing noise in my ears. Catarrhozone is very pleasant and simple to use and many times better than any other catarrh remedy."

MR. LAWRENCE KENNEDY, of New West Annan, says; "For three years I tried doctors but my catarrh grew worse and worse. I got no relief till I used Catarrhozone. It was not very long in curing me so perfectly that the disease has never returned."

MR. JOSEPH De ROCHE, one of the most prominent and highly respected citizens of Loggieville, N.B., says; "I used Catarrhozone for a sore throat, cold in the head and head ache. I always felt relief immediately. It cured the discharge from my nose and restored my sense of smell lost through the effects of catarrh."

Catarrhozone is simple, convenient and pleasant. It is warranted to instantly relieve and permanently cure.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

In Memory of the Late Rev. Kenneth McLennan

The following paragraph from the Quebec Chronicle, will be of interest to many in Peterborough. The Rev. Kenneth McLennan was for some years pastor of St. Andrew's Church:

A very imposing and largely attended memorial service was held at St. Andrew's Church, Levis, yesterday morning, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Mr. McCuaig. During the service a memorial tablet was unveiled to the memory of the late Rev. Kenneth McLennan, former pastor, who was the instigator of the building of the present new church. The names were also coupled of the late Rev. Duncan Anderson, one of the late and faithful pastors, the late Captain Davie, who for many years was the ruling elder of the congregation, the late Mrs. J. T. Turnbull, who so generously supported the cause by her donation in her late will, and the late Major Patton, who for many years was a faithful member of the congregation. All the much lamented deceased passed away recently, and it was fitting that the service of the nature held yesterday should commemorate the memories of these departed friends. A large number of the friends of the deceased assisted at the service, and among those present were, Lieut.-Col J. T. Turnbull. Rev. Mr. McCuaig, the pastor, delivered an eloquent and highly interesting discourse. The text of the address was taken from the Prophecies of Zechariah, 1st Chapt, 5th Verse, "Your Father's Where are They?" Miss Bessie Laverie rendered the solo "Behold Me Standing at the Door," in touching style.

Very Sudden Death

On Thursday evening a man named Chas. Gravelle, of Chemong, who has been boarding at 281 Townsend street, for the past week, dropped dead from heart failure. He was 64 years of age and had been employed in McDonald's mill. He had been in apparently good health up to the time of his death, and the news was a sad shock to his relatives at Chemong. The body was taken home the same night, and will be interred in Ennismore cemetery.

Baby Costs Too Much

When the price paid is the mother's health and happiness. The father doesn't realise as he romps with the child what years of wifely suffering must be set against the baby's laughter.

Chronic invalidism is a high price to pay for the painful joy of maternity, yet it is at such a cost that many a woman becomes a mother. Such a price is too much, because it is more than nature asks.

By the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription maternity is made practically painless, and a quick convalescence is assured in almost every case.

"I am pleased to give my testimony and wish I could find words strong enough to induce other sufferers to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. Wesley Coy, of Kenansville, Out., Box 6. "For eight years after my little boy was born I suffered with female weaknesses, also nervousness to a degree, especially on my right side, and pain in back. Had so miserable sensations did not know what I was going to do. Tried several doctors but derived no benefit until I began using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Have only used four bottles, also some of Dr. Pierce's Anti-pain and Healing Suppositories, when I felt like another person. I recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines to all my friends. If anyone wishes to write me I will gladly answer."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription contains no alcohol and is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" does so to gain the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines. His profit is your loss; therefore, accept no substitute.

SYSTEMIC CATARRH
SO LITTLE UNDERSTOOD

Claims Many Thousands. A Tragedian's Thanks to Pe-ru-na.

ROBERT DOWNING, THE FAMOUS TRAGEDIAN.

In speaking of Peruna, Robert Downing, the famous tragedian, says:

"I find Peruna a preventative against all sudden summer ills that swoop upon one in changing climates and water. It is the finest traveling companion and safeguard against malarial influences.

"You may notice that persons in poor health always find the heat most intolerable; this I avoid by using Peruna. I know by the thermometer that the weather is hot, yet I have felt the heat less this summer than ever.

"The cooling action of Peruna on the mucous membrane makes it invaluable to actors and singers, as it does away with that tendency to sudden hoarseness so apt to overtake one on emerging from a hot dressing room to a draughty stage.

"To sum it up, Peruna has done me more good than any tonic I have ever taken."—Robert Downing.

Dr. Hartman was the first physician in the United States to accurately describe systemic catarrh. His remedy Peruna, the only systemic catarrh remedy yet devised, is now known all over the civilized world. A person having used it once can never be persuaded to be without it when in need of such a remedy.

HAVING BEEN APPOINTED CANADIAN FISCAL AGENTS OF THE

of Colorado, beg to inform their customers and investors generally that they have secured a block of stock of this Company, which they now offer for sale at 35 cents per share—par value $1.00.

This stock is bound to advance rapidly. All Shareholders are on an equal basis, no preferred stock. This is a proposition in all its details so simple that every shareholder will know at all times the value of his holdings. With the vast quantities of ore now in sight, and the facilities that will be put into operation to mine it, every dollar invested in this way may yield ten, twenty and a hundred fold. As has been chronicled in hundreds of instances in Cripple Creek, where persons have purchased stock in the early stages of a mine, the price at which the stock is offered is such a bargain that it cannot fail to be subscribed for at an early date, therefore investors should act quickly.

The shares are fully paid up and non-assessable (no individual liability). Each and every share represents a distinct and liberal portion of an enterprise which it is fully believed will produce millions of dollars.

The Cripple Creek Company is splendidly officered by men of high repute and with an expert knowledge of mining in all its details. The Company was organized to operate in Colorado, and properly incorporated under the laws of that State.

In the incorporation of the Company 500,000 shares of the capital stock were set aside for development purposes, and cannot be used in any other way.

We will be pleased to give full particulars to investors, and would say in conclusion. Buy now! Get in on the ground floor, as the stock will quickly advance.

JAPANESE OCCUPIED KWANTIENSIEN AND DISPERSED RUSSIANS

Japs Troops from Feng-Wang-Cheng Occupied Suoyn, 60 Miles East of Liao-Yang, on Thursday.

Tokio, May 15.—A detachment of Japanese troops has occupied Kwan-Tien-Sien, sixty miles northeast of Feng-Wang-Cheng.

On Thursday last a detachment of Japanese attacked and dispersed 300 Russian cavalrymen and captured a wounded officer and two men. The Russian cavalry was retiring from Tuch-Li-Chan.

Shan-Haj-Kwan, May 15.—Japanese troops from Feng-Wang-Cheng occupied Suoyin, 60 miles east of Liao-Yang, on the mail road, on Thursday. Their number is not known. The country is hilly.

Mukden, May 15.—Polatien, near Port Adams, on the Liao-Tung peninsula, has again been occupied by the Japanese. Communication with Port Arthur is interrupted.

BRITISH NOW AT LHASA

The Thibetans will Soon be Forced to Sue for Peace with Great Britian

Special To THE TIMES.

London, May 16.—Colonel Younghusband has advanced to the outskirts of Lhassa and within a day or two will be in possession of the sacred city. The British forces are purposely delaying their advance on the capital, in order to give the Thibetans an opportunity of suing for peace. The latest folly of the Thibetans in butchering eight servants of the Younghusband mission but emphasizes the necessity for the expedition, and the salutary lesson it must proceed to teach the ignorant and arrogant Lamas. At Guru they forced fighting upon the British and the result of that engagement should have convinced them of the futility of armed conflict with the Gurkhas of Nepal, the flower of the Indian army. It was, as the London Express observes, as though a flock of sheep butted a group of lions, and it speaks in highest praise of the discipline of the Indian troops that that the whole force was not exterminated. Nothing stirs the fury of gallant fighting men so madly as to be wantonly shot down by people they despise. The lesson taught the priestly fanatics of Lhassa has already been a sharp one, but it must be continued.

The fray furnishes a perfect illustration of the arrogant ignorance and overweening folly of the lamas. If they possessed the least accurate knowledge of the true strength of India they would be aware of the indomitable pluck and martial quality of the Gurkhas, men who come from a neighboring country to Thibet. The physique and bearing of the Sikhs speak for themselves.

It is pitiable to think of the lives thrown away in defence of the Lhasa myth. At one time the foolish report was widely circulated that the British force would melt away like snow in May beneath the curses of the praying wheels. But Gen. Macdonald and Col. Younghusband continued to advance. The advance was purposely a slow one, in order to give the recalcitrant Mongols plenty of time to come to terms. The delay has been attributed to fear, with the results that have been recorded.

The London paper quoted doubtless expresses the full determination of the Indian Government, when it says the myth of Lhasa must be destroyed, just as, six years ago, Sir William Lockhart killed the tradition that Tirah, the upland home of the Afridi, was impregnable; and Sir Bindon Blood burst up the bogey of Huner. In 1897-8 the Indian Government explained to the Pathan tribesmen in the most practical manner possible that wherever they went, the Indian army could follow, and now the lamas of Lhasa must learn that they are not beyond the reach of the long arm of the British raj. So long as they behave themselves and respect British interests and British rights they will be left unmolested, but never again in the old delusion that their seclusion is due either to fear or to weakness on the part of their powerful neighbors to the south.

Russian rifles have been found in the hands of the Lhasa escort. The recent truculence was inspired by the belief that the Czar stood at their right hand. The sanctity of Lhasa is purely priest created. The Jerusalem of the Buddhist religion is in India at Bodh-gaya, near Patna, where Buddha lived, and where in the court yard of the great temple stands to-day a lineal descendant of the famous fig tree beneath whose shade sat Buddha when he taught the people.

ANGLO-SAXON VS. SLAV

Methodist Delegate's Cheer Prophecy of Conquests for supremacy

Los Angeles, May 15.—To-day, before us, we see The Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack, side by side. And we fervently pray that these two great banners shall thus continue to float, so that when the great conflict between the Anglo-Saxon and the Slav shall come, these two great nations shall control the destinies of the world."

Enthusiastic applause greeted this declaration before the Methodist general conference to-day. The speaker, was Wm. R. Warnock, a lawyer from Urbana, Ohio, and a lay delegate in the Cincinnati Conference. He introduced Rev. William Dodson, of Nova Scotia fraternal delegate from the Methodist Episcopal church of Canada, who made a speech containing many witty passages, yet serious in its general tone, and advocating liberalism is religion.

"In Canada we believe," said Dr. Dodson, "that no church or man has a right to say another to believe that which cannot be construed into thought. A church has no right to ask a man to believe a thing that is in conflict with finite truths determined by science."

VAST UNDERGROUND LAKE

Two Million Gallons of Water Taken from it Daily

London, May 16.—The contractors' men who are at work in Spring Gardens have struck, what was at first believed to be a part of the great lake which underlies London.

Engineers, however, after investigation, have come to the conclusion that the water is too near the surface to come from the lake and that it is the output of the old spring from which the place takes its name.

"This vast underground lake," said a prominent engineer, "extends not only under the whole of London but as far as Westminham on the one side and St. Albans on the other. It is a natural reservoir, which, in London, is being gradually depleted.

"Private individuals alone take from it by means of artesian wells 10,000,000 gallons of water a day and it is calculated that in consequence the level of the lake drops every year from twelve to eighteen inches.

"Breweries, too, absorb a large quantity of this water supply.

"There is no danger in future years of any subsidences occurring through the exhaustion of the water, as its presence or absence has no effect on soil above."

The depth at which this water is struck by well sinkers varies. In Tottenham court road it was found at 1,750 feet and in London Wall it was reached at 450 feet underlying strata of chalk, flint, gray sand and surface clay.

BATTLESHIP TO STAY

American Expert Opinion Regarding Big Fighting Ship

Washington, May 16.—A Washington burea chief, well versed in the details of naval construction, says:

"Senator Hale is quite strong in trying to back up his statements by the results of the Russo-Japanese war as far as it has gone. In the first place, returns are very meagre so far, and even those that we have, while they show most effective work of the torpedo boats and small craft, by no means put the battleship in a bad light.

"If it had not been for the Japanese battleships outside of Port Arthur her torpedo fleet would not have been able to stay there a day, and would not have had the opportunity to prove its effectiveness. The Russian battleships would have come out and destroyed the entire fleet of small boats without trouble had they not been afraid of the Japanese ships that were there of equal size and power.

"It is just as unfair to say that the battleship is not effective as it would be to say that the land forts at Port Arthur were unnecessary and useless simply because they could not go out and pursue the enemy.

"If the results of the far Eastern war are to be taken as examples from which to draw conclusions in this matter, the very best that can be said for the battleship is the fact that the Japanese who have been so successful with small boats, are continuing to build big battleships, and at present are trying to add more of them to their navy as soon as possible. From this it is to be inferred that the Japanese, who are engaged in actual warfare, have no doubt as to the efficiency of big battleships and the advisability of having plenty of them in their navy."

JAPS COVERING THEIR TRACKS

Pursuing the Same Course as They Did in the Last War.

WILL BEAT OLD RECORD

The Doom of Port-Arthur Sealed as Surely as it Was in Chinese War.

When the Japanese landed at Pitsewo, the Times made some comparison of dates and places between the present campaign and that against the Chinese in 1894.

Now it has obtained fuller and more precise data which makes the parallel even more close and significant. On Oct. 24 1894, the Japanese landed at Hyayan, a harbor twenty or thirty miles east of Pitsewo, though some of the scout ships had recommended the latter place.

By Oct. 29, the army had marched to Pitsewo. After four days' rest, it marched across the peninsula to Kinchow which was taken by assault, Nov. 6.

There was no Dalny at that time but the forts commanding the bay of Talienwan at that point were evacuated and occupied by the Chinese the next day. From Dalny they advanced to Port Arthur, over twenty miles of extremely difficult ground, occupied two weeks, the fortress being taken by assault, Nov. 21, with a loss of less than 360 men.

So far the Japanese have made far more rapid progress than ten years ago. Landing May 6, four days brought them to Dalny, which cannot hold out for long, if it is not already in their hands. The remaining advance will be more difficult than it was in 1894, because the Russians have erected new fortifications with modern guns; but it must not be forgotten that the Japanese power of attack has been increased as much if not more than the strength of the defence.

Comparison of the two campaigns on the Yalu is no less interesting. The Chinese were defeated at Ping Yang almost simultaneously with the naval victory of the Yalu. Ten days later, Sept. 26, the passage of the Yalu was forced at the same place and almost in the same way as it was done on May 1.

The leading of the second army above Pitsewo was made six days later, exactly as happened this year. At that time the march of the Yalu army was delayed till after the capture of Port Arthur. Feng Wang Chang, already in the hands of the Japanese was not taken in 1894 until Dec. 15. Niuchwang, already evacuated by the Russians, was not taken then until March 4, by the Port Arthur army advancing by way of Kaiping, which was taken Jan. 10. Unless the defence of Port Arthur should be very stubborn, it seems probable that the Japanese will beat their record of 1894.

Che Foo, May 16.—After a cruise along the eastern coast of the Liao Tung peninsula, a dispatch boat, Fawan, returned to port this morning. The whole of Port Arthur is carefully patrolled by the Japanese fleet. Torpedo boats are protecting the landing of troops. The boat was stopped three times by Japanese cruisers. Officers were sent on board and the despatch boat's papers examined. The boarding officer acted with the greatest courtesy and having satisfied himself that all was correct immediately released the boat. Transports are still engaged in landing the details of the second army near Pitsewo. It is estimated that 41,000 men have already disembarked. The Fawan was forbidden to approach the coast and warned against floating mines. Six of these dangerous neighbors were sighted. Fighting is in progress daily on the peninsula, but the details are kept secret. One of the Japanese officers who boarded the Fawan said that he understood from some of the army men that the Russians showed up poorly as fighters. "We are amazed at the Russian army," he said. "It is no better than the Chinese." A joint naval and military attack on Port Arthur is expected about May 16.

MANY DEER DEAD

Hundreds Die of Hunger and Cold During the Last Winter

A correspondent writes the Times that many deer have died during last winter in the northern woods. While out prospecting he counted over thirty dead deer. The habit of the deer is to keep to the runaways and browse along them, but in this long, severe winter the fodder close to the runaways gave out and then the deer starved. He came across dead bodies everywhere. Often they had waded out into the deep snow towards other trees, and, overcome by weakness, sank down and died where they were.

In Haliburton county this was bad enough, but it is said that in the French River district it was much worse. There the unfortunate deer died by the thousands. It is said that the lumbermen saved hundreds of them. Hunger drove the animals right up to the camps, where they were not molested, but allowed to feed at the hay-tacks.

JAPANESE OFFICERS IN CANADA

Victoria, B.C., May 16.—On the Empress of India, which arrived yesterday were Capt. Fujii, fleet engineer of the Japanese Imperial Navy and F. Suzuki, naval constructor of the navy. They state that their mission is a secret, but it is understood they are going to England to inspect two large warships of 16,000 tons each, being built by Vickers and Armstrong for the Japanese.

ICEBREAKER FOR THE ST. LAWRENCE

Government Expects To Have One Working Next Spring

PROBABLE TYPE OF BOAT

Mr. John Kennedy Thinks it will be of the Canadian, not the Russian Pattern

Montreal, May 6.—Mr. John Kennedy, the chief engineer of the Harbor Board of this city, has for some years been advocating the placing of an ice breaker upon the St. Lawrence at this point, in order to keep the harbor open for a considerable period later in the fall, as well as to expedite the opening of navigation in the spring. In connection with this, some two or three years ago, he made several voluminous reports. Some little time ago, these reports were forwarded to Ottawa; and the cabinet yesterday, decided to act in accordance with the suggestions contained therein. It was decided to ask for a vote for placing an icebreaker upon the St. Lawrence and it is expected that it will be ready for use this spring.

When interviewed, Mr. Kennedy pointed out that the Government already had a number of icebreakers at different point inland and on the Northumberland Straits. Some are stationed at Mackinaw, some in the Detroit River, and some at Quebec. These are vessels heavily constructed with powerful engines, and having a spoon shaped bow. Contrary to the general opinion, these vessels break the ice by the force of their impact, and not by running up on the ice and breaking it beneath them. Mr. Kennedy, while he could not say what kind of vessel would be employed, thought it extremely probable that the new vessel would be similar to those at present in use.

"An icebreaker, with a screw in front," he continued, "has been in use by the United States for some years. The late Admiral Makaroff, when visiting the United States some years ago, became so enamoured of this type that on his return to Russia, the Ermak, a vessel of this kind, was constructed with a screw in front. Similar icebreakers were built for Lake Baikal; and it was expected by the late admiral that they would be able to keep navigation open at that point throughout the winter. It was largely owing to the failure of this type that the Russians have experienced so much trouble at that point with the Trans-Siberian Railway.

"The Ermak," Mr. Kennedy continued, "was recently sent to England where a bow of a kind similar to those in use on the Canadian icebreaker was built upon it at the yards of the Armstrong Ship-building Company. So," concluded Mr. Kennedy, "it is not likely that the Canadian Government will adopt that kind of a boat."

Mr. Kennedy had no doubt as to the practicability of the plan.

BEAUTIFY THE LAWN

A Few Spring Like Suggestions From The Times

By cleaning up your vacant lot and rendering your back yard less obnoxious to your neighbors you will be doing something that will be appreciated by the general public.

Make up your mind to be the president, secretary, treasurer and general manager of the One Man Improvement Society. Then show the people of the town in which you live that the society is hustling to make it a beautiful place, to the extent of its ability.

Have a talk with your friends and ask them to join in the movement. Tell them that you hear Peterborough well spoken of by visitors and that the better the name it gets abroad the more will it be appreciated as a place of residence.

Tell them that the humblest home can be made attractive by the exercise of a little care and thought in the planting of flowers and shrubbery.

Let all good resolutions with respect to the adornment of your surroundings materialise in work that will please the eye and mark you as a progressive citizen.

Endeavor by object lessons to convince the doubter that there is room for improvement here, there and everywhere.

ATHLETIC WORLD

BY OUR SPORTING EDITOR

Although the weather man in his ethereal observations had failed to predict an ideal day for the opening of the baseball season here Saturday afternoon, there was quite a number present eager to see what kind of a showing Manager Whitcroft's ball team was going to make in the Midland League. It rained throughout the match and was everything but baseball weather, the grounds being very sloppy and slippery, but the boys made a favorable impression, as the visitors are touted to be pretty fair ball players, and came down with the "we're sure to win," in the top of their hats, but it stopped up in the air, the Peterborough boys having the big end of the score, 5—3.

The game was booked for 2.30 but was delayed for a couple of hours in hopes that the weather would prove more favorable. It was agreed that five innings was sufficient ball playing under the circumstances, and the players got into the game, the visitors going to bat first. It was thought that it would be a slugging match, but the men in the box kept remarkable control of the ball and allowed but few safe hits. The fielding of both teams was good but the locals were fastest and took in all opportunities offered except Sheridan's error in the first innings, when he failed to catch a very difficult fly batted out by Nicholson, who succeeded in getting first being the only one to get home. Flaherty striking out Lamont, McMahon and Tooley. In Peterborough's first the boys began to feel Evans the visitor's twirler, from the start, but were not planting them out for safe hits. Sheridan went to bat first, made a hit, but did not reach first. Graham got his base on balls and Simpson slamed one out to right field, which was taken in. Graham stole second. Cawthorne went to bat but did not hit safe. In the second Flaherty allowed two to take first on balls, Evans hit and was the only one to get home.—2. The locals tallied three in the second, Whitcroft placing a good one that brought in J. and T. Pilling, Flaherty the score 3—2. The visitors added one and the locals two to their number. Bellegham reached home number and Bellegham reached home in the fourth and Chris. Graham in the fifth. In the fourth Leak made a wild throw to second to prevent Bellegham getting the base safe but the error allowed him to reach third and got home on a wild throw from centre field.

NOTES.

Whitcroft brought down a good fly at second.

In the fourt Lamont and Leak both chased a foul with the usual result—neither got it.

Flaherty pitched his usual steady game, and can puzzle the best of them.

Simpson stamed out a couple into the field.

Graham made a nice bunt.

Manager Whitcroft placed a safe one just between second and first.

Evans, for the visitor, pitched a pretty fair game, but did not receive as good support as Flaherty.

The usual number of "tin-horns" were on the fence.

SOME POINTED CRITICISM.

The Liverpool Mercury says: "It is in no way surprised that among the thousands who emigrage to Canada there are a few who come back disappointed. (Possibly they found the public houses somewhat sparsely distributed over the prairies or they may have been grieved that there were no penny electric trams to carry them to work. As a certain percentage of fools emigrate to Canada we must expect a number of the unwise voyagers to come back plucked."

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

JAPANESE ADVANCING ON RUSSIAN POSITION A BATTLE IMMINENT

Kouropatkin Cannot Know Whence Attack will Come--A Rumor in Paris That Port Arthur Has Fallen

Today's despatches make it clear that the Japanese are advancing towards Liao-Yang on a very broad front. They are:

(1) Pressing up the direct road from Feng-Wang-Cheng to Liao-Yang. They are nearing the big mountain pass, which is situated at Liau-Shan-Kwan.

(2) Working in force along the two or three westward roads which lead to Hai-Cheng, and so turn the right of the Russian position on the Motien Mountains.

(3) Moving northeastward, towards the Russian left at Kwan-Tien, Sinsaja, and other points, near the northern end of the Motien Mountains.

It must be difficult for Gen. Kouropatkin to judge which of these is the real attack. If he concentrates at Hai-Cheng, the Japanese may curl around the other end of the mountains and strike in behind him at Liao-Yang. If he concentrates further east and north, the whole southern end of the railway may fall easily into Japanese hands.

London, May 16.—A telegram from Paris says a rumor is current there that Port Arthur has fallen, and that 10,000 men were killed during the engagement.

Nothing confirmatory is obtainable in London.

Shan-Haj-Kwan, May 16.—A parcel which left Port Arthur on May 10 arrived here today, apparently confirming the report that communication with Port Arthur has been restored.

There is only vague rumor here of Japanese movements.

It is stated that the heavy losses sustained by the Russians in the battles on the Yalu was due to the inability to control the soldiers. They were ordered merely to develop the enemy's strength, but they rushed headlong against a superior force, and were crushed back by a sheer weight of numbers.

New Chwang, May 16.—The Japanese troops continue landing at Pitsewo, and the railroad has been cut again, 17 miles of track being gone. Communication, however, for that distance has been kept open by the aid of carts. The Port Arthur mail is about 36 hours old when it gets to New-Chwang. This morning a few more troops left, and moved to the Russian camp, three miles east of the city, which is now practically unprotected. Two correspondents went over the entire town last night, and did not see a single sentry on duty. The natives are growing more restless, as the Russians continue to move out.

New-Chwang, May 16.—There is a persistent rumor here of a sharp fight between the Russians and Japanese near Liao-Yang, which it is impossible to confirm officially. Otherwise, according to the latter authentic information regarding the movement of the Japanese army, it is believed that if the three divisions have passed through Feng-Wang-Cheng toward Liao-Yang, they would have to go through the difficult mountain pass of Hao-Tien-Ling, where they would be forced to turn back. It is not believed that they would attempt this now, but rather turn toward New-Chwang, establishing a base there and using the Liao River to get above to Mukden.

The censor here is passing almost nothing in the form of news, and correspondents are threatened with explsion. The Russian agent is watching the telegraph offices on the railway between New-Chwang and Shan-Hai-Kwang, and reporting all messages filed to the local censors.

Supplies are being rushed out of this place, and the Russian authorities are busy dismantling the gunboat Sivouch, preparatory to her ultimate destruction.

St. Petersburg, May 16.—The army organ is disinclined to believe that Hai-Cheng is the Japanese objective. It says the division of guards now marching in that direction probably will swerve northward toward Liao-Yang, followed by the forces now at Saiyan-Chow, and combining with the division reported to be at Sanatzi mark a combined attack on Liao Yang.

The Novoe Vreyma's expert estimates the force advancing against Liao-Yang at 100,000 men, with 50,000 horses and 275 guns, and believes the Russians are retiring upon their base. "It is a critical and anxious moment," the paper continues, "General Kouropatkin allowing the enemy to take the offensive, watching for a favorable moment to strike a decisive blow."

GERMAN ARMY IN SOUTH AFRICA

Astonishing Mismauagement of the Campagin Changed

OFFICERS BADLY TREATED

Officers Have to Pay a Tax Duty on Swords on Going to Fight

Berlin, May 16.—The "Taegliche Rundschau" publishes a letter from German Southwest Africa, giving some astounding details of mismanagement in the campaign against the Hereros.

When the officers arrived at Swakopmund states the writer, their baggage was subjected to strict customhouse examination, and the owners were compelled to pay duty on the stores of tinned foods, wine and cigars they had brought from Germany.

This was bad enough but the officers were also required to pay duty on their swords and revolvers. The soldiers sent from Germany underwent the same examination, and had to pay duty on all sorts of articles necessary for the campaign, with the result that, while reinforcements were urgently needed in the interior of the colony, to save the besieged garrisons from destruction by the Hereros, the troops were detained at the coast for several days.

In some cases where the soldiers were unable to pay the heavy duty demanded their clothes and other articles necessary for a winter campaign were taken from them and they were sent to the front with a totally inadequate outfit.

When the officers commanding the troops telegraphed to the governor, Colonel Leutwein, vigorously protesting against the action of the German officials, the colonel replied advising them to conform to the laws of the colony.

London, May 13.—The Star correspondent has had an interview with Mr. William Irvine, till lately Premier of Victoria, Australia, regarding the Chamberlain movement. Mr. Irvine, who is a strong free-trader, said that he saw no reason why the Australian protective duties should not be reduced to meet Mr. Chamberlain's proposals, without in any way hurting the industry which Australia has built up.

Montreal May 14.—"I have travelled over 7,000 miles through India recently to investigate the conditions in the lepar districts of that country. The sights I saw were pitiable, one can hardly realize the loathsomeness of the fell disease that is working such havoc among the natives of that country."

These were the words of Mr. John Jackson, of London, England, a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, to a press representative at the Bath Hotel today. Not only has Mr. Jackson an interesting personality, but he is filled with enthusiasm for the alleviation of some of the suffering of the homeless, hopeless, helpless thousands, who are bound in the chains of the terrible disease—leprosy.

Continuing, Mr. Jackson said:

"There are over a quarter of a million lepers in INdia. They are scattered all over the country. Bengal is the most leprous province but Bengal is only a very small section of what might be termed a country rotten with leprosy. The civil authorities are trying to cope with the dread disease. Civil authorities, however, have their hands tied to a certain extent, and it remains for the philanthropic to care for the suffering and tend to the lepraus.

Halifax, N.S., May 16.—Considerable stir was caused in the dockyard yesterday afternoon on the receipt of news that H.M.S. Ariadne, the flagship of Admiral Douglas, had received orders at Bermida to proceed to Bluefields in connection with the trouble there. The cablegram states that the Ariadne will leave for Blyefields on Monday. She will, it is expected, be there two weeks and will come from there to Halifax.

BUYING OUT OF TOWN

Messrs. J. J. Turner and Sons Complain of Action of Council

To the Editor of The Times:

Dear Sir,—We notice in the accounts presented at the meeting May 12th, one from John Leckie, Toronto for $35.00 for not to use at fires. We offered to supply this very same net to the corporation at the same price, $35.00, delivered here, and we would have made a few dollars out of it, but it seems that our own Council prefer to ignore merchants living in their own town, and who are paying taxes and helping to build up the town, and prefer buying in Toronto. Rather a bad example for our City Fathers, and especially business men, to set the community at large. You often hear the merchants say "It is too bad to see people send or go to Toronto to buy their supplies," when when some of these very same merchants are members of the Town Council, but they buy in Toronto. It seems to us these members' motto is, "Don't do as I do, but do as I tell you." We have a good town, and we, as citizens, ought to uphold its good name, but we certainly think the Council should set the good example and buy goods from their own merchants.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space, we remain.

Respectfully yours,
J. J. TURNER & SONS.

LONG WARS TOO EXPENSIVE

The insistence of Russian officials that the present war will be a long one has the appearance of a lame excuse for Russian defeats and general unpreparedness rather than a prediction based on actual conditions.

Already both nations have placed war loans—Russia to the amount of $200,000,000 and Japan one-fourth of that sum. The bonds sold respectively for 98 and 93 cents and draw interest at the respective rates of 5 and 6 per cent. The fact that the Russian bonds brought a better price although bearing a lower rate of interest than the Japanese issue, did not necessarily indicate belief in financial circles of ultimate victory, for the campaign to date, despite the military resources of the empire, does not justify such a conclusion.

A reasonable inference is that the purchasers of the bonds do not expect the war to be a long one, for the cost of modern warfare is so enormous that a long drawn out contest threatens bankruptcy for all but a few nations, and Russia can scarcely be included in the list, because her resources are taxed to the utmost in times of peace, and another straw upon the backs of her peasantry would break them down or drive them into a revolution born of hunger and despair.

The estimated cost of the present war to Russia is $750,000 a day, so that the amount derived from the recent bond issue would only last about five months, at the end of which time a second Russian war loan might go begging. There is no reason to believe it could be placed at anything like the favorable terms of the first loan, unless the military situation in Manchuria were completely reversed, and that seems highly improbable.

The Japanese, on the other hand, may have to pay a higher rate of interest, but if they shall maintain their naval and military supremacy it is probable that they can float war loans in Great Britain as long as the war lasts. Even the comparatively small cost of carrying on a war so near its main base is a heavy tax upon a nation as small as Japan, and conditions would seem to indicate that the financial outlays demanded in the warfare of to-day will be a strong factor in shortening the duration of the present struggle.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A Chicago woman secured a divorce the other day thirty-six minutes after filing her bill. This may justly be regarded as rapid transit to single blessedness.

It is said that "General Kuropatkin's telegrams indicate irritation on his part." He may get real mad if this sort of thing keeps up.

As the assessors would say, the Russian army in Corea is entitled to classed as a going concern.

The threatened strike of waiters at St. Louis was foreseen long ago by all who are familiar with labor union methods, for it was certain that when the fair was inaugurated and the hotels and restaurants were overflowing the labor unionists would not let such an occasion pass to extort money from their employers and raise the prices on the bills of fare.

Kuropatkin may now "assume the offensive," says a despatch and every body must admit that he has had sufficient provocation.

NEW TOURIST CARS

Splendid Addition to the Rolling Stock of the C. P. R.

The first eight of an order for twenty-five of a new type of tourist cars, have been placed by the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., on the runs between Boston, Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver. They are the handsomest tourist sleepers ever built and are highly creditable to the C. P. R. Company's shops, Montreal, at which they were constructed. These magnificent cars are 72 feet long and contain fourteen compartments, seating fifty-six passengers. They have complete kitchen and toilet arrangements and spacious smoking rooms. In fact, with the exception of being upholstered in leather instead of plush or velvet and with interior fittings of birch instead of mahogany, they might easily be taken for first-class sleepers. A noticeable improvement over similar cars which have been previously turned out, is the arrangement of the seats, which are so constructed as to leave ample room beneath them for hand baggage. Tourist cars have always been a great feature of the C. P. R. equipment, and these new ones will make them more popular than ever amongst those who wish to combine economy with all the comfort that is possible to get while on the road.

An unusually fine set of publications descriptive of scenery, places of sport and district for settlement is being issued by the C.P.R. A handbook on glaciers is cleverly written by Geo. S. Vaux. The annual publication of fishing and hunting has been completely revised and will be issued soon. It is heavily illustrated. A new pamphlet on mountains deals exclusively with the country between Calgary and the coast. Others equally as good are also forthcoming, such as "New Highways," and a revised folder on the Imperial Limited train.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE TREATMENT

Peterborough, Ont., May 13th, 1904.

The following is a part of what was said at the Wednesday evening meeting in the First Church of Christ Scientist, 378 Aylmer street, May 11th. The first speaker was a lady, whom I am informed, had previously been a trained nurse, but a little over a year ago, was healed by Christian Science treatment of nervous prostration and decline, a trouble her brother, a druggist, had died with some years ago, her child also had been healed by the same treatment, for which she was very grateful to God and to Mrs. Eddy, through whom He had spoken to this age. Another lady, a devout Methodist, gave grateful testimony for the spiritual uplifting she had received through the study of the text book Science and Health, she laid off her use for eight years and now she can see as well as ever she could.

Another lady said her boy came from school very ill in a high fever, she just read to him from Mrs. Eddy's book and next morning he was alright. A gentleman stated he had been called that morning to a friend who had been suddenly taken down with pneumonia, when he reached the bedside the patient was delirious and in a heavy fever. The medicine of Christian Science, the Truth, as taught by Jesus Christ was administered mentally to the patient, in half an hour he was resting quietly, in sleep, in another half hour he awoke in his right mind, free from pain and know those around him during the afternoon was resting quietly, although sore and weak.

Another lady read a clipping from the daily press of the healing by Christian Science of Lord Dunmore of England, after all other means had failed.

What does this all mean? The people once said after listening to Jesus "We have seen strange things today." Luke 5 chap, 26 verse. also Acts 17 20

My appetite was poor and my color was pallid, indicating that my blood was too thin. I found Ferrosone just what I needed. It increased my appetite and made me stronger. The feeling of languidness disappeared. After using Ferrosone a few weeks I felt like a new woman. It made me as strong and healthy. No medicine did me so much good as Ferrosone."

AN APPEAL TO THE FASHIONABLE SET IN CANADA.

"Lally Bernard," the Well-known Toronto Journalist, Writes from England of the Battle Against Consumption in Muskoka.

Lally Bernard, of the editorial staff of the Toronto Globe, writing to that paper from London, England, where she is now a resident, shows most clearly that the battle against the great white plague is one that should interest all classes of the community. It will be remembered that this writer entered incog. as a patient in the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, and afterwards in the Globe told of real life in that institution. In her present article she says:

"To-day I have found a letter at the club which nearly missed me, having been addressed 'Lally Bernard.' May I express to my unknown correspondent my warmest thanks for the kindly appreciation for the little I have been able to do in the battle being waged against tuberculosis in Canada. The need of sympathy and interest is a tremendous one, and I am always puzzled when I find really well educated and intelligent people in Canada so criminally ignorant of the extent of the danger, and the means which are being taken to combat it.

"It may be of some interest to those who feel as I do in regard to the responsibility which rests upon each and all to aid in this fight against a most insidious foe, when I tell them, that here in London, where I have been for only a few days, I have already come across the dread enamy four times. First of all, in the back garden of our humble quarters in Kensington I espied, when morning dawned, a tent with two beds in it. I enquired of our landlord why the tent was there, and was told a long story about the coronation and quarters for some boys coming up from the country, and that he, the landlord, had subsequently found it more agreeable to sleep in the tent than in the basement bedroom he had formerly occupied. A little later, in conversation with the lady who secured the lodgings, I learned that the landlord's son was obliged to sleep in a tent! Comment was needless.

"In looking for quarters I found a charming home of a young doctor and his wife, where extraordinarily moderate terms were asked for really exceptionally good accommodation. The doctor in question had been 'ordered south,' and his wife had to keep the house going by accepting 'paying guests.'

"Yet again, in the third place, I found that the lady who was at the head of the establishment had not only lost her husband from the dread disease, but had managed one of the most fashionable sanitariums in England, and her knowledge of the treatment and the extent of the problem in England showed me how tremendous was the need for care and watchfulness in our own country.

"May I ask my correspondent to use all possible influence to make the question of combating tuberculosis one of interest to the 'fashionable set' to which she evidently belongs. I know full well, from the little experience I have had, how tremendously a little genuine interest and help might lighten the burden now resting on the shoulders of the authorities of the Free Hospital for Consumptives at Gravenhurst. It is, of course, far away from wealthy centres, and out of sight is to be out of mind.

"I can quite understand that until people have seen forty or fifty patients together in different stages of consumption they do not realize what an immense amount of aid might be given by those who are fortunate enough to be free from the disease and by those who have little else to do than to invent or learn some new form of recreation.

"Mrs. Torrington has kindly promised me to try and get musical societies and people interested in music to provide a piancle for the Hospital, and I feel sure it will be of immense benefit to the patients. Surely my correspondent who evinces such sympathy with the cause could make that sympathy take a practical form and organize a hospital library where books worth reading might be supplied, with some system similar to that of the Aberdeen Association, which has done such excellent work."

[Note.—Readers—and may their number be many—who desire to assist in the work of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives may send their gifts to Sir Wm. R. Meredith, Kt., Vice-President, National Sanitarium Association, Toronto, or Mr. W. J. Gage, Chairman of the Executive Committee.]

High Class Investment

THE OREGON MINING AND SMELTING COMPANY

Offer to Canadian investors a limited amount of stock of the above company The property owned by the Company consists at the present time of about 500 acres, which are located in the Tarryall District and Park County, Colorado. This whole district has been known for years on account of its rich placer ground, and is now prominently before the public owing to the number of very good properties which have been opened up recently producing, principally, gold, and lately some that are producing Platinum. On the Oregon proper y there are a number of well known veins of low grade ore that will yield a profit by being treated on the ground of the company. The company have recently opened up a fine vein in the Hawkeye group and this vein shows not only good values but an immense amount of ore which alone would make the property very valuable. Assays from ore taken from various parts of this property range from a few dollars to $373 per ton in gold. We have very little silver, lead or copper in the district. The company have a shaft 240 feet deep, with a good shaft house thoroughly well equipped with all modern mach nery to develop same. They are now driving a tunnel which is in about 700 feet and which will cut the Hawkeye vein about 300 feet deeper than where it is opened at present. There is enough ore exposed on the property of this company to keep them busy for a number of years and the reason for selling stock at the present time is to secure funds to build a mill. The company will probably join with the Almaden Company in building this mill. There is water enough to furnish water power and over 100 acres of fine spruce and pine timber. The affairs of the company have always been managed in a business-like economical manner and there are no officers' salaries. The monies received from the sale of stock go direct into the property.

I can heartily recommend this stock as safe, as well as an unusually good investment, because of the immense amount of ore which the company have already opened up. It is not a mere prospect, but the property has been developed by expense of a considerable amount of money and time.

The company is splendidly officered by men of integrity and high standing. The company has not pushed the sale of stock the last year owing to a delay in getting title to the ground from the Government, but now that has been satisfactorily adjusted and work will be pushed to a finish.

The number of exceedingly rich strikes which have been made during the last few weeks in the various camps in the State of Colorado is the best evidence of the prosperity of the mining business. Almost every camp in the state has opened up rich bodies of ore, and Park County is well in the lead in that line.

There are only $25,000 of stock for sale, at $1.00 per share. The company is capitalized at $200,000, and the advantage to the investor of selling the stock at par, is that every share is fully paid up and non-assessable.

VLADIVOSTOCK IS FULLY PREPARED

Fortress is Ready to Withstand Siege.

RUSS BECOMES DESPERATE

Her Second Great Fortress Soon to be Locked Up.

Berlin, May 14.—Although to-day's despatches from Vladivostock report no Japanese in sight, private advices assert that the fortress is in a state of siege and that the section of the civil population not driven out by fear of the famine prices has received official notice from the commandant as follows: "All the strength and resources not only of the army, but also of every resident in Vladivostock will henceforth be used, first of all in carrying out the military tasks confronting us. No resident, therefore, should any longer depend on the resources of the fortress for individual subsistence but must prepare at any moment to deprive himself of his own supplies, which may be confiscated by the military authorities."

Residents are further warned that any one remaining in the town may immediately be requisitioned for military service or manual labor in the fortress without guarantee of safety. Any resident leaving the fortress may take fresh supplies as he personally can carry at one time. He may remove any amount in a wagon with the exception of cattle and commissary supplies the removal of which is absolutely forbidden. Vacated hotels, schoolhouses, churches and private houses in Vladivostock have already been converted into barracks and supply depots. The town is confident of its ability to resist a long siege.

BLIND GIRL IS A BRIDE

Marriage of Miss Mary McCloskey Reveals a Romance.

Chicago, May 14.—Miss Mary McCloskey, who has been blind five years, was married to William Couch yesterday by Father D. E. O'Reilly of the St. Cecelia Church.

The bride is a beautiful girl of 23 years. She and her husband met at a concert in Steinway Hall last August, given for the benefit of the blind. Miss McCloskey volunteered her services, being an accomplished pianist in spite of her blindness.

Mr. Couch attended the entertainment and became much interested in her. He sought and obtained an introduction and the courtship followed. Miss McCloskey lived at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Octavious Gibbs, of 332 West Forty-seventh street, where the wedding supper was served. The couple left last night for St. Louis.

hands in astonishment, she involuntarily dropped upon her knees, and while the tears rained over her time-worn face, whispered "Hester's child—my granddaughter! Heaven be praised!"

"Do I look pretty?" Margaret asked; and Hagar answered: "More beautiful than any one I ever saw. I wish your mother could see you now."

Involuntarily Maggie glanced at the tall marble gleaming through the distant trees, while Hagar's thoughts were down in that other grave—the grave beneath the pine. The next day was the party, and at an early hour Madam Conway was ready. Her rich purple satin and Valenciennes laces, with which she hoped to impress Mrs. Douglas, senior, were carefully packed up together with Maggie's dress; and then, shawled and bonneted, she waited impatiently for her carriage, which she preferred to the cars. It came at last; but in place of John, the usual coachman, Mike, a rather wild youth of twenty, was mounted upon the box. His father, he said, had been taken suddenly ill, and had deputed him to drive.

For a time Madam Conway hesitated, for she knew Mike's old great failing, and she hardly dared risk herself with him, lest she should find a seat less desirable even than the memorable brush-heap. But Mike protested loudly to having joined the "Sons of Temperance" only the night before, and as, in his new suit of blue, with shining brass buttons, he presented a more stylish appearance than his father, his mistress finally decided to try him, threatening all manner of evil if, in any way, he broke his pledge, either to herself or the "Sons," the latter of whom had probably never heard of him. He was perfectly sober now, and drove them safely to Worcester, where they soon found themselves in Theo's handsome rooms. Her wrappings removed and herself snugly ensconced in a velvet-cushioned chair, Madam Conway asked: "How long before Mrs. Douglas, senior, would probably arrive?"

A slight shadow, which no one observed, passed over Theo's face as she answered: "George's father seldom goes into society, and consequently his mother will not come."

"Oh, I am so sorry," replied Madam Conway, thinking of the purple satin, and continuing, "Nor the young lady, either?"

"None of them," answered Theo; adding hastily, as if to change the conversation, "Isn't my piano perfectly elegant?" and she ran her fingers over an exquisitely carved instrument which had inscribed upon it simply "Theo," and then, as young brides sometimes will, she expatiated upon the kindness and generosity of George, showing, withal, that her love for her husband was founded upon something far more substantial than family or wealth.

Her own happiness, it would seem, had rendered her less selfish and more thoughtful for others; for once that afternoon, on returning to her room after a brief absence, she whispered to Mag that "some one in the parlor below wished to see her."

Then, seating herself at her grandmother's feet, she entertained her so well with a description of her travels that the good lady failed to observe the absence of Mag, who, face to face with Henry Warner, was making amends for their long separation. Much they talked of the past, and then Henry spoke of the future; but of this Mag was less hopeful. Her grandmother would never consent to their marriage, she knew—the stars and stripes had decided that matter, even though there were no Arthur Carrollton across the sea; and Mag sighed despondingly as she thought of the long years of single-blessedness in store for her.

"There is but one alternative left then," said Henry. "If your grandmother refuses her consent altogether, I must take you without her consent."

"I shan't run away," said Mag. "I shall live an old maid, and you must live an old bachelor, until grandma——"

She did not have time to finish the sentence ere Henry commenced unfolding the following plan.

It was necessary, he said, for either him or Mr. Douglas to go to Cuba; and, as Rose's health made a change of climate advisable for her, George had proposed to him to go, and take his sister there for the winter. "And, Maggie," he continued, "will you go, too? We are to sail the middle of October, stopping for a few weeks in Florida, until the unhealthy season in Havana is passed. I will see your grandmother to-morrow morning—will once more honorably ask for your hand, and if she still refuses, as you think she will, it cannot surely be wrong in you to consult your own happiness instead of her prejudices. I will meet you at old Hagar's cabin at the time appointed. Rose and my aunt, who is to accompany her, will be in New York, whither we will go immediately. A few moments more and you will be my wife, and beyond the control of your grandmother. Do you approve my plan, Maggie, darling? Will you go?"

Maggie could not answer him then, for an elopement was something from which she instinctively shrank, and with a faint hope that her grandmother might consent, she went back to her sister's room, where she had not yet been missed. Very rapidly the remainder of the afternoon passed away, and at an early hour, wishing to know "exactly how she was going to look," Mag commenced her toilet. Theo, too, desirous of displaying her white satin as long as possible, began to dress; while Madam Conway, in no haste to don her purple satin, which was uncomfortably tight, amused herself by watching the passersby, nodding at intervals in her chair.

While thus occupied a perfumed note was brought to her, the contents of which elicited from her an exclamation of surprise.

"Can it be possible!" she said, and thrusting the note into her pocket, she hastily left the room.

She was gone a long, long time; and when at last she returned she was evidently much excited, paying no attention whatever to Theo, who, in her bridal robes looked charmingly, but minutely inspecting Mag to see if in her adornings there was aught out of its place. Her dress was faultless, and she looked so radiantly beautiful as she stood before her grandmother that, the old lady kissed her fondly, whispering as she did so, "You are indeed beautiful." It was a long time ere Madam Conway commenced her own toilet, and then she proceeded so slowly that George Douglas became impatient, and she finally suggested that he and Theo should go without her, sending the carriage back for herself and Mag. To this proposition she at last yielded; and when they were left alone Madam Conway greatly accelerated her movements, dressing herself in a few moments; and then, much to Mag's surprise, going below without a word of explanation. A few moments only elapsed ere a servant was sent to Mag, saying that her presence was desired at No. 40, a small private parlor adjoining the public drawing-rooms.

"What can it mean? Is it possible that Henry is there?" Mag asked herself, as with a beating heart she descended the stairs.

A moment more, and Mag stood on the threshold of No. 40. Seated upon the sofa was Madam Conway, her purple satin seeming to have taken a wide sweep, and her face betokening the immense degree of satisfaction she felt in being there thus with the stylish, elegant-looking stranger who stood at her side, with his deep, expressive eyes fixed upon the door expectantly. Maggie knew him in a moment—knew it was Arthur Carrollton; and, turning pale, she started backward, while he advanced forward and, offering her his hand, looked down upon her with a winning smile, saying as he did so: "Excuse my familiarity. You are Maggie Miller, I am sure."

For an instant Mag could not reply, but, soon recovering her composure, she received the stranger gracefully, and then taking the chair he politely brought her, she listened while her grandmother told her that he had arrived at Montreal two weeks before; that he had reached Hillsdale that morning, an hour or two after their departure, and learning their destination had followed them in the cars; that she had taken the liberty of informing Mrs. Merton of his arrival, and that lady had, of course, extended to him an invitation to be present at her party.

"Which invitation I accept, provided Miss Maggie allows me to be her escort," said the young man, and again his large, black eyes rested admiringly upon her.

Mag had anticipated a long, quiet talk with Henry Warner, and, wishing the Englishman anywhere else but there, she answered coldly: "I cannot well decline your escort, Mr. Carrollton, so of course I accept it."

Madam Conway bit her lip, but Mr. Carrollton, who was prepared for anything from Maggie Miller, was not in the least displeased, and, consulting his diamond-set watch, which pointed to nearly ten, he asked if it were not time to go.

"Certainly," said Madam Conway. "You remain here, Maggie; I will bring down your shawl," and she glided from the room, leaving them purposely alone.

Mag was a good deal astonished, slightly embarrassed and a little provoked, all of which Arthur Carrollton readily saw; but this did not prevent his talking to her, and during the few minutes of Madam Conway's absence he decided that neither Margaret's beauty, nor yet her originality, had been overrated by her partial grandmother, while Mag, on her part, mentally pronounced him "the finest-looking, the most refined, the most gentlemanly, the proudest, and the handsomest man she had ever seen!"

Wholly unconscious of her cogitation, he wrapped her shawl very carefully about her, taking care to cover her white shoulders from the night air; then, offering his arm to her grandmother, he led the way to the carriage, whither she followed him, wondering if Henry would be jealous, and thinking her first act would be to tell him "how she hated Arthur Carrollton, and always should!"

* * * * * * *

It was a gay, brilliant scene which Mrs. Morton's drawing-rooms presented, and as yet the centre of attraction, Theo, near the door, was bowing to the many strangers who sought her acquaintance. Greatly she marveled at the long delay of her grandmother and Maggie, and she had just suggested to Henry that he should go in quest of them, when she saw her sister ascending the stairs.

On a sofa across the room sat a pale young girl, arrayed in white, her silken curls falling around her neck like a golden shower, and her mournful eyes of blue scanning eagerly each newcomer, then with a look of disappointment drooping beneath the long lashes which rested wearily upon her colorless cheek. It was Rose Warner, and the face she sought was Maggie Miller's. She had seen no semblance of it yet, for Henry had no daguerreotype. Still, she felt sure she would know her, and when at last, in all her queenly beauty, Maggie came, leaning on Arthur Carrollton's arm, Rose's heart made ready answer to the oft-repeated question, "Who is she?"

"Beautiful, gloriously beautiful," she whispered softly, while from the grave of her buried hopes there came one wild heart-throb, one sudden burst of pain, caused by the first sight of her rival, and then Rose Warner grew calm again, and, though she saw the pressure of her hand upon her side dreamed not of the fierce pang within. She had asked her brother not to tell Maggie she was to be there. She would, unheeding, watch her awhile, herself unobserved, and now, with eager, anxious eyes, she followed Maggie, who was quickly surrounded by a host of admirers.

It was Maggie's first introduction into society, and—put on parade—much her position of what was proper [illegible]

THE VLADIVOSTOCK FLEET BOTTLED UP

Russia's Vladivostok Fleet Reported to be Bottled Up by the Enemy's Fleet, Scouting Vessels are Watching the Harbor, The Second Jap Army Moving

Special To THE TIMES.

The Russian squadron at Vladivostok is practically bottled up by the Japanese fleet. Japanese scouting vessels are watching the harbor.

It is asserted here that only one division of the second Japanese army will be landed on the Liao-Tung peninsula, and it is asserted that the rest of this army will land at Taku Shan.

London, May 13.—Japan today reports the first disaster to her navy since the war begin. A torpedo boat was blown up while removing mines near Dalny, seven of her crew being killed and seven wounded.

Observations by Russian outposts make it appear that Gen. Kuroki is working westward, as his predecessors did in 1854-5. It is difficult to identify on the maps the strange spellings of the place names which appear in Russian reports. It is established, however, that the Russians believe the Japanese guard to be moving westward from Feng-Wang-Cheng toward Hai-Cheng. The road runs northwestward, cuts across two southward spurs of the Motien Mountains, and strikes the railway at Hai-Cheng. This town is an important road centre, is behind New-Chwang, and is only about twenty-five miles from Liao-Yang.

Simultaneously, Japanese troops are reported to be near Taku Shan and to be moving towards Siu Yeng. (This is another junction point for roads. A route leads from Taku Shan through Siu Yeng, to Hai Cheng. At Siu Yeng it is intersected by a road which runs northeastward to the Hai Cheng-Feng Wang Cheng road.

The Japanese thus seem to be moving by two roads upon Hai Cheng. At Siu Yeng they can establish lateral communication between their two columns, by means of the cross road.

There is also a movement on foot, according to the Russians, toward Samalbra. If this is the sam place as Samaja, the Japanese are moving against the Russian left flank. The Hai Cheng movement threatens the right of the Russian covering position on the Motien mountains. The left flank of that position ends at Samaja, and if the Japanese reach that place, they will be behind the mountains and will be at the head of the stream on which Liao Yang is situated.

It is now admitted officially at St. Petersburg that the whole of Dalny was destroyed, not merely the docks as intimated yesterday. It is also acknowledged by the telegraph department that communication with Port Arthur is impossible.

The Japanese have established a naval base at Port Lazaref, on Broughton bay, a short distance north of Gensan. The entrance of Port Lazaref is defended by mines.

Japs Report First Disaster--Torpedo Boat Blown Up by Mines Near Dalny--Russians Deny Rumor of Big Fight at Watung Tien, Where They Met Defeat

Special to THE TIMES.

Tokio, May 13.—The Japanese torpedo boat No. 48 was destroyed while removing mines from Kerr Bay, north of Talienwan (Port Dalny), yesterday. Seven men were killed and seven were wounded. This is the first warship Japan has lost in the war.

New-Chang, May 13.—The Russians deny the report circulated in London that a fight has occurred near Wafung-Tien, in which the Russians were defeated with great loss. No confirmation of the rumor is obtainable from other sources.

Special to THE TIMES.

Seoul, May 13.—The second Japanese army, numbering 70,000 men, left Chinampo on 83 transports on May 4. The soldiers were crowded on board the vessels in the closest manner, one ship having 3,800 on board. The men were so closely packed between the decks that exercise was impossible, and very little air was obtainable. But, in spite of these discomforts, there was no grumbling.

Every precaution was taken to prevent news of the departure of the army from leaking out. The residents of Chinampo were strictly disciplined, and no one was allowed to enter or leave the town. Three Americans, however, succeeded in escaping from Chinampo on board a junk. Twelve days later they reached Chemulpo.

London, May 13.—Of the great movement which Gen. Kuroki is supposed to be directing against Liao Yang, the only news comes from Russian sources. Much of this is two or three days old, and is apparently based on information from the natives. The position in the neighborhood of New Chwang is obscure. The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Standard reports that the Japanese are about to occupy that place.

According to the New Chwang correspondent of the Daily Mail, numerous bodies of Russian cavalry and infantry have been disposed in the vicinity of the town for the purpose of harassing, if not arresting, the overland movement of the Japanese. The nature of the country is favorable to such an object, which, if successful, will give Gen. Kouropatkin time to strengthen his position at Liao Yang. Reports from various quarters refer to the fortifications at Liao Yang as being very formidable. Many heavy guns command the railway.

St. Petersburg, May 13.—It is evident from a private letter written by an artillery officer at Port Arthur, dated April 20, that Gen. Stoessel, the Russian commander there, was then daily expecting the cutting off of his communications. The officer reported that everything was ready to withstand a siege, and expressed surprise that the enemy had delayed so long. He said the fortress was practically impregnable, adding that there was a triple row of forts around the Port Arthur glacis, each position being fronted by a moat with a hedge of barbed wire beyond, with bombproofs behind all the batteries. The officer further declared that they had plenty of supplies and ammunition, and that the garrison was in excellent spirits and confident of holding out for nine months or a year against any number of enemy, if they possessed siege guns. Gen. Kouropatkin offered Gen. Stoessel reinforcements, but the latter declined them, saying that he had enough men, and did not care to run the risk of an epidemic as a result of overcrowding.

Information touching the general staff indicates that there is much sickness among the enemy's troops in Corea, typhus especially being said to be rampant.

ALEXIEFF WAS BOASTING.

Tokio, May 13.—Official enquiry shows that Viceroy Alexieff's report that railroad communication with Port Arthur has been restored since Monday is untrue

FEARS THE BRITISH NAVY

German Leader Urges Stronger Fleet for the Kaiser's Defense

Berlin, May 14.—After the third reading of the navy budget in the Reichstag to-day Baron Von Kardoff asked Secretary of the Admiralty Von Tirpitz why the German naval authorities had done nothing in the direction of building submarine boats while all the other navies were experimenting with them. "The Russo-Japanese war," he said, "must warn us that our navy is far from what Germany must demand of its navy. Our navy must be made much stronger." He also said the British navy was growing dangerous for Germany.

Secretary Von Tirpitz answered that the naval authorities had made slight experiments, but even if they proved successful, submarine boats would not produce a great revolution so long as the problem of seeing was not solved.

Smuggler Gold Mining Co.'s Proposition

of which I am the authorized agent

Investments in mining stocks where they can be purchased cheaply whose property contains merit and whose directors are men of unquestionable honor and integrity, and especially when sufficient work has been done to guarantee a producing mine and the leads have been demonstrated to be permanent, offer the greatest opportunity for large returns from modern investments.

The shrewdest capitalists of England and America are giving more attention to mining properties and putting more money into them than at any time in the past history of the world.

The Smuggler Group consists of five full sized claims, to-wit:—The Smuggler, Gangon, Black Jack, Star and Bed Rock, located in the Greenhorn District of Eastern Oregon. Surrounding mines are Potosi, Pride of Pendleton, Bonanza and Rockefeller, developing work to the extent of 1,000 feet of tunnelling, drifts and crosscuts have been made, exposing hundreds of tons of high grade ore, averaging from $25 to $45 per ton, based on smelter returns, and for the purpose of equipping the mines a limited number of shares of Treasury Stock will be sold at 25 cents per share, the par value of which is $1.00.

HIGH CLASS INVESTMENT

LA ZACUALPA RUBBER PLANTATION COMPANY

Incorporated Under the Laws of the State of California.

La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation is situated in the best location in Mexico for the cultivation of rubber. It has been known for a great many years as a very choice strip of rubber land and subsequent experience has shown that it is equal to all that has been claimed for it. The affairs of the company are in the hands of men of undoubted integrity and high reputation as successful men of business. To those seeking a safe investment which will secure a good income for life, this proposition offers a favorable opportunity

Shares in La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation are not capital stock of a corporation, and carry none of the responsibilities and obligations, or liability to assessment of capital stock; but represent an undivided interest in the plantation itself.

The twelve thousand acres comprising the plantation are divided into twelve thousand shares, each share representing one acre of land, and the holders of shares in La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation are the actual owners of one undivided acre of land, for each share held, with a guarantee expressed upon the certificate by La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation Company, under its official seal, to plant two hundred or more rubber trees per acre for each share sold, and to care for same for a period of five years, and at the expiration of that time to gather the first harvest and deliver the net proceeds thereof to the shareholder.

In other words, La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation Company sells to each shareholder one undivided acre of land in La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation, with two hundred or more rubber trees five years old, and their profits for all time, for each share sold, and agrees to plant so that the first harvest belonging to the shareholder is the one to be gathered from La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation during the sixth year from the date of the certificate,

After the delivery of the first harvest La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation Company will care for the plantation, and harvest and market the crop for ten per cent. of the net proceeds therefrom. Out of this commission the Company agrees to pay all costs of administration, including maintenance of its home, and branch offices.

This plan gives the purchaser of shares an interest of definite acreage, and his proportionate share in the total yield of rubber from the entire plantation forever, making it absolutely certain that the interest of each shareholder will receive the same care and attention

Finally, "The Golden Monitor," edited by Drs. Kennedy & Kergan fell into my hands. I learned the truth and cause. Self abuse had sapped my vitality. The Monarch Consolidated Gold & Copper Mining and Smelting Company

of BOULDER, COLORADO

Solicits the co-operation of reputable men in providing means for the thorough and rapid development of two large gold and copper mining estates, which are second to none in intrinsic value, and to this end extends every opportunity for determination as to whether statements made by the company are true or false.

The proposition when developed will pay no less than 50 per cent. per annum on the investment, and it behooves anyone who wishes to better his financial condition, to give immediate attention to this.

Full particulars in every detail will be given to all to whom such a proposition may appeal, but please do not ask for them unless you really are interested, because we waste your own time and ours also.

Capital $1,000,000, 500,000 Shares in Treasury

Property includes two great mining estates—one gold, the other copper—both containing wide, deep, proven veins of high and low grade ore.

Development work has been systematically carried on, with results that more than justify every claim made by the company, and unquestionably proves the destiny of the property to equal that of the greatest successful mining companies of the world.

Above Statement Can be Easily Verified!

The following two facts alone will give anyone familiar with mining a rough idea of the great value of the property.

The Copper King Group contains one vein 30 feet wide, 8 feet of which runs from $10 to $100 per ton, and the Company owns 9,000 feet on this vein.

Ore running from $18 to $30 per ton is continually being shipped from the gold property, and 24 samples taken from widely different portions of the vein system have rated $20.25 per ton.

FACILITIES—The Company owns 1,720 acres of placer and timber land. Water power of 501 miners inches—No expensive shaft work necessary. Ore easily treated on Company's property, thus saving freight and smelter charges.

DIVIDENDS—To begin earning and paying large dividends it is only necessary to erect two 50 ton mills, one on each property. To obtain funds for this purpose a limited amount of stock is offered at

VIRTUES OF RADIUM.

IT HAS CURED DISEASE WHEN OTHER REMEDIES FAILED.

Curious Instances in Which the Newly - Discovered Mineral Has Worked Wonders—Testimony of Doctors.

The experiments of scientists with radium are daily revealing fresh curative properties in that wonderful and precious mineral. Perhaps the most curious instance of its influence, says the London Mail, is that recorded below of the cure of a somnambulist who was addicted to wife-beating.

This was described recently by Dr. Darier, the eminent oculist. In an interesting conversation which our Paris correspondent had with him he mentioned some curious results which he had obtained in his work by experimenting with radium.

He recently treated a case of rodent ulcer of the orbit, which had destroyed the ocular globe and all the tissues. Although the patient had for two years suffered from pains so intolerable that during that period he had not enjoyed a single night's rest, his agony was completely and almost instantly ended by the introduction of radio-active powder.

External application of radium has shown that it is a powerful agent in calming neuralgic and rheumatic pains and in allaying the excruciating suffering caused by cancers which cannot be operated upon. On the other hand, Dr. Darier is bound to admit that he failed to obtain any definite result in so far as an improvement of the vision itself is concerned, and he does not regard as serious the talk of those who speak of restoring sight to the blind.

In a case treated by the doctor a woman who had long suffered from epileptic fits and giddiness has not had a single attack since radium of weak intensity was applied to the temple.

"Radium was also tried with success," said Dr. Darier, "on a male patient who suffered from strange somnambulistic attacks, during which he would get up, maltreat his wife and break everything within reach. Then he would leave the house and roam about the streets for two or three hours, at the end of which time he would return home, go to bed and fall asleep again. So frequent did these violent fits become that his wife left him.

"He came to me and I treated him with radium applications for 12 days. Then he disappeared, and I heard nothing more of him for about three months, when he and his wife came to tell me that the affliction from which he formerly suffered had gone and that they were living together again.

"I have since treated other nervous patients with radium, notably a lady who suffered from photophobia, or fear of the light. She was very neurasthenic and believed that she was ataxic. She could not walk without falling and her eyes were so weak that she could not bear the light of day and had to wear dark spectacles. I diagnosed her trouble as neurasthenia of a hysterical origin and I tried radium and applications of a stronger kind than in the cases I have already mentioned, three hours per day on both temples. At the end of the third day she could bear the light without spectacles and could read and do needlework."

THE CLEANING OF PANAMA

Sanitary Corps Will Precede Diggers to Make the Isthmus a Habitable Place.

Almost the first troops to be dispatched to the isthmus will be one of the largest medical corps fully equipped which ever left any country in time of peace to minister to the wants of living men. In other words, profiting by the experience of France on the isthmus and by its own experience in tropical climes, the United States proposes to establish sanitary regulations in Panama, such as it has already put into operation in Cuba and the Philippines, for the safety of its soldiers, & the laborers to be employed in building the canal, and of the people of Panama, says the Chicago Daily News.

The equipment of this expedition will include all supplies known to be of value to the medical profession in tropical regions. The supply ships will carry hospital tents, immense quantities of medical stores, and last, but not least, large supplies of mineral waters, which the soldiery will be compelled to use preparatory to establishing condensing and distilling plants on the isthmus for furnishing a home supply of pure water.

Not only does the government medical department feel assured that it can counteract much of the prevalent disease upon the isthmus by the introduction of sanitary methods among the people, but it is intended also to make merry war upon the deadly mosquito, which scientists have come to believe transports more disease, or as much, at least, as any other source. Nets will be provided for protection, and in addition kerosene oil in large quantities will be poured on the stagnant lakes and ponds, especially near the inhabited places, to effectually put an end to their existence.

In commenting upon the improved methods of the army for practical medicinal purposes the other day an army officer said: "Ten years ago you could no more make a solder believe that boiled or distilled water was necessary for his good health than you could make him believe that an army mule could fly. Nowadays when an order is given to drink nothing but pure water a soldier will hustle around and inconvenience himself a bit to get it. Only in case of extreme thirst will he take a drink from a running stream.

"It will be easy, comparatively speaking, to enforce the proposed discipline in sanitary regulations on the isthmus. The United States does not propose to build the isthmian canal upon the bones of her soldiers, nor upon those of the laborers employed in its construction, nor upon those of the people of Panama, if it can help it. If science can do anything to prevent it fewer lives will be sacrificed in this great work than upon any similar piece of work undertaken by any nation in the history of the world."

FOUR HUNDRED DISCHAGED

New York Central and Hudson River Railway Reduces Staff

Boston, Mass., May 11—Second Vice-President Egar Van Etten of the new York Central and Hudson River Railway received instructions yesterday to discharge 400 of the 5,400 men in the employ of the Boston and Albany division of that system before the close of the month. This is in line with the reduction of expenses being made on other Vanderbilt roads. Mr. Van Etten said: "Wages will not be reduced on the road, but it is intended to lay off the yards on trains, boilermakers, machinists, clerks and in every branch of the service where it is possible to get along with fewer employes."

He added that in common with other roads his company was feeling the recent slump in business.

THREE ZONES IN ONE HOUR

Two Known Regions Where That Many Temperatures Come Very Close Together.

Only two places exist on this globe where one can pass through three zones of temperature—the tropical, subtropical and temperate—within an hour's time. Hawaii is one of these places and Darjeeling, in northeastern India, is another. In both these places, says a geographical journal, the trick is done by climbing up the high mountains. In Hawaii the traveler starts with the warm breath of the Pacific fanning him amid the smell of palm trees. He passes by great clusters of tropical fruit and as he mounts the trees change, until he is in the kind of scenery that may be found in the southern United States. Still he climbs, and soon he notices that it is much cooler and that the character of the scene has changed to one that reminds him of the temperate zone, with fields in which potatoes and other northern vegetables are growing.

In Darjeeling the change is still more wonderful. The entrance to the tableland on which the little mountain city stands is through a dark, somber tropical pass, full of mighty palms and hung with orchids and other jungle growth. After awhile the trees change from palms to the wonderful tree ferns. These alternate with banana trees, until, after some more climbing, forests are reached of magnolias and similar trees. Through these magnolias the way leads over up, and all at once, over an open pass, there come into view immense thickets of Himalayan rhododendrons and the evergreen of firs and cedars, and beyond stand the white, grim, snowclad, frozen mountain peaks like arctic icebergs on land. In less than two hours a traveler can ascend from orchids through jungles to tea plantations and thence to a climate of northern roses and violets.

EDUCATION OF THE JAPS.

Government and Naval Officials Entitled to Much Credit in the Work.

In no field of activity has Japan done so much as in that of education. Thanks to the private and temple schools, which have been in existence for centuries, as well as to the higher state seminaries, popular education has always been at a high level, says the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

It is greatly to the credit of the Japanese physicians that ever since the middle of the 18th century they have applied themselves to the study of the Dutch language, thus opening a channel which has enabled the science of Europe to effect an entry among them. As early as 1857 Tokio saw the creation of a sort of institute for foreign science, in which instruction was given at first in Dutch, then in English, French, German and even Russian languages. The chief achievement of this seminary was the compilation of an English-Japanese dictionary, while in 1858 the first European school of medicine was also established there. A quarter of a century ago Japan depended almost entirely upon foreign countries for its supply of professors and teachers; now the recruits are wholly drawn from native scholars. It scarcely requires to be shown that this new system of public education proved in a comparatively short time an effective means of transforming Japan in the progressive sense intended by the government, so that the ministry of education may be said to have done most to weld the nation into a harmonious whole. It may fairly be inferred that this wise and full development of Japan educationally is to be credited largely with the clever work now being performed by the Japanese naval commanders and government officials, the similarly clever work of Japan's army and navy in the Chino-Japanese war of 1894-95 and in the march of the allied forces upon Peking.

When You Get Shaved.

"Very few men realize the manual labor entailed in the operation of shaving, aside from the constant care and skill that must be exercised," said the handsome barber, as he paused to strop his razor. "I didn't realize it myself until the other day. The man I was shaving was a stranger to me and he seemed a trifle nervous. When I got through with him he said to me: 'Do you know how many strokes of the razor you used in shaving me?' I looked up at the clock. It had taken me nearly 20 minutes. 'I give it up,' I said. 'I never thought about it.' 'Well,' said he, as he buttoned his collar, 'you used just 489 strokes with the razor. That's pretty fair for me, because I'm nervous. I have frequently been up to nearly 600. You see, I suffer from insomnia, and the only way I can get to sleep at nights is to lie in bed and count. In that way I have got into the habit of counting the razor strokes while getting shaved, and I want to tell you that 489 is a pretty good record for me.' Say, do you believe that?"—Philadelphia Record.

Too Advanced.

Father—You are very backward in your arithmetic. When I was your age I was doing cube root.

Boy—What's that?

"What? You don't even know what it is? Dear me, that's terrible! Here, give me your pencil. Now, we'll take, say, 1, 2, 3, 4, and find the cube root. First you divide—no; you—let me see—um—yes—no—well, never mind—after all, perhaps you're too young to understand it."—Stray Stories.

Saving the Bread.

Ten tons of bread were saved at Dover workhouse last year, by allowing inmates to have as much as they could eat, instead of serving them with the regulation weight and having it nearly half wasted.

New York Man Who Can Eat Twenty Meals a Day, But Must Take His Nourishment Through a Tube.

Twenty hearty meals a day is the modest claim of an appetite recently on exhibition at the College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York. Three hundred students sat spellbound for two hours watching a phenomenon discovered by Prof. W. T. Bull. "This wonderful man," explained Dr. Bull to expectant students, "has stenosis of the esophagus with esophageal diverticulum, or, in other words he can eat without end. He'll never have dyspepsia, as food never passes into his stomach by way of his throat. How much he enjoys eating we shall see later as he disposes of this food and drink we have here. His life is sustained by liquids administered through a gastric fistula of his stomach."

Whereupon the gastronomic marvel began devastating piles of food and buckets of drink. As he gorged the sack at the base of his neck began to bulge.

Prof. Bull explained that for economy's sake the patient ate only six

THE GREAT WORK GOING ON IN MUSKOKA.

1,000 Patients Treated in the Two Muskoka Hospitals—the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Surprising Decrease of 25 Per Cent. in the Last Three Years in Deaths from Consumption.

Fifty-five Different Trades and Professions Represented by the Patients Admitted to the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Two Pavilions have had to be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds, and the Number of Patients Reduced from 75 to 50.

$25,000 Wanted this Year to Carry on this Great Work.

With a view of helping to bring to the attention of the public the needs of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have pleasure in publishing the following letter, in which an appeal is made for funds.

Dear Friend,—

It again becomes necessary to make an urgent appeal for funds for the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

A very heavy debt is pressing upon the trustees.

In addition to this, funds must be provided for the maintenance of patients. Last month there was a deficiency of nearly $1,500 over and above receipts from all sources.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives was opened eighteen months ago. 225 patients have been admitted.

No patient has ever been refused admission because of his or her poverty.

1,000 patients have been cared for in the two Muskoka Hospitals, the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The majority of these have either been cured, or so helped that they have been enabled to again become bread-winners for the family.

The public are beginning to find evidence of our work.

Already there has been a decrease of nearly 25 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption in the Province of Ontario.

The last report of the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health shows that in the last three years the deaths from consumption in Ontario have decreased from 3,484 to 2,694, a decrease of 790, or nearly 25 per cent.

This is the more gratifying when we remember that for a number of years previously the same report showed a steadily increasing death-rate prior to 1899.

Who will doubt that the work of our two Hospitals in Muskoka, and the persistent educational campaign carried on, has not helped to secure this surprising result?

In what better way can your gifts bring so good a return?

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

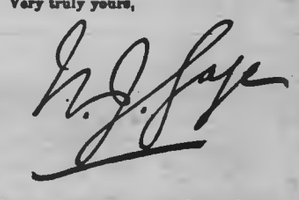
On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 50.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

Very truly yours,



Toronto, December 10, 1903.

Sir Wm. R. Meredith, Kt., or Mr. W. J. Gage, Toronto, will receive and acknowledge any contributions made.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured by Dosing

IT IS A LOCAL DISEASE AND IF CURED MUST BE LOCALLY TREATED.

Seven people out of ten suffer from catarrh. There is no lack of medicines, and if dosing would cure, very few cases of catarrh would be found.

You probably have it yourself. How much benefit have you obtained so far from medicine-taking? A little relief is all that you have derived. You have spent lots of money and yet the catarrh is growing worse all the time.

Has it ever occurred to you how desirable and how successful a treatment would be that you could breathe to where the disease existed. Perhaps you have thought about this form of cure but you have been unable to find a remedy that could be pleasantly and safely used.

Try Catarrhozone, it can be broken up by the air and carried in small drops to every part of the breathing organism. It touches the catarrh with healing, that is why it cures.

This healing, balsamic, vegetable substance is so volatile that the air greedily takes up from the inhaler, so antiseptic that it instantly destroys the microbes which produce disease of the breathing organs, and so soothing that it relieves congestion, subdues inflammation, and stops mucous discharge.

Plainly Catarrhozone is an ideal remedy for diseases of the throat, lungs and nasal passages. If you have catarrh, bronchitis or asthma, all are equally curable by Catarrhozone. You have been told why this is so. These diseases are all modifications of an inflammatory condition of the lining membranes of the throat and nasal passages.

Now, bear in mind, you breathe Catarrhozone. Do you not think this is a rational treatment—a certain way of reaching the diseased surfaces which lie so far in the cavity of the body or in the head that they can be reached in no other way.

You cannot possibly fail to obtain quick cure from any of these maladies if you use Catarrhozone.

All dealers in medicine sell Catarrhozone. Trial, 25c., complete outfit, $1.00, which will last two months and is guaranteed to cure permanently. Sent postpaid to any address by N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

Was Badly Injured

While crossing Hunter street on Saturday afternoon an old man named James Nevin, 80 years of age, was knocked down by a rig and run over. No bones were broken, and although severely shaken up, he is expected to recover.

Police Court

A drunk was allowed to go at police court Saturday. A vagrant, who said he had come to Peterborough to sober up, was ordered to leave town. A wages case was settled out of court, and the complainant paid the costs, amounting to $5c. CHARLOTTE STREET CHURCH.

The services in Charlotte street church yesterday were of a very interesting character. The morning service was conducted by Rev. J. Jolliffe, pastor, assisted by Rev. D. O. A. Wilson occupied the pulpit, and, as usual, preached an excellent sermon. Miss Davies rendered a vocal solo entitled "No, Not Despairingly," in an admirable manner.

Took Honors in Science

In the results of the examinations of the School of Practical Science, published in Saturday's Globe, the names of some Peterborough students appear. Messrs. C. E. Sisson and W. F. Stubbs, in the second year class, in Mechanical and Electrical Engineering, took honors, while those who attained sufficient proficiency to pass in those subjects were: Third year W. H. Munro; second year, C. R. Munro; first year, E. H. Doidge. C. H. Rogers, son of Col. J. Z. Rogers passed first year in civil engineering.

Fish Still Plentiful

Regarding the reported destruction of fish on account of the severe winter, M. Thwaite, Provincial Inspector of Fisheries, upon being asked his opinion, replied that every winter there were more or less fish killed, but the few this year would never be missed. That from the natural situation of the lake it drew its supply of fish from the great chain of lakes to the north and the supply was inexhaustible. That the reason of the great numbers of lunge and bass in Scugog was attributable to the fact that Lake Scugog was at the headwaters of the Kawartha Lakes. Fish always went up stream and when they got in Scugog they could go no further. Their natural food was abundant and there was no cause for them to return to the northern lakes. Mr. Thwaite said he knew of no reason why the sport would not be as good if not better than in other years.

$500 Reward, $500

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

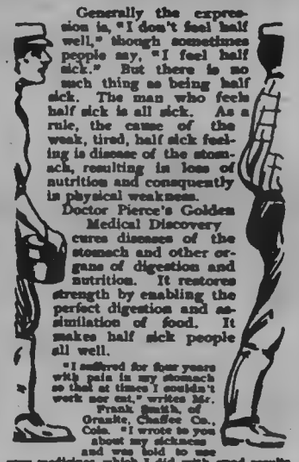
OBITUARY

Prominent Citizen of Millbrook Passes Away

Word was received yesterday of the death of Mr. Archibal Wood, of Millbrook, of the firm of Wood and Kelly, bankers. The deceased was 70 years of age, and had suffered from pneumonia. Mr. John Wood, of the Fifth Ward, is a brother. The funeral will take place this afternoon at two o'clock.

HALFSICK



Generally the expression is, "I don't feel half well," though sometimes people say, "I feel half sick." But there is no such thing as being half sick. The man who feels half sick is all sick. As a rule, the cause of the weak, tired, half sick feeling is disease of the stomach, resulting in loss of nutrition and consequently in physical weakness.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores strength by enabling the perfect digestion and assimilation of food. It makes half sick people all well.

"I suffered for four years with pain in my stomach so that at times I couldn't work nor eat," writes Mr. Frank Smith, of Ornake, Chaffee Co., Colo. "I wrote to you about my sickness and was told to use your medicines, which I did with good results. I only used four bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and must say that I am entirely cured and feel like a new man, and I can highly recommend your medicine to any sufferer."

"Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol and is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics. It is strictly a temperance medicine.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach.

SHOULD BE GRANTED

Application of the Matthews Company for Siding

The application of the George Matthews Company for an additional siding into their factory should be granted by the council. As Mr. Dobbs pointed out, with two sidings there would not be so much shunting across the street.

It is the duty of the council to afford every possible encouragement to manufacturers, and in this instance we think they would be quite within the mark in at once granting the request of the company. In the case of the Canadian General Electric Company the town not only gave permission to have tracks laid across the streets leading to the works, but actually built them.

DIED AT SPRINGVILLE

Mrs. Jas. McIndoo, a Highly Respected Resident Passes Away

It is with the deepest feelings of regret that we record the death of Margaret McKee, wife of Mr. James McIndoo, of Springville, at the age of 47 years. The circumstances surrounding her demise are particularly sad, as deceased had been ailing for over two years, but nothing serious was anticipated. Less than two months ago the death of her eldest daughter, Georgina, occurred, and since then deceased had gradually sunk and in spite of loving care and attention, passed away on Saturday at 12 o'clock.

The late Mrs. McIndoo was a daughter of the late John McGee, Toronto, and was united in marriage to Mr. James McIndoo fourteen years ago.

A sorrowing husband and two children, Bella aged 12, and Flossie, aged seven, are left to mourn the loss of an affectionate and tender mother. Four sisters of deceased also survive her, Mrs. John Richards, Montreal; Mrs. White, Mrs. Coulter and Mrs. Sheppard, Toronto.

The funeral services will be conducted by Rev. J. Yule, of Springville Presbyterian church, of which deceased was an esteemed member, on Monday at one o'clock. The funeral will proceed from the family residence, lot 2, concession 10, North Monaghan, to Ida cemetery for interment.

A RARE CHANCE
FOR CANADIAN INVESTORS

THOMAS PATTERSON & CO.
BROKERS, PETERBOROUGH

HAVING BEEN APPOINTED CANADIAN FISCAL AGENTS OF THE

of Colorado, beg to inform their customers and investors generally that they have secured a block of stock of this Company, which they now offer for sale at 35 cents per share—par value $1.00.

This stock is bound to advance rapidly. All Shareholders are on an equal basis, no preferred stock. This is a proposition in all its details so simple that every shareholder will know at all times the value of his holdings. With the vast quantities of ore now in sight, and the facilities that will be put into operation to mine it, every dollar invested in this way may yield ten, twenty and a hundred fold. As has been chronicled in hundreds of instances in Cripple Creek, where persons have purchased stock in the early stages of a mine, the price at which the stock is offered is such a bargain that it cannot fail to be subscribed for at an early date, therefore investors should act quickly.

The shares are fully paid up and non assessable (no individual liability). Each and every share represents a distinct and liberal portion of an enterprise which it is fully believed will produce millions of dollars.

The Cripple Creek Company is splendidly officered by men of high repute and with an expert knowledge of mining in all its details. The Company was organized to operate in Colorado, and properly incorporated under the laws of that State.

In the incorporation of the Company 500,000 shares of the capital stock were set aside for development purposes, and cannot be used in any other way.

We will be pleased to give full particulars to investors, and would say in conclusion. Buy now! Get in on the ground floor, as the stock will quickly advance.

KITCHENER REFORMS THE INDIAN ARMY, COMPETENT LEADERS

Britain's Forces in the East to Consist of a Quarter of a Million Men--Leaders Must be Competent Men.

London, May 17.—The Simla correspondent of the London Daily Mail sends the following interesting despatch in regard to Lord Kitchener's Indian Army reforms:

Lord Kitchener has just published an army order here which strikes a heavy blow at the careless polo-playing life of the British regimental officer in India.

It is designed to convert Ouida's luxury lapped exquisites into practical hard working, professional soldiers, who must either take regimental work seriously or lose their careers in the service. It nails responsibility for the efficiency of both the officers and men of the regiment upon the colonel commanding. It makes the general of the district personally answerable not only, as at present, for reporting defects in the corps under his control, but also for remedying such defects.

WHOLESOME SUPERANNUATION

Lord Kitchener holds that the regiment, and not the garrison class, must be the young officer's training school, and he is introducing an ingenious test to settle whether failure where such occurs, to reach a definite standard of efficiency, is due to the defects in the regiment, in which case the blame is to rest upon the officer commanding, or to incompetence on the part of the junior, whose military career under these circumstances, he intends to cut short. Lord Kitchener recognizes frankly that there may be commanding officers who through ignorance indolence, or incapacity, may fail to properly instruct those under them, and he declares that he does not intend to allow the prospects of young officers to suffer on this account. He is abolishing garrison classes, as a whole, on the ground that they tempt officers to cram for their promotion examinations, but he is making one exception, which may best be described in his own words.

"I therefore purpose," he writes, "to retain one garrison class, which will be attended only by officers who have failed to pass direct from their regiments. Should such officers subsequently be successful, after attending the class in question, it will be a reasonable inference that the system of education in their regiments is defective, and for this commanding officers must be held responsible. If, however they should again fail, it will be equally fair to attribute the double failure to their own indolence or incapacity, and their further retention in the service will then become an impossibility."

The duties for which Lord Kitchener holds the general of the district responsible are no less onerous than those which he imposes on the colonel commanding.

"Troops," he says, "must be accustomed to regard their generals not as necessarily hostile critics, always on the lookout for something to find fault with, but as their trusted leaders in war, their instructors in peace and at all times their ready helpers able and willing to promote their welfare and to spare no effort to increase their preparedness for the stress of active service." He goes on in his remarkable memorandum, to describe the qualifications he will require of general officers.

"To be regarded as leaders," he writes, "they must be competent to lead; to be accepted as instructors, their professional knowledge must be undoubted, and this entails on them the obligation of increasing study and of constant practical application. In this way alone can they properly prepare their troops for war and at the same time to train themselves as to be able adequately to discharge the great responsibilities which will devolve upon them when called upon to command in the field."

Lord Kitchener fully recognizes the extent of the burden he is putting upon his officers and he announces a number of measures he is taking to help them to bear it. He is starting a staff college at Quetta, where carefully selected officers will be trained for staff duties in India. He is increasing the strength of the general staff and defining the duties attached to each post upon it, his object being to prevent officers from being taken away from their legitimate duty of assisting their general, to be shut up inside offices and converted, as has often occurred in the past, into mere clerkly officials. He is working at a great scheme to remedy the defects in the existing distribution of troops and commands throughout India, to meet the altered conditions that have arisen with the construction of railways and the extension of British territory.

The Indian army is a quarter of a million strong. It is being made self-supporting in regard to supplies and transport. It has its own ammunition factories and will shortly be fully furnished with the most modern of cordite, lyddite, rifles, field guns and gun carriages, all manufactured in India in works among the best equipped in the world. Its reserves are being increased, and Lord Kitchener is engaged in raising the standard of efficiency of its personnel. He is organizing a fighting machine which already a superb one, to a very high level.

GAELIC LEAGUE GROWS STEADILY

Keeps Alive Irish Language, Develops Industries and Fosters Reform

BRANCHES 700 IN NUMBER

Local Lodges Vie in Cultivation of Ancient Music and Dancing of Ireland

Dublin May 17—The Irish language procession which inaugurated what is known in Dublin as "Seachtmhain na Gaedhilge," or Irish week, shows how strong a grip the new movement has obtained on the minds of every section of Irishmen. The Gaelic league in numbers and earnestness is a new portent among Irish organizations.

HAS TAKEN UP TEMPERANCE.

Founded ten years ago to keep alive the Irish language, to study its literature and extend its use it has yearly added new features to its programme and is now not merely a language organization, but an industries association, a temperance league and an energetic opponent of Irish emigration. It has done more for the development of Irish industries than any society hitherto founded for that sole object, and no professed temperance body has, since the days of Father Mathew, done so much to check drunkenness and promiscuous drinking.

The Gaelic League imposes no obligation of abstinence from liquor, but binds its members neither to give nor to receive free drinks, is one of its active offshoots. Its annual procession marks its advance, and this year the procession outclassed all previous efforts. In spite of bad weather, the procession, which took an hour and a half to pass, walked through the main streets of Dublin, which were lined with sympathetic spectators.

SOME INDUSTRIAL FEATURES.

One feature of the procession was the tableaux illustrating historic events and the new industrial activity. The city bands were there and played their best for the occasion, and the proceedings were further enlivened by the singing of massed choirs of male voices. The industrial section showed a bakery in active work, an oven being erected in front of the lorry and baking loves en route.

Then there was a "moving house of Irish industry," showing a house fully furnished with Dublin made furniture, carpets, rugs and mats, Irish made carriages, from broughams to bicycles and bassinettes, artificial flowers, poplins, iron and brass work, bacon, bricks and even blacking formed some of the exhibits carried along on the cars, enjoying all the value of a unique advertisement.

LEAGUE HAS GROWN QUICKLY.

Fine as was the show made by the league in Dublin, it was less valuable than the constant and active work being done in the provinces, where it has brought a new spirit. Its growth in the past four years has been extraordinary. Four years ago it had 120 branches, next year 227, next year 412 and to-day it has nearly 700. These branches are banded into district committees, which employ between 100 and 150 regularly paid teachers.

A new feature of Irish life has been introduced by them in the institution of local festivals which vie with each other in the cultivation of old Irish music and dancing, which till the advent of the Gaelic League were dying out and had, indeed, almost disappeared. Prizes are given for the best stories the best songs, the best performances on the fiddle and the best dances and the competition for these rewards has brightened the whole life of many a district in Ireland.

CLARA LOWE IS DEAD.

Clara Lowe, the daughter of Sir Hudson Lowe, of St. Helena fame, died yesterday. She was greatly interested in Canada, and visited there in 1871, to assist in Miss Macpherson's emigration scheme.

PATRIOTISM IS AT A DISCOUNT

How Some of the Loyal Adresses Were Secured in Russia

THE REGISTERS WERE MANY

College Professors Resigned And Girl Students Were Expelled From Schools

St. Petersburg, May 17—Facts are daily coming to light that discount the recent patriotic manifestations and cause students of Russian conditions to doubt whether the autocracy can survive the shock of Far Eastern events. It appears that scarcely one in ten of the so-called loyal addresses were genuine expressions of public sentiment. The central authorities demanded of the provincial administrations that addresses should be obtained from all social bodies. Practically without exception, the reports received from the provinces stated that the organizations appealed to responded tardily where they responded at all and that presidents and secretaries often demurred at having the policy of the bodies they represented dictated by outsiders even though they spoke in the name of the state.

MUST SET AN EXAMPLE.

Immediately the St. Petersburg authorities issued a circular declaring that representative Russians must set a patriotic example to the nation and that influential persons refusing to aid in this work would be regarded as suspects and treated accordingly. This pressure, as autocratic pressure always does in Russia produced a fair exhibit of verbal loyalty. What proportion of this loyalty was sincere nobody could venture to say.

However, the course of the government was stardily resisted in many places particularly by university professors and students. Seventy-two students were expelled from Kharkov University. Two hundred students were arrested at Odessa. In Moscow and St. Petersburg there were numerous violent disturbances in the mining academy which was closed.

LOTS OF RESIGNATIONS.

Six of the most popular professors—Dolbnja, Baumann, Lutugin, Nokitin Bogdonovitch and Jakovlev—resigned. Girls in the high schools were among the resisters and many of them were expelled. In nearly every province a greater or less number of officials was discharged and placed under police surveillance. Now deeply the disaffections thus indicated penetrates the body politic awaits the test of future developments of the grapple with Japan.

RICE AT WEDDINGS

One London Clergyman Launches Stern Protest at Foolish Habit

London, May 16.—Prospective brides and bridegrooms are lifting up their voices in thankfulness to the vicar of St. Michael's, Bowes Park, who has opened a determined campaign against the use of confetti and rice carried by persons attending weddings solemnized in his church.

The vicar has long protested against the practice being indulged in inside the church and has occasionally gone to the length of forcibly taking possession of bags of confetti and rice carried by persons attending weddings.

But his hands have been strengthened recently by a communication he has received from the secretary of the Bishop of London, which advises him to prosecute confetti throwers if the offence be committed within the church or churchyard.

Consequently a notice now appears at St. Michael's church requesting that confetti shall not be thrown, and pointing out that the offence is punishable by law. So far this notice has had the desired effect.

TRADE WITH ENGLAND

Board Trade Returns Show Increase in Both Exports and Imports

London, May 17.—In an editorial on the convention between Great Britain and China regarding Chinese labor for South Africa, the Spectator says: "The government found themselves unable to pay the slightest attention to the remonstrances of the colonies against the admission of Chinese labor into South Africa because by so doing they would have criticised the action of our fellow-countrymen in the Transvaal. Canada, through her organs of public opinion, implored the government to wait till the grant of selfgovernment to the Transvaal before the question of the introduction of the Chinese into South Africa was finally decided.

A PIONEER IN CHILD EMIGRATION.

At the annual meeting in connection with the Children's Emigration Homes at Birmingham Mr. J. T. Middlemore, M.P. of North Birmingham, said, when asked for £500 to send children to Canada, that he had rented two little houses in St. Luke's road in the year 1872 as an experiment, and as soon as he arrived in Canada and saw how the boys and girls were welcomed there he knew that the experiment was a success.

TRADE WITH GREAT BRITAIN.

The Board of Trade returns give the total imports and exports of merchandise from and to Canada for January and February last as follows: Imports, £6,923,000; exports, £4,503,000. The corresponding figures for 1903 were: Imports, £6,748,000; exports, £5,580,000.

A SOUTH SEA TRAGEDY

Admiralty Islanders Out Into Cannibalism

Vancouver May 17.—The Australian Liner Miowera brings a fearful story of cannibalism on the Admiralty Islands, where five men were recently killed, roasted and eaten. Punishment followed swiftly, the German warship Condor visited the scene of the horrible outrage, arrested the ringleaders and bombarded their village. From those who had taken part in the wild orgie they learned the following details of what occurred previous to thir arrival on the scene. It appears that a Chinaman and four blacks while working in the bush were attacked by a tribe tribe of islanders, armed with spears and clubs. They were brutally beaten to death and then their bodies were picked up and fires were kindled. While the feast was preparing the barbarians danced round, chanting their hideous war songs.

With the advent of the warship Condoe an expedition was sent ashore and at the point of the rifles the natives were compelled to hand over the instigators of the outrage. Irons placed on their arms and legs and the men were taken on board the ship. Then the bombardment of the village commenced, and the whole tribe quickly took to their heels and sought the shelter of the woods. The imprisoned ringleaders were taken back to the nearest German station, and there await trial for their crime.

JAPS LOSE ANOTHER BOAT WHILE WORKING ON SUBMARINE MINE

Japs will Attack Port Arthur by Land and Sea in a Few Days--Ready to Lose 200 Men

Tokio, May 16.—The Japanese despatch boat Miyako was destroyed in Kerr Bay by striking a submerged mine.

Eight casualties are reported.

THE COURTESY OF WAR.

Liao Yang, May 16.—Lieut. Sorokin, who was wounded in the eye in the fight at Ku-Lien-Cheng, owes his life to the mercy of a Japanese soldier. When the lieutenant fell after receiving his wound a comrade stopped to rescue him. Two Japanese soldiers, one of whom carried a red cross flag and the other a rifle, came up. The rifleman levelled his weapon, ordered Sorokin to remain prone upon the ground and his comrade to leave. Then the Japanese with the red cross flag carefully washed and dressed Sorokin's wound, gave him a drink and retired. Sorokin arrived here safely.

ANOTHER RUMOR OF WAR.

New-Chwang, May 16.—There is an unconfirmed native rumor that heavy fighting took place in the direction of Liao-Yang yesterday. The reports of big guns were faintly heard east of New-Chwang at 5 o'clock this morning.

[The Japanese are reported to be moving slowly upon both Hai Cheng and Liao Yang, not desiring to get out of touch with their reserves and base of supplies. The officials at St. Petersburg would not be surprised if General Kouropatkin were to withdraw from Liao Yang in order to escape the danger which now threatens him of being forced into Mongolia, where the Chinese, under General Ma, are awaiting to resist an invasion of Chinese territory. General Kuroki, commander of the first Japanese army corps, reports the occupation of Kaun Tien Cheng, sixty miles northeast of Feng Wang Cheng, on May 7. The London Times estimates that General Kouropatkin has more than 100,000 men and 256 guns, apart from his heavy guns, to defend 100 miles of front from New Chwang to Mukden. These are drawn up parallel to his line of communications, and there is only a single line of retreat.]

PORT ARTHUR'S ISOLATION.

New Chwang, May 16.—The Russians now admit that the railway is practically closed to Port Arthur. Nothing has been heard from there by wire for three days, and six days' mail consigned to points south of Haiu Yen was returned last evening. The furniture of the Administration building here has been taken away. The Russians say that General Linevitch, with a large army, is moving from Vladivostok towards Korea.

READY TO LOSE 2,000.

Chefoo May 16.—A combined land and sea attack on Port Arthur is expected to take place between May 20 and May 23.

The Japanese hope to occupy Port Dalny within a few days. Dalny is not fortified, the only fort in the vicinity being one midway between Talienwan and Kin Chou. After the destruction of the submarine mines at Talienwan the Japanese intend to land additional troops there and commence an attack on Port Arthur.

A Japanese officer stated that the Japanese are ready to lose two thousand men in the attack. This he did not consider to be a large number.

[A correspondent of The London Daily News, who has arrived at Chefoo, from Port Arthur, which place he left Thursday, says that although 25,000 Japanese have landed north of Port Arthur the garrison there is not dismayed. The place is provisioned for nine months. The garrison numbers 15,000 men, exclusive of 30,000 Chinese coolies. The correspondent denies that Admiral Togo's bombardments were effective. He says that not a single gun was disabled. The populated parts of the city were slightly damaged, but the arsenals and dock yards were not injured. The Retvizan is permanently disabled. The Askold has been docked, and is being repaired. The other ships are not injured. The warships are able to get to sea as the channel has been cleared. Two cruisers and two torpedo boat destroyers steamed outside last Sunday. The garrison holds all the good positions within 20 miles of the fortress. A battalion of Japanese advanced last Sunday from Kin Chau Bay. They were met with artillery fire, which was followed by a charge of the Cossacks. The Japanese retreated, leaving eighty-five dead on the ground. A report from Viceroy Alexieff to the Czar, dated May 14, reported all quiet at Port Arthur.]

A RUSSIAN NAVAL HERO.

St. Petersburg, May 16.—The interruption of communication with Port Arthur prevents the Admiralty investigating the announcement from Liao Yang of the daring torpedoing of a Japanese armored cruiser off Port Dalny. So soon as communication is re-established, the Admiralty expects the commander of the fortress to send full details.

The press story of the affair, dated Liao Yang, on Sunday, states that the attack was made in Ta-Lien Wan Bay on Tuesday last, while the Japanese squadron was concentrated outside Dalny, devoting its whole attention to Ta Lien Wan Bay. The attacking force was only a small naptha launch, in command of a young naval officer, who had with him three jackies. The launch mounted a small gun and carried three torpedoes. When darkness fell the launch crept out of Port Arthur with no lights aboard and no glow from the engines to betray her presence. It was late when the launch gained the outer line of the Japanese squadron. She slipped through the torpedo boat pickets, and selecting the largest warship, a big armored cruiser, stole toward her and succeeded in exploding against her side a single torpedo. A deafening roar followed the explosion, which echoed far in shore. Immediately flames enveloped the cruiser, which evidently was badly crippled. The crew of the cruiser was seen to be fighting the fire, which they at last succeeded in extinguishing. A sister ship took the damaged vessel in tow and disappeared to the southeast. The launch escaped the hot fire directed against her by the Japanese ships, but being unable to return to Port Arthur or get into Dalny, she was beached not far from Dalny.

BRETHREN EXPRESS SYMPATHY

To Mr. E. Chamberlain and Family in Their Bereavement

Resolution of condolence, passed on Monday, May 2nd, by the brethren of Nassau Orange Lodge, to Brother E. Chamberlain and family:

Dear Brother—We the officers and members of Nassau L.O.L., No. 457, in lodge assembled, desire to express our heartfelt sympathy in the loss you have sustained by the death of your beloved wife. Human sympathy at best is cold, but we point you to God's holy word, and to Him who has said: "Come unto Me all ye that mourn, and I will give you rest." God in His infinite wisdom, has called your loving wife from the troubles and trials of earth, home to dwell with Himself in Heaven. May we, dear brother, be enabled so to live that when we are called to obey the summons of the Grand Master of heaven, we shall with joy go from our labors on earth to enjoy the eternal paradise prepared for us above. Again assuring you of the heartfelt sympathy of every member of this lodge we are, dear brother, yours in bonds of love and truth.

BRITAIN IS WITH CHAMBERLAIN

In His Desire to Bind the Empire Closer Together

THE BRITISH ELECTION

Will be Fought on this Broad Issue by Balfour and Chamberlain

London, May 17.—Mr. Chamberlain's speech at Birmingham is accepted as the clearest evidence of the vigor with which the Imperial side of his campaign will be pushed. He is evidently convinced that the British people mean to remain part of a United Empire, and that they are prepared to go to the fullest lengths that can reasonably be expected to encourage a trade partnership with the colonies, who are already Great Britain's best business friends. In a word, Mr. Chamberlain realises that home protection alone is insufficient to enlist the support of the British people, but that upon the large Imperial issue the great mass of the community are entirely with him, provided that the total cost of the necessities in smaller British homesteads is not increased. Mr. Chamberlain is certain of his power to satisfy this condition.

His speech is also accepted as proving that Mr. Balfour and Mr. Chamberlain are allies in the Imperial reciprocity campaign for all practical purposes, and that the general election, which is probable next year, will be fought on that broad issue.

I understand that Mr. Chamberlain has received assurances of the desire of the Canadian manufacturers to cordially co-operate in this policy.

BRITAIN ASK AN INQUIRY

Killing in Colorado Strike Brings Perplexing Boston Note Case

Washington, May 17.—The British Government has become involved in the labor troubles in Colorado and may ask an indemnity. Lancelot Collins, a Britisher and a mountain miner was killed by strikers at Telluride, it is alleged. The British consul at Denver started an investigation and reported the case to the British embassy here. Sir Mortimer Durand, finding one of the allegations was that the man was killed for lack of protection, called the attention of the state department to the matter. The department forwarded the ambassador's note to the governor fo Colorado who explains that owing to the existence of martial law in Telluride county it is not possible to make the legal investigation required to answer the British note. It is expected that further proceedings will be taken when the labor troubles in Colorado are at an end.

NEWS BY CABLE; CHILDREN COMING

ANGLO-CANADIAN TRADE FIGURES MADE PUBLIC

London, May 15.—At the annual meeting in connection with the children's emigration homes at Birmingham, Mr. J. T. Middlemore, M.P., said he asked for £500 to send children to Canada. He had rented two little houses in St. Luke's road in 1872, as an experiment, and as soon as he arriven in Canada and saw how the boys and girls were welcomed there, he knew the experiment was a success.

Will Sing Canada's Song.

London, May 15.—The program suggested by the League of Empire to celebrate Empire Day includes "The Maple Leaf Forever."

Was Interested in Canada.

London, May 15.—Miss Clara Lowe, daughter of Sir Hudson Lowe, of St. Helena fame, died yesterday. She was greatly interested in and visited Canada in 1871 to assist Miss Macpherson's emigration scheme.

Chinese Labor Issue.

London, May 15.—The Spectator says the Government found themselves unable to pay the slightest attention to the remonstrances of the colonies against Chinese labor in South Africa, because by so doing they would have criticisized the action of our fellow-countrymen in the Transvaal. Canda, through her organs of public opinion implored the Government to wait until the grant of self-government before the question of the introduction of Chinese in South Africa was finally decided.

The Depopulation of Britain.

London, May 15.—The number of British emigrants for the past year was 250,000, the largest number in any year since 1889. The increase was chiefly due to the large number going to Canada and South Africa. Rather more than half went to the British colonies.

A Point for Poultry-Keepers.

London, May 15.—British egg dealers are greatly interested in Lord Onslow's advice to use coffee to dye home eggs in order to compete with the tinted article from abroad. Colored eggs run a shilling higher per 100. The majority of colored eggs come from France, but Canada is her keenest rival.

A Trade Plan That Failed.

London, May 15.—The proposed floating exhibition which was scheduled to visit the colonies in the interest of British export trade has fallen through. Attempts were made to get the British Empire League to assume the scheme, without success.

Many Presented at Court.

London, May 15.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra held the second court of the season at Buckingham Palace last night, at which there was an exceptionally large representation of royal personages. A very large number of presentations were made.

Penny Postage With Australia.

London, May 15.—Lord Stanley has intimated to the Australian Government that if they will fix a day for their adhesion to the scheme he will at once establish penny post from England to Australia. He has also proposed to the colonies that postal orders should be interchangeable as between Great Britain and the colonies and many of the colonies have already agreed. The Postmaster-General trusts that most, if not all of the others may see their way to coming into the agreement within a few months.

Mr. Preston Will Investigate.

London, May 15.—The Canadian Emigration Commissioner, Mr. W. T. R. Preston, declares himself tired of contradicting stories cabled from Canada. He will personally interview on their landing, at Liverpool the dozen Londoners reported as returning disgusted with their experience in Canada.

RUSSIA WILL PAY EIGHTY THOUSAND

TO CANADIAN SEALER FOR VESSELS WHICH WERE ILLEGALLY SEIZED

London, May 16.—The Canadian Associated Press understands that the amount paid by Russia as compensation for the seizure of Canadian sealers is in the neighborhood of $80,000. The matter was arbitrated in London recently, when the Russians tried to open the whole question of pelagic sealing, but finally yielded to the Canadian contention that the sole issue was the assessment of damages for Canadian sealing vessels illegally seized by the Russian Government agents. The amount mentioned above is the amount of damages, understood to be finally awarded as the result of the arbitration.

UNION LABELED

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 17 1904

A BOON FOR COUNTRY PASTORS

The union of the three churches, about which so much is being said would be an especially great boon to the country pastor. Thousands of weary miles' travel would be spared him each year; and the time thus consumed could be well spent in the now too often neglected study; for such overlapping of each other's pastoral work would be unknown.

It has pleased God to honor the labors of the Presbyterian, Congregational and Methodist Churches with no slender or sorry success in their historic past. Far greater purposes may still be served in the uniting of them as by the hand of the Lord.

This great trend towards unity, no doubt, has its basis in a united love to God and humanity, and is being strengthened by divinely ordered events. A West, "vaster than has been," is opening with phenomenal activity. With the present methods of meetings its demands in full, the denominations stand almost hopelessly inefficient.

Numbers accomplish what individuals cannot. In the propagation of the Truth, as in the development of commerce "unity is strength." The soldier falters alone, but with comrades he advances with confidence to victory. Treasures that are now beyond the reach of all shall then be the possession of all. Richer, by far, is the common good when mutual efforts promote it.

This unity of spirit is precious. To accomplish uniformity in rites, ceremonies and church government is an undertaking—be it well known—that will require a great amount of personal sacrifice. That there are great diversities and distinctive peculiarities is already openly recognised. The signs of the times are, that as the stones of the Temple were so closely cemented together that they seemed to be but one stone, so these churches are beginning to exhibit such oneness or entireness, that the prospect is for more than a gluing or cementing together. it is for a becoming each each into the others' incorporate:

"O scenes surpassing fable, and yet true,
"Scenes of accomplished bliss! which who can see,
"Though but in distant prospect, and not feel
"His soul refreshed with foretaste of the joy!
"Antipathies are none. In the heart
"No passion touches a discordant string,
"But all is harmony and love."

A PROTEST AGAINST WAR

Edward Atkinson, of Brookline, Mass., is a great mathematician. He has the faculty of making figures look large and they certainly present a remarkable object lesson in connection with a war. The United States was at one time opposed to the acquisition of territory by conquest. While the nation offered the opportunity for expansion within itself it seemed to be wrong to reach out for even a coaling station in the ocean. But time worked a wondrous change in political sentiment.

Cuba was being oppressed by Spain, and the United States espoused her cause. Under the application of the Monroe Doctrine Uncle Sam presumed to exercise a protectorate over the island. Spain was called upon to stay her hand, and Spain declined to do so. The result was a war which Mr. Atkinson says cost the United States $200,000,000. And that was only the beginning of it. The domination of American ideas in the Philippines has been an expensive proceeding. Added to the cost of war the outlay up to June 30th next, will be $700,000,000. It is hard to grasp the situation as it is indicated by these figures. Seven hundred millions of dollars. Why says Mr. Atkinson, that sum would pay the entire bonded debt of the nation. A year later, on the basis of the administration statistics the liability will be $1,200,000,000, of which $900,000,000 may properly be charged to that policy which, before be adopted it, the late Mr. McKinley stigmatized as "criminal aggression."

Reduced to local effects the expense of the war have another suggestive lesson. Buffalo's share of it is about $4,500,000. That, says the Times, would open up fifty or sixty miles of additional water front for manufacturing purposes, and add millions to commercial enterprises, and in twenty years the investment would be worth many times the Philippines and their annual charge of $300,000,000 a year. New York's share of the war taxes would build 2,000 miles of improved stone road, or build the new Erie canal, at a cost of over $100,000,000!

"Up to date," says the Buffalo Times "we have nothing to show for the squandering of hundreds of millions, the destruction of hundreds of thousands of lives, the stimulation of militarism and the maintenance of an irresponsible despotism over another people—none the less a despotism because amiable by spells and intermittent in cruelty." But the war fever is on the United States, and it is figuring upon being some day among the strongest nations in the world, so far as army and navy are concerned."

NOTES AND COMMENT

No river is too wide and no hill too steep to stop the Japs. And Kuropatkin is reported to have a sore foot, which makes it hard for him to run.

King Peter of Servia is preparing to have himself crowned June 15. He will do well to have a high fence built around the place where the crowning is done, with a trusty man at the gate.

Kuropatkin is to have 300,000 more men. But what he seems to need most is room in which to fall back.

Important Time in Every Girl's Life

Is Between Fifteen and Eighteen Years of Age—How to Avoid the Dangers that Arise During this Period.

The mental activity of school life coupled with the terrible strain that must come during these years, taxes the vitality of even the strongest. A girl at this age often does not understand the physical change she is undergoing. She will in all probability be nervous and puzzled. She should have the benefit of good motherly advice and a long treatment of Ferrozone, which will supply new energy to bear her safely past the critical event. Ferrozone is the best remedy to take in early womanhood, because it contains so much nerve and blood nourishment. It corrects all derangements, cures bearing-down pains, nervousness, and prevents headaches. Ferrozone revitalizes young girls, gives them vim buoyancy, strong nerves and healthy body. Every girl should use Ferrozone, and wise mothers will see that their daughters have the benefit of this health-giving tonic.

Mrs. W. E. Michel, of Richmond, writes;—"I can strongly recommend Ferrozone as a good tonic for young ladies. My daughter has been taking Ferrozone for the past six months and it has worked wonders for her. Before using Ferrozone she was anaemic and nervous and had no strength. But Ferrozone has built up her whole constitution and given her strength and vitality. Of all the tonics (very good I don't think one of them compares with Ferrozone. It certainly brings health and strength to young girls more quickly."

There is no remedy half so effective as Ferrozone. A trial soon demonstrates its merit. Get Ferrozone from your druggist to-day and let it build you up. Beware of fraudulent substitutes and insist on having only Ferrozone. Price 50 cents a box, or [illegible] from the Ferrozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

Fish Still Plentiful

Regarding the reported destruction of fish on account of the severe winter, Mr. Thwaite, Provincial Inspector of Fisheries, upon being asked his opinion, replied that every winter there were more or less fish killed, but the few this year would never be missed. That from the natural situation of the lake it drew its supply of fish from the great chain of lakes to the north and the supply was inexhaustible. That the reason of the great numbers of lunge and bass in Scugog was attributable to the fact that Lake Scugog was at the headwaters of the Kawartha Lakes. Fish always went up stream and when they got in Scugog they could go no further. Their natural food was abundant and there was no cause for them to return to the northern lakes. Mr. Thwaite said he knew of no reason why the spirt would not be as good if not better this nin other years.

—Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, who always make it a point to do any work entrusted to them in a first class manner, have been engaged to decorate Chatham for Victoria Day. This is the second order of this kind from that city, which shows that their work is always satisfactory.

AN APPEAL TO THE FASHIONABLE SET IN CANADA.

"Lally Bernard," the Well-known Toronto Journalist, Writes from England of the Battle Against Consumption in Muskoka.

Lally Bernard, of the editorial staff of the Toronto Globe, writing to that paper from London, England, where she is now a resident, shows most clearly that the battle against the great white plague is one that should interest all classes of the community. It will be remembered that this writer entered incog. as a patient in the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, and afterwards in the Globe told of real life in that institution. In her present article she says:

"To-day I have found a letter at the club which nearly missed me, having been addressed 'Lally Bernard.' May I express to my unknown correspondent my warmest thanks for the kindly appreciation for the little I have been able to do in the battle being waged against tuberculosis in Canada. The need of sympathy and interest is a tremendous one, and I am always puzzled when I find really well educated and intelligent people in Canada so criminally ignorant of the extent of the danger, and the means which are being taken to combat it.

"It may be of some interest to those who feel as I do in regard to the responsibility which rests upon each and all to aid in this fight against a most insidious foe, when I tell them, that here in London, where I have been for only a few days, I have already come across the dread enemy four times. First of all, in the back garden of our humble quarters in Kensington I espied, when morning dawned, a tent with two beds in it. I enquired of our landlord why the tent was there, and was told a long story about the coronation and quarters for some boys coming up from the country, and that he, the landlord, had subsequently found it more agreeable to sleep in the tent than in the basement bedroom he had formerly occupied. A little later, in conversation with the lady who secured the lodgings, I learned that the landlord's son was obliged to sleep in a tent! Comment was needless.

"In looking for quarters I found a charming home of a young doctor and his wife, where extraordinarily moderate terms were asked for really exceptionally good accommodation. The doctor in question had been 'ordered south,' and his wife had to keep the house going by accepting 'paying guests.'

"Yet again, in the third place, I found that the lady who was at the head of the establishment had not only lost her husband from the dread disease, but had managed one of the most fashionable sanitariums in England, and her knowledge of the treatment and the extent of the problem in England showed me how tremendous was the need for care and watchfulness in our own country.

"May I ask my correspondent to use all possible influence to make the question of combating tuberculosis one of interest in the 'fashionable set' to which she evidently belongs. I know full well, from the little experience I have had, how tremendously a little genuine interest and help might lighten the burden now resting on the shoulders of the authorities of the Free Hospital for Consumptives at Gravenhurst. It is, of course, far away from wealthy centres, and out of sight is to be out of mind.

"I can quite understand that until people have seen forty or fifty patients together in different stages of consumption they do not realize what an immense amount of aid might be given by those who are fortunate enough to be free from the disease and by those who have little else to do than to invent or learn some new form of recreation.

"Mrs. Torrington has kindly promised me to try and get musical societies and people interested in music to provide a piano for the Hospital, and I feel sure it will be of immense benefit to the patients. Surely my correspondent who evinces such sympathy with the cause could make that sympathy take a practical form and organize a hospital library where books worth reading might be supplied, with some system similar to that of the Aberdeen Association, which has done such excellent work."

[Note.—Readers—and may their number be many—who desire to assist in the work of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives may send their gifts to Sir Wm. R. Meredith, Kt., Vice-President, National Sanitarium Association, Toronto, or Mr. W. J. Gage, Chairman of the Executive Committee.]

High Class Investment

THE OREGON MINING AND SMELTING COMPANY

Offer to Canadian investors a limited amount of stock of the above company The property owned by the Company consists at the present time of about 500 acres, which are located in the Tarryall District and Park County, Colorado. This whole district has been known for years on account of its rich placer ground, and is now prominently before the public owing to the number of very good properties which have been opened up recently producing, principally, gold, and lately some that are producing Platinum. On the Oregon property there are a number of well known veins of low grade ore that will yield a profit by being treated on the ground of the company. The company have recently opened up a fine vein in the Hawkeye group and this vein shows not only good values but an immense amount of ore which alone would make the property very valuable. Assays from ore taken from various parts of this property range from a few dollars to $373 per ton in gold. We have very little silver, lead or copper in the district. The company have a shaft 240 feet deep, with a good shaft house thoroughly well equipped with all modern mach nery to develop same. They are now driving a tunnel which is in about 700 feet and which will cut the Hawkeye vein about 300 feet deeper than where it is opened at present. There is enough ore exposed on the property of this company to keep them busy for a number of years and the reason for selling stock at the present time is to secure funds to build a mill. The company will probably join with the Almaden Company in building this mill. There is water enough to furnish water power and over 100 acres of fine spruce and pine timber. The affairs of the company have always been managed in a business-like economical manner and there are no officers' salaries. The monies received from the sale of stock go direct into the property.

I can heartily recommend this stock as safe, as well as an unusually good investment, because of the immense amount of ore which the company have already opened up. It is not a mere prospect, but the property has been developed by expense of a considerable amount of money and time.

The company is splendidly officered by men of integrity and high standing. The company has not pushed the sale of stock the last year owing to a delay in getting title to the ground from the Government, but now that has been satisfactorily adjusted and work will be pushed to a finish.

The number of exceedingly rich strikes which have been made during the last few weeks in the various camps in the State of Colorado is the best evidence of the prosperity of the mining business. Almost every camp in the state has opened up rich bodies of ore, and Park County is well in the lead in that line.

There are only $25,000 of stock for sale, at $1.00 per share. The company is capitalized at $200,000, and the advantage to the investor of selling the stock at par, is that every share is fully paid up and non-assessable.

BATTLESHIP TO STAY

American Expert Opinion Regarding Big Fighting Ship

Washington, May 16.—A Washington naval chief, well versed in the details of naval construction, says:

"Senator Hale is quite strong in trying to back up his statements by the results of the Russo-Japanese war as far as it has gone. In the first place, returns are very meagre so far, and even those that we have, while they show most effective work of the torpedo boats and small craft, by no means put the battleship in a bad light.

"If it had not been for the Japanese battleships outside of Port Arthur her torpedo fleet would not have been able to stay there a day, and would not have had the opportunity to prove its effectiveness. The Russian battleships would have come out and destroyed the entire fleet of small boats without trouble had they not been afraid of the Japanese ships that were there of equal size and power.

"It is just as unfair to say that the battleship is not effective as it would be to say that the land forts at Port Arthur were unnecessary and useless simply because they could not go out and pursue the enemy.

"If the results of the far Eastern war are to be taken examples from which to draw conclusions in this matter, the very best that can be said for the battleship is the fact that the Japanese who have been so successful with small boats, are continuing to build big battleships, and at present are trying to add more of them to their navy as soon as possible. From this it is to be inferred that the Japanese, who are engaged in actual warfare, have no doubt as to the efficiency of big battleships and the advisability of having plenty of them in their navy."

Was Badly Injured

While crossing Simcoe street on Saturday afternoon an old man named James Navin, 90 years of age, was knocked down by a rig and run over. He was taken into Ormond & Walsh's drug store, where he was revived, and taken to his home, where Dr. Greer attended him. No bones were broken, and although severely shaken up, he is expected to recover.

Police Court

A drunk was allowed to go at police court Saturday. A vagrant, who said he had come to Peterborough to sober up, was ordered to leave town. A wages case was settled out of court, and the complainant paid the costs, amounting to 85c. The chief is still after the bicyclists who ride on the sidewalk, and two cases were up for the Magistrate's consideration. Howard Goldy and Thomas Carson were each fined $2.00.

that neither by word or deed did she do aught to shock the most fastidious. It is true her merry laugh more than once rang out above the din of voices, but it was so joyous that no one objected, particularly when they looked in her bright and almost childish face. Arthur Carrollton, now acting as her escort, aided her materially, for it was soon whispered around that he was a wealthy Englishman, and many were the comments made upon the handsome couple, who seemed singularly adapted to each other. A glance had convinced Arthur Carrollton that Maggie was by far the most beautiful lady present, and feeling that on this her first introduction into society she needed some one to shield her, as it were, from the many foolish, flattering speeches which were sure to be made in her hearing, he kept her at his side, where she was nothing loth to stay, for, notwithstanding that she "hated him so," there was about him a fascination she did not try to resist.

"They are a splendid couple," thought Rose, and then she looked to see how Henry was affected by the attentions of the handsome stranger.

But Henry was not jealous, and, standing a little aloof, he felt more pleasure than pain in watching Maggie as she received the homage of the gay throng. Thoughts similar to those of Rose, however, forced themselves upon him as he saw the dignified bearing of Mr. Carrollton, and for the first time in his life he was conscious of an uncomfortable feeling of inferiority to something or somebody—he hardly knew what. This feeling, however, passed away when Maggie came at last to his side, with her winning smile, and playful words.

Very closely Madam Conway watched her now; but Maggie did not heed it, and, leaning on Henry's arm, she seemed oblivious to all save him. After a time he led her out upon a side piazza, where they would be comparatively alone. Observing that she seemed a little chilly, he left her for a moment while he went in quest of her shawl. Scarcely was he gone when a slight, fairy form came flitting through the moonlight to where Maggie sat, and twining its snow-white arms around her neck, looked lovingly into her eyes, whispering soft and low, "My sister!"

"My sister!" How Maggie's blood bounded at the sound of that name, which even the night wind, sighing through the trees, seemed to take up and repeat. "My sister!" What was there in those words thus to affect her? Was that fair young creature, who hung so fondly over her, naught to her save a common stranger? Was there no tie between them, no bond of sympathy and love? We ask this of you, our reader, and not of Maggie Miller; for to her there came no questioning like this. She only knew that every pulsation of her heart responded to the name of sister, when breathed by sweet Rose Warner, and folding her arms about her, she pillowed the golden head upon her bosom, and pushing back the clustering curls, gazed long and earnestly into a face which seemed so heavenly and pure.

Few were the words they uttered at first, for the mysterious, invisible something which prompted each to look into the other's eyes, to clasp the other's hands, to kiss the other's lips, and whisper the other's name.

"I have wished so much to see you, to know if you are worthy of my noble brother," said Rose at last, thinking she must say something on the subject uppermost in both their minds.

"And am I worthy?" asked Maggie, the bright blushes stealing over her cheek. "Will you let me be your sister?"

"My heart would claim you for that, even though I had no brother," answered Rose, and again her lips touched those of Maggie.

Seeing them thus together, Henry tarried purposely a long time, and when at last he rejoined them he proposed returning to the drawing-room, where many inquiries were making for Maggie.

"I have looked for you a long time, Miss Maggie," said Mr. Carrollton. "I wish to hear you play," and, taking her arm in his, he led her to the piano.

From the moment of her first introduction to him, Maggie had felt that there was something commanding in his manner—something she could not disobey, and now, though she fancied it was impossible to play before the multitude, she seated herself mechanically, and while the keys swam before her eyes, went through with a difficult piece which she had never but once before executed correctly.

"You have done well—much better than I anticipated," said Mr. Carrollton, again offering her his arm; and though a little vexed, those few words of commendation were worth more to Maggie than the most flattering speech which Henry Warner had ever made to her.

Soon after leaving the piano a young man approached and invited her to waltz. This was something in which Maggie excelled; for two winters before, Madam Conway had hired a teacher to instruct her granddaughters in dancing, and she was about to accept the invitation when, drawing her arm still closer within his own, Mr. Carrollton looked down upon her, saying softly, "I wouldn't."

Maggie had often waltzed with Henry at home. He saw no harm in it, and now when Arthur Carrollton objected she was provoked, while at the same time she felt constrained to decline.

"Some time, when I know you better, I will explain to you why I do not think it proper for young girls to waltz with every one," said Mr. Carrollton; and leading her from the drawing-room, he devoted himself to her for the remainder of the evening, making himself so perfectly agreeable that Maggie forgot everything, even Henry Warner, who in the meantime had tried to recognize Madam Conway as an acquaintance.

A cool nod, however, was all the token of recognition she had to give him. This state of feeling augured ill for the success of his suit; but when at a late hour that night, in spite of grandmother or Englishman, he handed Maggie to the carriage, he whispered to her softly, "I will see her to-morrow morning and know the worst."

The words caught the quick ear of Madam Conway, but not wishing Mr Carrollton to know there was anything particular between her granddaughter and Henry Warner, she said nothing, and when arrived at last at the hotel she asked an explanation, Maggie, who hurried off to bed, was too sleepy to give her any answer.

"I shall know before long, any way, if he sees me in the morning," she thought, as she heard a distant clock strike two, and settled her face into the withering frown with which she intended to annihilate Henry Warner. The old lady was herself ere long much faster asleep than the young girl at her side, who was thinking of Henry Warner, wishing he was three inches taller, or herself three inches shorter, and wondering if his square shoulders would not be somewhat improved by braces!

"I never noticed how short and crooked he was," she thought, "until I saw him standing by the side of Mr. Carrollton, who is such a splendid figure, so tall and straight; but big, overgrown girls like me always get short husbands, they say," and, satisfied with this conclusion, she fell asleep.

CHAPTER XIV.

At a comparatively early hour Madam Conway arose, and, going to the parlor, found there Arthur Carrollton, who asked if Margaret were not yet up. "Say that I wish her to ride with me on horseback," said he. "The morning air will do her good," and, quite delighted, Madam Conway carried the message to her granddaughter.

"Tell him I shan't do it," answered the sleepy Maggie, adjusting herself for another nap. Then, as she thought how his eyes probably looked as he said it, "I wish her to ride," she felt impelled to obey, and greatly to her grandmother's surprise, she commenced dressing.

Theo's riding dress was borrowed, and though it did not fit her exactly, she looked unusually well when she met Mr. Carrollton in the lower hall, and once mounted upon the gay steed, and galloping away into the country, she felt more than repaid for the loss of her morning slumber.

"You ride well," said Mr. Carrollton, when at last they paused upon the brow of a hill, overlooking the town, "but you have some faults, which, with your permission, I will correct," and in the most polite and gentlemanly manner, he proceeded to speak of a few points wherein her riding might be improved.

Among other things, he said she rode too fast for a lady; and, biting her lip, Maggie thought, "If I only had Gritty here I'd lead him such a race as would either break his bones or his neck, I'm not particular which!"

Still, she followed his directions implicitly, and when, ere they reached home, he told her that she excelled many who had been for years to riding schools, she felt repaid for his criticisms, which she knew were just, even if they were not agreeable. Breakfast being over, he announced his intention of going down to Boston, telling Maggie he should probably return that evening and go with her to Hillsdale on the morrow.

Scarcely had he gone when Harry Warner appeared, asking an interview with Madam Conway, who haughtily led the way into a private room. Very candidly and honorably Henry made known to her his wishes, whereupon a most stormy scene ensued, the lady so far forgetting herself as to raise her voice several notes above its usual pitch; while Henry, angered by her insulting words, bade her take the consequences of her refusal, hinting that girls had been known to marry without their guardian's consent.

"An elopement, hey? He threatens me with an elopement, does he?" said Madam Conway, as the door closed after him. "I am glad he warned me in time," and then, trembling in every limb lest Maggie should be spirited away before her very eyes, she determined upon going home immediately, and leaving Arthur Carrollton to follow in the cars.

Accordingly Maggie was bidden to pack her things at once, the excited old lady keeping her eye constantly upon her to see that she did not disappear through the window or some other improbable place. In silence Maggie obeyed, pouting the while a very little, partly because she should not again see Henry, partly because she had confidently expected to ride home with Mr. Carrollton, and partly because she wished to stay to the firemen's muster, which had been long talked about, and was to take place on the morrow. They were ready at last, and then in a very perturbed state of feeling, Madam Conway waited for her carriage, which was not forthcoming, and upon inquiry, George Douglas learned that, having counted upon another day in the city, Mike was now going through a series of plunge baths, by way of sobering himself ere appearing before his mistress. This, however, George kept from Madam Conway, not wishing to alarm her; and when, after a time, Mike appeared sitting bolt upright upon the box, with the lines grasped firmly in his hands, she did not suspect the truth, nor know that he, too, was angry for being thus compelled to go home before he saw the firemen.

Thinking him sober enough to be perfectly safe, George Douglas felt no fear, and bowing to his new relatives, went back to comfort Theo, who, as a matter of course, cried a little when the carriage drove away. Worcester was left behind, and they were far out in the country ere a word was exchanged between Madam Conway and Maggie; for while the

Japs Troops from Feng-Wang-Cheng Occupied Suoyn, 60 Miles East of Liao-Yang, on Thursday.

Tokio, May 15.—A detachment of Japanese troops has occupied Kwan-Tien-Sien, sixty miles northeast of Feng-Wang-Cheng.

On Thursday last a detachment of Japanese attacked and dispersed 300 Russian cavalrymen and captured a wounded officer and two men. The Russian cavalry was retiring from Tuch-Li-Chan.

Shan-Hai-Kwan, May 15.—Japanese troops from Feng-Wang-Cheng occupied Suoyn, 60 miles east of Liao-Yang, on the mail road, on Thursday. Their number is not known. The country is hilly.

Mukden, May 15.—Pointien, near Port Adams, on the Liao-Tung peninsula, has again been occupied by the Japanese. Communication with Port Arthur is interrupted.

BRITISH NOW AT LHASAA

The Thibetans will Soon be Forced to Sue for Peace with Great Britian

Special To THE TIMES.

London, May 16.—Colonel Younghusband has advanced to the outskirts of Lhassa and within a day or two will be in possession of the sacred city. The British forces are purposely delaying their advance on the capital, in order to give the Thibetans an opportunity of suing for peace. The latest folly of the Thibetans in butchering eight servants of the Younghusband mission but emphasizes the necessity for the expedition, and the salutary lesson it must proceed to teach the ignorant and arrogant Lamas. At Guru they forced fighting upon the British and the result of that engagement should have convinced them of the futility of armed conflict with the Gurkhas of Nepal, the flower of the Indian army. It was, as the London Express observes, as though a flock of sheep butted a group of lions, and it speaks in highest praise of the discipline of the Indian troops that that the whole force was not exterminated. Nothing stirs the fury of gallant fighting men so madly as to be wantonly shot down by people they despise. The lesson taught the priestly fanatics of Lhassa has already been a sharp one, but it must be continued.

The fray furnishes a perfect illustration of the arrogant ignorance and overweening folly of the lamas. If they possessed the least accurate knowledge of the true strength of India they would be aware of the indomitable pluck and martial quality of the Gurkhas, men who come from a neighboring country to Thibet. The physique and bearing of the Sikhs speak for themselves.

It is pitiable to think of the lives thrown away in defence of the Lhasa myth. At one time the foolish report was widely circulated that the British force would melt away like snow in May beneath the curses of the praying wheels. But Gen. Macdonald and Col. Younghusband continued to advance. The advance was purposely a slow one, in order to give the recalcitrant Mongols plenty of time to come to terms. The delay has been attributed to fear, with the results that have been recorded.

The London paper quoted doubtless expresses the full determination of the Indian Government, when it says the myth of Lhasa must be destroyed, just as, six years ago, Sir William Lockhart killed the tradition that Tirah, the upland home of the Afridi, was impregnable; and Sir Bindon Blood burst up the bogey of Bajaur. In 1897-8 the Indian Government explained to the Pathan tribesmen in the most practical manner possible that wherever they went, the Indian army could follow; and now the Lamas of Lhasa must learn that they are not beyond the reach of the long arm of the British raj. So long as they behave themselves and respect British interests and British rights they will be left unmolested, but never again in the old delusion that their seclusion is due either to fear or to weakness on the part of their powerful neighbors to the south.

Russian rifles have been found in the hands of the Lhasa escort. The recent truculence was inspired by the belief that the Czar stood at their right hand. The sanctity of Lhasa is purely priest created. The Jerusalem of the Buddhist religion is in India at Bodh-gaya, near Patna, where Buddha lived, and where in the court yard of the great temple stands to-day a lineal descendant of the famous fig tree beneath whose shade sat Buddha when he taught the people.

ANGLO-SAXON VS. SLAV

Methodist Delegates Cheer Prophecy of Conflict For Supremacy

Los Angeles, May 15.—To-day, before us, we see the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack, side by side. And we fervently pray that these two great banners shall thus continue to float, so that when the great conflict between the Anglo-Saxon and the Slav shall come, these two great nations shall control the destinies of the world."

Enthusiastic applause greeted this declaration before the Methodist general conference to-day. The speaker was Wm. R. Warnock, a lawyer from Urbana, Ohio, and a lay delegate in the Cincinnati Conference. He introduced Rev. William Dodson, of Nova Scotia fraternal delegate from the Methodist Episcopal church of Canada, who made a speech containing many witty passages, yet serious in its general tone, and advocating Liberalism is religion.

"In Canada we believe," said Dr. Dodson, "that no church or man has a right to ask another to believe that which cannot be construed into thought. A church has no right to ask a man to believe a thing that is in conflict with finite truths determined by science."

MANY DEER DEAD

Hundreds Die of Hunger and Cold During the Last Winter

A correspondent writes the Times that many deer have died during last winter in the northern woods. While out prospecting he counted over thirty dead deer. The habit of the dear is to keep to the runaways and browse along them, but in this long, severe winter the fodder close to the runaways gave out and then the dear starved. He came across dead bodies everywhere. Often they had waded out into the deep snow towards other trees, and, overcome by weakness, sank down and died where they were.

In Haliburton county this was bad enough, but it is said that in the French River district it was much worse. There the unfortunate deer died by the thousands. It is said that the lumbermen saved hundreds of them. Hunger drove the animals right up to the camps, where they were not molested, but allowed to feed at the haystacks.

TO CANADIAN INVESTORS

I desire to call the attention of investors to the

Smuggler Gold Mining Co.'s Proposition

of which I am the authorized agent

Investments in mining stocks where they can be purchased cheaply whose property contains merit and whose directors are men of unquestionable honor and integrity, and especially when sufficient work has been done to guarantee a producing mine and the leads have been demonstrated to be permanent, offer the greatest opportunity for large returns from modern investments.

The shrewdest capitalists of England and America are giving more attention to mining properties and putting more money into them than at any time in the past history of the world.

The Smuggler Group consists of five full sized claims, to-wit:—The Smuggler, Gangon, Black Jack, Star and Bed Rock, located in the Greenhorn District of Eastern Oregon. Surrounding mines are Potosi, Pride of Pendleton, Bonanza and Rockefeller, developing work to the extent of 1,000 feet of tunnelling, drifts and crosscuts have been made, exposing hundreds of tons of high grade ore, averaging from $25 to $45 per ton, based on smelter returns, and for the purpose of equipping the mines a limited number of shares of Treasury Stock will be sold at 25 cents per share, the par value of which is $1.00.

HIGH CLA INVESTMENT

LA ZACUALPA RUBBER PLANTATION COMPANY

Incorporated Under the Laws of the State of California.

La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation is situated in the best location in Mexico for the cultivation of rubber. It has been known for a great many years as a very choice strip of rubber land and subsequent experience has shown that it is equal to all that has been claimed for it. The affairs of the company are in the hands of men of undoubted integrity and high reputation as successful men of business. To those seeking a safe investment which will secure a good income for life, this proposition offers a favorable opportunity

Shares in La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation are not capital stock of a corporation, and carry none of the responsibilities and obligations, or liability to assessment of capital stock; but represent an undivided interest in the plantation itself.

The twelve thousand acres comprising the plantation are divided into twelve thousand shares, each share representing one acre of land, and the holders of shares in La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation are the actual owners of one undivided acre of land, for each share held, with a guarantee expressed upon the certificate by La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation Company, under its official seal, to plant two hundred or more rubber trees per acre for each share sold, and to care for same for a period of five years, and at the expiration of that time to gather the first harvest and deliver the net proceeds thereof to the shareholder.

In other words, La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation Company sells to each shareholder one undivided acre of land in La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation, with two hundred or more rubber trees five years old, and their profits for all time, for each share sold, and agrees to plant so that the first harvest belonging to the shareholder is the one to be gathered from La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation during the sixth year from the date of the certificate.

After the delivery of the first harvest La Zacualpa Rubber Plantation Company will care for the plantation, and harvest and market the crop for ten per cent. of the net proceeds therefrom. Out of this commission the Company agrees to pay all costs of administration, including maintenance of its home and branch offices.

This plan gives the purchaser of shares an interest of definite acreage, and his proportionate share in the total yield of rubber from the entire plantation forever, making it absolutely certain that the interest of each shareholder will receive the same careful attention forever, making it absolutely certain that the interest of each shareholder will receive the same careful attention forever, making it absolutely certain, others, no matter how large or small, for the success of the plantation will be the mutual gain of all.

The foregoing state of facts makes it impossible for any person or persons to combine against or injure the individual interest of the smallest shareholder in the plantation, or to encumber the same, and it can be readily seen that the success of one means the success of all

All persons have some money, but more time. A little money and five years of time, if applied to the cultivation of rubber, will produce large profits.

Full information will be supplied on application to Mr. Roland Kidd, Fiscal Agent for Ontario, or to

The proposition when developed will pay no less than 50 per cent. per annum on the investment, and it behooves anyone who wishes to better his financial condition, to give immediate attention to this.

Full particulars in every detail will be given to all to whom such a proposition may appeal, but please do not ask for them unless you really are interested, because we waste your own time and ours also.

Capital $1,000,000, 500,000 Shares in Treasury

Property includes two great mining estates—one gold, the other copper—both containing wide, deep, proven veins of high and low grade ore.

Development work has been systematically carried on, with results that more than justify every claim made by the company, and unquestionably proves the destiny of the property to equal that of the greatest successful mining companies of the world.

Above Statement Can be Easily Verified

The following two facts alone will give anyone familiar with mining a rough idea of the great value of the property.

The Cripple King Group contains one vein 30 feet wide, 5 feet of which runs from $10 to $100 per ton, and the Company owns 9,000 feet on this vein.

Ore running from $18 to $60 per ton is continually being shipped from the gold property, and 36 samples taken from widely different portions of the vein system averaged $28.26 per ton.

FACILITIES—The Company owns 1,720 acres of placer and timber land, water power of 500 (minimum) horse power. No expensive shaft work necessary. Ore easily treated on Company's property, thus saving freight and smelter charges.

DIVIDENDS—To begin earning and paying large dividends it is only necessary to erect two 50 ton mills, one on each property. To obtain funds for this purpose a limited amount of stock is offered at

CONCERNING OUR HOLIDAYS

Most of Them Are Regulated Entirely by the Authorities of the Various States.

There is no national holiday in the United States, in the sense of being made so by federal law. Such matters are regulated entirely by state authority, and they vary in the different states. Mississippi alone having no statutory holidays, says the Nashville (Tenn.) Banner. The Fourth of July and Christmas are observed as holidays in all of the states, and all of the governors usually follow the president in setting apart a Thanksgiving day, which the laws in most states have made a bank holiday, but otherwise there is nothing like uniformity. June 3, Jefferson Davis' birthday, is a holiday in Florida, Georgia, Alabama and Louisiana. Abraham Lincoln's birthday is observed as a holiday in Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Minnesota, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Pennsylvania Washington and Wyoming. A number of states observe some special holiday not observed elsewhere, as January 8 (the battle of New Orleans), in Louisiana; March 2 (state independence), in Texas; May 20 (Mecklenburg declaration), in North Carolina, etc. Congress has at various times appointed special holidays, and in the second session of the Fifty-third congress it passed an act making Labor day a holiday in the District of Columbia. It has also recognized certain other days as holidays for commercial purposes within the district, but there is nothing like a general act on the subject. The president's Thanksgiving proclamation makes that day a legal holiday in the District of Columbia and the territories only.

MORMONS IDEAL SETTLERS.

Colonies in Mexico Have the Reputation of Being Most Desirable Citizens.

The following information was recently given to the Chihuahua Enterprise by President Ivins, of that state, who presides over the Mormon colonies in Mexico.

"The year just passed has been quite prosperous for our people in Mexico, although the crops were not the best on account of the scarcity of rain last summer; yet the aggregate shows an increase of wealth in Colonia Juarez, at Nuevas Casas Grandes, the average income for each head of a family was $1,400, or $140,000 for the 100 families. The other colonies have done quite as well, the total for the 4,000 colonists being about $400,000 per year. We have a very perfect system of obtaining statistics among our people, and every year a complete census is taken of our people and what they are doing. About 3,600 of them reside in this state and the rest in Sonora.

"At Colonia Juarez we have commenced to build an academy at a cost of $30,000, and this will be finished in a year. The school will be free to all, Mexicans included."

ICEBREAKER FOR THE ST. LAWRENCE

Government Expects To Have One Working Next Spring

PROBABLE TYPE OF BOAT

Mr. John Kennedy Thinks it will be of the Canadian, not the Russian Pattern

Montreal, May 6.—Mr. John Kennedy, the chief engineer of the Harbor Board of this city, has for some years been advocating the placing of an ice breaker upon the St. Lawrence at this point, in order to keep the harbor open for a considerable period later in the fall, as well as to expedite the opening of navigation in the spring. In connection with this, some two or three years ago, he made several voluminous reports. Some little time ago, these reports were forwarded to Ottawa, and the cabinet yesterday, decided to act in accordance with the suggestions contained therein. It was decided to ask for a vote for placing an icebreaker upon the St. Lawrence and it is expected that it will be ready for use this spring.

When interviewed, Mr. Kennedy pointed out that the Government already had a number of icebreakers at different point inland and on the Northumberland Straits. Some are stationed at Mackinaw, some in the Detroit River, and some at Quebec. These are vessels heavily constructed with powerful engines, and having a spoon shaped bow. Contrary to the general opinion, these vessels break the ice by the force of their impact, and not by running up on the ice and breaking it beneath them. Mr. Kennedy, while he could not say what kind of vessel would be employed, thought it extremely probable that the new vessel would be similar to those at present in use.

"An icebreaker," he continued, "has been in use by the United States for some years. The late Admiral Makaroff, when visiting the United States some years ago, became so enamoured of this type that on his return to Russia, the Ermak, a vessel of this kind, was constructed with a screw in front. Similar icebreakers were built for Lake Baikal; and it was expected by the late admiral that they would be able to keep navigation open at that point throughout the winter. It was largely owing to the failure of this type that the Russians have experienced so much trouble at that point with the Trans-Siberian Railway.

"The Ermak," Mr. Kennedy continued, "was recently sent to England where a bow of a kind similar to those in use on the Canadian icebreaker was built upon it at the yards of the Armstrong Shipbuilding Company. So," concluded Mr. Kennedy, "it is not likely that the Canadian Government will adopt that kind of a boat."

Mr. Kennedy had no doubt as to the practicability of the plan.

TAKE TO OUR APPLES

EUROPEANS LEARNING TO LIKE AND USE OUR GOOD FRUIT.

The Demand Increases at the Rate of a Million Barrels a Year—French Make Wine of Them.

Since last fall nearly 3,000,000 barrels of apples, almost a million more than in the previous year, have been exported from American ports. Most of them have gone to Great Britain and other European countries, where they have found a ready market at good prices, says the New York Sun.

The demand for the fruit still keeps up any many thousands of barrels are being shipped each week to the other side. Germany has taken to the American apple this season with especial kindness, and Baldwins and Newtown pippins, which are the favorite varieties with the Germans, now are frequently found in the small stores and on stands and peddlers' wagons in Berlin and other large cities.

While these apples do not always have the fine flavor of the fruit as we know it, yet, owing to the great care with which they have been packed, they are a credit to the American grower, both in appearance and taste. The American farmer is now studying the best methods of picking and packing fruit for long distance shipment, and there is every reason to expect that in a short time our apples will be sold in Europe in practically as good condition as in the home markets.

A curious feature of the American apple's invasion of Europe has been the large sale on the continent in the last few months of the evaporated product for wine making purposes. The shortage of the grape crop in France has led to a corresponding scarcity of wine, and the peasants and others of the poorer classes, unable to buy the native wines, have been forced to fall back on the dried apple.

From what are known in the apple trade as chops, or apples cut up and dried, the peasants make a cheap drink which is said to have satisfying properties and to furnish a very fair substitute for wine pressed from the grape. A New York exporter who has sampled this beverage says of it:

"It's a sort of apple champagne or beer, and it's not bad, either. The natives make it by putting the dried apples into a barrel or tub of water, adding a quantity of yeast and letting the mixture stand for a week or so.

"By that time it's good and sharp and ready for drinking. It's to the Frenchman about what cider is to our American farmers, and they smack their lips over it just as if it was the real thing."

Several hundred carloads of dried apples have been sent to France for this use since last fall, and fresh shipments are going forward every week. The fruit costs about two and one-half cents a pound in New York, and the freight to the other side is only one-quarter cent more, so that the Frenchman who wants a cheap substitute for the native wine gets it.

The Germans, also, make an inexpensive wine from dried apples; but the practice is not so general with them as with the French, and the exports of American dried apples to Germany are therefore more limited. A good many hundreds of tons of dried apple cores and skins have been sold in German markets this year for use as a basis for certain jams and jellies.

The great bulk of all apples shipped abroad, both of fresh fruit and evaporated, comes from New York state. Wayne county, in the western end, supplies most of the dried apples made in this country, there being no fewer than 2,000 evaporators at work there every fall. The same county also furnishes a large share of the best fresh fruit marketed at home or abroad.

Perhaps She Was Sane.

"I was asked to play before the inmates of an insane asylum by an alienist," said Kubelik, the violinist, "the doctor believing that music was a fine medicine for unbalanced minds. I accordingly accompanied him to the institution, where he introduced me, and I said I would favor my hearers with something gay and happy. The crazy folks were all seated about the platform in chairs, and seemed to be intensely interested. As I finished, a very pretty young woman rose and beckoned to me. I thought, artistlike, that she wanted an encore.

"The doctor was about to question her, when she exclaimed:

"'To think of the likes of me being in here, and he being at large in the wurrld!'

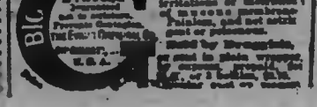
"That was the last time I ever played in an insane asylum."—Rochester Herald.

Smokeless Boiler.

The smokeless boiler of Sir John Primrose, of Glasgow, is claimed to be revolutionary in several ways. It depends upon a separate water-jacketed chamber, in which combustion takes place, and only the gaseous products of combustion impinge on the fire or water-tube steam-raising surfaces. The air and fuel are fed together, no unconsumed gases escaping from the furnace, while no smoke or carbonic acid comes from the chimney or funnel. Great economy in fuel and efficiency in steam are effected, and experiments on a marine boiler indicate that the new system will give a ship its present power with half the present boiler-room space and boiler-room weight.

Automobile Trains.

The characteristic feature of the automobile train invented in France is the principle that each car propels itself; the propelling force only is furnished by the locomotive. The latter, therefore, as it has no pulling to perform, but only to supply power, can be built proportionately very light.



THE GREAT WORK GOING ON IN MUSKOKA.

1,000 Patients Treated in the Two Muskoka Hospitals—the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Surprising Decrease of 25 Per Cent. in the Last Three Years in Deaths from Consumption.

Fifty-five Different Trades and Professions Represented by the Patients Admitted to the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Two Pavilions have had to be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds, and the Number of Patients Reduced from 75 to 50.

$25,000 Wanted this Year to Carry on this Great Work.

With a view of helping to bring to the attention of the public the needs of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have pleasure in publishing the following letter, in which an appeal is made for funds.

Dear Friend,—

It again becomes necessary to make an urgent appeal for funds for the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

A very heavy debt is pressing upon the trustees.

In addition to this, funds must be provided for the maintenance of patients. Last month there was a deficiency of nearly $1,500 over and above receipts from all sources.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives was opened eighteen months ago. 225 patients have been admitted.

No patient has ever been refused admission because of his or her poverty.

1,000 patients have been cared for in the two Muskoka Hospitals, the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The majority of these have either been cured, or so helped that they have been enabled to again become bread-winners for the family.

The public are beginning to find evidence of our work.

Already there has been a decrease of nearly 25 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption in the Province of Ontario.

The last report of the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health shows that in the last three years the deaths from consumption in Ontario have decreased from 3,484 to 2,694, a decrease of 790, or nearly 25 per cent.

This is the more gratifying when we remember that for a number of years previously the same report showed a steadily increasing death-rate prior to 1899.

Who will doubt that the work of our two Hospitals in Muskoka, and the persistent educational campaign carried on, has not helped to secure this surprising result?

In what better way can your gifts bring so good a return?

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 50.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

Very truly yours,

W. J. Gage

Laid at Rest

The remains of the late Wm. Hanrahan, whose death occurred at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Lewis, 472 Park street, on Saturday evening, were interred yesterday morning in the Roman Catholic cemetery. The deceased was 63 years of age, and was highly esteemed by all who knew him.

The Crops

Crop prospects in this neighborhood are looking most encouraging, and unless some unforseen severe frost occurs, the grain crop will be fully up to that of last year. In the vicinity of Rice Lake the prospects are said not to be so bright. Reports from various parts of the province are very satisfactory.

A New Brewery

We understand that a joint stock company has been formed in Lindsay for the purpose of rebuilding the old Lindsay brewery, which was destroyed by fire some years ago. The company propose to put in a modern plant, and cater to the local and Haliburton trade almost exclusively. A well known Peterborough citizen is president of the company.

An Exciting Runaway

Yesterday afternoon an exciting runaway occurred in Ward Five when a team of horses attached to a waggon became frightened and ran away. They dashed up Elizabeth street and after turning the corner to Stewart street, the waggon struck a tree and the contents, a load of wood, was scattered over the road and the waggon badly damaged. The horses, which belonged to Mr. James Crowley, Otonabee, were stopped.

She Knew It

A school teacher in the Central school asked one of her pupils the other day who Nero was. The only response came from a little fellow, who held up his hands. "Robbie," said the teacher, "do you know who Nero was?" "Yes'm," he answered proudly; "he's the one we sing about in the Sunday school." The teacher could not recall any particular religious music devoted to Nero. "What is the song, Robbie?" she asked. "Nero, My God, to Thee," came the confident answer.

A Business Meeting

Globe: Mr. E. W. Cox, General Manager of the Canada Life, left on Saturday for a visit to the British branch of his company. His many friends will wish him a safe and pleasant passage. Speaking of his proposed voyage, Mr. Cox said: "While it is a business trip, I consider it one of pleasure, too, for our British branch has been successful beyond our anticipations. We have now twenty-six branches in England, Scotland and Ireland all sending in their quota of new business, and our statement from there for the first quarter of 1904 shows an increase in new business of nearly $400,000 over the same period of 1903. This is a most gratifying state of affairs, and it is doubtless owing partly to the very strong position of our company as well as to the very attractive forms of contract we issue." Mr. Cox will be away about ten weeks.

Praise for Hon. Mr Stratton

Lindsay Post: Mr. Austin J. Ford, postmaster at Fortescue's Cavendish Township, about twelve miles east of Kinmount, was in town to-day, accompanied by his son Almeric. Speaking of the severe winter, Mr. Ford said that many farmers in his district lost animals, owing to the scarcity of food. Mr. Ford's farm is located on the shores of White Lake a body of water about 300 acres in extent; it is connected with Devil's Lake, which affords communication with Irondale, about four miles distant. The lake is a beautiful one, and he hopes to see the district become a summer resort in the not distant future. Mr. Ford is an enthusiastic supporter of Hon. J. R. Stratton, who he says has earned the good will of every settler, grit and tory alike, by giving them excellent roads. As Mr. Ford has a bunch of eight sons, most of them are of voting age, his goodwill counts for something.

POLICE COURT DOINGS

A Number of Cases Disposed of on Saturday Morning

T. McBain was assessed $2. for wheeling on the sidewalk.

H. McCabe was charged with the same offence, but was not convicted.

A case of assault was settled by the defendant paying the costs, which amounted to $3.40.

Andrew Hogg charged a man whose friends call him Maude, with assaulting him. After hearing the evidence the case was dismissed.

PROMINENT CITIZEN DEAD

Mr. George Stewart, County Treasurer Passes Away at Nicholls Oval

It is our sad duty to chronicle the death of one of our most prominent and useful citizens, Mr. George Stewart, County Treasurer. His last illness was of about ten days' duration, and was in the form of an abscess on the brain, which caused him to sink very rapidly until he passed away between five and six o'clock yesterday morning.

The late Mr. Stewart was born 68 years ago in Otonabee, where he has continued to reside ever since. He was united in marriage to Miss Ryan, who predeceased him some years ago. Deceased leaves nine children to mourn his loss.

The deceased gentleman was very highly respected in the community in which he resided, and was well known both in town and county as a man of high character and principles and one in whom the utmost confidence could be placed. He has served his native township in the different capacities of Councillor, Deputy Reeve, and Warden of the County. Mr. Stewart was appointed County Treasurer on the death of the late Mr. Edg Pearce a position which he held until his death. Deceased was a Liberal in politics, and in religion a Presbyterian, being an elder in St. Paul's church. He took an active interest in the promotion of temperance, and was for many years superintendent of the Union Sabbath School on the River Road, Otonabee.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, Otonabee, tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock to the Little Lake cemetery.

"GUESS who it is?" The mother knows the touch of the soft hands too well to need to guess, and for the moment she enters into the playful spirit of the child and forgets her toil and weariness. Then a sudden movement sends a thrill of pain through her and she realizes that though love may lighten labor it cannot lighten pain.

Thousands of women who have suffered from backache, headache, and other consequences of womanly disease, have been made well women by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries unhealthy drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I cannot say enough in praise of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as it has done me so much good," writes Mrs. Henry Harrell, of Tarboro, S.C., Box 100. "I was swelling so I could hardly walk when I began taking the 'Favorite Prescription.' I also had uterine trouble and could neither eat nor sleep only as I took morphine. Tried four different doctors and they all failed to do me any good, so one of my friends recommended your 'Favorite Prescription' to me and I took only three bottles and am now well and hearty. Can do almost any kind of work."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the most desirable laxative for delicate women.

NEW OPERA HOUSE

Mr. J. A. Small, of Toronto, Looks Over Proposed Sites

Yesterday Mr. J. A. Small proprietor of the Toronto Opera House, was in town in connection with the proposed opera house here. Mr. Small met the directors of the company, and looked over several sites for the proposed building.

It is altogether likely that Mr. Small will take the matter up, and push it through. It is understood, however, that it will be on condition that a substantial amount of stock is subscribed in Peterborough. Mr. Small, the financial representative of the enterprise, will be pleased to take subscriptions for stock.

A RARE CHANCE
FOR CANADIAN INVESTORS

THOMAS PATTERSON & CO.
BROKERS, PETERBOROUGH

HAVING BEEN APPOINTED CANADIAN FISCAL AGENTS OF THE

of Colorado, beg to inform their customers and investors generally that they have secured a block of stock of this Company, which they now offer for sale at 35 cents per share—par value $1.00.

This stock is bound to advance rapidly. All Shareholders are on an equal basis, no preferred stock. This is a proposition in all its details so simple that every shareholder will know at all times the value of his holdings. With the vast quantities of ore now in sight, and the facilities that will be put into operation to mine it, every dollar invested in this way may yield ten, twenty and a hundred fold. As has been chronicled in hundreds of instances in Cripple Creek, where persons have purchased stock in the early stages of a mine, the price at which the stock is offered is such a bargain that it cannot fail to be subscribed for at an early date, therefore investors should act quickly.

The shares are fully paid up and non-assessable (no individual liability). Each and every share represents a distinct and liberal portion of an enterprise which it is fully believed will produce millions of dollars.

The Cripple Creek Company is splendidly officered by men of high repute and with an expert knowledge of mining in all its details. The Company was organized to operate in Colorado, and properly incorporated under the laws of that State.

In the incorporation of the Company 500,000 shares of the capital stock were set aside for development purposes, and cannot be used in any other way.

We will be pleased to give full particulars to investors, and would say in conclusion. Buy now! Get in on the ground floor, as the stock will quickly advance.

THE GREAT AIM OF JAPAN IS TO DESTROY THE RUSSIAN ARMY

They are Anxious to Strike Before Kuropatkin is Reinforced --Chinese Bandits Give Trouble

It is Claimed That Japan Has its Largest Army in the Field—Russians Attempt to Clear Districts of Chinese Bandits.

St. Petersburg May 18.—Lieut. General Sukharoff has sent the following report to the general staff, dated Liao Yang, May 14. "The enemy's advance guard on May 12 reached Tsuintsou, on the road between Feng Wang Cheng and Liao Yang. Our two Sotnias of Cossacks retired towards the village of Kan saen Diantg.

"A Japanese force of three battalions of infantry, ten guns and two squadrons of cavalry from Seludtchan on the road to Mao Tien Pass was on May 11, in Tafanoon valley. Since then there has been no news of the movement of the force, which leads to the conclusion that it has branched off westward towards Hai Cheng.

"A detachment of the Japanese vanguard left Tointsau May 13 southward, and was pursued by our Cossacks who exchanged shots with the Japanese rear guard for half an hour and having in the meantime discovered an ambush prepared by the Japanese, retired.

"Our scouts ascertained that a Japanese force of two regiments of infantry, eight guns and three squadrons of cavalry had approached Lindiapouts and Erttaoufan.

"Our lines of pickets between Lans Chan Houan and Simadza had a skirmish with Chinese bandits in which three Cossacks and three horses were killed, three Cossacks slightly wounded and four missing.

"Measures are being taken to clear this district of Chinese bandits, about nineteen miles south-west of Mao Tien Pass.

"All is quiet on the road from Siu Yen to the pass.

"A reconnaissance to Ching Tai Tase did not discover any considerable number of the enemy.

"According to Chinese reports Taku Shan and Ching Tai Tase are occupied by small Japanese detachment of 500 men each. Stronger forces are at Sitoukhtchodge, 12 miles northwest of Taku Shan.

"Returning to Siu Yen, the reconnoitring party had a skirmish with a small Japanese patrol. One Japanese dragoon was killed, and one Cossack was wounded.

"There is no news from Siltchinaispatse.

"On May 8th a detachment of nearly 1000 Japanese advanced seven miles north of Polenchen. Another detachment of 300 infantry and half a squadron of cavalry advanced by a flanking movement to Watautien.

"The troops guarding the frontier are slowly retiring northward, holding the enemy.

"On May 13 a fence of 300 Chinese bandits attacked the mine at Yentai, the bandits were repelled by a sotnia of the frontier guards, and a company of infantry, losing 30 men. They retired in the direction of Liao Yang, and a detachment of chasseurs was sent to cut them off.

"At dawn the following day, according to information received, a strong force of Chinese bandits were seen in localities twelve miles west of Liao Yang."

LATEST ABOUT PORT ARTHUR.

St. Petersburg, May 18.—The Emperor has received the following report from Viceroy Alexieff dated May 14:

"I beg respectfully to communicate to Your Majesty a report from Rear-Admiral Wittsoeft on the state of affairs at Port Arthur from May 6 to May 12. The report was brought by an express runner from Dachichao station on the eve of the second interruption of communications by the enemy. It follows:

"The work of repairing the ironclads Czarvitch and Retvizan is proceeding with unabated energy and with every success.

"During the examination of the roadstead at the spot where the battleship Pobieda was damaged by a mien we found one of the enemy's defence mines, which had been exploded by the force of the hurricane."

The fact that the Russians discovered another Japanese mine almost in the exact spot where the battleship Pobieda was injured, is taken as evidence of the desperate thoroughness with which the Japanese carried out their mining operations on April 11.

WILL THE WAR SPREAD?

Grave Fears are Entertained Regarding the Neutrality of China

London, May 18.—While it may seem a little hard to demand absolute neutrality on the part of China when one of the professed objects of the war is the return to her of her province of Manchuria still it is apparent that both Russia and Japan are anxious that that neutrality be preserved. Russia naturally does not want to face another enemy; and Japan fears, possibly, that the loose sovereignty of the Chinese Government might permit acts by a warring Chinese population which would lead to European intervention and a second robbing of her of the legitimate results of her victory.

But, as Mr. Demetrius C. Bolger points out in a recent article in the Contemporary, the question of Chinese neutrality may come up soon in another manner. As the Russians retire from Manchuria what is to prevent the Japs from inviting the Chinese to take possession at once, of such sections of that Chinese province as are deserted by the Russians? The Russian argument all along has been that it is necessary for life and property to be protected in Manchuria by an armed force. That was one of her most cogent reasons for delaying the withdrawal of her regiments; and she has already stated, that China must send troops to protect the foreign inhabitants of New Chwang.

This would mean that China would promptly garrison such parts of Manchuria as the Japs conquer from the Russians, and that when that overpowering force of which General Kuropatkin talks, comes to march down through Manchuria to the sea they would find Chinese garrisons on guard, in a Chinese province. More than that, the proclamation of Chinese neutrality would obviously cover such parts of its own province of Manchuria as it thus took possession of; and Russia would have no right to invade a neutral nation. So China may make her very neutrality an aggressive factor in the war.

DEFEAT HELD SURE FOR RUSSIA

English Army Officer Says Japan is Sure to Overwhelm Foe

New York, May 18.—Lieutenant General Sir Henry Clement Wilkinson, K.C.B., a retired officer of the British army, who was a passenger on the steamship Campania from Liverpool today, expressed strong pro-Japanese sympathies. He said in an interview that Russia is practically sure to be beaten by the Japanese in the present struggle. He was equally sure that Russia will not be able to recover her lost prestige. He said the sentiments he expressed were the sentiments of the officers of the English army and navy, who know how well Japan was prepared for war and how helpless Russia was and is.

He said further that Russia has been living for a long time on her past and that money supposed to be spent on munitions of war and fighting ships was squandered or stolen. General Wilkinson declared that Japan, which is up to the most modern military tactics, will defeat Russia both on land and on sea as easily as she did China.

"The Russians may be a brave people," continued General Wilkinson, "but now they are not pitted against ignorant Turks. The Japs are lively little fellows, good strategists, and are provided with the latest implements of war. The disasters that have befallen the Russians are yet but small, and in the first great battle that takes place they will be annihilated by the Japs."

Diamond from his Stomach

New York, May 18.—Paul Clarkson who poses as a prize fighter, has been operated on, and a diamond, valued at $250, was taken from his stomach, says a despatch to the Times, from Galveston, Texas. Clarkson was arrested three days ago on a charge of having stolen the diamond from a prominent citizen of Galveston. When searched at the station he did not have the precious stone, and said he had swallowed it in the excitement attending his arrest. An X-ray machine was used in an attempt to locate the diamond and the shadowing rays showed the stone embedded in a cavity of the stomach. Clarkson was suffering considerable pain and the owner of the jewel paid for the operation, which took place in the gaol.

British Company Threatens to Retire From Association for Uniformity of Rates

London, May 18.—Sixteen thousand emigrants have sailed for Canada since January, a thousand more than during the same period of 1903. The steamers sailing within the next few weeks have full lists. General Booth's scheme of colonization is progressing. Some hundreds of emigrants have been sent out, principally to Canada.

MAY CUT INSURANCE RATES.

A rumor is current in insurance circles that a large company threatens to resign its place in the association of offices that exist for the maintenance of uniformity in rating, claiming that membership destroys the independence of the company and curbs its enterprise to its disadvantage in insuring.

A Tolerant Nonconformist.

London, May 16.—Some comment has been caused in Nonconformist circles by the statement that the Rev. R. J. Campbell, who succeeded Dr. Parker at the City Temple, saw a good deal of the inside of ecclesiastical life in the Eternal City during his stay in Rome, and before leaving was received in private audience by the Pope, on the introduction of Cardinal del Val. The idea of a Nonconformist leader having an audience of the Pope staggers some of the "Dissenters."

London May 16.—A rumor is current in insurance circles that a large company threatens to resign its place in the association of offices that exists for the maintenance of uniformity in rating, claiming that membership destroys the independence of the company, and curbs its enterprise to disadvantage of the insuring public.

The Rush to Canada.

London May 16.—Sixteen thousand emigrants have sailed for Canada sice January, a thousand more than in 1903. Steamers sailing in the next few weeks are full up. General Booth's scheme of colonizing is progressing. Some hundreds of emigrants have been sent out, principally to Canada.

Converted the Reporters.

London, May 16.—An amusing feud between the bench and the press has arisen in Melbourne, Australia. One of the local morning papers alleged that the court hours were too short altogether, and that public inconvenience thereby resulted. Chief Justice Sir John Madden read the statement and staggered counsel by sitting until 6 o'clock every day. A deputation of barristers waited upon him and remonstrated. He replied that so long as the public, as represented by the press considered that the court was consulting its own ease, he would continue to sit late. He has already converted the reporters.

Refused to Kiss Pope's Hand.

London, May 16.—American Roman Catholics are finding considerable difficulty in obtaining audiences of the Pope, owing to the following incident: A short time ago a party of Americans, not on of the Roman Catholic faith, on a visit to Rome, obtained tickets for a special audience with his Holiness, who received them with his usual affability and kindness. When the moment came for the visitors to kiss the Pope's extended hand, they refused to do so. This act of gross discourtesy considerably annoyed not only the Pope but more especially those in attendance, with the result that orders have been issued that no Americans shall be admitted to the Vatican for an audience with the Pope unless he is in possession of a special letter of introduction from the bishop of his diocese in America.

Hid Her Fortune in Statue.

Paris May 16.—A woman living at St. Cloud supposed to have a certain fortune died at her nephew's house apparently leaving only a lot of works of art. A second nephew made no claim for a heritage but asked for a little statuette in clay as a souvenir. He took possession of the statuette. His domestic, naturally, broke it into fragments, when eleven bills of a thousand francs each fell to the floor. They had been concealed in its interior. The other nephew is now claiming half the sum.

London, May 16.—Mr. Kinlock Cooke advocates, in The Morning Post, a State-aided emigration system to Canada and Australia, to be drawn up and considered by the authorities of the Mother Land and oversea possessions. The children of the board schools should be taught to look forward to a colonial career, aided by a Government grant to take them out free, and "sure employment on the other side.

The Live Stock Embargo Again.

London, May 16.—Mr. Holland, chairman of the animal meat trade section of the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce, states that 876,000 live animals were landed at United Kingdom ports in 1903, imported from the colonies and foreign ports, and 743,810 tons dead meat. Every effort is being made to remove the restrictions on Canadian cattle, but there is little chance, at present of success.

London, May 16.—The Daily Chronicle reminds Lord Salisbury that his remark at the farewell dinner to Lord Curzon and Lord Minto, "When shall we three meet again?" will be fulfilled soon.

The Colonies and the Chinese.

London, May 16.—The Chinese treaty, while it applies to all British colonies, does not prevent the colonies passing restrictive Acts. Canadian Acts are not affected. The Times quotes the case of Cape Colony, which is now passing a bill to forbid the transportation of Chinamen, as does the Cape is acting within its rights and upon its own view of its own interests, just as the Transvaal is acting in importing Chinamen to help it out of an industrial difficulty otherwise insuperable.

A Balkan Earthquake.

London, May 16.—Advices have just reached London of an earthquake in the Balkans on Easter Monday by which 2,000 houses were destroyed and 10,000 people made homeless in a fertile valley in which lies Jumabala. Houses were levelled to the ground, and there were huge cracks across the streets.

London, May 16.—Hon Alfred Lyttelton, speaking at the Cambridge University banquet on Saturday, and replying to the toast of the Government, said it was a great thing for the Empire that the colonies should now have perfect freedom to negotiate with the Motherland, and their freedom would make that greater freedom which would ultimately come, based more on consent than the assertion of an attempt at supremacy. The case of Russia afforded an example of the great danger to the Empire of attempting to rule too stiffly from the centre. Britain had adopted the opposite, and her greatest achievement was the result that liberty had been given to all parts of the Empire. Canada and Australia had been given a great opportunity by this fusing feeling process.

MAY SURPASS DREYFUS CASE

French Plans and Documents Found in London

IN POSSESSIO OF SERVANT

To Men who were Trying to Dispose of them, have Disappeared

Paris, May 18.—The Matin's London correspondent, having obtained nearly a hundred authentic plans, of the fortifications at Toulon, besides numerous other compromising documents, that paper this morning begins the publication of the history of a treason affair which seems likely to exceed in importance the offences with which Captain Dreyfus was charged.

On April 21 the correspondent received a letter written in a queer semi-French-semi-Italian jargon signed "Fragola, Ti tuo," telling him that the writer, who was employed at a hotel, had been acting as a guide to two persons who had come to London to sell a large parcel of documents of the highest importance concerning French naval defences. The letter stated that the men had gone to Brussels leaving the writer penniless. He, therefore, wanted to negotiate for the transfer of certain documents. An appointment was made and Fragola who was desperately hungry, told the following story:

He was formerly, he said, employed at the War Ministry in Rome, but became compromised in a case of espionage and was sentenced to six months' imprisonment. Subsequently he came to London, living from hand to mouth. Recently he had acted as guide and secretary to two men of Italian origin, with one of whom—a naturalized French citizen—he had formerly been acquainted at the War Ministry in Rome.

Sold important secrets. Both of these men Fragola said, worked for foreign Governments and had several times sold important secrets to Germany at high prices. The Italian's name was Cesare Golio and that of the naturalized Frenchman, Jeremie Mesqui. The latter and long been a contractor on public works at Toulon. They had gone to Brussels five days ago, leaving him entirely without means of living. He found after their departure that Golio had left documents behind him and these he wanted to sell.

Fragola thereupon produced eighty-five plans of the Toulon forts, some of them the French originals and others accurate copies, made at the Italian War Ministry. He also had in possession a list of plans of Cherbourg, Brest and Toulon, with type-written instructions, alleged by Fragola to have emanated from the German staff, concerning the marking of batteries of artillery. There was also a letter appointing a rendezvous at the Thuringerhof, Berlin, for November 13, signed "X." To this was attached a card inscribed "Felix Friedrich Scholtz."

ABSOLUTELY GENUINE.

The Matin's correspondent gave Fragola a few shillings and persuaded him to leave the documents in his hands in order that an examination of them might be made. The next morning he took them to the French Embassy, where the naval attache declared them to be absolutely genuine. The Matin will continue its revelations to-morrow.

Was Riddled with Bullets

Denver, Colo., May 18.—Lyte Gregory, a former policeman, has been assassinated while returning home from a social visit. His body was riddled with bullets and he died in his tracks. It is believed that the assassin used a repeating rifle and his aim was true for in all two bullets penetrated the murdered man's body. No positive trace of the assassin has been found.

JAPS ARMY SURPRISES RUSSIANS BATTLE POSSIBLE AT HAI CHENG

Large Force Landed in Vicinity of New Chwang, Which Has Been Completely Evacuated by Russians

Kouropatkin May Now Withdraw all His Forces Behind Mukden, Though a Big Battle is Possible at Hai Cheng or Liao Yang.

New Chwang, May 16.—The Russians were completely surprised by the appearance of the Japanese army at Kin chau, twenty miles south of Yin Kow, this morning. They were expecting the Yalu army.

Nine transports, assisted by the navy, landed 10,000 troops, and the remainder will land tonight and tomorrow. The number of the Japanese force is not known.

The war-ships shelled the shore from early morning until 4 o'clock.

The Japanese are expected here on Wednesday.

HOW THE RUSSIANS RETREATED.

New Chwang, May 16.—In confirmation of reports that the Russian evacuation of this city has been completed. Nothing remains but the destruction of the gunboat Sivouch, which it is expected will take place early in the morning. The Russian troops marched out in perfect order, Gen. Kondratswitch leaving with the last regiment.

It is stated on the highest Russian authority that the Japanese advance will be resisted at Hai Cheng, whence the Russian forces will fall back upon Liao Yang, where they will make a determined stand, with a fighting strength there available of 70,000.

WILL NOT STOP AT MUKDEN.

If defeated, no stop will be made at Mukden, but the retirement will be continued to Thieling, a town at the head of navigation for native craft on the Liao River, 200 miles north of New Chwang. At the same time the Cossack regiments will be employed in the rear of the Japanese army on the Yalu, harrassing the troops and interfering with its communications. It is not believed that the Japanese will move into the interior until they have thoroughly established their base here, repeating the movement which they made during the war with China.

The Russians admit the advance of the Japanese army to a point within fifteen miles of Hai-Cheng, many of their wounded entering there.

The nearest fighting expected before the Japanese reach New Chwang will be at Tashi Ichao, but it will not amount to much.

This city has been guarded by 300 Chinese police, and everything is quiet.

The Japanese force at Kai Chau is reported 200,000 strong.

Antung, May 10.—(Via Seoul, May 16.)—The concentration of the Russian military forces at Liao Yang will make the place the first line of defence, and the great battle probably will be fought there. No important aggressive action by this (i.e. the first) army is expected in the near future. Since the Russian fleet at Port Arthur has been bottled up, the Japanese find it possible to safely use this port as a base and to abandon most of the land transportation through Korea, using the regular army transport equipment for conveying munitions from Antung to the front. The Chinese do not object to Japanese occupation, because the new comers give employment to thousands at good wages, and furnish a market for provisions at inflated prices. Many Japanese shopkeepers already are established here. The river has not yet been opened to Chinese commerce.

The correspondents who remain at headquarters visited the Russian wounded, who expressed satisfaction at their treatment. Their only complaint concerning provisions was that they received no bread, the Japanese army not being provided with stores of that kind.

LAURIER AND ROSS MAY PLUNGE TOGETHER

Provincial and Federal Liberals Consulting over Date of Elections.

A very prominent Liberal politician made the significant remark yesterday that the two governments would go to the country at practically the same time with the Dominion administration leading off. "The one campaign fund and the one batch of promises would do both for Laurier and for Ross," he asserted. From the manner in which the Ontario politicians have been flocking here of late the belief is growing that the scheme of practically a joint appeal to the country is being seriously considered, if not actually decided upon already.

NATAL'S TRADE WITH CANADA.—

Mg. Greenacre, of Durban, Thinks it Might be Increased.

WHAT WE SHOULD DO

American Manufacturers Take all the Space on Cadada's Subsidized Line

Montreal, May 18.—Among the passengers on the train from Ottawa this morning was Mr. Edwin Greenacre, of Durban, Natal.

Mr. Greenacre has been travelling for pleasure during the past six months. To a representative of the press he said that the distance he had covered since the end of November was in the neighborhood of 25,000 miles. Mr. Greenacre, as a business man, has had an eye open for the advantages offered by Canada for trade with Natal. He is of the opinion that this trade can be fostered and efficiently maintained.

When asked to put his views concerning the mutual trade question more definitely, Mr. Greenacre said that if trade were to be done in any volume the Canadian manufacturer would have to remember that samples of goods for which entrance into the markets of South Africa was sought would have to be sent out. This was imperative. As to transportation, although there was now a direct line between Canada and South Africa the space was practically all booked weeks ahead by United States firms. The infrequent and irregular sailings of the line in question and the extensive resources of the United States firms made it possible for them to guarantee the stated quantity of freight long before the smaller manufacturer. This was a disadvantage that the Canadian manufacturer had to contend with.

While in Ottawa Mr. Greenacre had an interview with the Minister of Finance, and the question of inter-colonial trade was discussed.

Mr. Greenacre is a son of Sir Benjamin Greenacre, who was a member of the Executive Council before responsible government, and who has represented the city of Durban for upwards of twenty years. A knighthood was conferred upon Sir Benjamin Greenacre during the recent visit to South Africa of the Prince and Princess of Wales.

A Disastrous Earthquake

London, May 18.—A man who recently returned from Sofia writes to the newspapers, giving a description of the result of a disastrous Balkan earthquake on Easter Monday, which practically has been unnoticed in the press. Two thousand houses were destroyed and 10,000 people made homeless in a fertile valley in which lies Jumabala the scene of the disaster.

Detroit Specialist Discovers Something Entirely New for the Cure of Men's Diseases in Their Own Homes.

You Pay Only if Cured

He Accepts No Money Unless He Cures Your Method and Full Particulars Sent Free—Write For It This Very Day

A Detroit specialist who has 14 certificates and diplomas from medical colleges and boards, has perfected a startling method of curing the diseases of men in their own homes; so that there may be no doubt in the mind of any man that he is both the method and the ability to do as he says. Dr. Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their name and address. He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, constriction of parts, impotence, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but like wise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, nervous debility, etc.

DR. S. GOLDBERG,
The Possessor of 14 Diplomas and Certificates Who Wants No Money That He Does Not Earn.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interest of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as many booklets on the subject, including the one that contains the 14 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply

UNION LABEL

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 18 1904

STATE OWNERSHIP IN AUSTRALIA

It will be remembered that most of the colonies of Australia suffered a disastrous financial panic some years ago as the result of over-extension of credit for railway building and other purposes. It will be remembered also that this panic was worst in New South Wales, where over-building of railroads by the state under pressure of public demand and their extravagant operation at the bidding of labor unions to furnish employment for everybody at high wages had exhausted capital and strained credit most seriously.

Since the creation of the Commonwealth, all the states of Australia have been slowly struggling back out of panic conditions by retrenchment in the public service and economy in operation of public industries. New South Wales, it appears, is still in worst case of all, because there the hold upon government of the socialist element that demands spending of public money for the benefit of the working classes is hardest to break. After all economies, there was a deficit of $2,000,000 in the state railroads of New South Wales last year, and the rapid increase in the number of state and municipal employes is regarded, in the words of a recent letter, as "a serious menace to sound finance."

It appears that the principle of state industry has been extended also to municipal transportation in New South Wales with similar results. The city of Sydney has taken possession of the tramways, as it is proposed that Chicago shall take possession of street car lines. Some of the results are highly satisfactory. Electricity has been installed everywhere. The lines have been liberally extended in the suburbs and the service is said to be excellent. But the financial results are disappointing, in spite of a reduction of working expenses per mile of over 60 per cent.

Extensions have been made and service has been improved, not for business reasons but to meet the demand for bringing new residence property into the market and to increase employment for labor. The municipal government of Sydney is entirely in the hands of the labor organizations, which dictate the management of the car lines. The fiscal result is a deficiency of $100,000 in the earning of interest last year, while no provision has been made for a sinking fund. Of course the property of the city will have to be taxed to make up the deficit in interest, and ultimately to pay the enormous principal of the debt created to install the system.

At the other extreme we find the old-fashioned cable system of Melbourne in the neighboring state of Victoria. This is owned by a private company, whose franchise has twelve years more to run. The service is not as good as in Sydney. The company hesitates to install electricity on so short a franchise, and has left to subsidiary company the booming of suburban property by unprofitable lines. Nevertheless, the company paid 15 per cent. dividend last year, after paying all its interest and setting aside $125,000 for reserve and renewals. The happy mean of the best service that can be given without running behind financially may be found in Melbourne when this franchise expires; either in a new franchise more favorable to the city or in more prudent municipal operation than that of Sydney.

PROBLEMS OF PHILANTHROPY

Professor Goldwin Smith's letter to Andrew Carnegie advising that he spend less money for library buildings and direct his philanthropy to the relief of the world's poor will appeal to some people as a very timely and sensible suggestion. Whether or not the suggestion contains any element of practicality must depend upon whether or not Professor Smith has outlined a practical plan of operation.

The lamented George Peabody demonstrated that there are ways by which the rich may help the poor without impairing the manhood and womanhood of the beneficiaries and Islington will long remain a monument to the practical common sense of our first great philanthropist. It is by no means certain that the same plan would operate successfully in this day and in this country and it is probable that in planning his benefactions Mr. Carnegie has given it full consideration. That he has not adopted it or some similar plan is probably because he believed it impractical under changed conditions.

One can scarcely imagine a more difficult task than to disburse large sums of money intelligently for the benefit of the people classified as "the poor." Mistaken and misdirected philanthropy is worse than no effort of relief and daily illustrations of this fact are to be found in the work of the socialists masquerading under the meaningless title of sociologists, who are prying into the homes and affairs of the poorer class in their self imposed task of reclaiming what they call the slums.

The system they employ of coddling everyone who is less fortunate than some others, while relying themselves upon public charity, tends to create a feeling of dependence in the beneficiaries and to destroy the aspirations and the spirit of individualism by which men rise to independence.

No worse use could be made of money than to employ it in destroying self-reliance in the individual until he would rather lean upon someone than to stand upright. No better use of money can be made than to employ it in helping less fortunate people to help themselves, but this is a task to test all one has of delicacy and common sense, and the philanthropist, who proceeds upon these lines will incur many rebuffs from people who are less unhappy, less unfortunate and less willing to accept assistance than he thought they were. The individual whose poverty has not been so abject as to destroy self-respect and ambition is apt to be a sensitive person, who does not like to be patronized and is not seeking assistance.

In every large community there are specific cases of urgent need which require immediate relief through charity, and charity in these cases is wise and commendable. It is for such that relief and aid societies and the organized activities of the church are formed, and they have no direct bearing upon the question involved in Professor Smith's letter to Mr. Carnegie.

There was a time when poverty was not considered a disgrace nor altogether an unmixed evil. Some even spoke of it as a blessing, a school of experience, in which was developed most admirable traits of character, and in which people learned the true values of all that goes to make up the sum of correct living. From this school have graduated the best types of men and women this country has produced.

If a plan shall be found where encouragement can be given to others who are striving without impairing the qualities which make for ultimate individual independence, doubtless Mr. Carnegie can employ his great fortune to better advantage than in building libraries; but he would better die "rich and disgraced" than to employ it in propagating and fostering the plans under which the socialists alias sociologists, are converting the pecuniarily unfortunate into a class of dependents to become a dead weight upon society.

Typhoid Victim Recovered Health

BY REBUILDING HIS WASTED FRAME WITH FERROZONE

If it is Health, Renewed Vigor, Well Balanced Nerves You Want Try the Food Tonic Ferrozone.

No stronger evidence than the case of Jno. M. Ainslee is needed to prove that Ferrozone is unsurpassed as a tonic and rebuilder. Writing from his home in Bartonville, Mr. Ainslee says: "I had typhoid fever two years ago, and for a long time couldn't get strong. I carefully followed my doctor's orders and for months took his medicine regularly but no matter what I did I couldn't get up enough strength to take an active employment again. Like most weak people I was also nervous and finally had to give up the doctor. I read of Ferrozone and decided to try it. I took the first box with fair results. I felt stronger. The second box astonished me and my strength returned very rapidly. I kept on using Ferrozone and my friends then noticed how quickly I was improving. This encouraged me to take more Ferrozone and my strength all returned in two months. When I started Ferrozone I gave up all other medicines and can say that it alone restored me. For weak, nervous people Ferrozone will do more good than anything else."

Ferrozone is both a food and a medicine. It builds up the wasted tissue and strengthens the weakened nerves by giving this system a plentiful supply of pure nourishing blood. It puts new vigor into every organ of the body, dispels nerve sickness and lassitude. This proves that those Ferrozone will have a good appetite, healthy complexion, good digestion and a reserve of strength that protects you against pneumonia and weakening fevers.

Ferrozone is not a nauseous cod liver oil mixture, but a chocolate coated tablet, combining this most strengthening elements in concentrated form. Very easy to take. Its sale has multiplied year by year and no remedy to-day holds a higher place in the esteem of the public. AN APPEAL TO THE FASHIONABLE SET IN CANADA.

"Lally Bernard," the Well-known Toronto Journalist, Writes from England of the Battle Against Consumption in Muskoka.

Lally Bernard, of the editorial staff of the Toronto Globe, writing to that paper from London, England, where she is now a resident, shows most clearly that the battle against the great white plague is one that should interest all classes of the community. It will be remembered that this writer entered incog. as a patient in the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, and afterwards in the Globe told of real life in that institution. In her present article she says:

"To-day I have found a letter at the club which nearly missed me, having been addressed 'Lally Bernard.' May I express to my unknown correspondent my warmest thanks for the kindly appreciation for the little I have been able to do in the battle being waged against tuberculosis in Canada. The need of sympathy and interest is a tremendous one, and I am always puzzled when I find really well educated and intelligent people in Canada so criminally ignorant of the extent of the danger, and the means which are being taken to combat it.

"It may be of some interest to those who feel as I do in regard to the responsibility which rests upon each and all to aid in this fight against a most insidious foe, when I tell them, that here in London, where I have been for only a few days, I have already come across the dread enemy four times. First of all, in the back garden of our humble quarters in Kensington I espied, when morning dawned, a tent with two beds in it. I enquired of our landlord why the tent was there, and was told a long story about the coronation and quarters for some boys coming up from the country, and that he, the landlord, had subsequently found it more agreeable to sleep in the tent than in the basement bedroom he had formerly occupied. A little later, in conversation with the lady who secured the lodgings, I learned that the landlord's son was obliged to sleep in a tent! Comment was needless.

"In looking for quarters I found a charming home of a young doctor and his wife, where extraordinarily moderate terms were asked for really exceptionally good accommodation. The doctor in question had been 'ordered south,' and his wife had to keep the house going by accepting 'paying guests.'

"Yet again, in the third place, I found that the lady who was at the head of the establishment had not only lost her husband from the dread disease, but had managed one of the most fashionable sanitariums in England, and her knowledge of the treatment and the extent of the problem in England showed me how tremendous was the need for care and watchfulness in our own country.

"May I ask my correspondent to use all possible influence to make the question of combating tuberculosis one of interest in the 'fashionable set' to which she evidently belongs. I know full well, from the little experience I have had, how tremendously a little genuine interest and help might lighten the burden now resting on the shoulders of the authorities of the Free Hospital for Consumptives at Gravenhurst. It is, of course, far away from wealthy centres, and out of sight is to be out of mind.

"I can quite understand that until people have seen forty or fifty patients together in different stages of consumption they do not realize what an immense amount of aid might be given by those who are fortunate enough to be free from the disease and by those who have little else to do than to invent or learn some new form of recreation.

"Mrs. Torrington has kindly promised me to try and get musical societies and people interested in music to provide a piano for the Hospital, and I feel sure it will be of immense benefit to the patients. Surely my correspondent who evinces such sympathy with the cause could make that sympathy take a practical form and organize a hospital library where books worth reading might be supplied, with some system similar to that of the Aberdeen Association, which has done such excellent work."

[Note.—Readers—and may their number be many—who desire to assist in the work of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives may send their gifts to Sir Wm. R. Meredith, Kt., Vice-President, National Sanitarium Association, Toronto, or Mr. W. J. Gage, Chairman of the Executive Committee.]

High Class Investment

THE OREGON MINING AND SMELTING COMPANY

Offer to Canadian investors a limited amount of stock of the above company The property owned by the Company consists at the present time of about 500 acres, which are located in the Tarryall District and Park County, Colorado. This whole district has been known for years on account of its rich placer ground, and is now prominently before the public owing to the number of very good properties which have been opened up recently producing, principally, gold, and lately some that are producing Platinum. On the Oregon property there are a number of well known veins of low grade ore that will yield a profit by being treated on the ground of the company. The company have recently opened up a fine vein in the Hawkeye group and this vein shows not only good values but an immense amount of ore which alone would make the property very valuable. Assays from ore taken from various parts of this property range from a few dollars to $373 per ton in gold. We have very little silver, lead or copper in the district, The company have a shaft 240 feet deep, with a good shaft house thoroughly well equipped with all modern machinery to develop same. They are now driving a tunnel which is in about 700 feet and which will cut the Hawkeye vein about 300 feet deeper than where it is opened at present. There is enough ore exposed on the property of this company to keep them busy for a number of years and the reason for selling stock at the present time is to secure funds to build a mill. The company will probably join with the Almaden Company in building this mill. There is water enough to furnish water power and over 100 acres of fine spruce and pine timber. The affairs of the company have always been managed in a business-like economical manner and there are no officers' salaries. The monies received from the sale of stock go direct into the property.

I can heartily recommend this stock as a safe, as well as an unusually good investment, because of the immense amount of ore which the company have already opened up. It is not a mere prospect, but the property has been developed by expense of a considerable amount of money and time.

The company is splendidly officered by men of integrity and high standing. The company has not pushed the sale of stock the last year owing to a delay in getting title to the ground from the Government, but now that has been satisfactorily adjusted and work will be pushed to a finish.

The number of exceedingly rich strikes which have been made during the last few weeks in the various camps in the State of Colorado is the best evidence of the prosperity of the mining business. Almost every camp in the state has opened up rich bodies of ore, and Park County is well in the lead in that line.

There are only $25,000 of stock for sale, at $1.00 per share. The company is capitalized at $200,000, and the advantage to the investor of selling the stock at par, is that every share is fully paid up and non-assessable.

KITCHENER REFORMS THE INDIAN ARMY, COMPETENT LEADERS

Britain's Forces in the East to Consist of a Quarter of a Million Men--Leaders Must be Competent Men.

London, May 17.—The Simla correspondent of the London Daily Mail sends the following interesting despatch in regard to Lord Kitchener's Indian Army reforms.

Lord Kitchener has just published an army order here which strikes a heavy blow at the careless pole-playing life of the British regimental officer in India.

It is designed to convert Quida's luxury lapped exquisites into practical hard working, professional soldiers, who must either take regimental work seriously or lose their careers in the service. It puts responsibility for the efficiency of both the officers and men of the regiment upon the colonel commanding. It makes the general of the district personally answerable not only, as at present, for reporting defects in the corps under his control, but also for remedying such defects.

WHOLESOME SUPERANNUATION

Lord Kitchener holds that the regiment, and not the garrison class, must be the young officer's training school, and he is introducing an ingenious test to settle whether failure where such occurs, to reach a definite standard of efficiency, is due to the defects in the regiment, in which case the blame is to rest upon the officer commanding, or to incompetence on the part of the junior, whose military career under these circumstances, he intends to cut short. Lord Kitchener recognizes frankly that there may be commanding officers who through ignorance indolence, or incapacity, may fail to properly instruct those under them, and he declares that he does not intend to allow the prospects of young officers to suffer on this account. He is abolishing garrison classes, as a whole, on the ground that they tempt officers to cram for their promotion examinations, but he is making one exception, which may best be described in his own words.

"I therefore purpose," he writes, "to retain one garrison class, which will be attended only by officers who have failed to pass direct from their regiments. Should such officers subsequently be successful, after attending the class in question, it will be a reasonable inference that the system of education in their regiments is defective, and for this commanding officers must be held responsible. If, however they should again fail, it will be equally fair to attribute the double failure to their own indolence or incapacity, and their further retention in the service will then become an impossibility."

The duties for which Lord Kitchener holds the general of the district responsible are no less onerous than those which he imposes on the colonel commanding.

Troops, he says, must be accustomed to fight their generals, not an necessarily hostile entities always on the lookout for something to find fault with, but as their trusted leaders in war, the instructors in peace and at all times the ready helpers, able and willing to promote their welfare and to spare no effort to increase their preparedness for the stress of service. He goes on in his remarkable memorandum to describe the qualifications he will require of general officers.

"To be regarded as leaders," he writes, "they must be competent to lead, to be accepted as instructors, their professional knowledge must be undoubted, and this entails on them the obligation of increasing study and of constant practical application. In this way alone can they properly prepare their troops for war and at the same time train themselves as to be able adequately to discharge the great responsibilities which will devolve upon them when called upon to command in the field."

Lord Kitchener fully recognizes the extent of the burden he is putting upon his officers and he announces a number of measures he is taking to help them to bear it. He is starting a staff college at Quetta, where carefully selected officers will be trained for staff duties in India. He is increasing the strength of the general staff and defining the duties attached to each post upon it, his object being to prevent officers from being taken away from their legitimate duty of assisting their general, to be shut up inside offices and converted, as has often occurred in the past, into mere clerkly officials. He is working at a great scheme to remedy the defects in the existing distribution of troops and commands throughout India, to meet the altered conditions that have arisen with the construction of railways and the extension of British territory.

The Indian army is a quarter of a million strong. It is being made self-supporting in regard to supplies and transport. It has its own ammunition factories and will shortly be fully furnished with the most modern of cordite, lyddite, rifles, field guns and gun carriages, all manufactured in India in works among the best equipped in the world. Its reserves are being increased, and Lord Kitchener is engaged in raising the standard of efficiency of its personnel. He is organizing a fighting machine which already a superb one, to a very high level. no

Japs Will Attack Port Arthur by Land and Sea in a Few Days--Ready to Lose 200 Men

Tokio, May 16.—The Japanese despatch boat Miyako was destroyed in Kerr Bay by striking a submerged mine.

Eight casualties are reported.

THE COURTESY OF WAR.

Liao Yang, May 16.—Lieut. Sorokin, who was wounded in the eye in the fight at Kin-Chou-Ling, owes his life to the magic of a Japanese soldier. When the lieutenant fell after receiving his wound a comrade stopped to rescue him. Two Japanese soldiers, one of whom carried a red cross flag and the other a rifle, came up. The latter levelled his weapon, ordered Sorokin to remain prone upon the ground and his comrade to leave. Then the Japanese with the red cross flag carefully washed and dressed Sorokin's wound, gave him a drink and retired. Sorokin arrived here safely.

ANOTHER RUMOR OF WAR.

New-Chwang, May 16.—There is an unconfirmed native rumor that heavy fighting took place in the direction of Liao-Yang yesterday. The reports of big guns were faintly heard east of New-Chwang at 5 o'clock this morning.

[The Japanese are reported to be moving slowly upon both Hai Cheng and Liao Yang, not desiring to get out of touch with their reserves and base of supplies. The officials at St. Petersburg would not be surprised if General Kouropatkin were to withdraw from Liao Yang in order to escape the danger which now threatens him of being forced into Mongolia, where the Chinese, under General Ma, are awaiting to resist an invasion of Chinese territory. General Kuroki, commander of the first Japanese army corps, reports the occupation of Kaun Tien Cheng, sixty miles northeast of Feng Wang Cheng, on May 7. The London Times estimates that General Kouropatkin has more than 100,000 men and 256 guns, apart from his heavy guns, to defend 100 miles of front from New Chwang to Mukden. These are drawn up parallel to his line of communications, and there is only a single line of retreat.]

PORT ARTHUR'S ISOLATION.

New Chwang, May 16.—The Russians now admit that the railway is practically closed to Port Arthur. Nothing has been heard from there by wire for three days, and six days' mail consigned to points south of Haiu Yen was returned last evening. The furniture of the Administration building here has been taken away. The Russians say that General Linevitch, with a large army, is moving from Vladivostok towards Korea.

READY TO LOSE 2,000.

Chefoo May 16.—A combined land and sea attack on Port Arthur is expected to take place between May 20 and May 23.

The Japanese hope to occupy Port Dalny within a few days. Dalny is not fortified, the only fort in the vicinity being one midway between Talienwan and Kin Chou. After the destruction of the submarine mines at Talienwan the Japanese intend to land additional troops there and commence an attack on Port Arthur.

A Japanese officer stated that the Japanese are ready to lose two thousand men in the attack. This he did not consider to be a large number.

[A correspondent of The London Daily News, who has arrived at Chefoo, from Port Arthur, which place he left Thursday, says that although 25,000 Japanese have landed north of Port Arthur the garrison there is not dismayed. The place is provisioned for nine months. The garrison numbers 15,000—men exclusive of 30,000 Chinese coolies. The correspondent denies that Admiral Togo's bombardments were effective. He says that not a single gun was disabled. The protected parts of the city were slightly damaged, but the arsenals and dock yards were not injured. The Retvizan is permanently disabled. The Askold has been docked, and is being repaired. The other ships are not injured. The warships are able to get to sea as the channel has been cleared. Two cruisers and two torpedo boat destroyers steamed outside last Sunday. The garrison holds all the good positions within 20 miles of the fortress. A battalion of Japanese advanced last Sunday from Kin Chou Bay. They were met with artillery fire, which was followed by a charge of the Cossacks. The Japanese retreated, leaving eighty-five dead on the ground. A report from Viceroy Alexieff to the Czar, dated May 14 reported all quiet at Port Arthur.]

TO CANADIAN INVESTORS

I desire to call the attention of investors to the

Smuggler Gold Mining Co.'s Proposition

of which I am the authorized agent

Investments in mining stocks where they can be purchased cheaply whose property contains merit and whose directors are men of unquestionable honor and integrity, and especially when sufficient work has been done to guarantee a producing mine and the leads have been demonstrated to be permanent, offer the greatest opportunity for large returns from modern investments.

The shrewdest capitalists of England and America are giving more attention to mining properties and putting more money into them than at any time in the past history of the world.

The Smuggler Group consists of five full sized claims, to-wit:—The Smuggler, Gaspipe, Black Jack, Star and Bed Rock, located in the Greenhorn District of Eastern Oregon. Surrounding mines are Petrol, Pride of Pendleton, Bonanza and Rockefeller, developing work to the extent of 1,000 feet of tunnelling, drifts and crosscuts have been made, exposing hundreds of tons of high grade ore, averaging from $25 to $45 per ton, based on smelter returns, and for the purpose of equipping the mines a limited number of shares of Treasury Stock will be sold at 25 cents per share, the par value of which is $1.00.

THE GREAT WORK GOING ON IN MUSKOKA.

1,000 Patients Treated in the Two Muskoka Hospitals — the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Surprising Decrease of 25 Per Cent. in the Last Three Years in Deaths from Consumption.

Fifty-five Different Trades and Professions Represented by the Patients Admitted to the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Two Pavilions have had to be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds, and the Number of Patients Reduced from 75 to 50.

$25,000 Wanted this Year to Carry on this Great Work.

With a view of helping to bring to the attention of the public the needs of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have pleasure in publishing the following letter, in which an appeal is made for funds.

Dear Friend,—

It again becomes necessary to make an urgent appeal for funds for the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

A very heavy debt is pressing upon the trustees.

In addition to this, funds must be provided for the maintenance of patients. Last month there was a deficiency of nearly $1,500 over and above receipts from all sources.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives was opened eighteen months ago. 225 patients have been admitted.

No patient has ever been refused admission because of his or her poverty.

1,000 patients have been cared for in the two Muskoka Hospitals, the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The majority of these have either been cured, or so helped that they have been enabled to again become bread-winners for the family.

The public are beginning to find evidence of our work.

Already there has been a decrease of nearly 25 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption in the Province of Ontario.

The last report of the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health shows that in the last three years the deaths from consumption in Ontario have decreased from 3,481 to 2,694, a decrease of 790, or nearly 25 per cent.

This is the more gratifying when we remember that for a number of years previously the same report showed a steadily increasing death-rate prior to 1899.

Who will doubt that the work of our two Hospitals in Muskoka, and the persistent educational campaign carried on, has not helped to secure this surprising result?

In what better way can your gifts bring so good a return?

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 50.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

Very truly yours,

W. J. Gage

Old Hagar's Secret

BY MRS. M. J. HOLMES

Author of "For a Woman's Sake," "Love's Triumph," "Purified by Suffering," "A Grass Widow," "Woman Against Woman," Etc.

latter was pouting behind her veil, the former was wondering what possessed Mike to drive into every rut and over every stone.

"You, Mike!" she exclaimed at last, leaning from the window. "What ails you?"

"Nothing, as I'm a living man," answered Mike, halting so suddenly as to jerk the lady backward and mash the crown of her bonnet.

Straightening herself up, and trying in vain to smooth the jam, Madam Conway continued: "In liquor, I know. I wished I had stayed at home." But Mike loudly denied the charge, declaring, "he had spent the blessed night at a meeting of the Sons, where they passed around nothing stronger than lemons and water, and if the horses chose to run off the track, 'twasn't his fault — he couldn't help it;" and with the air of one deeply injured, he again started forward, turning off ere long into a cross road, which as they advanced, grew more stony and rough, while the farm-houses, as a general thing, presented a far less respectable appearance than those on the Hillsdale route.

"Mike, you villain!" ejaculated the lady, as they ran down into a ditch, and she sprang to one side to keep the carriage from going over.

But ere she had time for anything further, one of the axletrees snapped asunder, and to proceed further in their present condition was impossible. Alighting from the carriage, and setting her little feet upon the ground with a vengeance, Madam Conway first scolded Mike unmercifully for his carelessness, and next chided Maggie for manifesting no more concern.

"You'd as lief go to destruction as not, I do believe!" said she, looking carefully after the bandbox containing her purple satin.

"I'd rather go there first," answered Maggie, pointing to a brown, old-fashioned farmhouse about a quarter of a mile away.

At first Madam Conway objected, saying she preferred sitting on the the bank to intruding herself upon strangers, but as it was now noon-day, and the warm September sun poured fiercely down upon her, she finally concluded to follow Maggie's advice, and gathering up her box and parasol, started for the house, which, with its tansy patch on the right, and its single poplar tree in front, presented rather an uninviting appearance.

"Some vulgar creatures live there, I know. Just hear that old tin horn," she exclaimed, as a blast, loud and shrill, blown by practiced lips, told to the men in a distant field that dinner was ready.

A nearer approach disclosed to view a slanting-roofed farmhouse, such as is often found in New England, with high, narrow windows, small panes of glass, and the most indispensable paper curtains of blue, closely shading the windows of what was probably "the best room." In the apartment opposite, however, they were rolled up, so as to show the old-fashioned drapery of dimity, bordered with a netted fringe. Half a dozen broken pitchers and pots held geraniums, verbenas, and other plants, while the well-kept beds of hollyhocks, sunflowers and poppies indicated a taste for flowers in some one. Everything about the house was faultlessly neat. The door-sill was scrubbed to a chalky white, while the uncovered floor wore the same polished hue.

All this Madam Conway saw at a glance, but it did not prevent her from holding high her aristocratic skirts, lest they should be contaminated, and when, in answer to her knock, an odd-looking, peculiarly dressed woman appeared, she uttered an exclamation of disgust, and, turning to Maggie, said: "You talk —I can't!"

But the woman did not stand at all upon ceremony. For the last ten minutes she had been watching the strangers as they toiled over the sandy road, and when sure they were coming there, had retreated into her bedroom, donning a flaming red calico, which, guiltless of hoops, clung to her tenaciously, showing her form to good advantage, and rousing at once the risibles of Maggie. A black lace cap, ornamented with ribbons of the same fanciful color as the dress, adorned her head; and with a dozen or more pins in her mouth, she now appeared hooking her sleeve and smoothing down the black collar upon her neck.

In a few words Maggie explained to her their misfortune, and asked permission to tarry there until the carriage was repaired.

"Certing, certing," answered the woman, courtesying almost to the floor. "Walk right in, if you can git in. It's my cheese day, or I should have been cleared away sooner. Here, Betsy Jane! you have primked long enough; come and hist the winders in t'other room, and wing 'em off, so the ladies can set in there out of this dirty place;" then, turning to Madam Conway, who was industriously freeing her French kids from the sand they had accumulated during her walk, she continued: "Have some of my shoes to rest your feet a spell," and, diving into a recess or closet, she brought forth a pair of slippers large enough to hold both of Madam Conway's feet at once.

With a haughty frown the lady declined the offer, while Maggie looked on in delight, pleased with an adventure which promised so much fun. After a moment, Betsy Jane appeared, attired in a dress similar to that of her mother, for whose lank appearance she made ample amends in the wonderful expansion of her robes, which, minus gather or fold at the bottom, set out like a miniature tent, upsetting at once the handbox which Madam Conway had placed upon a chair, and which, with its contents, rolled promiscuously over the floor!

"Betsy Jane! How can you wear them abominable things!" exclaimed the distressed woman, stooping to pick up the purple satin which had tumbled out.

A look from the more fashionable daughter, as with a swinging sweep she passed on into the parlor, silenced the mother on the subject of hoops, and thinking her guests must necessarily be thirsty after their walk, she brought them a pitcher of water, asking if they'd "chuse it clear, or with a little ginger and molasses," at the same time calling to Betsy Jane to know if them windows was "wung" off!

The answer was in the affirmative, whereupon the ladies were invited to enter, which they did the more willingly as through the open door they caught glimpses of what proved to be a very handsome Brussels carpet, which in that room seemed a little out of place, as did the sofa and handsome hair-cloth rocking-chair. In the last Madam Conway seated herself, while Maggie reclined upon a lounge, wondering at the difference in the various articles of furniture, some of which were quite expensive, while others were of the most common kind.

"Who can they be? She looks like some one I have seen," said Maggie, as Betsy Jane left the room. "I mean to ask their names." But this her grandmother would not suffer. "It was too much like familiarity," she said, "and she did not believe in putting one's self on a level with such people."

Another loud blast from the horn was blown, for the bustling woman of the house was evidently getting uneasy, and ere long three or four men appeared, washing themselves from the spout of the pump, and wiping upon a coarse towel which hung upon a roller near the back door.

"I shan't eat at the same table with those creatures," said Madam Conway, feeling intuitively that she would be invited to dinner.

"Why, grandma! yes you will, if she asks you to," answered Maggie. "Only think how kind they are to us perfect strangers!"

What else she might have said was prevented by the entrance of Betsy Jane, who informed them that "dinner was ready," and, with a mental groan, as she thought how she was about to be martyred, Madam Conway followed her to the dining-room, where a plain, substantial farmer's meal was spread. Standing at the head of the table, with her good-humored face all in a glow, was the hostess, who, pointing Madam to a chair, said: "Now, set right by, and make yourselves to hum. Mebby I orter have set the table over, and I guess I should if I had anything fit to eat. Be you fond of biled victuals?" and taking it for granted they were, she loaded both Madam Conway's and Maggie's plate with every variety of vegetables used in the preparation of the dish known everywhere as "boiled victuals."

By this time the men had ranged themselves in respectful silence upon the opposite side of the table, each stealing an admiring though modest glance at Maggie; for the masculine heart, whether it beat beneath a homespun frock or coat of finest cloth, is alike susceptible to glowing, youthful beauty, like that of Maggie Miller. The head of the house was absent—"had gone to town with a load of wood," so his spouse informed the ladies, at the same time pouring out a cup of tea, which she said she had tried to make strong enough to bear up an egg. "Betsy Jane," she continued, casting a deprecating glance at the blue sugar-bowl and then at her daughter, "what possessed you to put on this brown sugar, when I told you to get crush? Have some of the apple sass? It's new—made this morning. Dew have some," she continued, as Madam Conwat shook her head, "Mebby it's better than it looks. Seem's ef you wasn't goin' to eat nothin'. Betsy Jane, now you're up after the crush, fetch them china sassers for the cowcumbers. Like enough she'll eat some of them."

But, affecting a headache, Madam Conway declined everything, save the green tea and a Boston cracker, which, at the first mention of headache, the distressed woman had brought her. Suddenly remembering Mike, who, having fixed the carriage, was fast asleep on a wheelbarrow under the woodshed, she exclaimed: "For the land of massy, if I hain't forgot that young gentleman! Go, William, and call him this minute. Are you sick at your stomach?" she asked, turning to Madam Conway, who, at the thought of eating with her drunken coachman, had uttered an exclamation of disgust. "Go, Betsy Jane, and fetch the camphire, quick!"

But Madam Conway did not need the camphor, and so she said, adding that Mike was better where he was. Mike thought so, too, and refused to come, whereupon the woman insisted that he must. "There was room enough," she said, "and no kind of sense in Betsy Jane's taking up the hull side of the table with them ratans. She could set nearer the young lady."

"Certainly," answered Maggie, anxious to see how the ratans would manage to squeeze in between herself and the table-leg, as they would have to do if they came an inch nearer.

This feat could not be done, and in attempting it Betsy Jane upset Maggie's tea upon her handsome traveling dress, eliciting from her mother the exclamation, "Betsy Jane Douglas, you allus was the blunderin'est girl!"

This little incident diverted the woman's mind from Mike, while Madam Conway, starting at the name of Douglas, thought to herself, "Douglas! Douglas! I did not suppose 'twas so common a name. But, then, it don't hurt George any, having these creatures bear his name."

"Dinner being over, Madam Conway and Maggie returned to the parlor, where, while the former resumed her chair, the latter amused herself by examining the books and odd-looking daguerreotypes which lay upon the table.

"Oh, grandmother!" she almost screamed, bounding to that lady's side, "as I live, here's a picture of Theo and George Douglas taken together!" and she held up a hand-

Par value $1.00. Full Paid and Non-Assessable

At 75 Cents per Share

This company now owns the well-known Augusta mine and its extension for over 1000 feet in addition to other claims approximating a total acreage of 300 acres. This property has produced over $250,000 in gold, silver and lead ores and is a producer to-day. Has shipped ores of an average net value of $40 per ton for first class and $18 per ton for second class, all the past summer and the summer before smelter and mill returns of which are on file in our office.

Has immense bodies of these grades of ore, which cannot be exhausted in five years, already opened up and its main working tunnel is nearing completion, cutting the apex of the vein at a depth of 1,600 feet.

This block of shares is offered to enable the Company to connect the above tunnel with its concentrating mill and projected terminus of railroad by tramway, a distance of 11,120 feet, thereby permitting shipments during the entire year.

A production of at least 125 tons daily will be maintained when these improvements are made, and if completed in the early summer, dividends can be paid from ore settlements before this fall.

We offer for a limited time only a SPECIAL BLOCK OF 50,000 SHARES OF THE TREASURY STOCK of these Companies.

We reserve the right to reject subscriptions over and above the 50,000 shares offered. Each subscription to be booked as received.

Like its sister Company is today giving the best value for the money of any share offered.

This Company owns and controls over 300 acres of good mineral-producing ground, including the well-known Excelsior and Yankee Blade, which have produced upward of $175,000.

Tunnel B of the Black Queen Company is now going in at a rate of 196 feet per month, and early spring will see this work vieing with Tunnel A of the Augusta Company in its record of production.

Will cut known proven ore bodies 1100 feet from Apex, and open sufficient stoping ground to make an output of 100 tons daily.

Has already cut through a cross vein two feet in width of good marketable Galena ore, the point of intersection being 400 feet beneath the surface. We have 900 feet of this vein in length.

We can show you these facts and ask that you ask us to do so.

If your investment becomes profitable you will tell others; therefore it is much to our interest to have you make money on your investment.

Nine out of every ten men have been guilty of transgression against nature in their youth. Nature never excuses, no matter how young, thoughtless or ignorant he may be. The punishment and suffering corresponds with the crime. The only escape from its ruinous results is proper scientific treatment to counteract its effects.

The DRAINS, either by nightly losses, or secretly through the urine, must be stopped—the NERVES must be built up and invigorated, the blood must be purified, the SEXUAL ORGANS must be vitalized and developed, the BRAIN must be nourished. Our New Method Treatment provides all these requirements. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers disappear; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and sexual nerve forces are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. The proposition when developed will pay as less than 50 per cent. per annum on the investment, and it behooves anyone who wishes to better his financial condition, to give immediate attention to this.

Full particulars in every detail will be given to all to whom such a proposition may appeal, but please do not ask for them unless y cally are interested, because on wastes your own time and ours also.

Capital $1,000,000, 500,000 Shares in Treasury

Properly includes two great mining estates—one gold, the other copper—both containing wide, deep, proven veins of high and low grade ore.

Development work has been systematically carried on, with results that more than justify every claim made by the company, and unquestionably proves the destiny of the property to equal that of the greatest successful mining companies of the world.

Above Statement Can be Easily Verified

The following two facts alone will give anyone familiar with mining, a rough idea of the great value of the property.

The Copper King Group contains one vein 30 feet wide, 8 feet of which runs from $10 to $100 per ton, and the Company owns 9,000 feet on this vein.

Ore running from $18 to $50 per ton is continually being shipped from the gold property, and 24 samples taken from widely different portions of the vein system averaged $65.25 per ton.

FACILITIES—The Company owns 1,720 acres of placer and timber land, water power of 50 (minimum) horse power. No expensive shaft work necessary. Ore easily treated on Company's property, thus saving freight and smelter charges.

DIVIDENDS—To begin earning and paying large dividends it is only necessary to erect two 50 ton mills, one on each property. To obtain funds for this purpose a limited amount of stock is offered at

BRITAIN IS WITH CHAMBERLAIN

In His Desire to Bind the Empire Closer Together

THE BRITISH ELECTION

Will be Fought on this Broad Issue by Balfour and Chamberlain

London, May 17.—Mr. Chamberlain's speech at Birmingham is accepted as the clearest evidence of the vigor with which the Imperial side of his campaign will be pushed. He is evidently convinced that the British people mean to remain part of a United Empire, and that they are prepared to go to the fullest length that can reasonably be expected to encourage a trade partnership with the colonies, who are already Great Britain's best business friends. In a word, Mr. Chamberlain realizes that home protection alone is insufficient to enlist the support of the British people, but that upon the large Imperial issue the great mass of the community are entirely with him, provided that the total cost of the necessities in smaller British homesteads is not increased. Mr. Chamberlain is certain of his power to satisfy this condition.

His speech is also accepted as proving that Mr. Balfour and Mr. Chamberlain are allies in the Imperial reciprocity campaign for all practical purposes, and that the general election, which is probable next year, will be fought on that broad issue.

I understand that Mr. Chamberlain has received assurances of the desire of the Canadian manufacturers to cordially co-operate in this policy.

DEATH REVEALS A FRAUD.

Eccentric Evanston, Ill., Man, Who Posed as a Giant, Found to Weigh Only 112 Pounds.

In the squalid and crowded room where he had lived like a hermit for 18 years the body of "Capt." John H. C. Smith, an eccentric Evanston (Ill.) character, was found the other day. Smith committed suicide, choosing rat poison as the means of ending his life.

When the body was found it was clothed in several suits of clothes and underwear. It was a boast of the captain, as he was known in Evanston, that he was the largest man in the world. More than 56 yards of cloth in his outer garments alone made him appear a man of unusual size. Then the clothes were removed, it was found that he weighed only 112 pounds. As he appeared in the streets of Evanston his girth measurement was 69 inches. His body measured less than 35 inches.

Until recently Smith was employed as night watchman by wealthy Evanstonians living on Sheridan road. At that time he had a helmet made for him in New York which weighed over 16 pounds. Across the front of it was stamped the word "Chief."

He went to Evanston 18 years ago, and it is supposed that he was born in Nova Scotia and was from a wealthy family. It is said by those who knew him that he had a large sum of money in one of the Evanston banks. He was unable to read or write, and so appointed A. L. Phill, an Evanston locksmith, to care for his money. His true identity, his ancestry and his source of wealth have been subjects of conjecture.

WOMEN ROB PASSENGERS

Female Culprits Accompany Notorious Pickpocket

Milan, May 16.—The police have arrested several stylishly dressed thieves of both sexes, whose field of work was the trains de luxe coming to Italy from Paris, Berlin and Vienna. Many complaints have been made by travellers who have been robbed, and the Italian detectives watched the trains entering Milan.

Three women wearing diamonds and accompanied by a well known international pickpocket named Benoit, were the first to fall into the hands of the police. They gave French names, which have been found fictitious. It was their custom to travel frequently by the international lines to Milan.

ORIGIN OF THE TORPEDO.

Was First Designed in Richmond, Va., and Used in the Civil War.

Writing to the Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch, Col. Richard L. Maury, a son of Commodore Matthew Fontaine Maury, of the confederate navy, describes the manufacture by his father of torpedoes, which, he says, had their origin in Virginia, were designed in Richmond, and were first successfully used in the waters of the James river.

Commodore Maury's trial experiments to explode under water were made with minute charges of powder, and submerged in an ordinary washtub in his chamber at the house of his cousin, Robert H. Maury, on Clay street, Richmond, and the tank for actual use, with the triggers for explosion and other mechanical appliances for service, was made by Talbott & Son, on Cary street.

"In the early summer of 1861," says Col. Maury, "the secretary of the navy and the chairman of the naval committee of congress, and others, were invited to witness an explosion in James river at Rocketts. The torpedo was a small keg of powder, weighted to sink, fitted with a trigger to explode by percussion, to be fired, when in place, with a lanyard. The Patrick Henry gig was borrowed; Capt. Maury (as he then was) and the writer got aboard with the torpedo, and were rowed to the middle of the channel, just opposite where the wharf of The James River Steamboat company now is, whereon the spectators stood; the torpedo was carefully lowered to the bottom, taking great care not to strain upon the trigger, which was in full cock, the lanyard loosely held on board. The boat pulled clear and the writer pulled the lanyard. The explosion was instantaneous; up went a column of water 15 or 20 feet; many stunned or dead fish floated around; the officials on the wharf applauded and were convinced, and shortly after a naval bureau of "coast, harbor and river defense" was created, and Capt. Maury placed at its head, with abundant funds for the work, and the very best of intelligent, able and zealous younger naval officers for assistants.

AGED BATTLESHIPS.

THEIR FATE WHEN TOO FAR GONE TO BE OF SERVICE.

Small Sums Realised Upon Great Vessels That Have Cost Fortunes to Build—Their Lifetime.

What is done with those warships which, becoming obsolete, have to be "disposed of at alarming sacrifices," is one of those questions few ordinary persons could answer, says London Tit-Bits. Of course, the most profitable way would be to sell them to foreign countries, such as the South American republics, and Turkey, Spain and China might even be occasional customers.

But for obvious political reasons such a thing is never done; indeed, so stern is the governmentt's determination not to run the risk of our navy's "ineffective" ships falling into foreign hands that in every case it is stipulated that they shall be broken up in British waters. Thus it occurs that obsolete war vessels, which, perhaps, cost the nation £500,000, or even £750,000, have, from time to time, to be sold for £15,000 or £20,000, when as war vessels they would probably realize twice or thrice as much if sold to a foreign country which did not mind having a navy somewhat out of date.

But sold—as in nearly every case they are—for breaking up, they simply fetch the price of old metal, from which is to be deducted the cost of shipwreckers' labor, this being an important factor, since it stands to reason a man of war cannot be disintegrated with a can opener.

Taken out of commission, the condemned warship lies moored until the admiralty sells her either by auction or private treaty. She is stripped of guns and stores, and generally of certain portions of her fittings, which are often up to date and serviceable. Then she passes into the hands of her purchasers, generally a British firm who have a special plant for dealing with ironclads. She is towed to the most convenient place and her destruction begins. She is ripped to pieces, from quarter-deck to keel. Her engines, decks, steering gear, woodwork—everything is taken from her—until the mere steel shell remains, and the final blows are generally dealt with dynamite to break up her plates. As often as ten or 12 months are occupied in breaking up a battleship.

Then what becomes of her? You may be sitting in a chair the wood of which was once part of a battleship; before a grate made out of a cruiser's plate, for her plates are sold for remelting, and they turn up unsuspected in a thousand homes, are made into stoves, railway lines, park railings, fire irons, traction engines, etc. If only steel could speak, there's many a humble-looking fire grate which could tell of stirring deeds.

There is not much wood about the warships which fall into the ship breakers' hands nowadays, but what there is commands a ready market for a variety of purposes, as it is understood to be the best, toughest and most seasoned of its kind ordinarily obtainable. At the same time large portions of a ship's timber are good only as fuel and as such it is sold; but it is aways reckoned to be the finest fuel wood money can buy. The better stuff is bought for barge building, flooring, etc., to be worked up by carpenters and cabinet makers. Ships' timber is considered particularly good for employment in damp places.

Every ounce of the wrecked vessel is disposed of to some purpose, yet even then, owing to the expensive trouble of breaking her up, her purchasers sometimes find she has only just repaid the cost to which they have been put, and that albeit she cost them only a fiftieth or sixtieth part of what she cost the nation no more perhaps than 20 years before.

Twenty years is about the time which changes a new war vessel into an obsolete ship such as it would be foolish to send into action. But occasionally ships become obsolete and meet their inglorious doom very much sooner. In one case, indeed, a battleship became obsolete while she lay in the building stocks, and she was actually broken up without being shifted from the place where her keel was laid. Another vessel, the Hood, was broken up without ever "riding salt water," having been built in the Medway and only being launched to go further above for the purpose of being disintegrated. A third war vessel, of a smaller type, became obsolete while waiting for her boilers to be put in, and she never lived to breathe steam.

Not every obsolete war vessel meets the melancholy fate of being broken up, however. On rare occasions condemned ships on being taken out of the effective list are used for the storage of powder, etc., or as training ships, though ironclads are not very well adapted to such uses. Vessels of small types are sometimes, too, rigged up for special purposes wherever a government office would otherwise have to purchase a new ship at a much greater outlay. But the ultimate end of every ship of war not sunk at sea is to be bartered for almost a fiftieth part of her cost, broken up, and scattered over the land to be converted to a thousand different uses.

THE GREAT WORK GOING ON IN MUSKOKA.

1,000 Patients Treated in the Two Muskoka Hospitals—the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Surprising Decrease of 25 Per Cent. in the Last Three Years in Deaths from Consumption.

Fifty-five Different Trades and Professions Represented by the Patients Admitted to the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Two Pavilions have had to be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds, and the Number of Patients Reduced from 75 to 50.

$25,000 Wanted this Year to Carry on this Great Work.

With a view of helping to bring to the attention of the public the needs of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have pleasure in publishing the following letter, in which an appeal is made for funds.

Dear Friend,—

It again becomes necessary to make an urgent appeal for funds for the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

A very heavy debt is pressing upon the trustees.

In addition to this, funds must be provided for the maintenance of patients. Last month there was a deficiency of nearly $1,500 over and above receipts from all sources.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives was opened eighteen months ago. 225 patients have been admitted.

No patient has ever been refused admission because of his or her poverty.

1,000 patients have been cared for in the two Muskoka Hospitals, the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The majority of these have either been cured, or so helped that they have been enabled to again become bread-winners for the family.

The public are beginning to find evidence of our work.

Already there has been a decrease of nearly 25 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption in the Province of Ontario.

The last report of the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health shows that in the last three years the deaths from consumption in Ontario have decreased from 3,464 to 2,694, a decrease of 760, or nearly 25 per cent.

This is the more gratifying when we remember that for a number of years previously the same report showed a steadily increasing death-rate prior to 1899.

Who will doubt that the work of our two Hospitals in Muskoka, and the persistent educational campaign carried on, has not helped to secure this surprising result?

In what better way can your gifts bring so good a return?

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 50.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

Very truly yours,

W. J. Gage

Catarrh Leads to Consumption

he Experience of a Lady in Sydney Who was Cured of Consump ion by Inhaling Catarrhozone — This Case Should Ware Others.

"The beginning of my trouble was cold. Just a single cold," writes Mrs. A. Thurture, of Sydney. "I neglected this cold and then I got catarrh. When it became troublesome I took some medicine but it didn't help me. I began to cough a great deal and then consulted a doctor. I was horrified to find I must have had tubercular irritation in my lungs for a year or more. A friend strongly urged me to use Catarrhozone. I conferred with my doctor and he said that lots of fresh air and the frequent use of Catarrhozone would be the proper treatment. I used to cough for at least half an hour in the morning but after using Catarrhozone a few days my cough was much easier. The irritation gradually left my throat and I commenced to get better. I kept up the Catarrhozone treatment and inhaled the medicated air five minutes every hour. I believe this was the means of staying my disease, for I got quite well again in a few months. I have since advised other sufferers from catarrh and lung trouble to use Catarrhozone, and in each case good results were obtained. I attribute my recovery entirely to Catarrhozone, which I can honestly recommend in the strongest way."

The foregoing experience should convince everybody of the evil of allowing colds to develop. To neglect catarrh is even worse. Carry a Catarrhozone inhaler in your pocket and use it occasionally. It prevents colds, permanently cures every type of catarrh, and is known to be the only remedy that actually kills the germs of consumption.

Catarrhozone is used by all intelligent physicians and is endorsed by thousands of doctors, because it can be relied upon to absolutely cure catarrh, bronchitis, throat and lung trouble. Catarrhozone is simplest, surest and best remedy. Two months treatment guaranteed to cure. Price $1.00, trial size 25c., at druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., and Kingston, Ont. Refuse a substitute for Catarrhozone and insist on getting it when you ask for Catarrhozone.

Old Books Rebound

We have one of the best bookbinderies in this part of the province, and are prepared to quote close prices for the rebinding of Sunday school and all public or private libraries. Old books made as good as new. Times Printing Company, Peterborough.

A Small Blaze

A blaze broke out in the isolation ward of St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday morning, which came very nearly being serious. A bundle of old rags became ignited through the explosion of a lamp, and it was only through the heroic efforts of some of the sisters and the night watchman that the fire was subdued. The fire brigade was soon on hand, and the blaze was speedily extinguished.

The Olympic Excursion

Invitations are out for the annual excursion to Burleigh, to take place on Thursday, June 2nd. A special feature of this year's outing will be a sail through the islands at the head of Stony Lake immediately after dinner at Burleigh Falls, returning to the Falls for supper. After tea foot racing and games consisting of baseball, duck on the rock, croquet, ten-pins and lawn tennis will be freely indulged in on the beautiful lawn surrounding the hotel. The 57th Band will be there to keep the bunch on edge.

A Great Disappointment

Lindsay Post: As many people from Lindsay and vicinity visited Lakefield last year on May 24th to attend Rev. Fr. Phelan's picnic, they may be contemplating a similar trip on the coming holiday. The Post has just been notified by Rev. Fr. Phelan that he does not intend holding a picnic in Lakefield on that day, and may dispense with the annual picnic this year, but if he arranges to hold one he will give his Lindsay friends timely notice.

The Late Alfred Delaire

Mr. and Mrs John A. Delaire, 458 Park street, will have the sympathy of the entire community in the irreparable loss which they have sustained through the death of their son, Frank, which sad event took place yesterday morning. The deceased was well known and universally esteemed. He was only 17 years of age, and had been ill for some time. The funeral will take place tomorrow morning at nine o'clock from his father's residence, and proceed to the Roman Catholic cemetery for interment.

Mr. Harry Adams Honored

On Monday evening the employees of Robt. Fair & Co.'s store presented Mr. Harry Adams with a beautifully engraved locket. Mr. Adams was connected with the Golden Lion for many years, and was much esteemed by the employees. He left that firm lately and entered business for himself. Mr. R. H. Elliott made the presentation in a few words, expressive of their feelings towards him, and wishing him every success in his new undertaking. Mr. Adams was taken completely by surprise, but made a suitable reply.

TO AID PORT HOPE

Proposal to Attract a Large Manufacturing Concern Thither

Port Hope Guide: A special meeting of the Port Hope Town Council was held Thursday evening, called by Mayor Quinlan in the afternoon, at the request of Mr. Culverwell, who has been in communication with a large manufacturing concern, which employs some 75 skilled hands. Mr. Culverwell, in addressing the Council, gave the name of the Company, but asked that it be withheld from publication, and explained that they had expressed themselves ready to receive a proposition from Port Hope in regard to their location here.

Owing to the heavy nature of the raw material used by this concern and the large amount of coal required, it was necessary to have water transportation, and as Peterborough is not yet in the happy position of being able to offer that inducement, (the Trent Valley Canal not being opened to Lake Ontario) Mr. Culverwell stated he was pleased to have placed the business this way.

After a full discussion and due consideration being given, a resolution was passed authorizing the Mayor to despatch a letter inviting the Company officials to Port Hope to look over the situation, when a proposition would be submitted to them.

The letter was immediately despatched, and Mr. Culverwell was formally thanked by the Council for his efforts on behalf of Port Hope.

MR. CULVERWELL'S CHARGES,

Department Says That There is no Truth in Them

We have received the following taken from the Ottawa Free Press, with a request to publish it:

"Information procured in the department of railways and canals at variance with recent statements made by J. A. C. Culverwell, managing director of the Central Ontario Power Company, Peterborough.

"Mr. Culverwell made the charge that Richard R. Rogers, superintending engineer of the Trent canal, in conjunction with J. M. Kilbourn, Lakefield, purchased water powers on the Trent River for the purpose of private gain. Mr. Culverwell stated that Mr. Rogers and Mr. Kilbourn became involved in this way in the Trenton route, and would fight for it to the last. He declared that their opposition to the Port Hope course was a public scandal.

"Mr. Rogers and Mr. Kilbourn say they made the purchase for the government. The Free Press learned from the department today that this statement was correct. The price received by the owners of the property was exactly what the government gave Mr. Rogers to make the purchase. It was further stated that the government was obliged to procure the property if the canal was to be projected to Trenton, so that no connivance seems probable."

The recent marriage of a couple of cripples, each having only half the proper complement of arms and legs, was noted by the press as a "connubial curiosity." But who notes the marriages which occur daily in which both parties are cripples in health.

Crippled health means, as a rule, insufficient nutrition, and lack of nutrition points to disease of the stomach and digestive and nutritive tract. Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect nourishment of the body, and so builds it up in sound health and strength.

"I had been a great sufferer from indigestion for the last nine years," writes Mrs. Margaret Shingle, of Owings Mills, Baltimore Co., Md. "I was such a wreck it seemed death was near, but to-day can say I feel like another woman. I have received much and lasting good from Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription.' I have taken twenty-five bottles in all, and followed the advice of Dr. R. V. Pierce, and am happy to say that life is worth living now. A thousand thanks for your treatment."

Do not be cajoled into trading a substance for a shadow. Any substitute offered as "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery" is a shadow of that medicine. There are cures behind every claim made for the "Discovery."

The conditions of the agreement are that the company must have its system in operation inside of twelve months, and running in good order. The prices of 'phones for residences shall not exceed $15 per year, and for business 'phones $20, and a residence and a business 'phone contracted for by one person shall not cost more than $30 per year. The company also agrees to maintain the system in as modern a manner as in any place in Canada in which the company operates. A RARE CHANCE FOR CANADIAN INVESTORS

THOMAS PATTERSON & CO.
BROKERS, PETERBOROUGH

HAVING BEEN APPOINTED CANADIAN FISCAL AGENTS OF THE

CRIPPLE CREEK ENTERPRISE GOLD MINING COMPANY

of Colorado, beg to inform their customers and investors generally that they have secured a block of stock of this Company, which they now offer for sale at 35 cents per share—par value $1.00.

This stock is bound to advance rapidly. All Shareholders are on an equal basis, no preferred stock. This is a proposition in all its details so simple that every shareholder will know at all times the value of his holdings. With the vast quantities of ore now in sight, and the facilities that will be put into operations to mine it, every dollar invested in this way may yield ten, twenty and a hundred fold. As has been chronicled in hundreds of instances in Cripple Creek, where persons have purchased stock in the early stages of a mine, the price at which the stock is offered is such a bargain that it cannot fail to be subscribed for at an early date, therefore investors should act quickly.

The shares are fully paid up and non-assessable (no individual liability). Each and every share represents a distinct and liberal portion of an enterprise which it is fully believed will produce millions of dollars.

The Cripple Creek Company is splendidly officered by men of high repute and with an expert knowledge of mining in all its details. The Company was organized to operate in Colorado, and properly incorporated under the laws of that State.

In the incorporation of the Company 500,000 shares of the capital stock were set aside for development purposes, and cannot be used in any other way.

We will be pleased to give full particulars to investors, and would say in conclusion. Buy now! Get in on the ground floor, as the stock will quickly advance.

TWO BIG ARMIES ARE NOW IN CONTACT

STATION ON GREAT SIBERIAN RAILROAD

The arrival of a train bearing Russian Troops—A delegation of townspeople on hand to cheer the soldiers

Rival Armies are in Touch, and a Big Battle is Imminent Near Liao Yang--Two Divisions Have Arrived Near Mukden with Object of Cutting General Kouropatkin's Line of Retreat Northward--Big Events Impending

London, May 17.—The Shanghai correspondent of The Morning Post, cabling under date of May 16, says that according to native reports from Port Arthur, the Japanese are vigorously besieging the fortress night and day by land and sea, and that sixty Japanese warships and transports have been sighted in Blackney Bay, and that heavy firing has been heard in Kinchau Bay.

Rome, May 18.—According to a telegram received here from Tokio two Japanese divisions have arrived near Mukden with the object of cutting General Kouropatkin's line of retreat northward.

Paris, May 18.—The Journal's Mukden correspondent says:

"Important events are imminent. The outposts of the two armies are already in contact in the zone northwest of Kimp Wang Cheng. Southeast of the Liao Yang is estimated at one hundred thousand. A lieutenant guns, which is not confirmed officially, affirms that an other Japanese corps is executing a flanking movement directed on some point between Liao Yang and Mukden.

"According to the best information there are now no less than 160,000 Japanese in Manchuria."

WHAT KOUROPATKIN WILL DO.

London, May 18.—No further news has reached London throwing light upon the appearance of Japanese troops northeast of Mukden, or indicating by what route they reached that point so unexpectedly. The Japanese are so successful in hiding their movements that it is only possible to guess at them from the vague indications in Russian official despatches.

It is noticeable that Russian despatches seldom name the place whence they are sent.

A question greatly discussed in the London papers this morning is whether Gen. Kouropatkin has succeeded in ascertaining that the Japanese are threatening his rear so near the Mukden line, and has been enabled to begin a retreat, or whether he has elected to fight.

In any case, it is considered that any day may bring news of a great battle in this district, as the transport difficulties are believed to be so great as to make it almost impossible for Gen. Kouropatkin to effect a rapid retirement.

The Standard's Odessa correspondent confirms the report that Gen. Kouropatkin's aggregate forces for the impending battle do not exceed 100,000 men.

IN VICINITY OF NEW Chwang.

Tien Tsin, May 18.—Lloyds' agent at New Chwang has telegraphed under Tuesday's date as follows:

"The Japanese division which landed at Kin Chou May 16, under heavy firing of the Japanese men-of-war, is marching toward New Chwang. Evacuation by the Russians has been nearly completed. The Japanese are expected to arrive shortly. All is quiet at New Chwang and shipping shows favorable progress."

TURKS SLEW ARMENIANS

Official Report Confirms Stories of Burning and Looting Villages

Paris, May 19.—An official despatch to the foreign office from Constantinople confirms the reports that Turkish troops have burned villages throughout the Sassun district of Armenia, killing inhabitants. The French ambassador, M. Constans, has joined with the Russian and British ambassadors in sending consuls to Erzeroum in the hope of limiting the destruction and bloodshed. However, the official advices although brief indicate that the work of exterminating the Armenians occupying the mountainous district of Sassun is practically accomplished.

CZAR FACES CRISIS AT HOME

Disaffection at Military Failures Mark a and Seething Unrest

Rome May 18.—A secret report received from St. Petersburg depicts the internal situation of Russia as becoming more serious as regards the preservation of the present institutions, the military failures in the far east having strengthened the opinion that the evils are due to the present organization of the country, in which a change is necessary. The hope is expressed that the emperor himself, seeing the danger, will be induced to grant the country a constitution, in which event, it is asserted, the enthusiasm of the people will become so great as to render it possible to raise an army and collect the means necessary to defeat Japan. Otherwise the report says, it is believed all the efforts made by St. Petersburg will remain futile, as besides the war in the far east Russia will be obliged to face a latent if not an open revolutionary movement at home depriving her of the assistance of the most progressive elements of the empire, such as the Poles and Finns.

CELL FOR BIGAMOUS MINISTER

Man who Posed as Preacher Pleads Guilty at Sioux Falls, S. D.

Sioux Falls, S.D., May 18.—Rev. Charles A. Lyons pleaded guilty to the charge of bigamy and was sentenced to-day to four years in the penitentiary. Lyons first appeared in Sioux City a year ago, and professed to be a minister of the gospel. Jail, as he bore credentials which appeared genuine, he was taken into the confidence of many of the church people. Last summer he was married to Miss Emma Purvis. After a brief married life Lyons disappeared. His wife employed detectives, and Lyons was caught in St. Paul and returned here, where it was ascertained he had been married four or five times before coming to Sioux Falls.

THE WAR SITUATION GROWS MORE OMINOUS FOR RUSSIA

It Looks as Though the Japanese Had the Enemy Badly Cornered

Russians Take Leaf Out of Japan's Book in Regard to Keeping Movement's Secret—Will Hold Port Arthur Garrison.

London, May 19.—The long-expected sweep on New Chwang has come. The Japanese are safely established on shore, twenty miles from the town, and in possession of a good harbor at which to land troops. In two or three days they will be in possession of that city. The paces will then be set for the big attack on the Russians.

When the third army has established itself, the weakness of the Russian position will be painfully evident. The Russian position will be:

1. A line of railway running south from Harbin. It will lead to no strong position. Its southern end will be thrust into an envelopping Japanese force. To the east will be the third Japanese army, roughly parallel with it, and ever threatening to swing its right wing forward to cut the line north of the Russian main body. To the west will be Chinese territory, where Russians will get a rough welcome. To the southwest the third Japanese army will be pressing up, enveloping the tip of the line.

2. To fend off the menace of the first Japanese army the Russians are holding a subsidiary line, that of the Motien Mountains. It runs at an angle of 45 degrees to the railway roughly southwest and northeast. It touches the railway near Haicheng, and runs up to Samaja. It may be outflanked at Samaja to the northeast; the capture of Haicheng by a concentrated attack of the first and third armies would turn it from the southwest. Once the first army lined the Motien Mountains, it would force the Russians to fall back far beyond Mukden.

The Japanese position falls into three groups:

1. A containing force, the second army, will hold the Port Arthur garrison.

2. The first army is in marching the Russians disposed, along the railway line. At present it is fronting the Motien mountain range, is feeling around the left of that position, and is sending strong forces to the Russian right, towards Haicheng, where the Motien position joins the railway line.

3. The third army, from New Chwang, will work north. It can attack Haicheng from the south and west, while the first army attacks from the east. Such an envelopping attack should be irresistible. Should the Russians concentrate in force there, or at Liao Yang, they must weaken their hold on the Motien Mountains and enable Gen. Kuroki to push his right wing forward and cut the railway north of Liao Yang.

The Russians evidently recognize the their position in Southern Manchuria is hopeless, for they are mainly discussing a retreat beyond Mukden. The southern portions of their line are all but untenable.

St. Petersburg, May 19.—General Kouropatkin has taken a leaf out of Japan's book in respect of secrecy regarding the numbers and plans of the Czar's troops. Prominent members of the general staff formerly thoroughly advised regarding the situation at the front now are, or feign to be, almost as much in the dark as the ordinary military observer. They profess complete ignorance as to whether the commander-in-chief intends to fight at Liao Yang or Mukden or merely to entertain the Japanese with rear guard actions until the Mikado's lines of communication stretch across Manchuria and the Czar's is correspondingly shortened. Official efforts say that Kouropatkin is already moving his supplies and reserves from positions menaced by the invading armies. Meanwhile the experts take pleasure in witnessing the slow massing of a conquering host at Harbin. It is predicted that when the Russians are ready to take the offensive Kouropatkin will astonish the world by a turning movement launched from some point on the railway between Harbin and Vladivostock, possibly the valley of Mudantza, in the vicinity of Ninguta. It is acknowledged that such an enterprise looks fantastic in view of the great distance to be covered and the difficult nature of the country, but the operations of the Cossacks in Corea is cited as an example of Russian mobility. Moreover, experts agree that this war is likely to give soldiers enlarged ideas as to the practicabilities of mounted campaigning far from the primary sources of supplies.

The Russians show their appreciation of the gravity of the outlook by punishing guerilla attacks relentlessly.

TORPEDO BOATS LEAVE.

Chefoo, May 19.—Leaving the vicinity of Dalny yesterday afternoon when the Japanese had completed their operations, a despatch boat with a Times correspondent on board sailed south and spent the day among the Miaotao Islands, which lie in the Laotheshan Channel, between Port Arthur and Tengchow on the Shan Tung peninsula. It seems that there is probably some truth in the persistent Chinese rumors that several Russian destroyers have managed to get out of Port Arthur. Japanese gun boats and torpedo boats were searching among the islands all day. While cruising early on Monday heavy firing was heard off Port Arthur. The despatch boat ran in as near as it dared, but owing to the mist it was impossible to see anything. Later a fleet of Jap destroyers came out. The commander, however, declined to give any definite information.

Montreal, May 19.—Among the passengers that left the Windsor station this morning on the Transcontinental train to the west were three Japanese gentlemen. They were J. Yorhig, S. Kawamura and Yabura Fugica. They have been residents in New York for some time. They announced to your correspondent that the Japanese colony in New York which is quite extensive, had communicated the fact to the authorities at Tokio that they were willing to go back and serve in active warfare if their services were required. A company of volunteers had been formed and there were in New York City alone over 200 Japanese who had formed themselves into a volunteer company, and were actively drilling and preparing themselves for any emergency. A great number of these men saw active service in the Chinese-Japanese war and among them are several officers. "We are aching to get a chance at the enemy," said Mr Kawamura" as the train pulled out They are bound for Tokio.

Seoul May 19.—Reports have been received here that 150 captured Russian officers and men will shortly be dispatched from Yongampo to Mojisi, Japan.

MUTILATION OF DEAD

Charges made by Japanese Correspondent Against Russian Soldiers

Tokio, May 19.—A Japanese correspondent who is with General Kuroki has made the charge that the Russians mutilated Japanese dead at Yalu river. He says when the detachment of the Fourth regiment of the imperial guards, which occupied Kasan received the counter attack from the Russian three Japanese soldiers fell into the hands of the enemy and were taken prisoners. The mutilated corpses of one of them, named Tatsukiro Watanabe, was afterwards found, according to the correspondent on the bank of the river.

"The dead man's face had been stripped of its skin, his stomach had been gouged out," continues the correspondent, "and his feet had been cut. The mutilations were horrible. It is believed the other two men met the same fate, but when the corpses of the three were rolled over the bank only that of Watanabe caught on a tree, the others falling into the river."

The publication of these charges has caused intense indignation.

SLAY NOTORIOUS DESPERADO

Officers Have Running Fight With a Cattle Rustler in Dakota.

Chamberlain, S.D., May 19.—The notorious desperado, Jack Sully, who for many months has been the terror of the Rosebud country, is no more. In a running fight with officers on the Rosebud reservation this morning he was killed many bullets finding lodgment in his body, while the horse upon which he attempted to make his escape also shared the fate of its master. A week or ten days ago Sully stole a bunch of nearly 200 cattle belonging to various neighboring ranchers. He took a bunch of seventy-four down acro s the Nebraska line and sold them for $20 per head receiving half cash and half paper. He rushed the paper. Soon after Brand Inspector Long got track of the cattle and accompanied by their owners Harry Ham and Hugo Schilling, recovered them and returned them to the home range. United States Commissioner Tidrick of this city on Sunday morning sent out United States Deputy Marshal Petrie, Brand Inspector Long, Sheriff Irish of Brule county, Deputy Sheriff Jesse Brown of Lyman county and Harry Ham to bring in Sully dead or alive. They found Sully at his home near Black Birds' island this morning.

Sully was ordered to surrender, but with a defiant taunt he made a break for his horse, sprang upon his back and made a dash for liberty. For a time a running fire was maintained between the two parties, but the pursuers speedily proved the victors.

Sully for the last thirty-five years has been known as a lawless and desperate character. His most recent exploit was to break jail at Mitchell where he was being held for trial on a charge of cattle running, and until to-day officers have not been able to get their eyes on him.

CHURCH JOURNALISM IS GROWING WARM.

Methodist Organ Pays Respects to Baptist Organ

In this week's issue of the Christian Guardian, the editor has the following with regard to the "Reversal of Type" article which appeared in last week's issue of the Canadian Baptist:

"The new edition of the Canadian Baptist probably knows his constituency, and is out rung for it. By the general public, however, his leading article of last week against Church Union has been taken, we incline to think, as evidence of indiscretion and bad taste. In these days of journalistic amenity, it is not considered regular form, to begin work, in Donnybrook fashion, by thwacking peaceable bystanders over the head with your shillelagh, and daring them to tread on the tail of your coat. Our friend is apparently 'spoiling for a fight.' But We very much doubt if he will find anyone disposed to gratify him. We certainly are not. So far as Methodists are concerned, the Canadian Baptist ought to know that there never was a day when that section of the denomination which belstrongly to the separation of church and state was not in favor of a co-operation of the church and the government in the work of education on some general scheme, equally fair to all denominations—a scheme under Act of Parliament like University Federation, and not under party control, like that of annual special grants. By separation of church and state we do not understand that the church is never to help the state or the state the church."

MR. CHAMBERLAIN IS VERY AGGRESSIVE

His Aim is to Capture the Unionists for Preference.

New York, May 18.—The Post's London correspondent cables as follows: Mr. Chamberlain has begun his fiscal campaign afresh, and Mr. Winston Churchill, the most aggressive of the anti-Chamberlainite Unionists, has appeared with Mr. John Morley on the National Liberal Federation platform. Those are the salient events of the week in home politics. Mr. Chamberlain leaves no matter of doubt that he means to keep the Balfour ministry in power. He means, in fact, to capture the party, and, indeed, has practically captured it already. One hundred and twenty of Mr. Balfour's supporters in the House of Commons are professed Chamberlainites, and most of the rest Mr. Chamberlain hopes to secure while he will devote the whole force of his organization to driving implacable free-food Unionists like Mr. Winston Churchill and Major Seely, from Parliament at the general election, which will probably occur next spring.

Mr. Balfour and most of the present ministers, probably, will succumb easily enough. Mr Balfour certainly has no strong convictions for or against Chamberlainism. His main ambition is to keep the Unionist party as much intact as possible on a generally Imperial policy, and prevent Radicalism from interfering unduly with what he regards as the bulwarks of English life, namely, the church, the constitution and the landed interests.

As for Mr. Winston Churchill, his open alliance with the Radicals displeases the Free Trade Unionists, who feel that they will best serve free trade by working to defeat protection both in the country and within the Unionist party.

WAR CLOUD OVER EUROPE.

Nations Have Grave Fears of the Consequence of Troubles in the East.

Buda Pesth, May 19.—The fear prevalent throughout Europe that the war in the east may lead to unforeseen consequences was shown in Foreign Minister Goluchowski's speech to-day's sitting of the budget committee of the Austrian delegation. "There," said Count Goluchowski, referring to the gloomy situation in the far east, "far reaching antagonistic interests have been brought about a struggle, which, owing to the impossibility of gauging its duration and on account of the general economic depression it may entail, threatens to make itself felt even by those not directly concerned.

"Besides the general state of insecurity attendant on such a long conflict there has to be considered the interruption of the free intercourse of trade and the unusually wide interpretation given by belligerents nowadays to the 'contraband of war.' This wide interpretation exercises such a far reaching effect on international trade that it appears justifiable to enquire whether it would not be advisable, through a mutual agreement of the powers to check that much-felt evil in the future by the introduction of certain restrictive regulations. That work must, however, be reserved for a more suitable moment.

"Austria-Hungary's position in regard to the war is one of strict neutrality and as all the other powers have taken the same attitude it may so far as human foresight can reach, be anticipated that the struggle will be localized and is not in no further dangerous complications."

Count Goluchowski expressed satisfaction at the "cordial relations" existing between Austria and Italy, especially in regard to the Balkans which constituted "a guarantee of peace which should not be underestimated."

The Anglo-French convention Count Goluchowski considered to be "another link in the chain of arrangements intended to weld more firmly the peaceful union of the European powers."

SAYS TURK MUST BEHAVE.

Count Goluchowski considered that satisfactory progress was making in the Macedonian reform programme, and said both Austria-Hungary and Russia deemed it an honor to do the fullest justice to the mission intrusted to them by the great powers and they hoped Turkey would not further impede the task. Unless Turkey loyally assisted in the reforms she should have herself to blame for the serious dangers to which she inevitably would be exposed.

PETERBOROUGH CHEESE BOARD

Highest Price for May Cheese was 7 3-8 Cent a First Sitting

The first meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board for 1904 was held in the Town Council Chamber Wednesday morning. The buyers present were Messrs. Kerr, Fitzgerald, Cook, Whitton, Rollins, Wrighton, Brettenell, and Nobe.

The president was pleased to see such a large turnout at the first meeting. He was grieved, however, to be called upon to say that four members of the Board has passed away since the last meeting. Three of them, the late Messrs. Richard Crowe, Warren Taylor and Thos. Blezard were active members last year, while the late Geo. Stewart was a member the year before and for many years previous. The speaker referred in appreciative terms to the deceased members, each of whom was a prominent and valued member of the Board and one who was deeply interested in the affairs of the county. The president hoped that the season would be a successful one and that there would be no trouble such as was caused last year by the buyers refusing to pay the price offered for cheese at the Board meeting because of the price falling subsequently.

THE DISTRICT MEETING

Close of the Session of Methodist District Conference

The annual meeting of the Peterborough District of the Methodist church of the Bay of Quinte Conference was held Tuesday in the school room of the George street church. The proceedings at the opening session have already appeared in these columns.

At the afternoon session a resolution re the Apsley Mission was passed as follows,—"That whereas our Apsley Mission is suffering from the want of an ordained minister" be it resolved that this district meeting most earnestly request the Stationing committee to send an ordained minister, otherwise the work there cannot be sustained in the interests of the church." The resolution was moved by Rev. W. J. Jolliffe and seconded by Rev. H. McQuade.

It was moved by Rev. J. G. Lewis, seconded by Mr. R. W. Clarke,—"That we recommend the Bay of Quinte conference to memorialize the Minister of Education of Ontario, in accordance with the resolution passed by the Provincial Sabbath School convention in 1902, regarding the memorializing of the Minister of Education to take steps to make uniform lessons and Bible readings of authorized furniture readings in the Public and High Schools of Ontario." "THE YELLOW PERIL."

There may seem to some a tinge of what they call "the yellow peril" in the visit to the United States of three Chinese gentlemen of wealth and education, seeking for methods through which China may become her own manufacturer of steel.

Because these visitors have been heard to intimate that they think that China's great needs are warships of steel and provision of railways and that it is steel that has enabled Japan to prevail over Russia thus far there are people who see the shadow of "the yellow peril."

It seems an unnecessary apprehension. Steel is, indeed, the material of Japanese armament, but it would be of no avail without "the man behind the gun." It is scarcely fifty years since the treaty negotiated by Perry opened Japan to trade at all, and within little more than thirty years the nation has assimilated the material side of the civilization which the white race developed only through many centuries of experience. If, unaffiliated by others, the Chinese place themselves under the direction of their wonderful neighbors they might develop into a peril, indeed, but hardly into the kind of peril the Hun, the Tartar and the Saracen once were to Europe.

This is because the development of this or any other people into great military power in the modern sense is not possible without development along other lines proceeding nearly parallel with military development. The adoption of the methods of the foreigner rapidly wears away in them the hatred of the foreigner merely as such, characteristic of their undeveloped condition.

The barbarian conquered the Roman Empire, but the arts, the sciences, the religion, the inherent genius for organisation of the Roman in turn conquered the barbarian and "leavened the whole lump." It took a thousand years to do that and it is the marvel of this age that the Japanese bridged the gap in thirty years.

But in so doing they ceased to be what they were not only in military efficiency but in nearly or quite all other essentials of civic civilization. They are no longer a semibarbarous people in their commercial or their industrial life, not even in their own industrial social life. Thirty years between their civilization and that of the Caucasian race of the west.

By that time it will probably have become impossible for Europe to overrun and subdue Asia with the irresponsible sword as it has been doing for two or three centuries, but it will be equally impossible for Asia to overrun Europe as it did a thousand or more years ago.

The yellow peril can exist only as commercial and industrial competition, and as that develops and expands the needs, the demands, the power of consumption and assimilation in mankind expand and develop with it.

The yellow races must rise to the same level as the white before they can constitute a peril to be seriously so called, and when they rise to that level they will be governed by similar motives and principles of action.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The other day in the Senate attention was called to the large amount of U.S currency which was "swamping" us. In the House of Commons the circulation of Straits Settlements silver was spoken of, as a depreciated currency and therefore objectionable. It was said the great similarity to Canadian silver, which is worth face value, deceived people and caused them considerable loss, and that the use of the sovereign's head on a depreciated currency should be protested against. Mr. Fielding, in reply, though it would be difficult to protest in such a matter with regard to another part of the empire. The currency in question is not legal tender and it rests with the people themselves to take it or not. Mr. Fielding might also have told of the danger of being reminded that the Canadian silver currency is also alloyed. But he kept silent on that point.

Experiments have recently been made at St. Petersburg with a new breastplate, which is impenetrable to revolver bullets and resists steel. The breastplate, which is the invention of an Italian subject named Giorgiamo, is made of a soft elastic material and is about a centimetre (.0393 inch) thick weighing 4 pounds. Experiments with the breastplate were commenced by shots being fired at eight planks, each an inch thick, and placed one on the top of the other. Next a sheet of steel 2 inches in thickness was set up and likewise pierced by the shots. Bullets, however, that were fired at the breastplate remained in it, and were flattened without penetrating or even denting the inner surface. Not only ordinary bullets, but even explosive bullets, remained in the breastplate without damaging it. The third experiment was made with a steel bayonet and Circassian dagger and sword of Damascus steel. The bayonet and dagger broke without cutting the breastplate, while the sabre simply made an dent on the outside of the fabric.

The board of civil service examiners report that during the past year about 400 young men had presented themselves for examination in order that they could qualify themselves for some government position. Of the number it is said 132 were unsuccessful and 75, or 18 per cent., were absolute failures, being doubtless unable to show themselves qualified to take any position whatever in any of the government offices. This, remarks a contemporary, is an alarming state of things. Too many young men give up the school days to sport relying on getting an easy job in the public service.

AN APPEAL TO THE FASHIONABLE SET IN CANADA.

"Lally Bernard," the Well-known Toronto Journalist, Writes from England of the Battle Against Consumption in Muskoka.

Lally Bernard, of the editorial staff of the Toronto Globe, writing to that paper from London, England, where she is now a resident, shows most clearly that the battle against the great white plague is one that should interest all classes of the community. It will be remembered that this writer entered incog. as a patient in the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, and afterwards in the Globe told of real life in that institution. In her present article she says:

"To-day I have found a letter at the club which nearly missed me, having been addressed 'Lally Bernard.' May I express to my unknown correspondent my warmest thanks for the kindly appreciation for the little I have been able to do in the battle being waged against tuberculosis in Canada. The need of sympathy and interest is a tremendous one, and I am always puzzled when I find really well educated and intelligent people in Canada so criminally ignorant of the extent of the danger, and the means which are being taken to combat it.

"It may be of some interest to those who feel as I do in regard to the responsibility which rests upon each and all to aid in this fight against a most insidious foe, when I tell them, that here in London, where I have been for only a few days, I have already come across the dread enemy four times. First of all, in the back garden of our humble quarters in Kensington I espied, when morning dawned, a tent with two beds in it. I enquired of our landlord why the tent was there, and was told a long story about the coronation and quarters for some boys coming up from the country, and that he, the landlord, had subsequently found it more agreeable to sleep in the tent than in the basement bedroom he had formerly occupied. A little later, in conversation with the lady who secured the lodgings, I learned that the landlord's son was obliged to sleep in a tent! Comment was needless.

"In looking for quarters I found a charming home of a young doctor and his wife, where extraordinarily moderate terms were asked for really exceptionally good accommodation. The doctor in question had been 'ordered south,' and his wife had to keep the house going by accepting 'paying guests.'

"Yet again, in the third place, I found that the lady who was at the head of the establishment had not only lost her husband from the dread disease, but had managed one of the most fashionable sanitariums in England, and her knowledge of the treatment and the extent of the problem in England showed me how tremendous was the need for care and watchfulness in our own country.

"May I ask my correspondent to use all possible influence to make the question of combating tuberculosis one of interest in the 'fashionable set' to which she evidently belongs. I know full well, from the little experience I have had, how tremendously a little genuine interest and help might lighten the burden now resting on the shoulders of the authorities of the Free Hospital for Consumptives at Gravenhurst. It is, of course, far away from wealthy centres, and out of sight is to be out of mind.

"I can quite understand that until people have seen forty or fifty patients together in different stages of consumption they do not realise what an immense amount of aid might be given by those who are fortunate enough to be free from the disease and by those who have little else to do than to invent or learn some new form of recreation.

"Mrs. Torrington has kindly promised me to try and get musical societies and people interested in music to provide a piano for the Hospital, and I feel sure it will be of immense benefit to the patients. Surely my correspondent who evinces such sympathy with the cause could make that sympathy take a practical form and organize a hospital library where books worth reading might be supplied, with some system similar to that of the Aberdeen Association, which has done such excellent work."

High Class Investment

THE OREGON MINING AND SMELTING COMPANY

Offer to Canadian investors a limited amount of stock of the above company The property owned by the Company consists at the present time of about 500 acres, which are located in the Tarryall District and Park County, Colorado. This whole district has been known for years on account of its rich placer ground, and is now prominently before the public owing to the number of very good properties which have been opened up recently producing, principally, gold, and lately some that are producing Platinum. On the Oregon property there are a number of well known veins of low grade ore that will yield a profit by being located on the ground of the company. The company have recently opened up a fine vein in the Hawkeye group and this vein shows not only good values but an immense amount of ore which alone would make the property very valuable Assays from ore taken from various parts of this property range from a few dollars to $373 per ton in gold. We have very little silver, lead or copper in the district. The company have a shaft 240 feet deep, with a good shaft house thoroughly well equipped with all modern machinery to develop same. They are now driving a tunnel which is in about 700 feet and which will cut the Hawkeye vein about 300 feet deeper than where it is opened at present. There is enough ore exposed on the property of this company to keep them busy for a number of years and the reason for selling stock at the present time is to secure funds to build a mill. The company will probably join with the Almaden Company in building this mill There is water enough to furnish water power and over 100 acres of fine spruce and pine timber. The affairs of the company have always been managed in a business-like economical manner and there are no officers' salaries. The monies received from the sale of stock go direct into the property

I can heartily recommend this stock as safe, as well as an unusually good investment, because of the immense amount of ore which the company have already opened up. It is not a mere prospect, but the property has been developed by expense of a considerable amount of money and time

The company is splendidly officered by men of integrity and high standing. The company has not pushed the sale of stock the last year owing to a delay in getting title to the ground from the Government, but now that has been satisfactorily adjusted and work will be pushed to a finish.

The number of exceedingly rich strikes which have been made during the last few weeks in the various camps in the State of Colorado is the best evidence of the prosperity of the mining business. Almost every camp in the state has opened up rich bodies of ore, and Park County is well in the lead in that line.

There are only $25,000 of stock for sale, at $1.00 per share. The company is capitalized at $200,000, and the advantage to the investor of selling the stock at par, is that every share is fully paid up and non-assessable.

Old Hagar's Secret

BY MRS. M. J. HOLMES

Author of "For a Woman's Sake," "Love's Triumph," "Purified by Suffering," "A Grass Widow," "Woman Against Woman," Etc.

some casing before the astonished old lady, who, donning her golden spectacles in a twinkling, saw for herself that what Maggie said was true.

"They stole it," she gasped. "We are in a den of thieves. Who knows what they'll take from my handbox?" and she was about to leave the room, when Maggie, whose quick mind saw farther ahead, bade her stop.

"I may discover something more," said she, and, taking a handsomely bound volume of Lamb, she turned to the fly-leaf and read: "Jenny Douglas, from her brother George, Worcester, January 8th."

It was plain to her now, but any mortification she might otherwise have experienced was lost in the one absorbing thought, "What will grandma say?"

"Grandmother," said she, showing the book, "don't you remember the mother of that girl called her Betsy Jane Douglas?"

"Yes, yes," gasped Madam Conway, raising both hands, while an expression of deep, intense anxiety was visible upon her face.

"And don't you know, too," continued Maggie, "that George always seemed inclined to say as little as possible of his parents? Now, in this country, it is not unusual for the sons of just such people as these to be among the most wealthy and respectable citizens."

"Maggie, Maggie," hoarsely whispered Madam Conway, grasping Maggie's arm, "do you mean to insinuate—am I to understand that you believe that odious woman and hideous girl to be the mother and sister of George Douglas?"

"I haven't a doubt of it," answered Maggie. "'Twas the resemblance between Betsy Jane and George which I observed at first."

Out of her chair on the floor tumbled Madam Conway, fainting entirely away, while Maggie, stepping to the door, called for help.

"I mistrusted she was awful sick at dinner," said Mrs. Douglas, taking her hands from the dishwater, and running to the parlor. "I wish she'd smell of the camphire, as I wanted her to. Does she have such spells often?"

By this time Betsy Jane had brought a basin of water, which she dashed in the face of the unconscious woman, who soon began to revive.

"Pennyryal tea'll settle her stomach quicker'n anything else," said Mrs. Douglas, "I'll clap a little right on the stove," and, helping Madam Conway to the sofa, she left the room.

"There may possibly be a mistake, after all," thought Maggie, "I'll question the girl," and, turning to Betsy Jane, she said, taking up the book which had before attracted her attention, "Is this, Jenny Douglas, intended for you?"

"Yes, ma'am," answered the girl, coloring slightly, "Brother George calls me Jenny, because he thinks Betsy is too old fashioned."

An audible groan from the sofa, and Maggie continued. "Where does your brother live?"

"In Worcester, ma'am. He keeps a store there," answered Betsy, who was going to say more, when her mother, re-entering the room, took up the conversation by saying: "Was you tellin' 'em about George Washington? Wal, he's a boy no mother need be ashamed of, though my old man sometimes says he's ashamed of us, we are so different. But then he orto consider the advantages he's had. We only brung him up till he was ten years old, and then an uncle he was named after took him, and gin him a college schoolin', and then put him into his store in Worcester. Your head aches wus, don't it? Poor thing! The pennyryal will be steeped directly," she added, in an aside to Madam Conway, who had groaned aloud as if in pain. Then resuming her story, she continued, "Better'n six year ago Uncle George, who was a bachelor, died, leaving the heft of his property seventy-five thousand dollars or more, to my son, who is now top of the heap in the store, and worth $100,000, I presume; some say $200,000; but that's the way some folks have of agitatin' things."

"Is he married?" asked Maggie, and Mrs. Douglas, mistaking the motive which prompted the question, answered, "Yes, dear, he is. If he wan't, I know of no darter-in-law I'd as soon have as you. I don't believe in finding fault with my son's wife, but there's a proud look in her face, I don't like. This is her picter," and she passed to Maggie the daguerreotype of Theo.

"I've looked at it before," said Maggie, and the good woman proceeded. "I hain't seen her yet; but he's goin' to bring her to Charlton bimeby. He's a good boy, George is, free as water;—gave me this carpet, the sofy and chair, and has paid Betsy Jane's schoolin' one winter at Leicester. But Betsy don't take to books much. She's more like me, her father says. They had a big party for George last night, but I wasn't invited. Shouldn't a' gone if I had been; but for all that, a body don't want to be slighted, even if they don't belong to the quality. If I'm good enough to be George's mother I'm good enough to go to a party with his wife. But she wan't to blame, and I shan't lay it up against her. I shall see her to-morrow, pretty likely, for Sam Babbit's wife and I are goin' down to the firemen's muster. You've heard on't, I s'pose. The different engines are goin' to see which will shute water the highest over a 180-foot pole. I wouldn't miss goin' for anything, and of course I shall call on Theodosky. I calkerlate to like her, and when they go to housekeepin' I've got a hull chest full of sheets, and piller-biers, and towels I'm goin' to give her, besides three or four bed quiltsI pieced myself, two in herrin'-bone pattern and one in risin' sun. I'll show 'em to you," and leaving the room, she soon returned with three patch-work quilts, wherein were all possible shades of color, red and yellow predominating, and in one the "rising sun" forming a huge centre piece.

"Heavens!" faintly articulated Madam Conway, pressing her hands upon her head, which was supposed to be aching dreadfully. "The thought of Theo reposing beneath the 'risin' sun,' or yet the 'herrin'-bone,' was intolerable, and looking beseechingly at Maggie, she whispered, "Do see if Mike is ready."

"If it's the carriage you mean," chimed in Mrs. Douglas, "it's been waiting quite a spell, but I thought you warn't fit to ride yet, so I didn't tell you."

Starting to her feet, Madam Conway's bonnet went on in a trice, and taking her shawl in her hand, she walked out doors, barely expressing her thanks to Mrs Douglas, who, greatly distressed at her abrupt departure, ran for the herb tea, and taking the tin cup in her hand, followed her guest to the carriage, urging her to "take a swaller just to keep her from vomiting."

"She's better without it," said Maggie, "She seldom takes medicine," and politely expressing her gratitude to Mrs. Douglas, for her kindness, she bade Mike drive on.

"Some crazy critter just out of the asylum, I'll bet," said Mrs. Douglas, walking back to the house with her pennyryal tea. "How queer she acted! but that girl's a lady, every inch of her, and so handsome, too. I wonder who she is?"

"Don't you believe the old woman felt a little above us?" suggested Betsy Jane, who had more discernment than her mother.

"Like enough she did, though I never thought on't. But she needn't. I'm as good as she is, and I'll warrant as much thought on, where I'm known;" and quite satisfied with her own position, Mrs. Douglas went back to her dishwashing, while Betsy Jane stole away up stairs to try the experiment of arranging her hair after the fashion in which Margaret wore hers.

In the meantime, Mike, perfectly sobered, had turned his horses' heads in the direction of Hilladale, when Madam Conway called out, "To Worcester, Mike—to Worcester, as fast as you can drive."

"To Worcester! For what?" asked Maggie, and the excited woman answered. "To stop it. To forbid the bans. I should think you'd ask for what?"

"To stop it," repeated Maggie. "I'd like to see you stop it, when they've been married two months!"

"So they have, so they have!" said Madam Conway, wringing her hands in her despair, and crying out, "That a Conway should be so disgraced! What shall I do? What shall I do?"

"Make the best of it, of course," answered Maggie. "I don't see as George is any worse for his parentage. He is evidently greatly respected in Worcester, where his fam-

French Plans and Documents Found in London

IN POSSESSIO OF SERVANT

To Men who were Trying to Dispose of them, have Disappeared

Paris, May 18.—The Matin's London correspondent, having obtained nearly a hundred authentic plans of the fortifications at Toulon, besides numerous other compromising documents, that paper this morning begins the publication of the history of a treason affair which seems likely to exceed in importance the offences with which Captain Dreyfus was charged.

On April 21 the correspondent received a letter written in a queer semi-French-semi-Italian jargon signed "Fragola, Pietro," telling him that the writer, who was employed at a hotel, had been acting as a guide to two persons who had come to London to sell a large parcel of documents of the highest importance concerning French naval defenses. The letter stated that the men had gone to Brussels leaving the writer penniless. He, therefore, wanted to negotiate for the transfer of certain documents. An appointment was made and Fragola who was desperately hungry, told the following story:

He was formerly, he said, employed at the War Ministry in Rome, but became compromised in a case of espionage and was sentenced to six months' imprisonment. Subsequently he came to London, living from hand to mouth. Recently he had acted as guide and secretary to two men of Italian origin, with one of whom—a naturalized French citizen—he had formerly been acquainted at the War Ministry in Rome.

Sold important secrets. Both of these men, Fragola said, worked for foreign Governments and had several times sold important secrets to Germany at high prices. The Italian's name was Cesare Golio and that of the naturalized Frenchman, Jeremie Mesqui. The latter had long been a contractor on public works at Toulon. They had gone to Brussels five days ago, leaving him entirely without means of living. He found after their departure that Golio had left documents behind him and these he wanted to sell.

Fragola then produced eighty-five plans of the Toulon forts, some of them the French originals and others accurate copies, made at the Italian War Ministry. He also had in possession a list of plans of Cherbourg, Brest and Toulon, with typewritten instructions, alleged by Fragola to have emanated from the German staff, concerning the marking of batteries of artillery. There was also a letter appointing a rendezvous at the Thuringerhof, Berlin, for November 13, signed "X." To this was attached a card inscribed "Felix Friedrich Schultz."

At 75 Cents per Share

This company now owns the well-known Augusta mine and its extension for over 1400 feet in addition to other claims approximating a total acreage of 300 acres. This property has produced over $250,000 in gold, silver and lead ores and is a producer to-day. Has shipped ores of an average net value of $40 per ton for first class and $15 per ton for second class, all the past summer and the summer before smelter and mill returns of which are on file in our office

Has immense bodies of these grades of ore which cannot be exhausted in five years already opened up and its main working tunnel is nearing completion, cutting the apex of the vein at a depth of 1,000 feet.

This block of shares is offered to enable the Company to connect the above tunnel with its concentrating mill and projected terminus of railroad by tramway, a distance of 11,120 feet, thereby permitting shipments during the entire year.

A production of at least 125 tons daily will be maintained when these improvements are made, and if completed in the early summer, dividends can be paid from ore settlements before this fall.

We offer for a limited time only a SPECIAL BLOCK OF 50,000 SHARES OF THE TREASURY STOCK of these Companies.

We reserve the right to reject subscriptions over and above the 50,000 shares offered. Each subscription to be booked as received

Tunnel B of the Black Queen Company is now going in at a rate of 176 feet per month, and early spring will see this work vieing with Tunnel A of the Augusta Company in the record of production.

Will cut known proven ore bodies 1160 feet from Apex, and open sufficient stoping ground to make an output of 100 tons daily.

Has already cut through a cross vein two feet in width of good marketable Galena ore, the point of intersection being 400 feet beneath the surface. We have 900 feet of this vein in length.

WILL THE WAR SPREAD?

Grave Fears are Entertained Regarding the Neutrality of China

London, May 18.—While it may seem a little hard to demand absolute neutrality on the part of China when one of the professed objects of the war is the return to her of her province of Manchuria still it is apparent that both Russia and Japan are anxious that that neutrality be preserved. Russia naturally does not want to face another enemy; and Japan fears, possibly, that the loose sovereignty of the Chinese Government might permit acts by a warring Chinese population which would lead to European intervention and a second robbing of her of the legitimate results of her victory.

But, as Mr. Demetrius C. Bolger points out in a recent article in the Contemporary, the question of Chinese neutrality may come up soon in another manner. As the Russians retire from Manchuria what is to prevent the Japs from inviting the Chinese to take possession at once, of such sections of that Chinese province as are deserted by the Russians? The Russian argument all along has been that it is necessary for life and property to be protected in Manchuria by an armed force. That was one of her most cogent reasons for delaying the withdrawal of her regiments; and she has already stated that China must send troops to protect the foreign inhabitants of New Chwang.

This would mean that China would promptly garrison such parts of Manchuria as the Japs conquer from the Russians, and that when that overpowering force of which General Kuropatkin talks, comes to march down through Manchuria to the sea they would find Chinese garrisons on guard, in a Chinese province. More than that, the proclamation of Chinese neutrality would obviously cover such parts of its own province of Manchuria as it thus took possession of; and Russia would have no right to invade a neutral nation. So China may make her very neutrality an aggressive factor in the war.

British Company Threatens to Retire From Association for Uniformity of Rates

London, May 18.—Sixteen thousand emigrants have sailed for Canada since January, a thousand more than during the same period of 1903. The steamers sailing within the next few weeks have full lists. General Booth's scheme of colonization is progressing. Some hundreds of emigrants have been sent out, principally to Canada.

MAY CUT INSURANCE RATES.

A rumor is current in insurance circles that a large company threatens to resign its place in the association of offices that exist for the maintenance of uniformity in rating, claiming that membership destroys the independence of the company, and curbs its enterprise to its disadvantage in insuring.

A Tolerant Nonconformist.

London, May 16.—Some comment has been caused in Nonconformist circles by the statement that the Rev. R. J. Campbell, who succeeded Dr. Parker at the City Temple, saw a good deal of the inside of ecclesiastical life in the Eternal City during his stay in Rome, and before leaving was received in private audience by the Pope, on the introduction of Cardinal del Val. The idea of a Nonconformist leader having an audience of the Pope staggers some of the "Dissenters."

BIG LONDON COMPANY MAY "BREAK AWAY" FROM THE UNDER-WRITERS' COMBINE

London May 16.—A rumor is current in insurance circles that a large company threatens to resign its place in the association of offices that exists for the maintenance of uniformity in rating, claiming that membership destroys the independence of the company, and curbs its enterprise to disadvantage of the insuring public.

The Rush to Canada.

London May 16.—Sixteen thousand emigrants have sailed for Canada since January, a thousand more than in 1903. Steamers sailing in the next few weeks are full up. General Booth's scheme of colonizing is progressing, and some hundreds have been sent out, principally to Canada.

Converted the Reporters.

London, May 16.—An amusing feud between the bench and the press has arisen in Melbourne, Australia. One of the local morning papers alleged that the court hours were too short altogether, and that public inconvenience thereby resulted. Chief Justice Sir John Madden read the statement and staggered counsel by sitting until 6 o'clock every day. A deputation of barristers waited upon him and remonstrated. He replied that so long as the public, as represented by the press, considered that the court was consulting its own case, he would continue to sit late. He has already converted the reporters.

Refused to Kiss Pope's Hand.

London, May 16.—American Roman Catholics are finding considerable difficulty in obtaining audiences of the Pope, owing to the following incident: A short time ago a party of Americans, not one of the Roman Catholic faith, on a visit to Rome, obtained tickets for a special audience with his Holiness, who received them with his usual affability and kindness. When the moment came for the visitors to kiss the Pope's extended hand, they refused to do so. This act of gross discourtesy considerably annoyed not only the Pope but more especially those in attendance, with the result that orders have been issued that no Americans shall be admitted to the Vatican for an audience with the Pope unless he is in possession of a special letter of introduction from the bishop of his diocese in America.

Hid Her Fortune in Statue.

Paris May 16.—A woman living at St. Cloud supposed to have a certain fortune died at her nephew's house apparently leaving only a lot of works of art. A second nephew made no claim for a heritage but asked for a little statuette in clay as a souvenir. He took possession of the statuette. His domestic, naturally, broke it into fragments, when eleven bills of a thousand francs each fell to the floor. They had been concealed in its interior. The other nephew is now claiming half the sum.

London, May 16.—Mr. Kinlock Cooke advocates, in The Morning Post, a State-aided emigration system to Canada and Australia, to be drawn up and considered by the authorities of the Mother Land and oversea possessions. The children of the board schools should be taught to look forward to a colonial career, aided by a Government grant to take them out free, and sure employment on the other side.

The Live Stock Embargo Again.

London, May 16.—Mr. Holland, chairman of the animal meat trade section of the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce, states that 876,000 live animals were landed at United Kingdom ports in 1903, imported from the colonies and foreign parts, and 743,810 tons dead meat. Every effort is being made to remove the restrictions on Canadian cattle, but there is little chance at present of success.

London, May 16.—The Daily Chronicle reminds Lord Salisbury that his remark at the farewell dinner to Lord Curzon and Lord Minto, "When shall we three meet again?" will be fulfilled soon.

The Colonies and the Chinese.

London, May 16.—The Chinese treaty, while it applies to all British colonies, does not prevent the colonies passing restrictive Acts. Canadian Acts are not affected. The Times quotes the case of Cape Colony, which is now passing a bill to forbid the transportation of Chinamen, as days the Cape is acting within its rights and upon its own view of its own interests, just as the Transvaal is acting in importing Chinamen to help it out of an industrial difficulty otherwise insuperable.

A Balkan Earthquake.

London, May 16.—Advices have just reached London of an earthquake in the Balkans on Easter Monday by which 2,000 houses were destroyed and 10,000 people made homeless in a fertile valley in which lies Jumnbala. Houses were levelled to the ground, and there were huge cracks across the streets.

London, May 16.—Hon Alfred Lyttelton, speaking at the Cambridge University banquet on Saturday, and replying to the toast of the Government, said it was a great thing for the Empire that the colonies should now have perfect freedom to negotiate with the Motherland, and their freedom would make that greater freedom which would ultimately come, based more on consent than the assertion of an attempt at supremacy. The case of Russia afforded an example of the great danger to the Empire of attempting to rule too stiffly from the centre. Britain had adopted the opposite, and her greatest achievement was the result that liberty had been given to all parts of the Empire. Canada and Australia had been given a great opportunity by this fusing fusing process.

TO CANADIAN INVESTORS

I desire to call the attention of investors to the

Smuggler Gold Mining Co.'s Proposition

of which I am the authorized agent

Investments in mining stocks where they can be purchased cheaply whose property contains merit and whose directors are men of unquestionable honor and integrity, and especially when sufficient work has been done to guarantee a producing mine and the leads have been demonstrated to be permanent, offer the greatest opportunity for large returns from modern investments.

The shrewdest capitalists of England and America are giving more attention to mining properties and putting more money into them than at any time in the past history of the world.

The Smuggler Group consists of five full sized claims, to wit: The Smuggler, Gangon, Black Jack, Star and Bed Rock, located in the Greenhorn District of Eastern Oregon. Surrounding mines are Potosi, Pride of Pendleton, Bonanza and Rockefeller, developing work to the extent of 1,000 feet of tunnelling, drifts and crosscuts have been made, exposing hundreds of tons of high grade ore, averaging from $25 to $45 per ton, based on smelter returns and for the purpose of equipping the mines a limited number of shares of Treasury Stock will be sold at 25 cents per share, the par value of which is $1.00.

THE GREAT WORK GOING ON IN MUSKOKA.

1,000 Patients Treated in the Two Muskoka Hospitals — the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Surprising Decrease of 25 Per Cent. in the Last Three Years in Deaths from Consumption.

Fifty-five Different Trades and Professions Represented by the Patients Admitted to the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Two Pavilions have had to be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds, and the Number of Patients Reduced from 75 to 50.

$25,000 Wanted this Year to Carry on this Great Work.

With a view of helping to bring to the attention of the public the needs of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have pleasure in publishing the following letter, in which an appeal is made for funds.

Dear Friend,—

It again becomes necessary to make an urgent appeal for funds for the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

A very heavy debt is pressing upon the trustees.

In addition to this, funds must be provided for the maintenance of patients. Last month there was a deficiency of nearly $1,500 over and above receipts from all sources.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives was opened eighteen months ago. 225 patients have been admitted.

No patient has ever been refused admission because of his or her poverty.

1,000 patients have been cared for in the two Muskoka Hospitals, the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The majority of these have either been cured, or so helped that they have been enabled to again become bread-winners for the family.

The public are beginning to find evidence of our work.

Already there has been a decrease of nearly 25 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption in the Province of Ontario.

The last report of the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health shows that in the last three years the deaths from consumption in Ontario have decreased from 3,484 to 2,694, a decrease of 790, or nearly 25 per cent.

This is the more gratifying when we remember that for a number of years previously the same report showed a steadily increasing death-rate prior to 1899.

Who will doubt that the work of our two Hospitals in Muskoka, and the persistent educational campaign carried on, has not helped to secure this surprising result?

In what better way can your gifts bring so good a return?

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 50.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

Very truly yours,

W. J. Gage

JAPAN'S THIRD ARMY SURPRISES RUSSIANS

KOUROPATKIN MAY NOW WITHDRAW ALL HIS FORCES BEHIND MUKDEN THOUGH A BIG BATTLE IS POSSIBLE AT HAICHENG OR LIAO YANG

Mukden, May 16.—The fighting line is rapidly nearing Mukden, where Viceroy Alexieff headquarters still remain. Little reliable information can be obtained from the newspaper correspondents, who are forbidden to proceed to the scene of operations, and official information is withheld until advices arrive at St. Petersburg. It is now known, however, that the Japanese are almost within striking distance of the Russians, and that the forces protecting Liao Yang are stretching eastward from the railroad along the Motien mountain range.

The Japanese are advancing in three columns, and are now north of Siu Yen, and Feng Wang Cheng. Two columns are reported to be working further to the northward, with the object of turning the Russian position and advancing upon Mukden.

PORT ARTHUR COMPLETELY ISOLATED.

Numerous small engagements have been fought, but no decisive action has taken place. Port Arthur is now completely isolated by the Japanese expedition at Polandzen.

The Japanese are now operating in a rugged country well suited to the Russian defence, but north of the Liao Yang to Mukden the country is a flat plain intersected by rivers. The weather recently has been hot and dry, but the rain, which has fallen in the past two days, has made the roads almost impassable for vehicles, and when the rainy season begins, at the end of June, this plain will be converted into a morass. This condition will probably result in the practical suspension of operations.

"THE CHINESE BAROMETER."

Mukden is now the receiving center fro the wounded from the various engagements south of the Motien mountains. A hospital has been established in the Lama Temple, in the outskirts of the town, and a field hospital has been located in a wood near the military camp around the station.

A significant feature of the situation is the demeanor of the Chinese population, which may be said to be a barometer of the military weather. A close observer of the expressions and general attitude of the Chinese can tell how the fighting a hundred miles away is running. They have rapid and mysterious channesl of information though which the result of the battle at Feng Wang Cheng spread and could be suspected from the outward manner of the Chinese before the Russians made it known here. The cutting off of Port Arthur is another instance in point.

CHECKING THE WAR SPECIALS.

The newspaper correspondents are most courteously treated by Colonel Poestich, the officer whom Viceroy Alexieff appointed to attend to them, but they are chafing under the restrictions imposed here, which prevent them from seeing anything of the fighting. General Kouropatkin is evidently unwilling that the foreign correspondents shall witness the present phase of operations though he may accept them in the indefinite future when the Russians are able to make a sweeping advance.

SKRYDLOFF'S OCCUPATION GONE.

St. Petersburg, May 17 — The probability that there will be no further communication with Port Arthur, thus preventing Vice-Admiral Skrydloff (who passed through Irkutsk, Siberia, on May 14), from assuming command there, has led to the suggestion that Skrydloff return from the Far East, and hoist his flag as commander of the Baltic squadron, which is destined for the Far East. Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky, who has been gazetted to command the latter, is a junior of Vice-Admiral Skrydloff, and would be ordered to report to him as commander-in-chief. Whatever Skrydloff's future plans may be the Admiralty say he will certainly proceed to Vladivostok and inspect the squadron there.

The report that Vladivostok is blockaded is denied by the Admiralty. Telegrams received from Rear-Admiral Jessen do not refer to the presence of a single Japanese ship. It is said that the Russians would not have the slightest objection to a blockade of Vladivostok, since it would put up a Japanese squadron without causing inconvenience, it being Admiral Skrydloff's plan not to risk either of the Russian squadrons, until the Baltic squadron reaches the Pacific.

SPECULATION IN ST. PETERSBURG

No official despatches were given out this morning on account of the delay occasioned by the Emperor's journey. His Majesty arrives at Kharkoff this morning, whether all despatches have been transmitted. A special force of operators has been detailed for this purpose.

In the absence of advices the General Staff is continuing its speculation based on the latest reports of the appearance of considerable bodies of the enemy in the northwest section of Manchuria. The opinion prevails that this is an indication of the intention of the Japanese to make an attempt to stop Gen. Kouropatkin's retreat northward, while the main Japanese force is hurled against Liao-Yang and Mukden. It is believed here that the Japanese generals must appreciate that they would lose the fruits of their achievement if Kouropatkin retired unmolested to Harbin, and there awaited reinforcements, leaving the invaders to hold the country, and thereby losing men by disease. The Japanese course would have good prospects of success if they had sufficient strength but the authorities here are convinced that the enemy is too weak to carry it out.

As further showing that Kouropatkin never had any intention to attempt the northward advance of the Japanese a railway engineer who has just arrived here from the Far East was quoted today as saying that when he talked with the commander-in-chief in February, the latter wanted an additional line built in the rear of Manchurian army so as to enable it to fall back and subsequently advance. The engineer added:

"Kouropatkin said he hoped to advance at the end of June, or, in case the rains interfered at the end of August. I pointed out that he had better go slow and make a success to which Kouropatkin replied:

"Build immediately. There is no time for a survey. Otherwise the whole territory will be in the enemy's hands."

PROTECTION DEMANDED

The Want High Duty on Lumber and Shingles

Victoria, B.C., May 18.—The Board of Trade had passed the following resolution. Resolved—That this board heartily endorses the resolution of the New Westminster Board of Trade with regard to the unsatisfactory condition of the lumber trade between British Columbia and Manitoba and the Northwest Territories and that we adopt the suggestion for the appointment of a delegation of one from each board, consisting of a member from each who is acquainted with the lumber business, to interview the Dominion Government and press the claims of the lumber industry of the province for a duty on lumber and shingles coming into Canada, and that the board will share with the Lumbermen's Association the expenses entailed in bringing this important matter before the Dominion Government."

HENRY STANLEY LAID IN GRAVE

EXPLORER WAS BURIED IN A LITTLE SURREY VILLAGE

London, May 16.—The remains of Henry M. Stanley (who died on May 10) were buried today, in the churchyard of the old Surrey village of Pirbright.

Prior to the burial that British nation and the United States, in the person of Ambassador Choate and Consul-General Evans, paid honor to the departed African explorer with an impressive funeral service held in Westminster Abbey.

Bula Matari, meaning "the rock breaker," as the coffin plate testified Stanley was known by the African natives, was taken in an open hearse to the Abbey. The route was lined by crowds of people. The pall bearers included a grandson of Livingstone, Arthur Mountenay Jephson Stanley's former lieutenant, and the Duke of Abercorn.

Lady Stanley headed the procession of mourners that passed through the cloisters. With her was young Denzil Stanley, the deceased's adopted son, and Livingstone's daughter. As the coffin was borne past the tomb of Livingstone within the Abbey, the little band stopped, and for a few minutes there was a pathetic pause.

The service was fully choral.

Both King Edward and the King of the Belgians were present.

A FAIRY STORY

Interesting Discovery in Portuguese Convent

Lisbon, May 17.—At the convent of Regoa there has been made an interesting discovery. A century ago there died in the convent Sister Euphemia deeds are still held in remembrance. Her body has now been exhumed and found, so it is said, uncorrupted. The population of the district hailed the discovery with much rejoicing and steps are being taken to petition the Pope to recognize Sister Euphemia as a saint.

Chinese Smugglers

The Hague, May 17.—At last the Dutch East Indian Government has discovered how the Chinese smuggle matches into the colonies. Chests containing match boxes filled with eighty matches pay a duty of 37.50 florins (15) per chest, but every extra five matches in a box gains the duty 2.40 florins (1). This would make match boxes containing 120 matches to pay 57.50 florins ($23) per chest. The Chinese, when importing matches, see to it that the custom house officers open only chests containing boxes with eighty matches; the others were always passed.

Our Immigration Policy

Winnipeg, May 18.—Local labor leaders announce that they may call a parade and demonstration of the unemployed at Winnipeg as a protest against the Laurier Government's Immigration policy. They claim hundreds of immigrants are walking the streets at the present day without proper means of employment.

RUSSIANS WANT THEIR MAIL

Afraid of Japanese Interference Uncle Sam is Asked to Change Route

Washington, May 17. — Apparently to avoid the risk of Russian mail falling into the enemy's hands the Russian government has requested the United States to change the route of all mails sent from or through this country for Manchuria and Siberia. In accordance with this notification a general order was issued to-day that mails destined for Siberia and Manchuria shall be forwarded to New York to be included in mails for Russia made up at the New York office.

The significance of this action lies in the fact that until now the mails for Siberia da Manchuria have been sent over the Siberian railway, going first to San Francisco and thence via Chinese or Japanese ports.

The request is believed to have in view the possibility of Japanese interruption on communication on the Siberian railway.

Cossack Raiders Cornered

Seoul, May 17.—It is reported that a Japanese force has cornered 200 Russians north of Anju and is endeavoring to starve them out. The only provisions in the possession of the Russians are those secured by forage and it is expected that the food of the besieged men will soon be exhausted.

Japanese are bringing to Seoul two Russian non-commissioned officers who were captured at Anju. The purpose is to produce a moral effect on the Koreans.

At Japanese headquarters numbers of Chinese-speaking Japanese have been engaged as interpreters for the Manchurian campaign.

ISSUE OF BATTLE NOT DOUBTFUL

London, May 17.—In the absence of actual news from the seat of war in the Far East the London newspapers this morning are commenting on what is believed to be the precarious position of Gen. Kouropatkin, who is menaced by the possibility of the Chinese rebels cutting his communications as well as by the difficulty of divining the Japanese plan of campaign.

The Standard, which is rather inclined to be pro-Russian in its views, admits that Kouropatkin has at his disposal south of Mukden almost 100,000 troops of inferior quality, only 75,000 of whom are available for active operations, while Gen. Kuroki certainly has 140,000 first class troops the equal of those in the European armies.

"Under such conditions," The Standard says, "the issue of battle is very seldom doubtful."

CLEARING THE MINES AWAY.

Tokio, May 17.—Admiral Kataoki reports that on the 15th the operation of removing the mines in Kerr Bay was continued by the torpedo boats under the protection of a bombardment by the fleet. There is no change in the enemy's defence, except the addition of two or three field guns to their position, which had the effect of interrupting the work of clearing the bay of mines. Nevertheless, the Japanese destroyed eight mines, but there are many more left, and the work of destroying them will be continued.

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 50.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

Very truly yours,

W. J. Gage

Crosscut Driven 117 feet to the First Big Vein

A drift run on the vein 178 FEET IN ORE, the Gold value or contents running from 2 to 8 ounces, per ton, or from $40 to $160. This ore has not been stoped and will not be until the main shoot is reached.

The breast of the drift is, only 52 feet, according to engineer's survey, from the first BIG vertical ore shoot, which, at the surface, 550 feet above, shows values of 2 to 7 ounces gold, per ton.

Slabs and feeders of gold ore are coming in freely in the drift.

This is a business proposition. It is the KIND AND QUALITY which makes for great and permanent success. It is worth an investment of 10c. on the dollar, per share, now. It will be worth par with development.

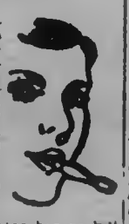
CATARRH

Don't Drug the Stomach — Breathe Nature's Remedy, Catarrhozone — Both Pleasant and Easy to Use. A Guarantee of Cure goes with it.



Catarrhozone always cures because it reaches the source of the disease quickly and thoroughly. Its healing vapor penetrates the minutest air cells of the nasal passages, throat and lungs. It attacks the cause of the disease direct, and doesn't work in a round about way through the stomach.

The antiseptics in Catarrhozone kill the germs that cause catarrh. It clears the nostrils, cures headache and foul breath. It prevents droppings in the throat, allays inflammation, heals sore spots and tunning at the nose.

So certain is Catarrhozone to remove and cure that doctors, ministers and public speakers keep it as their standby for coughs, colds, catarrh and throat trouble. Because it lasts so long it is cheap, and as it is sure to cure even the poorest can afford to buy it.

Mrs. J. A. Morris, of Perth, Ont., writes, "I cannot withhold my testimony for Catarrhozone. It cured my daughter of chronic catarrh and I therefore heartily recommend it to all sufferers. No house should be without Catarrhozone."

Why not use Catarrhozone? It cures colds in a few hours, and no case of catarrh can withstand it. Catarrhozone cures by the inhalation of medicated air which goes to all parts of the lungs, throat and breathing organs. A pleasant, certain, quick cure follows the use of Catarrhozone, which is guaranteed under all conditions to cure catarrh in any part of the system.

Two months' treatment, hard rubber inhaler and extra liquid costs only one dollar; sample size 25c. Sold by all druggists or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., or Hartford, Conn., U.S.A. Order Catarrhozone now.

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY TIMES' REPORTERS

Girl Wanted

Experienced girl wanted for general housework in small family. No children. Apply at Times Office for address.

First Boat Through

The steamer Water Lily went down through the locks a few days ago. The City of Peterborough will not be able to pass through until the water falls sufficient to get the glance booms into position.

Robbing the Flower Bed

Yesterday a citizen of the First Ward stated to The Times that some one had entered his premises and helped himself to 24 tulips. A man's track was found imprinted on the tulip bed. It is hoped the rascal may be discovered and punished.

Laid at Rest

The funeral of the late George Stewart, County Treasurer, took place yesterday from his home in Otonabee to the Little Lake cemetery. The funeral was a very large one, showing the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

Another Band Concert

It will be pleasing to learn that the 57th Regimental Band has arranged to give a grand concert in the Brock street rink on the evening of Victoria Day. A splendid program is being prepared for the occasion, in which patriotic music will predominate.

The New Steamer

Mr. Frank Young, of Young's Point, was in town yesterday on business. The new steamer, "Stony Lake," is approaching completion, and will be ready for business in about three weeks. Mr. Young has arranged for a double trip up the lakes on the "Majestic," on Saturday, and Victoria Day, for the benefit of cottagers and the general public.

Physical Director Appointed

Mr. Percy K. Holmes, of Springfield Training School, has been appointed physical director of the Y.M.C.A. in succession to Mr. Aplin, who resigned. He is a Canadian by birth 28 years of age, and is well spoken of by the staff of the Training School, and by his fellow students, a number of whom were met by the delegates at Buffalo.

Trip to Stony Lake

On Saturday, May 21st, the Majestic will leave Lakefield on the arrival of the 2 p.m. train. On Tuesday, May 24th, (Victoria Day) the Majestic will also leave Lakefield on the arrival of the morning train and make a trip around the lakes, returning to connect with the last train for Peterborough. Ad.

The Steam Barge

The new steamer "Sovereign" will be launched on Monday next at Point St. Charles. The craft measures 70 feet over all with 14 foot beam, and will draw about 4 1-2 feet of water with a load. She will be driven by a fore and aft compound engine, built by the Bertram Engine Works, Toronto. There will be three decks, a main, promenade and a hurricane with well fitted up cabin. The boat will be captained by Mr. F. Upperthwaite, and the business arrangements will be in charge of Mr. C. J. Snyder.

A Sad Death

It is our sad duty to record the death of Mrs. Napoleon Lord, which occurred at her home, 115 Elm street, on Tuesday evening. Deceased leaves a sorrowing husband and two small children, the eldest aged two years, and the youngest two months and a half to mourn her loss. She was a daughter of Mr. John Croom, 90 Elm street, and her illness was of about two months duration. The funeral will take place tomorrow morning at nine o'clock, from the family residence to St. Peter's cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

Women's Convention

The annual convention of the Methodist W.M.S. for the Peterborough District, will be held in the Mark street church today, commencing at 10 a.m. There will be an afternoon session at 2 o'clock. There will be no reports from Auxiliaries, interesting papers and discussions, and Miss Annie E. Wilson, Branch Mission Band Secretary, will conduct a conference in her department. The evening session will open at 7.30 o'clock. Rev. J. G. Lewis, pastor of the church, will preside. The speakers of the evening will be Miss Jessie Munroe, late missionary in Japan, and Miss Nicholls, a missionary on furlough from India. The Mark street church choir will sing, and Mr. R. N. Jolliffe will contribute a solo. All interested in Missions are cordially invited to attend.

OVER THE DAM

A Scow Load of Lumber Wrecked at the Locks

Yesterday while attempting to ascend the river at the locks, a scow load of lumber was caught in the swift current and wrecked. The barge was not fastened to the above with lines, and in the absence of glance booms, the current, which is very strong, bore the scow out into the current. The vessel struck the pier on the east side of the river, and parties capsized. A portion of the lumber was swept overboard, and floated down stream.

The lumber was for the Peterborough Canoe Company.

A RARE CHANCE
FOR CANADIAN INVESTORS

THOMAS PATTERSON & CO.
BROKERS, PETERBOROUGH

HAVING BEEN APPOINTED CANADIAN FISCAL AGENTS OF THE

CRIPPLE CREEK ENTERPRISE GOLD MINING COMPANY

of Colorado, beg to inform their customers and investors generally that they have secured a block of stock of this Company, which they now offer for sale at 35 cents per share—par value $1.00.

This stock is bound to advance rapidly. All Shareholders are on an equal basis, no preferred stock. This is a proposition in all its details so simple that every shareholder will know at all times the value of his holdings. With the vast quantities of ore now in sight, and the facilities that will be put into operations to mine it, every dollar invested in this way may yield ten, twenty and a hundred fold. As has been chronicled in hundreds of instances in Cripple Creek, where persons have purchased stock in the early stages of a mine, the price at which the stock is offered is such a bargain that it cannot fail to be subscribed for at an early date, therefore investors should act quickly.

The shares are fully paid up and non-assessable (no individual liability). Each and every share represents a distinct and liberal portion of an enterprise which it is fully believed will produce millions of dollars.

The Cripple Creek Company is splendidly officered by men of high repute and with an expert knowledge of mining in all its details. The Company was organized to operate in Colorado, and properly incorporated under the laws of that State.

In the incorporation of the Company 500,000 shares of the capital stock were set aside for development purposes, and cannot be used in any other way.

We will be pleased to give full particulars to investors, and would say in conclusion. Buy now! Get in on the ground floor, as the stock will quickly advance.

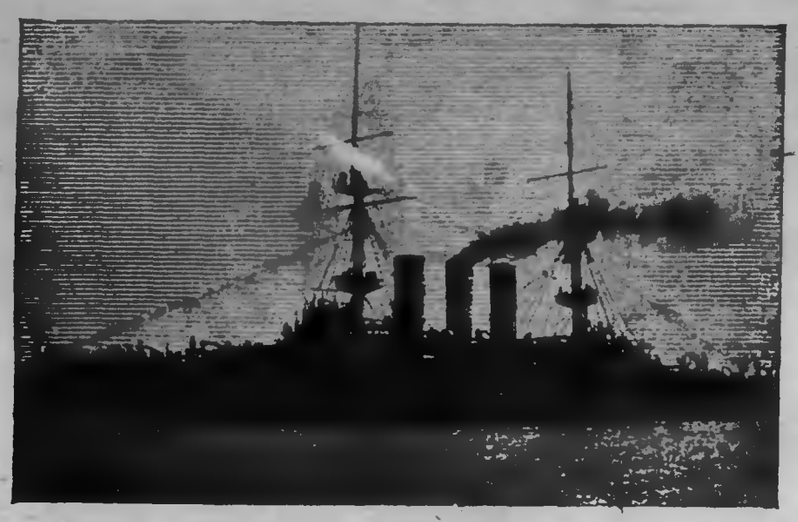
DOUBLE NAVAL DISASTER TO JAPANESE

THE BATTLESHIP HATSUSE



"JAPANESE"

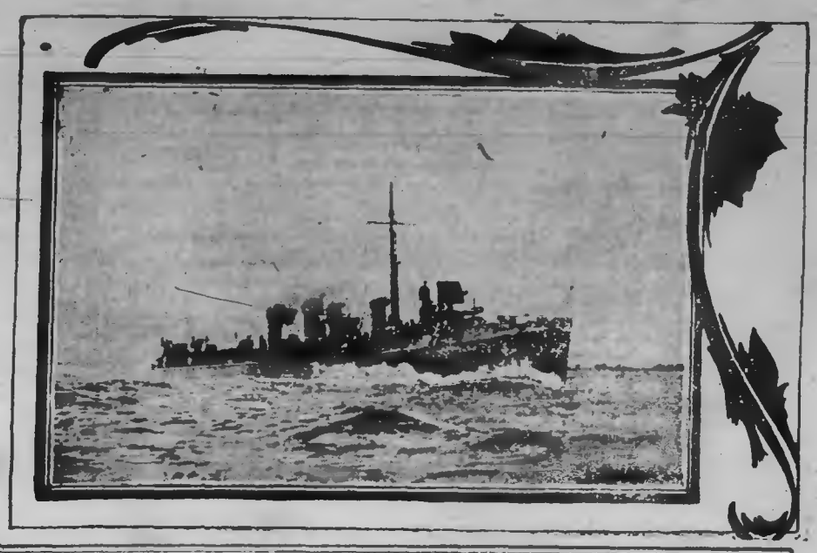
Heavy Losses

Battleship Hatsuse, Pride of Japan's Navy, Sunk by Russian Mines off Pt. Arthur on Sunday Last.

The Cruiser Yoshino Sunk in Collision with Sister Ship.

The Loss of Life is Close to Seven Hundred Men.

THE CRUISER YOSHINO



Tokio May 20--1.30 a m--Vice Admiral Togo has reported as follows: A report from Rear Admiral Dewa says that the cruisers Kasaga and Yoshino collided during a fog off Port Arthur on May 15th and the Yoshino sank with nearly all her crew On the same day the battleship Hatsuse struck a Russian mine and sank

Tokio, May 19.—Giving details of the disaster, Vice-Admiral Togo says:

"At 14 minutes past 1 in the afternoon of May 15, in a deep fog off Port Arthur, the Kasaga rammed the Yoshino, sinking the latter in a few minutes. Ninety of her crew were saved.

"The same morning, the Hatsuse, cruising off Port Arthur, covering the landing of the soldiers, struck a mine ten knots southeast of the harbor entrance. She signalled for help but instantly [illegible] and sank in half an hour. Three hundred of his crew were saved by torpedo boats."

LOSS OF LIFE ABOUT 650.

The battleship Hatsuse was one of the most splendid battleships in the world. She was built in Elswick Eng., in 1899, and was of 15,400 tons, 400 feet long, had a beam of 76.6, a draught of 27 feet, and had a horse-power of 16,500. She carried four 12-inch guns, 14 6-inch quick-firing, 20 12-pounders, 8 3-pounders, and 4 2 1-2-pounders. She had a crew of 741 men, and therefore lost 440 men. The Petropavlovsk, of the Russian navy, blown up on April 13, had about a similar number on board, and 675 were then drowned.

The unarmored protected cruiser Yoshino was built at Elswick in 1892. She was of 4,180 tons, 350 feet long, 46 feet 6 beam, drew 17 feet and had 15,000 horse-power. She had a protective deck of 1 1-2 inches in thickness. She was of very high speed, 23 knots, and light gun power, having only 12 large quick-firing guns—4 6 inch and 8 4.7 inch. She also carried 23 light, three-pounder quick-firers. She had five torpedo tubes. Her crew numbered 300, so that 210 were drowned.

The combined loss by the double disaster therefore, about totals that of Russia in the destruction of the Petropavlovsk.

WHAT WILL THE EFFECT BE?

Three weeks ago the loss of the Hatsuse would have been a terribly serious matter to Japan as it would have reduced her battle-fleet to five ships, of the same minute as the Russian fleet. Even then, however, the superior size of the Japanese ships and the skill of their seamen would have left her fleet the stronger of the two. The Russians now have only two battleships fit to fight, and the harbor entrance is blocked, so that the Japanese command of the sea is not affected. The loss, though heavy, is not critical.

London, May 20—Belief in the overwhelming success of the Japanese army during the operations of the current year is becoming general in Europe, even among such Russians as possess a knowledge of the situation. Much additional information from competent and unprejudiced observers including several English war correspondents of wide experience, has come to hand the present week regarding the military events on the Yalu and in Manchuria. It all testifies without reserve to the great superiority of the Japanese arms in equipment, skill and courage. In the latter quality only do the Russians take high rank. Japanese valor, however, according to all accounts, partakes of a quality almost unmatched in modern history.

RUSSIANS HAVE NOT LEARNED.

Even friendly continental experts condemn the tactics of the Russian generals in severe terms, while the Japanese themselves say the Russians have learned little from modern experience. The Russian army in courage alone maintains the old standard.

There are signs of a change for the worse in the relations of officers and men. The order issued by General Stoessel on assuming command at Port Arthur seems to signify fears of a lack of discipline and reports are coming through of great discontent in regard to food and the prohibition of vodka.

THINK PORT ARTHUR DOOMED.

European opinion regards the investment of Port Arthur as likely, to be successful soon, and strongly inclines to the belief that there will be a great engagement between the combined Japanese armies with Gen. Kuropatkin in the neighborhood of Liao Yang within a fortnight. If it results in the latter's defeat advices from St. Petersburg indicate the Russian policy would be to withdraw soon to Harbin but a battle must first be fought so that northern Asia won't gain an impression of Russian impotence. In the meantime, the political aspect of the situation is unchanged. The talk of mediation or some other expedient of ending the war has disappeared entirely. The best that Russia's friends now hope is that the struggle will continue until it has exhausted both sides and result in a situation where victory is impossible to either side.

Tokio May 18—The annual dinner of those members of the Japan Society of London who reside here was given to-night. Sir Claude Macdonald, the British Minister, presiding. Baron Komura, Minister of Foreign Affairs, speaking in English, said that Japan deeply appreciated British sympathy, because it was always exercised on behalf of justice and the common interests of nations.

Several of the speakers, both Japanese and English, referred to the yellow peril, which was treated as a great joke.

M. Sonada, president of the Noble's Bank said that Japan was always on the side of the western nations, with which, although differing in color, she had so many moral and intellectual ties.

St. Petersburg, May 19—The Admiralty is now convinced by mail reports received from Port Arthur, that Vice-Admiral Togo used submarine boats in his operations. A letter received from Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel says that he was standing on Golden Hill when the Russian battleship Petropavlovsk went down, and he saw a submarine boat torpedo both the battleships.

Lieut. Schrieber claims he distinctly saw the periscope of a submarine boat, and could trace the course of the vessel.

Officers of the Russian battleship Pobedia testified that a submarine boat discharges a torpedo against their ship and they fired at the submarine boat, hoping to sink it, but failed.

BRITISH WIN IN HOT FIGHT

Defeat Rebels in Southern Nigeria, but Suffer Heavy Loss.

Cologne, May 19.—The Berlin correspondent of the Cologne Gazette telegraphs that private despatches from the Cameroons say the Cross River rebels have been completely crushed after an obstinate fight by a British force in the territory of southern Nigeria. The British losses were heavy. Thirteen officers and noncommissioned officers were killed.

Paris, May 19.—According to a despatch from Lalla-Mgnia Algeria, the followers of the Moroccan pretender recently attacked the Sultan's troops near Ujda, and the former were repulsed after severe fighting. Fifty of the Sultan's troops were killed. The rebels' losses are said to have been heavier.

The French consul at Erzerum and the British and Russian consuls at Bitlis have been designated to go to Mush, in the heart of the Armenian district where Turkish outrages have been reported. The officials say they do not vouch for the accuracy of the first reports, as they were brought by native runners. Therefore a consular inquiry has been undertaken.

PREDICTS YEAR OF TORNADIES

A Great Storm are Predicted to Take Place this Year.

SUN SPOTS ARE THE CAUSE

Southern Scientists are Looking for Unusual Sto.ms During the Summer.

Kansas City, Mo., May 20.—What is the mysterious connection between the condition of the sun and the prevalence of tornadoes? This seems one of the unexplainable phenomena of nature, the recurrence of which puzzle the scientists. Recent tornadoes in Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Texas and other parts of the west and south are monitary of the beginning of the storm season, and on the heels of this comes the announcement that a new sun spot period of unusual activity is also under way.

A prominent official of the United States signal service says that, while it is impossible to accurately forecast the effect of the disturbances on the sun upon American weather, it is likely to be more pronounced than during any like period within a generation.

It is an interesting fact that the tornado is an American specialty and its occurrence is rare anywhere else on the globe. Even in this country it operates within certain definite limits. The tornado belt begins near the western edge of the continental plateau and follows the Missouri and the Southern states particularly Alabama South Carolina and Georgia. Tornadoes never occur on the Alleghanies, and seldom in New York or New England. The greatest centre for these storms seems to be the plains of Kansas and around the junction of the Missouri, Ohio and Mississippi valleys.

WHERE THEY OCCUR.

Tornadoes usually occur along the southeastern border of an area of low barometric pressure, because only in such a situation is a warm, moist wind likely to force its way under a mass of cold air 1,000 or more feet above the earth. The prevailing winds are from the south and are usually laden with moisture from the Gulf and the Atlantic. This brings into play the forces making for the warm, moist, air, being lighter than the cold air above it, seeks an outlet and when a weak point is found it begins to pour through and spread out like oil on water. To take its place the surrounding air rushes in.

Then for some reason which has never been satisfactorily explained, but which probably arises from the influence of the cyclonic winds themselves sweeping circularly around the centre of the storm, these currents of warm air, instead of going toward the point where the rise is taking place, are deflected from their course in such a manner as to drive spirally outward in a direction opposite to the motion of the hands of a watch.

The more air that rushes in toward the centre the greater the velocity of motion at the centre itself. At length the whirl at the centre becomes so swift that a semi-vacuum is formed, trough which the warm air rushes upward as through the tall chimney of a factory. Thus the tornado is born.

The inrush of air sometimes attains a velocity of 200 miles an hour and when it reaches the centre ascends vertically with a sutional force which is sufficient to draw up to a height of hundreds, or thousands of feet the heaviest objects — farm implements, fragments of buildings, limbs of trees, heavy timbers, cattle and human beings.

SPEED OF A TORNADO.

The speed with which a tornado advances varies from twenty to fifty miles an hour. The path of destruction, that is to say the width of the tornado funnel at the point where it touches the ground commonly varies from 100 to 500 yards. Thus such a storm may sweep through a town of considerable size, making a narrow pathway within which every building has been destroyed and the trees and shrubbery leveled while at a short distance aside from the path little destruction may have been wrought. The length of a tornado's path varies from a mile to fifty miles or more.

Persons who live in the tornado belt are well acquainted with the characteristic state and appearance of the atmosphere when a tornado is imminent. The action of the oppressive temperature, the hush the apparent waiting of nature, all these things are phenomena that have often been observed.

Inasmuch as the course of a tornado is almost always towards the east or the northwast, it is possible for the inhabitants of a threatened point who have seen the gathering of the cloud on the horizon to the west of them to know in advance whether they are in danger. The only safe refuge in case the funnel cloud is sweeping down on the point occupied by the spectator is furnished by the tornado or cyclone cellar.

There is a record of three thousand people killed in the United States by these storms since observation began. The last great period was in the late 70's and the early 80's. Some of the storms did millions of dollars' damage. For several years past they have been comparatively infrequent, but this year they have started in a threatening manner, and more may be heard about them not only during the next few month, but for several years to come.

PARK STREET BAPTIST CHURCH

The Annual Meeting of the Park Street Baptist Church

At the adjourned annual business meeting of the Park street Baptist church, the pastor, Rev. A. H. Brace, occupied the chair, and there was a good attendance.

The Church Clerk's report showed an increase of 52 in the membership of the church.

The weekly offerings, as per the secretary's figures, showed the finances to be in a satisfactory condition and a much larger number contributing by the envelope system.

The Building Fund Treasurer told of great encouragement. A new lot of 50 feet, with a frontage on Stewart and another on Park streets, had been secured, and every dollar paid, with a nice balance on hand for future operations.

Reports came in from the Sunday school, Mission Fund, Dorcas Society, Mission Circle and B.Y.P.U., representing a decided advance in all departments.

The officers, including Deacon W. C. Parrie whose term had expired, were re-elected. Organist, Trustees and finance committee were re-elected, with two exceptions: Mr. R. F. Dantin was elected to the Finance committee and Mr. John Reed appointed as Church Treasurer.

Three new u-hers were also appointed.

The annual roll call of the church with the presentation of the offerings was fixed for the second week in June.

Delegates were appointed for the Association of Baptist churches to be held in Peterville on June 21 to 23. The appointments made by the Circle and Bands were approved. It was decided that the church's collections for missions should be taken monthly in colored envelopes, to be divided among the varied enterprises of the denomination on a basis to be decided by the church.

Refreshments were served by the ladies during the evening. The outlook for the future is full of promise.

PROHIBITION WILL BE THE SLOGAN

Premier Ross will Go to the Country Next Fall.

CONDITIONS FAVORABLE.

"Close the Bars" will be the Chief Plank in the Platform

Toronto, May 20—The Hamilton Herald thinks it has discovered the cause for the complacency with which the clerical deputation that saw Hon. G. W. Ross about liquor legislation received the non-committal letter in which he gave his reply. The Herald finds the explanation in a statement by Rev. Mr. Brown, of Blenheim, to the effect that the reason he knew there would not be any licenses granted in Blenheim next year is that Premier Ross will go to the country on a prohibition platform. Mr. Brown is credited with the statement that Mr. Ross privately gave the deputation to so understand.

The Herald draws the conclusion that the published letter was therefore not intended for the "politico-clerical" deputation at all, but for the eyes of the general public. The Herald's idea is that Premier Ross was giving his clerical friends a straight tip, while he was trying to put off the public with a letter which might mean anything.

Everything points to an early dissolution. That Mr. Ross will go to the country is conceded, and the closing of the bars will be the slogan.

WHEAT SUPPLY OF THE CANADIAN WEST

Montreal, May 20.—Mr. G. V. Hastings, Winnipeg, manager of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company, arrived in the city yesterday for a short stay. He states that the crops in the west are looking exceedingly well, though, of course, it is yet too early to judge of how matters will pan out.

As in the east the season is about two weeks late, but in spite of this everything is looking up, including the blades of wheat. In speaking of the wheat available in the west, Mr. Hastings is of the opinion that there men on the Montreal Board of Trade have been inclined to underestimate the amount. He states that there are still two million bushels in farmers hands outside of the elevators, and that the old wheat which will be exported during the present season will be a good amount above the usual estimate, which was 2,500,000 bushels.

THE ACREAGE INCREASE.

The acreage in crop over last year he estimates at about 10 per cent., which would mean 500,000 acres more of land under cultivation than there was a year ago. Mr. Hastings, as he spoke, had in front of him a very neatly compiled schedule of all the grain storage houses of the Territories and Manitoba. The total capacity of these elevators, great and small, is 40,764,000 bushels. Of these the Canadian Pacific Railway has on its lines a total storage capacity of 32,939,000, and upon the lines of the Canadian Northern 7,824,000 bushels. All this indicating that the storage capacity is keeping pace with the demands. Mr Hastings states that the immigrants are flooding the west, and that there are now more newly arrived Englishmen there than he has seen in that country since he went out there in 1883.

According to the old preconceived idea, it was thought impossible to raise grain in that stretch of country lying between Winnipeg and Port Arthur. This illusion, Mr. Hastings states, has been dispelled pretty thoroughly and by no less a person than Sir William Van Horn. Sir William it appears, is the owner of 5,000 acres at East Selkirk and here he operates an extensive stock farm. Three years ago he resolved to try the raising of wheat. As a result, Mr. Hastings states that two years ago Sir William Van Horne sent to the elevator at Keewatin two cars of wheat weighing 80,000 pounds each, and this year he shipped into the elevator three cars with a total weight of 240,000 pounds, thus doing away forever with the idea that the section east of Winnipeg was fit only for stock raising. Mr Hastings predicts that much wheat will be raised and marketed from this section in years to come.

ATHLETIC WORLD

BY OUR SPORTING EDITOR

Caughnawaga, May 13 — The local eleven suffered their first defeat in the Midland League series on Wednesday, when they journeyed to Peterborough to test their abilities as to booting the football with the Quakers.

The game commenced at 6.20 p.m. ending at 7.20 p.m. The Quakers were getting in some neat combinations but the visitors were equal to the occasion every time and sent it back again and again but the Quakers got the first goal by a neat kick from Perdue. A few minutes later they scored again on a foul kick, making 2—0 in their favor. Caughnawaga rushed it up with much vigor and determination and scored by Crowley. Score 2—1.

During the remainder of the game both teams tried hard to score, neither succeeding, but many a neat shot being made on goal by both teams and the spectators claimed it was the cleanest game played in Peterborough in a long time. One of the Quaker boys received a hard blow in the stomach, but was not knocked out entirely. Another hurt his ankle, but was soon able to play again. Notwithstanding, the game was close, not a man being ruled off the field. The Quakers were reprimanded for misbehaviour to his opponents. A Keene correspondent remarks the Quaker boys are a gentlemanly lot of fellows, no roughness in the game whatever, and the Caughnawaga's can add to it considerably. Although they were the heavier bunch they never tried to bully their lighter opponents as some teams are most apt to do. The ball and the goal is their only object, and it is a rather good idea. Our boys spoke very highly of them and of the crowd of spectators, especially the children, who in some places (but not in Peterborough) are very bothersome to the players of the visiting team. They say they will never forget that memorable evening in the county town with the Quakers, and how to see the same friendliness existed between them, not only in the return match but while either teams are competing for the Stratton Cup, trophy of the Midland Football League. Mr. A Noble refereed.

NOTES.

The Quakers have a few awful runners on their forward line who did excellent work for the team.

The last game was different to the previous Saturday's game; no one got any bruises, so the Quakers say.

Well done Caughnawaga. You played a clean game and we hope you will not be abused on next Saturday, as we were last.

The Old Country Wanderers will play their return game with Norwood on Saturday afternoon on the Driving Park at 5.45 sharp. This promises to be a very exciting and hard fought game, as the visitors played a tie game with the locals at Norwood in the first match, three weeks ago.

The following players will represent the O.C.W.

Goal, Butler; backs, Whitlow, Smailes; half backs, Evans, Hawkins, Holdow; forwards, Dixon, Lyon, Wright Stevens Stampers; reserves, Hood, Greatorex.

Will Be a Long and Disastrous War

St. Louis Mo., May 20—General Nelson A. Miles, who is here attending the good roads convention, today expressed the belief that the Russo-Japanese war would eventually involve other nations.

"I believe that the war will be a long and disastrous one," said General Miles.

Incidentally he criticised the American cavalry by remarking that "50 per cent of our soldiers are mounted, while in other countries the percentage is only 7 to 9 per cent. We should have more infantry and less cavalry."

"In the next great war," said General Miles, "I believe the automobile will to a large extent supplant the horse. There are now 100,000 automobiles in the United States and the number is increasing rapidly. Their speed is becoming phenomenal. Automobiles can be used on bad roads as well as good ones, as is now evidenced everywhere.

Drowns Herself and Baby

Columbus, O., May 20—Having tied her 5-year-old daughter to her left arm and waist, Mrs. M. B. Copeland of 645 East Long street today jumped from the north rail of the Rich street bridge over the Scioto river and both were drowned in twelve feet of water. No cause is known for the act. L. K. Harding, Charles Stefman and James Bellinger swam out into the river and tried to save the woman, but became exhausted and had to return to shore. Stefman nearly drowned, but was resuscitated.

You Pay Only if Cured

He Gets No Money Unless He Cures Your Method and Full Particulars Sent Free —Write For It This Very Day

A Detroit specialist who has 14 certificates and diplomas from medical colleges and boards, has perfected a startling method of curing the diseases of men in their own homes; so that there may be no doubt in the mind of any man that he has

DR. S. GOLDBERG,
The Possessor of 14 Diplomas and Certificates Who Wants No Money That He Does Not Earn.

both the method and the ability to do as he says, Dr Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their name and address. He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotency, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, nervous debility, etc.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as many booklets on the subject, including the one that contains the 14 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply

MINES IN THE ORIENTAL WAR.

War has many implements of terrible destructiveness. But when war is over and peace is established, torpedoes and cannon and rifles, with their gun-cotton and smokeless powder, become again, save for some chance accident, harmless in the hands of their masters, the warriors.

The contact mine is an exception. Set out to do its work in its own good time, it knows nothing of treaties or terms of peace. The great campaign of nation against nation must be followed by a little campaign of the victor against the mines before there is real safety again upon the sea.

An exceptionally large use of contact mines has been made by the Russians during the present war. Admiral Alexieff announced early in February that he had mined the entire Manchurian coast including every spot at which landings might possibly be affected. That boast is to be taken of course with much reservation, but still the fact remains that neither any Japanese warship nor any merchant vessel can now approach any Manchurian port without taking great risks of destruction.

The Russian torpedo gunboat, the Yenesei, it will be remembered, was blown up early in the war after it had placed some 200 mines in the Port Arthur harbor. It carried down with it the only chart of the mine field the Russians possessed. Another Russian vessel was later destroyed while attempting to locate the mines the Yenesei had placed. Now a Japanese torpedo boat has been sunk while trying to clear the harbor of Dalny of the mines there.

It is probable that even if the Russians themselves set out to remove all the contact mines they had placed since war began they could not do it without great trouble and risk. Apart from the loss of their charts there is the further fact that mines do not always stay where they are put. A storm may cause them to shift their position, anchor and all, or it may tear them loose from their anchors and set them adrift in the sea. Then it is left to chance whether they will be discovered and destroyed or whether they will cause the destruction of some innocent and peaceable sea-going stranger.

The mine that can be discharged only when in contact with an electric battery on shore, either automatically or at the touch of an operator, is usually just as effective in time of war, and certainly it is much more desirable to deal with when peace has at length come.

NEUTRALITY OF CHINA.

Probably there could be no immediate development with reference to the war in the far east which Russia would hail with more joy than to have the Chinese troops under General Ma take the aggressive towards the Russians. That would give a splendid opportunity for Russia to stir up alarm in Europe over the Yellow Peril. It would place Russia in the position of fighting not a single smaller nation but two nations with combined populations more than three times her own. And it might even lead to European intervention on a basis Russia could accept, despite all of Russia's assertions that she intends to fight this war through to the bitter end.

It is probably just because Russia could profit so much by Chinese aggression that she is making such a continuous fuss and affecting such horrified fear at the possibility of it now. Almost every day St Petersburg reports a number of little skirmishes between the bandit Chunchuses and her own troops, as if they were attacks for which China was responsible; and again and again we are told of what the Chinese troops massed in Mongolia mean to do.

As a matter of fact there has not been the slightest indication that China means to violate her pledge of neutrality or that the Chinese population is becoming excited over Japanese victories to a point at which it will take the bit in its teeth and attempt the Boxer game against all Europeans once more. Japan lagged for Chinese neutrality at the start and is still exceedingly anxious to see it preserved. Japan has even avoided with great care the risk there would be in landing her soldiers on the debatable soil west of the River Liao preferring to invade Manchuria solely from the Yalu and from the Corean gulf.

If General Kuropatkin's troops should be defeated and at the same time cut off from a retreat toward the north, which is possible but not probable, they would undoubtedly flee to the west into Mongolia. There it would be their duty to lay down their arms immediately after crossing the border. Should they refuse to do this it would be necessary either for General Ma to attack them or for the Japanese army to follow them onto neutral soil. Both contingencies are dangerous, but if either arises the Russians will have themselves to blame and not at all the hostile intentions of China.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It is hard enough to understand when the Russians exulted over the achievements of their Vladivostock fleet at Gensan, but reason reels at any attempt to explain why German merchantmen in the harbor of Riga should have been decorated when the news reached that place. For the doings at Gen-San were pretty small and shabby. A little bay with a village on its shores and a few unarmed steamers on its water offered few chances for the winning of glory. The Russians came, saw and conquered—there's no doubt about that—but how hastily they scuttled back and how glad they were to have avoided the Japanese fighting ships! It was all right, according to the rules of the game, we suppose, but it wasn't brilliant, and it wasn't noble. And yet the German ships at Riga were decorated at the request of the Russian authorities! Well, when there is little to celebrate, the little must be celebrated if there is to be any celebration.—New York Times.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

A CLERGYMAN'S APPEAL.

The Rev. W. F. Brownlee, Ridgetown, Anglican minister, has written the following letter to the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives:—

Dear Sir,—I fell in with a case to-day in my parish, a young woman very ill with consumption and I promised I would write you regarding her entrance into the hospital for consumptives in Muskoka. The case is one of great necessity and charity. The applicant is about 18 years of age. She is practically without a home, staying at present with a relative. She is bright and amiable, and would like to live. As I understand, you reject none on account of poverty. I commend the case to you as one most needy, and if you can send me instructions or papers for application to the hospital, I will see to raising necessary means for her transportation and have her sent at once, as I imagine she is not beyond receiving benefit.

[Note by Editor.—Sir Wm. R. Meredith, Kt., Vice-President of the National Sanitarium Association, or Mr. W. J. Gage, Chairman of the Executive Committee, Toronto, will gladly receive contributions for this and several other equally pitiful cases calling for help.]

A RARE CHANCE FOR CANADIAN INVESTORS

THOMAS PATTERSON & CO.
BROKERS, PETERBOROUGH

HAVING BEEN APPOINTED CANADIAN FISCAL AGENTS OF THE

CRIPPLE CREEK ENTERPRISE GOLD MINING COMPANY

of Colorado, beg to inform their customers and investors generally that they have secured a block of stock of this Company, which they now offer for sale at 35 cents per share—par value $1.00.

This stock is bound to advance rapidly. All Shareholders are on an equal basis, no preferred stock. This is a proposition in all its details so simple that every shareholder will know at all times the value of his holdings. With the vast quantities of ore now in sight, and the facilities that will be put into operation to mine it, every dollar invested in this way may yield ten, twenty and a hundred fold. As has been chronicled in hundreds of instances in Cripple Creek, where persons have purchased stock in the early stages of a mine, the price at which the stock is offered is such a bargain that it cannot fail to be subscribed for at an early date, therefore investors should act quickly.

The shares are fully paid up and non-assessable (no individual liability). Each and every share represents a distinct and liberal portion of an enterprise which it is fully believed will produce millions of dollars.

The Cripple Creek Company is splendidly officered by men of high repute and with an expert knowledge of mining in all its details. The Company was organized to operate in Colorado, and properly incorporated under the laws of that State.

In the incorporation of the Company 500,000 shares of the capital stock were set aside for development purposes, and cannot be used in any other way.

We will be pleased to give full particulars to investors, and would say in conclusion. Buy now! Get in on the ground floor, as the stock will quickly advance.

High Class Investment

THE OREGON MINING AND SMELTING COMPANY

Offer to Canadian investors a limited amount of stock of the above company The property owned by the Company consists at the present time of about 500 acres, which are located in the Tarryall District and Park County, Colorado. This whole district has been known for years on account of its rich placer ground, and is now prominently before the public owing to the number of very good properties which have been opened up recently producing, principally, gold, and lately some that are producing Platinum. On the Oregon property there are a number of well known veins of low grade ore that will yield a profit by being treated on the ground of the company. The company have recently opened up a fine vein in the Hawkeye group and this vein shows not only good values but an immense amount of ore which alone would make the property very valuable Assays from ore taken from various parts of this property range from a few dollars to $373 per ton in gold. We have very little silver, lead or copper in the district. The company have a shaft 240 feet deep, with a good shaft house thoroughly well equipped with all modern machinery to develop same. They are now driving a tunnel which is in about 700 feet and which will cut the Hawkeye vein about 300 feet deeper than where it is opened at present. There is enough ore exposed on the property of this company to keep them busy for a number of years and the reason for selling stock at the present time is to secure funds to build a mill. The company will probably join with the Almaden Company in building this mill. There is water enough to furnish water power and over 100 acres of fine spruce and pine timber. The affairs of the company have always been managed in a business-like economical manner and there are no officers' salaries. The monies received from the sale of stock go direct into the property.

I can heartily recommend this stock as sale, as well as an unusually good investment, because of the immense amount of ore which the company have already opened up. It is not a mere prospect, but the property has been developed by expense of a considerable amount of money and time.

The company is splendidly officered by men of integrity and high standing. The company has not pushed the sale of stock the last year owing to a delay in getting title to the ground from the Government, but now that has been satisfactorily adjusted and work will be pushed to a finish.

The number of exceedingly rich strikes which have been made during the last few weeks in the various camps in the State of Colorado is the best evidence of the prosperity of the mining business. Almost every camp in the state has opened up rich bodies of ore, and Park County is well in the lead in that line.

There are only $25,000 of stock for sale, at $1.00 per share. The company is capitalized at $200,000, and the advantage to the investor of selling the stock at par, is that every share is fully paid up and non-assessable.

Old Hagar's Secret

BY MRS. M. J. HOLMES

Author of "For a Woman's Sake," "Love's Triumph," "Purified by Suffering," "A Grass Widow," "Woman Against Woman," Etc.

ity are unacquainted. He is educated and refined, if they are not. Theo loves him and that is sufficient, unless I add that he has money."

"But not as much as I supposed," mounted Madam Conway. "Theo told me $200,000, but that woman said one. Oh, what will become of me? Give me the hartshorn, Maggie. I feel so faint!"

The hartshorn was handed her, but it could not quiet her distress. Her family pride was sorely wounded, and had Theo been dead, she would hardly have felt worse than she did.

"How will she bear it when it comes to her knowledge, as it necessarily must. It will kill her, I know," she exclaimed, after Maggie had exhausted all her powers of reasoning in vain, then, as she remembered the woman's avowed intention of visiting her daughter-in-law on the morrow, she felt that she must turn back, she must see Theo and break it to her gently, or "the first sight of that odious creature, claiming her for a daughter, might be of incalculable injury."

"Stop, Mike," she was about to say, but ere the words passed her lips she reflected that to take Maggie back to Worcester was to throw her again in Henry Warner's way, and this she could not do. There was then but one alternative. She could stop at the Charlton depot, not far distant, and wait for the downward train, while Mike drove Maggie home, and this she resolved to do. Mike was accordingly bidden to take her at once to the depot, which he did, while she explained to Maggie her reason for returning.

"Theo is much better alone, and George will not thank you for interfering," said Maggie, not at all pleased with her grandmother's proceedings.

But the old lady was determined. "It was her duty," she said, "to stand by Theo in trouble, and if a visit from that horrid creature wasn't trouble, she could not well define it."

"When will you come home?" asked Maggie.

"Not before to-morrow night. Now I have undertaken the matter, I intend to see it through," said Madam Conway, referring to the expected visit of Mrs. Douglas, senior.

But Mike did not thus understand it, and thinking her only object in turning back was "to see the dorin's," as he designated the "Firemen's muster," he muttered long and loud about "being thus sent home, while his madam went to see the fun."

In the meantime, on a hard settee, at the rather uncomfortable depot, Madam Conway awaited the arrival of the train, which came at last, and in a short time she found herself again in Worcester. Once in a carriage and on her way to the "Bay State," she began to feel a little nervous, half-wishing she had followed Maggie's advice, and left Theo alone. But it could not now be helped, and while trying to think what she should say to her astonished granddaughter, she was set down at the door of the hotel, slightly bewildered and a good deal perplexed, a feeling which was by no means diminished when she learned that Mr. and Mrs. Douglas were both out of town.

"Where have they gone, and when will they return?" she gasped, untying her bonnet strings for an easier respiration.

To these queries the clerk replied that he believed Mr. Douglas had gone to Boston on business; that he might be at home that night; at all events, he would probably return in the morning; she could find Mr. Warner, who would tell her all about it. "Shall I send for him?" he continued, as he saw the scowl upon her face.

"Certainly not," she answered and taking the key, which had been left in his charge, she repaired to Theo's rooms and sinking into a large easy-chair, fanned herself furiously, wondering if they would return that night, and what they would say when they found her there. "But I don't care," she continued, speaking aloud and shaking her head very decidedly at the excited woman whose image was reflected by the mirror opposite, and who shook her head as decidedly in return! "George Douglas has deceived us shamefully, and I'll tell him so, too. I wish he'd come this minute!"

But George Douglas knew well what he was doing. Very gradually was he imparting to Theo a knowledge of his parents, and Theo, who really loved her husband, was learning to prize him for himself and not for his family. Feeling certain that the firemen's muster would bring his mother to town, and knowing that Theo was not yet prepared to see her, he was greatly relieved at Madam Conway's sudden departure, and had himself purposely left home, with the intention of staying away until Friday night. This, however, Madam Conway did not know, and very impatiently she awaited his coming, until the lateness of the hour precluded the possibility of his arrival, and she retired to bed, but not to sleep, for the city was full of firemen, and one company, failing of finding lodgings elsewhere, had taken refuge in an empty carriage shop near by. The hard, bare floor was not the most comfortable bed imaginable, and, preferring the bright moonlight and open air, they made the night hideous with their noisy shouts, which the watchmen tried in vain to hush. To sleep in that neighborhood was impossible, and all night long Madam Conway vibrated between her bed and the window, from which latter point she frowned wrathfully down upon the red coats below, who, scoffing alike at law and order as dispensed by the police, kept up their noisy revel, shouting lustily for "Chelsea, No. 4," and "Washington, No. 3," until the dawn of day.

"I wish to mercy I'd gone home!" sighed Madam Conway, as weak and faint she crept down to the breakfast table, doing but little justice to anything, and returning to her room pale, haggard and weary.

Ere long, however, she became interested in watching the crowds of people, who at an early hour filled the streets, and when at last the different fire companies of the State paraded the town in a seemingly never-ending procession, she forgot in a measure her trouble, and drawing her chair to the window, sat down to enjoy the brilliant scene, involuntarily nodding her head to the stirring music, as troop after troop passed by. Up and down the street, as far as the eye could reach, the sidewalks were crowded with men, women and children, all eager to see the sight. There were people from the city and people from the country, the latter of whom, having anticipated the day for weeks and months, were now unquestionably enjoying it.

Conspicuous among these was a middle-aged woman, who elicited remarks from all who beheld her, both from the peculiarity of her dress and the huge blue cotton umbrella she persisted in hoisting, to the great annoyance of those in whose faces it was thrust, and who forgot in a measure their vexation when they read the novel device it bore. Like many other people who can sympathize with the good woman, she was always losing her umbrella, and at last, in self-defense, had embroidered upon the blue in letters of white:

"Steal me not, for fear of shame,
For here you see my owner's name.
"CHARITY DOUGLAS."

As the lettering was small and not very distinct, it required a close observation to decipher it, but the plan was a successful one, nevertheless, and for four long years the blue umbrella had done good service to its mistress, shielding her alike from sunshine and from storm, and now in the crowded city it performed a double part, preventing its nearest neighbors from seeing, while at the same time it kept the dust from settling on the thick green veil and leghorn bonnet of its owner. At Betsy Jane's suggestion she wore a hoop to-day on Theo's account, and that she was painfully conscious of the fact was proved by the many anxious glances she cast at her chocolate colored muslin, through the thin folds of which it was plainly visible.

"I wish I had left the pesky thing to hum," she thought, feeling greatly relieved when at last, as the crowd became greater, it was broken in several pieces and ceased to do its duty.

From her seat near the window Madam Conway caught sight of the umbrella as it swayed up and down amid the multitude, but she had no suspicion that she who bore it thus aloft had even a better right to sit where she was sitting. In her excitement she had forgotten Mrs. Douglas' intended visit, to prepare Theo for which she had returned to

Highest Price for May Cheese was 7 3-8 Cents at First Meeting

The president was pleased to see such a large turnout at the first meeting. He was grieved, however, to be called upon to say that four members of the Board has passed away since the last meeting. Three of them, the late Messrs. Richard Crowe, Warren Taylor and Thos. Blezard were active members last year, while the late Geo. Stewart was a member the year before and for many years previous. The speaker referred in appreciative terms to the deceased members, each of whom was a prominent and valued member of the Board and one who was deeply interested in the affairs of the county. The president hoped that the season would be a successful one and that there would be no trouble such as was caused last year by the buyers refusing to pay the price offered for cheese at the Board meeting because of the price falling subsequently.

The following factories boarded, the total number of cheese being 2,782:

Has immense bodies of these grades of ore which cannot be exhausted in five years already opened up and its main working tunnel is nearing completion, cutting the apex of the vein at a depth of 1,600 feet.

This block of shares is offered to enable the Company to connect the above tunnel with its concentrating mill and projected terminus of railroad by tramway, a distance of 11,120 feet, thereby permitting shipments during the entire year.

A production of at least 125 tons daily will be maintained when these improvements are made, and if completed in the early summer, dividends can be paid from ore settlements before this fall.

WAR CLOUD OVER EUROPE.

Nations Have Grave Fears of the Consequence of Troubles in the East.

Buda Pesth, May 19.—The fear prevalent throughout Europe that the war in the east may lead to unforeseen consequences was shown in Foreign Minister Goluchowski's speech at to-day's sitting of the budget committee of the Austrian delegation. "There," said Count Goluchowski, referring to the gloomy situation in the far east, "far reaching antagonistic interests have been brought about a struggle, which, owing to the impossibility of gauging its duration and on account of the general economic depression it may entail, threatens to make itself felt even by those not directly concerned.

"Besides the general state of insecurity attendant on such a long conflict there has to be considered the interruption of the free intercourse of trade and the unusually wide interpretation given by belligerents nowadays to the 'contraband of war.' This wide interpretation exercises such a far reaching effect on international trade that it appears justifiable to inquire whether it would not be advisable, through a mutual agreement of the powers, to check that much-felt evil in the future by the introduction of certain restrictive regulations. That work must, however, be reserved for a more suitable moment.

"Austria-Hungary's position in regard to the war is one of strict neutrality and as all the other powers have taken the same attitude it may so far as human foresight can reach, be anticipated that the struggle will be localized and result in no further dangerous complications."

Count Goluchowski expressed satisfaction at the "cordial relations" existing between Austria and Italy, especially in regard to the Balkans, which constituted "a guarantee of peace which should not be underestimated."

The Anglo-French convention Count Goluchowski considered to be "another link in the chain of arrangements intended to weld more firmly the peaceful union of the European powers."

SAYS TURK MUST BEHAVE.

Count Goluchowski considered that satisfactory progress was making in the Macedonian reform programme, and said both Austria-Hungaria and Russia deemed it an honor to do the fullest justice to the mission intrusted to them by the great powers and they hoped Turkey would not further impede the task. Unless Turkey loyally assisted in the reforms she should have herself to blame for the serious dangers to which she inevitably would be exposed.

SITUATION GROWS MORE OMINOUS FOR RUSSIA

It Looks as Though the Japanese Had the Enemy Badly Cornered

Russians Take Leaf Out of Japan's Book in Regard to Keeping Movement's Secret—Will Hold Port Arthur Garrison.

London, May 19.—The long-expected swoop on New Chwang has come. The Japanese are safely established on shore, twenty miles from the town, and in possession of a good harbor, at which to land troops. In two or three days they will be in possession of that city. The pieces will then be set for the big attack on the Russians.

When the third army has established itself, the weakness of the Russian position will be painfully evident. The Russian position will be:

1. A line of railway running south from Harbin. It will lead to no strong position. Its southern end will be thrust into an enveloping Japanese force. To the east will be the first Japanese army, roughly parallel with it, and ever threatening to swing its right wing forward to cut the line north of the Russian main body. To the west will be Chinese territory, where Russians will get a rough welcome. To the southwest the third Japanese army will be pressing up, enveloping the tip of the line.

2. To fend off the menace of the first Japanese army the Russians are holding a subsidiary line, that of the Motien Mountains. It runs at an angle of 45 degrees to the railway roughly southwest and northeast. It touches the railway near Haicheng, and runs up to Samaja. It may be outflanked at Samaja to the northeast; the capture of Haicheng by a concentrated attack of the first and third armies would turn it from the southwest. Once the first army joined the Motien Mountains, it would force the Russians to fall back far beyond Mukden.

The Japanese position falls into three groups.

1. A containing force, the second army, will hold the Port Arthur garrison.

2. The first army is menacing the Russians disposed along the railway line. At present it is fronting the Motien mountain range, is feeling around the left of that position, and is sending strong forces to the Russian right, towards Haicheng, where the Motien position joins the railway line.

3. The third army, from New Chwang, will work north. It can attack Haicheng from the south and west, while the first army attacks from the east. Such an enveloping attack should be irresistible. Should the Russians concentrate in force there, or at Liao Yang, they must weaken their hold on the Motien Mountains and enable Gen. Kiroki to push his right wing forward and cut the railway north of Liao Yang.

The Russians evidently recognize that their position in Southern Manchuria is hopeless, for they are openly discussing a retreat beyond Mukden. The southern portions of their line are all but untenable.

St. Petersburg, May 19.—General Kuropatkin has taken a leaf out of Japan's book in respect of secrecy regarding the numbers and plans of the Czar's troops. Prominent members of the general staff formerly thoroughly advised regarding the situation at the front now are, or feign to be, almost as much in the dark as the ordinary military observer. They profess complete ignorance as to whether the commander-in-chief intends to fight at Liao Yang or Mukden or merely to entertain the Japanese with rear guard actions until the Mikado's lines of communications stretches across Manchuria and the Czar's is correspondingly shortened. Official experts say that Kuropatkin is already removing his supplies and stores from positions menaced by the invading armies. Meanwhile the experienced take pleasure in witnessing the slow massing of a conquering host at Harbin. Plans are ready to take the offensive. Kuropatkin will astonish the world by a turning movement launched from some point on the railway between Harbin and Vladivostok, possibly the valley of Ninguta, in the vicinity of Ninguta. It is acknowledged that such an enterprise looks fantastic in view of the great distance to be covered and the difficult nature of the country, but the operations of the Cossacks in Corea is cited as an example of Russian mobility. Moreover, experts agree that this war is likely to give soldiers enlarged ideas as to the practicability of mounted campaigning far from the primary sources of supplies.

The Russians show their appreciation of the gravity of the outlook by punishing guerilla attacks relentlessly.

TORPEDO BOATS LEAVE.

Chefoo, May 19—Leaving the vicinity of Dalny yesterday afternoon, when the Japanese had completed their operations, a despatch boat, with a Times correspondent on board, sailed south and spent the day among the Miaotao Islands, which lie in the Laotieshan Channel, between Port Arthur and Tengchew on the Shan Tung peninsula. It seems that there is probably some truth in the persistent Chinese rumors that several Russian destroyers have managed to get out of Port Arthur. Japanese gun boats and torpedo boats were searching among the islands all day. While cruising early on Monday heavy firing was heard off Port Arthur. The despatch boat ran in as near as it dared, but owing to the mist it was impossible to see anything. Later a fleet of Jap destroyers came out. The commander, however, declined to give any definite information.

Montreal, May 19.—Among the passengers that left the Windsor station this morning on the Transcontinental train to the west were three Japanese gentlemen. They were J. Yoshig, S. Kawamura and Yashare Fugica. They have been residents in New York for some time. They announced to your correspondent that the Japanese colony in New York which is quite extensive, had communicated the fact to the authorities at Tokio that they were willing to go back and serve in active warfare if their services were required. A company of volunteers had been formed and there were in New York City alone over 200 Japanese who had formed themselves into a volunteer company, and were actively drilling and preparing themselves for any emergency. A great number of these men saw active service in the Chinese-Japanese war and among them are several officers. "We are aching to get a chance at the enemy," said Mr Kawamura" as the train pulled out They are bound for Tokio.

Seoul, May 19.—Reports have been received here that 450 captured Russian officers and men will shortly be dispatched from Yongamyo to Moji, Japan.

The prefect of Tok Chong, which town is two days' march northwest of An Ju, reports that 700 Cossacks arrived here the afternoon of May 8 and commandeered provisions, forage and native ponies and in several instances seized money. The villagers fled to the hills.

On the morning of May 9 the Russians advanced to Karchong, from which place they attacked An Ju. They insulted the women, broke open the local jail, freed the prisoners and kidnaped the jailer and the village headsman.

Four Tonghak leaders have been executed at Chonju, capital of North Chulladc, Corea.

Berlin, May 19.—Nothing is known at the foreign office regarding the report telegraphed from Berlin that there is a strong probability of peace through the war party urging the Czar to end the trouble. It is pointed out that the time is not yet ripe for peace efforts.

The German government is aware that strong currents in France and Great Britain are working for peace, and that even high political influence in Russia itself are moving in the same direction. It is admitted here that these efforts would be materially strengthened if the Russians succeed in checking the Japanese advance at Mukden.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

TO CANADIAN INVESTORS

I desire to call the attention of investors to the

Smuggler Gold Mining Co.'s Proposition

of which I am the authorized agent

Investments in mining stocks where they can be purchased cheaply whose property contains merit and whose directors are men of unquestionable honor and integrity, and especially when sufficient work has been done to guarantee a producing mine and the leads have been demonstrated to be permanent, offer the greatest opportunity for large returns from modest investments.

The shrewdest capitalists of England and America are giving more attention to mining properties and putting more money into them than at any time in the past history of the world.

The Smuggler Group consists of five full sized claims, to-wit: The Smuggler, Georgia, Black Jack, Star and Red Rock, located in the Greenhorn District of Eastern Oregon. Surrounding mines are Potosi, Pride of Pendleton, Bonanza and Rockefeller, developing work to the extent of 1,000 feet of tunnelling, drifts and crosscuts have been made, exposing hundreds of tons of high grade ore, averaging from $25 to $45 per ton, based on smelter returns and for the purpose of equipping the mines a limited number of shares of Treasury Stock will be sold at 25 cents per share, the par value of which is $1.00.

THE GREAT WORK GOING ON IN MUSKOKA.

4,000 Patients Treated in the Two Muskoka Hospitals — the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Surprising Decrease of 25 Per Cent. in the Last Three Years in Deaths from Consumption.

Fifty-five Different Trades and Professions Represented by the Patients Admitted to the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Two Pavilions have had to be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds, and the Number of Patients Reduced from 75 to 50.

$25,000 Wanted this Year to Carry on this Great Work.

With a view of helping to bring to the attention of the public the needs of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have pleasure in publishing the following letter, in which an appeal is made for funds.

Dear Friend,—

It again becomes necessary to make an urgent appeal for funds for the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

A very heavy debt is pressing upon the trustees.

In addition to this, funds must be provided for the maintenance of patients. Last month there was a deficiency of nearly $1,500 over and above receipts from all sources.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives was opened eighteen months ago. 238 patients have been admitted.

No patient has ever been refused admission because of his or her poverty.

1,000 patients have been cared for in the two Muskoka Hospitals, the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The majority of these have either been cured, or so helped that they have been enabled to again become bread-winners for the family.

The public are beginning to find evidence of our work.

Already there has been a decrease of nearly 25 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption in the Province of Ontario.

The last report of the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health shows that in the last three years the deaths from consumption in Ontario have decreased from 3,484 to 2,694, a decrease of 790; or nearly 25 per cent.

This is the more gratifying when we remember that for a number of years previously the same report showed a steadily increasing death-rate prior to 1899.

Who will doubt that the work of our two Hospitals in Muskoka, and the persistent educational campaign carried on, has not helped to secure this surprising result?

In what better way can your gifts bring so good a return?

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 50.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

Very truly yours,

H. J. Cody

RUSSIANS NOW ADMIT JAPS USED SUBMARINES

PETROPAVIOVSK CONCEDED BY ST. PERSBURG OFFICIALS TO HAVE BEEN BLOWN UP BY A TORPEDO FROM A SUBMARINE

London, May 18.—The Daily Telegraphs New Chwang correspondent, writing under date of May 15, says:

The Japanese, with a large fleet of transports and warships, appeared in Kai Chiu yesterday morning and opened a terrific bombardment against the shore defenses, which were silenced by 4 o'clock in the afternoon, the Russians retreating to Tashichio.

The Japanese troops landed, and are today advancing rapidly, outflanking Tashichio and New Chwang.

HAVE PLACATED THE CHINESE.

Chefoo, May 18.—As a result of the engagement which the Japanese had on Monday with the Russian garrison at Kai Chou, on the west coast of the Liao Tung peninsula, 23 miles directly south of Yin Kow, the port of New Chwang, the Russians were driven out of Kai Chou, the nearest to New Chwang, with the exception of the Liao River, where there is sufficient water to allow the landing of troops.

Chinese who recently arrived here from New Chwang, while confirming the above, also say that the Japanese are skirmishing on either side of the railway north and south of Kin Chou.

Circulars have been posted at New Chwang, and in its vicinity signed by the chief of staf of the Japanese army, advising the Chinese to maintain order and secure stocks of provisions and transport waggons for which the Japanese will pay full value.

The small Russian guard remaining at New Chwang is ready to leave on the near approach of the enemy.

Quantities of wood and oil have been placed on board the Russian gunboat Sprouch, in New Chwang waters, to be used in destroying her by fire when the last Russians evacuate New Chwang.

ALL QUIET AT PORT ARTHUR.

London, May 18.—A despatch to the Central News from Liao Yang, dated today, says that according to news which reached there today from Port Arthur there have been no further attacks on the beleaguered port since May 13. The Japanese who landed at Pitsewo, it is added, appear to be pushing preparations for a land attack, which it is expected will be accompanied by a renewal of the bombardment of the Japanese fleet. The Russians sustained no losses during the Japanese operations having for their object the clearing of Russian mines from Kerr Bay.

St. Petersburg, May 18.—The Admiralty received today an official despatch from Rear-Admiral Wittsoeft, believed to have been dated from Port Arthur, May 14, reporting that there had been no fighting of ost since the telegraph line was cut, the Japanese ships not having attacked. Everything was well with the Russian squadron.

The despatch was gratifying to the authorities, not only for the news it contained, but because its receipt established the fact that while the telegraph line is severed a system of communication by means of Chinese runners has been satisfactorily inaugurated.

THEY DIED LIKE HEROES.

St. Petersburg, May 19.—Details have been received here from Harbin regarding the execution on April 21 of the two Japanese officers, Captain Hirose and Oki, for attempting to dynamite bridges and destroy telegraph communication on the Eastern Chinese Railway.

The prisoners admitted they were part of a detail numbering 100 men whose purpose it was to destroy the railway at various points. When told that they must have been extremely brave people, they replied,

"Not at all; we were only carrying out our duty and the order of the Mikado."

Both prisoners were executed on April 21 between the new and old towns of Harbin, in the presence of a large crowd. They were shot instead of being hanged, upon order of General Kouropatkin. A strong guard was thrown about the stge to hold back the public at a distance of 400 yards. No photographs were allowed to be taken.

The younger prisoner refused to allow the bandaging of his eyes. When told that it was necessary, according to Russian law, he asked that an exception be made in his favor. The elder Japanese, a staff officer, wept and fainted, but finally allowed himself to be blindfolded calmly. One of the men was a Catholic and made his final confession to a Russian priest, there being no representative of the Catholic priesthood in Harbin.

HE HAS NOT REPORTED YET.

St. Petersburg, May 18.—It is officially denied that Viceroy Alexieff has gone to Liao Yang to assume command of 20 000 troops there, and that Gen. Kouropatkin has left Liao Yang for Harbin. It is said that Kouropatkin is either at Liao Yang or in its vicinity.

It is announced that Lieut.-Gen. Sassalitch has been relieved of the command of the Second Siberian army division and that Lieut.-Gen. Count Count Keller, former Governor of Ekaterinoslav, has been appointed to succeed him.

THE HUNGRY SONS OF SUNNY ITALY

MONTREAL HORDE OF STARVING RAILWAY NAVIES

Montreal, May 19.—Complaints are being made of the unsanitary condition of several old houses occupied or used as rendezvous by the unfortunate Italian laborers, whose condition has already been described in this correspondence. The cold weather of the last few days has driven them to spend their nights wherever they could find an indoor shelter, and the quarters of the padrones and immigration agencies are becoming intolerable. Cleanliness is impossible, even if the men desired it, which many of them—undoubtedly do.

Mr. R Candori, agent of the Italian Immigration Aid Society for Canada, is distributing eight hundred loaves of bread daily to penniless Italians, at the expense of the Government of Italy. Mr. Candori's office, is one of the old stone mansions of the decayed St. Antoine street district is a type of the methods to which the officials who are looking after these people are reduced. He has been driven out of every room in the house until finally he has entrenched himself in one corner by a window, behind a heavy wooden partition nine feet high, with a small wicket in it, precisely like that through which the gallery tickets are sold at a cheap-priced theatre. All his dealings with the stranded Italians are through that wicket.

The Italian Government has been wired to stop all sailings of immigrant laborers bound for Montreal.

NEWS FROM OTTAWA

An Interesting Items from the Capital.

Ottawa, May 18—Following in the footsteps of Hon. G. W. Ross, who was here last week presumably on a mission in connection with the impending provincial contest, Hon. J. M. Gibson, Attorney-General, arrived in the city at the week end. He came, according to information secured from a reliable source, to consult with the Federal Government as to the most opportune time for an appeal being made to the country by both administrations, particularly the provincial one.

Questioned with respect to the intentions of the Ross Government regarding dissolution, Mr. Gibson would volunteer no information save to remark—that the government was not "worrying" about election. He met Mr. Alexander Smith the former Liberal organizer, and two afterward went to Parliament Hill where they were in conference with Government leaders.

Ottawa, May 18—The Militia Department has under consideration the advisability of erecting coast defences for the protection of Vancouver harbor.

Winnipeg, May 19.—Prof. James Mavor, of Toronto University, who is here, gives an account of the phenomenal progress made by the Doukhobor colonists since his first visit, made to them five years ago. "The leader of the Doukhobors," said Prof. Mavor, "is indeed a remarkable man. He has been in the colony just eight en months, having come in November, 1902. In this short time he has altered the character of the community, has changed their mode of agriculture, gradually introducing modern methods, and has built up an organization out of chaos."

Several thousand acres of land have been broken, and the are under cultivation this year will be greater than that sown last year. Vetigin is determined to have first class horses and cattle. Just now he is negotiating for the purchase of some high class stock.

In the past year or two the colony has expended $60,000 in the purchase of land, and invested largely in farm machinery. The north and south colonies, comprising the villages to the north and south of Fort Kelly, are moving forward to great prosperity.

The Doukhobors near Rosthern whose settlement we also visited, are more individualistic. They do not hold their land in common, and only to a small extent co-operate with their brethren of the north and south colony.

"If," said Prof. Mavor, "Veregin succeeds in organizing the labor of the large body of men he has to deal with, and in holding them together, there is no doubt that in a few years the Doukhobors lands will be among the most productive in the North-West. By his wonderful management he has already saved the community at least $40 000

Potatoes Short Weight.

In Oshawa just now there is a complaint of short weight on the market. Potatoes which should weigh 90 lbs per bag in some cases weigh only 70 and 75; carcasses of meat and rolls of butter have been found wanting when placed on correct scales. The same thing may be found on Peterborough market. Purchasers should see that they get all they pay for. The police should keep a strict lookout at the market for the perpetrators of these frauds, and also keep a sharp lookout for short weight by some other vendors.

Revision of Voters Lists.

Toronto, May 18.—A Globe's Ottawa despatch says: "Liberals throughout the province of Ontario are being urged to make local arrangements for the revision of the voters' lists and the general organizations of their constituencies. With these objects in view they are requested to communicate with Mr. James Vance of Toronto, for some years assistant secretary of the Ontario Liberal Association, and now in charge of the central office."

RUSSIAN LOSS DUE TO NIHILISM

Defeat in Yalu Battle Ascribed to Doctrine of Many Officers.

Paris, May 18.—From Vienna comes the accusation, ascribed to the highest official circles of St. Petersburg, that the Russian military reverses are due to the affiliation of many officers with nihilism. It is alleged that the battle of the Yalu was lost because the Russian troops were under the orders of General Zassalitch, an ardent nihilist, and brother of the famous Vjova Zassalitch, who in 1878 assassinated General Trapoff chief of the Russian police.

RUSSIAN AGREEMENT BRITISH ENVOY'S TASK

Sir Charles Hardinge Reaches St. Petersburg on Highly Important and Delicate Mission.

St. Petersburg May 19.—Sir Chas Hardinge, the new British ambassador to Russia, arrived in St. Petersburg today. Because of the part he is expected to play in carrying out King Edward's desire for closer relations between Great Britain and Russia more than usual interest in his arrival was displayed in official and unofficial circles.

As soon as the emperor returns to St. Petersburg Sir Charles will present his credentials and at the same time deliver a speech, which it is expected will reveal, guardedly of course the object of his mission. The authorities here attach considerable importance to the prospective declaration owing to the ambassador's relations with King Edward. It will be regarded as being as much an expression of the views of the kind as of the British government. On his part Emperor Nicholas will make response which will be no less cordial than the utterance of the British ambassador.

In official and diplomatic circles it is generally known that the establishment of better relations between Russia and Great Britain is the object of Sir Charles' mission. The specific purpose however, are still veiled, despite the discreet inquiries made by foreign diplomats of their British colleagues here.

"You know as well as we do," said a well-informed diplomat to the correspondent of the Associated Press this afternoon, "the intense personal desire of King Edward to reach an agreement with Russia.

Two Pavilions have had to be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds, and the Number of Patients Reduced from 75 to 50.

$25,000 Wanted this Year to Carry on this Great Work.

With a view of helping to bring to the attention of the public the needs of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have pleasure in publishing the following letter, in which an appeal is made for funds.

Dear Friend,—

It again becomes necessary to make an urgent appeal for funds for the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

A very heavy debt is pressing upon the trustees.

In addition to this, funds must be provided for the maintenance of patients. Last month there was a deficiency of nearly $1,500 over and above receipts from all sources.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives was opened eighteen months ago. 225 patients have been admitted.

No patient has ever been refused admission because of his or her poverty.

1,000 patients have been cared for in the two Muskoka Hospitals, the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The majority of these have either been cured, or so helped that they have been enabled to again become bread-winners for the family.

The public are beginning to find evidence of our work.

Already there has been a decrease of nearly 25 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption in the Province of Ontario.

The last report of the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health shows that in the last three years the deaths from consumption in Ontario have decreased from 3,484 to 2,694, a decrease of 790, or nearly 25 per cent.

This is the more gratifying when we remember that for a number of years previously the same report showed a steadily increasing death-rate prior to 1899.

Who will doubt that the work of our two Hospitals in Muskoka, and the persistent educational campaign carried on, has not helped to secure this surprising result?

In what better way can your gifts bring so good a return?

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 50.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

Very truly yours,

W. J. Gage

ENDOWMENTS AT LIFE RATES

HOW do the rates compare with those of other companies?

The rates are the same as the principal Canadian Companies charge for "Whole Life" and "Twenty Payment Life" policies.

WHERE can these policies be secured?

From any agent of the LONDON LIFE.

WHEN do these policies become endowments and are the endowments guaranteed or estimated?

The policies mature as endowments at about expectation of life and are absolutely guaranteed.

WHAT kind of settlement does the LONDON LIFE give at the end of twenty years?

FIVE OPTIONS or methods of settlement are offered at the end of twenty years.

The guaranteed cash surrender is the largest in Canada for the premium paid.

WHAT options are given policy holders in case of lapse or surrender?

The policy holder may select one of four options.

1st. PAID UP INSURANCE for reduced amounts payable as endowments at maturity period.

2nd. EXTENDED INSURANCE for a fixed number of years and months for full amount of policy less premiums and interest thereon unpaid.

3rd. CASH LOANS.

4th. CASH SURRENDER VALUES.

WHAT THEN?

A Gold Mining Co. Stock in a Gold Mine at 10 Cents per Share Par Value $1.00 per Share

THE COSTILLA GOLD MINING COMPANY

Has 10 Gold-bearing Veins Exposed
90 Acres in a Solid Block and All Patented
Crosscut Driven 117 feet to the First Big Vein

A drift run on the vein 178 FEET IN ORE, the Gold value or contents running from 2 to 8 ounces, per ton, or from $40 to $160. This ore has not been stoped and will not be until the main shoot is reached.

The breast of the drift is, only 52 feet, according to engineer's survey, from the first BIG vertical ore shoot, which, at the surface, 550 feet above, shows values of 2 to 7 ounces gold, per ton.

Slabs and feeders of gold ore are coming in freely in the drift.

This is a business proposition. It is the KIND AND QUALITY which makes for great and permanent success. It is worth an investment of 10c. on the dollar, per share, now. It will be worth par with development.

Fine Weather Gives Relief from Catarrh

But Never Cures It Because the Germs are Still Alive, Though Inactive. First Kill the Germs Then You'll be Really Cured.

Catarrh germs are carried into the throat and lungs by the air we breathe.—In the same way the remedy must be applied. To be effectual the cure must be breathed, for otherwise it can't get where the germs really are.

Mix your germ-killing medicine with air, breathe it right into all the little air cells where the catarrh really is, then you'll get cured quickly. This is exactly the way Catarrhozone acts. You inhale its medicated vapor to the very source of the disease. It destroys the cause of the inflammation, kills all the microbes that develop when the lining membranes become diseased. Besides this Catarrhozone is a wonderful healer. Every sore spot is rebuilt with new healthy tissue. All the poisonous secretions that have been putrifying the system are driven out. No trace of catarrh remains after Catarrhozone has been used.

Why don't you use Catarrhozone? Its the simplest thing in the world to use, and so sure to cure permanently that you really can't afford to be without it.

MISS E M PETERS is known by every resident in the pretty town of Highland Grove. She was cured by Catarrhozone of systematic catarrh and says; "For three years before I commenced using Catarrhozone I was continually bothered by a congested condition of my nose and throat. I was sneezing and coughing all the time and really never felt well. I persevered with Catarrhozone and was rewarded by being entirely cured. My recovery prompted others in this locality to use Catarrhozone, and many of them have had remarkable cures from using it."

MISS LOUISE MURPHY a well known society belle residing at 22 Monument St., Medford, writes; "Kindly forward me three outfits of Catarrhozone which I have found most valuable for catarrhal affections of the nose and throat. Catarrhozone cured me of weak lungs and really saved me from consumption. I am recommending Catarrhozone above all other treatments, knowing what great curative powers it possesses. I know others who have also benefited by Catarrhozone."

Catarrhozone is perfectly harmless and may be used with perfect safety by the most delicate infant. Instead of deadening the stomach with drugs, it sends the healing vapor along with the air you breathe into every air cell and passage of the nose, throat, lungs and bronchial tubes. Catarrhozone can't fail, it's sure to cure. If not satisfied you can have your money back for the asking. Two months' treatment, hard rubber inhaler and extra bottle of inhalent costs $1.00, sample size 25c. By mail to any address if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., and Kingston, Ont., Can.

The Methodist Conference

A week from next Wednesday the Bay of Quinte Conference will meet in the George street Methodist church, and continue until the following Tuesday. It is expected 300 members will be in attendance.

A New Route

A new route for excursionists is to be exploited shortly. The two Guilds of the George street Methodist church propose to run an excursion to Healey's Falls, down the river Trent, in the near future. The party will go by rail to Hastings, there by steamer City of Peterborough to the Falls.

—Back numbers of newspapers suitable for underlaying carpets at Times Bookstore.

The attendance at the Peterboro' Business College

is larger this year than ever

WHY?

Because we are keeping up with the growth of Peterborough, the "Electric City," which is fast becoming a leading manufacturing centre in Canada.

Over 20 of those graduating are placed in good positions in Peterborough. Attend school where you have such prospects.

NOW IS THE TIME TO ENTER

If you cannot attend our school write for particulars regarding our correspondence courses.

Many Additional Hydrants

The Council, taking warning by the Toronto conflagration, has decided to add twenty-five additional hydrants at points to be designated. Now if appears to us that with the improvements in the system of alarm, we should be fairly well protected.

Organist Resigns

Mrs. T. Mowat has sent in her resignation as organist of the George street church. During the two years or more Mrs Mowat has acceptably filled the position, she has given the greatest satisfaction in her playing, and her departure will be greatly regretted by the choir and congregation.

Mr. Culverwell's Match

The Times is in receipt of an enquiry regarding Mr. J. Alexander Culverwell. Our correspondent wants to know, if the statements made by him regarding certain gentlemen in connection with the canal are not true, why is action for slander is not forthcoming. We presume the parties interested do not think it worth while, or it may be that they are content with the statement made by the Department of Railways and Canals, and published in the Ottawa Free Press, practically denying the charges made.

The County Council Vacancy

The municipal nomination to fill the vacancy in the Dummer Council caused by the resignation of Mr. H. A. Moore, ex Reeve, and Mr. Chris. J. Darling, as Councillor, was held in the Town Hall, at Warsaw, according to notice given, on Monday, the 9th day of May, at 1 o'clock p.m. Mr. Chris. J Darling was elected by acclamation to fill the office of Reeve for the remainder of the year 1904, and Mr. J J. McDonald to fill the office of Councillor for the same term. Mr. H. A Moore will now come before the electors of the 5th division of the County Council as a candidate for the vacancy in the County Council caused by the death of Mr. Richard Crowe.

Want It Called Off

We understand a couple of young men, who undertook to get up a concert in the Opera House on the evening of Victoria Day, as a private venture, are anxious to have the band call off their concert which is to take place on the same evening at the rink. We understand the band refuses to do so, and in this they will be backed by the citizens generally. Our people will turn out to hear our band, because they know that they will get the worth of their money and will also be supporting a very worthy institution of which we all are justly proud. We hope to see the rink crowded to the doors on the occasion referred to. The band is preparing a special programme of music for the occasion.

THE TELEPHONE FRANCHISE

The Other Side of The Question What a Double Telephone Means

The Times has received several inquiries regarding the opposition telephone service which it is proposed to inaugurate here. We have been informed that Mr. Neill's Company placed an experimental service in Ottawa some months ago, and it is alleged that it was not satisfactory. The Times is endeavoring to secure full information regarding the experience of the Ottawa people in this connection, and will give it to our readers as soon as possible.

In regard to the double telephone service it has been stated that when the new company gets to work the Bell Company will reduce the price of its 'phones. Mr. Dean, the local manager, says that the price now charged is moderate and could not be reduced without loss. People—especially business men—must have the Bell on account of its outside connection, and of course will also be obliged to use the new service as well. This will mean an additional expense of from $15 to $25 per year. It is not so long since Peterborough had experience in opposition telephones. The Ontario Telephone Company had an existence of a couple of years, under the most favorable conditions and found that without an outside connection it was impossible to continue.

It seems to us that the council should not be too hasty in handing over the streets of the town to the new company. It might be well to send a deputation to Ottawa to find out how the new system worked there and why they pulled out of that city.

RED

Red is the color of danger, whether on the semaphore or on the skin. When the face is reddened by eruptions, when boils break out on the body, or the angry red of sores and ulcers is displayed in the flesh, it is nature's danger signal. The blood is obstructed and tainted by impurities, and there can be no safety until the blood is made pure.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood, and removes the effete matter which clogs and corrupts it. It cures pimples, boils, eczema, scrofula, sores, ulcers and other consequences of impure blood.

"I feel greatly thankful for what your medicine has done for me," writes Mrs. Chas. Mood, of Kalkaska, Mich. "I suffered with scrofula of the head for twelve years. Tried every kind of medicine that I heard of but found no cure. Every one that looked at my head said they never saw anything like it. The last doctor I doctored with before applying to you I got worse every day. Was so miserable that I was unable to do any work at all. After taking two or three bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and using the local treatment you prescribed for me, I was cured and my head was entirely free from scrofula."

Accept no substitute for Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. There is no other medicine which is "just as good" for diseases of the blood and the eruptions which are caused by the blood's impurity.

FREE. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send thirty-one one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or fifty stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A SAD ACCIDENT

The Result of Which Mr. Wm. Maxwell Loses His Left Leg

William Maxwell, aged 18, of Ironside, while working on a boom, for the Dickson Lumber Company, at Gull Lake, sustained a most unfortunate accident on the 18th inst. He was transferred to the Nicholls Hospital as soon as possible, when it was found necessary to amputate the left leg above the knee. The operation was successfully performed yesterday by Dr. McClelland, assisted by Drs. Boucher and Scott.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Movements of the People—What They Are Doing and Saying

—The many friends of Miss Bertha Parnell will learn with pleasure that she has sufficiently recovered to leave the hospital.

—We regret to state that Dr. Moffatt, of Norwood, is not recovering from his serious illness as rapidly as his friends would wish. He is still confined to his house, and does not seem to gain strength.

—The engagement of Miss Louise M. Carnegie, daughter of Mr. Jas. Carnegie, of Port Perry, and Mr. Howard B. Clemens, of Lindsay, has been announced. The marriage will take place in June. Miss Carnegie is well known in Peterborough, having visited here several times.

—Mrs. John Nugent gave a small party at her residence on Brock street last night in honor of Mr. and Mrs. James Mills, of Norwich, who are here visiting Mrs. A. W. Cressman. Needless to say the charming hostess warmly welcomed her guests, and the result was a most pleasant evening.

A POPULAR MINISTER

The Departure of the Rev. J P. Wilson Greatly Regretted

The departure of the Rev. J P. Wilson, pastor of the George street church, which will take place next month, will be universally regretted. During his four years' residence in Peterborough, Mr. Wilson has endeared himself to the community, regardless of church. This applies also to Mrs. Wilson and family, who will long be remembered in Peterborough for their many noble qualities.

The Quarterly Official Board of the church unanimously adopted the following resolution.

"The Quarterly Board of the George street Methodist church, Peterborough at this the last quarterly meeting in the four years' pastorate of the Rev. J P. Wilson, B.A. feel it a duty to give expression to their appreciation of their beloved pastor and his pastoral services.

"The Board regrets that under the law of the church the pastorate of Mr. Wilson cannot continue indefinitely. He has made himself respected and beloved. Eminently judicious, he stands the same to all; he has visited and comforted our sick and afflicted; all ministerial duties have been promptly and efficiently performed; his pulpit services have been most acceptable, instructive and heart-reaching, so that at no time has there been a higher spiritual life than under his pastorate. We part in love and with regret and sincere wishes for his continued successful ministry, and for Mrs. Wilson and her family all prosperity and happiness."

BOGUE VS CEREAL COMPANY

A Case Being Heard Before His Honor Judge Weller

For over a fortnight His Honor, Judge Weller has been sitting on the case Bogue vs. the American Cereal Company, which was transferred from the High Court of Justice in March last, Mr. James Bogue, contractor, is the plaintiff. It will be remembered that the point at issue is the payment of a balance alleged to be due plaintiff on the construction of certain buildings. In October, 1901, he agreed to erect on the lands of the defendants an elevator for the sum of $15,567, and certain extra work for $325. The work was completed and payment was made to the extent of $8,866.51. In July 1901, Bogue was joined by Donald McDermid to do certain work in erecting a boiler house, drying house and mill and foundation of a cleaning house for $68 998, and certain additional work. A certain portion was executed and in November, 1901, it was agreed that defendants should complete the work, using plaintiff's tools, appliances, and material, McDermid transferred his interest to plaintiff, and the latter claims the sum of $30,931.13, which, with the balance of $7,025.49, making in all $17,567.59, with interest he seeks to recover.

Defendants in their typed statement denied an agreement to pay the plaintiff the sum of $15,567 and paid into court $6,000, which sum was not accepted by Mr. Bogue. Hall & Hayes for plaintiff. Denniston Peck, Kerr and Stevenson for defendants.

RUSSIAN TORPEDO BOATS PLANTED THE MINES

Stole Out in the Darkness Through a Line of the Enemy's Small Boats and Did the work.

Special To THE TIMES.

St. Petersburg, May 20.—Everywhere today one hears of praise for Russian torpedo boats in stealing out in the darkness, perhaps through a line of small boats of the enemy, to plant mines where the heavier of the enemy's ships had cruised a few hours before. But, after all it is pointed out, there remained a big element of chance as to whether the enemy would return. The authorities had almost come to the conclusion that the catastrophe which they had prepared would not come about because of the cleverness of Vice-Admiral Togo in keeping away from the dangerous waters, as if aware of the Russian movements.

Russian Torpedo Boat, No. 119, that assisted in laying the mines to blow up Japanese ships

THE RUSSIAN CRUISER BOGATYR IS SAFE.

The Admiralty States That There is Not the Slightest Foundation for the Report that the Vessel was Destroyed

Special to THE TIMES.

St. Petersburg, May 20.—The Admiralty states that there is not the slightest foundation for the report that the cruiser Bogatyr has been destroyed. The squadron, the Admiralty assert, is intact at Vladivostok.

A despatch to the Rhode Paris from St. Petersburg last night reported that the Bogatyr had grounded during a fog on the rocks near the entrance to Vladivostok.

ARMY FROM YALU MEETS DEFEAT?

Said to Have Been Driven Back to Fen-Wang-Cheng

RECEIVED HEAVY BLOWS

New-Chwang Hears that Russians Scored a Signal Success on Land Against Kouroki's Forces.

New Chwang, May 20.—It is reported here from reliable sources that the Japanese army from the Yalu has received a heavy blow and has been driven back to Feng Wang Cheng.

THREW AWAY THEIR ARMS.

Tokio, May 20.—A despatch to the Asahi, from Kin Chau, reports the occupation of that city by the Japanese troops on Monday. The Russians fled to Ta-Hi-Kiao throwing their arms away as they fled. The Russians received reinforcements from New Chwang and the Japanese were forced to retire from Kaiyang.

Russian prisoners attribute the defeat of the Russian army on the Yalu to disagreements among the members of the Russian staff. It is considered at headquarters that the occupation of Koali Chwang by the Japanese commands Kin Chau, which is only a mile and a half to the southwest.

The reports of preliminary operations published yesterday, it is believed, point to an important action soon.

A conference between the Cabinet and leading capitalists yesterday, though held in private, is understood to have upheld the government in the terms of the recent loan, notwithstanding the opposition at first manifested in some financial circles.

THE JAPANESE LINE.

Tokio May 20—It is unofficially reported that small skirmishes are taking place south of Kin Chau. On the Liao Tung peninsula the Japanese line extends from Chin Chaton to Chule Shan, across a ridge of hills, a mile pletely dominating that town, which and a half north of Kin Chau, comcan be taken in half a day when the Japanese are ready to do so. Kin Chau is seven or eight thousand metres north of the narrowest part of the peninsula, and 40 miles north of Port Arthur. The Japanese line therefore is less than 45 miles from Port Arthur.

2,000 RUSSIAN CASUALTIES.

London, Friday, May 20—The Standard's correspondent at Tien Tsin cables that while the Japanese fleet was covering the landing of troops near Kin Chau on Monday a sharp engagement occurred at Hsin Yang Cheng. Two thousand Russians were killed or wounded. The Russians retreated and the Japanese occupied both Kaiping and Kin Chai.

The Chinese governor at Chen Chow has received news, the correspondent adds that the Russians have destroyed the railway between Tsarbi Chiao and New Chwang.

TEMPORARY WITHDRAWAL.

Mukden, May 20—The momentary relaxation of the Japanese advance, especially from the south, as officially reported, indicates their temporary withdrawal from the position won during the fighting which apparently ended May 17.

New Chwang, May 20.—A courier, who arrived here shortly before midnight reports that the Japanese fleet was sighted from Tower Hill, 10 miles north of Kai Chau, on Monday. The bombardment of the coast was extensive, covering a distance of 25 miles. Only Japanese marines, it was reported, were landed. This, however, is not confirmable.

The Japanese forts marched several miles inland, destroyed four miles of railroad and other property, captured a Russian commissionary train and returned with a number of carts, animals and native drivers. The Japanese then re-embarked and left the vicinity of their landing place. The transports shortly afterwards could not be seen from Tower Hill, but their course was southward. It is believed now that the landing was a feint to cover movements elsewhere.

A regiment of Russian infantry returned here yesterday afternoon. It was reported at 10 o'clock last night that the batteries of artillery will reach here to-day. The Russians seem to be bewildered and disheartened and unable to form lasting plans. Officers who left here, though their personal baggage remained at New Chwang, after bidding touching farewells to friends in New Chwang returned a few hours later and began directing the work of building entrenchments a mile south of here. But this last was abandoned in a few hours. It is believed here that the Russian authorities at Mukden are responsible for this vacillation.

In addition to the reconnoissance of military activity, the sailors are refitting the Russian gunboat Sivouch, which had been dismantled and loaded with wood and set on fire to destroy her, as well as two small river boats in the inner dock. The Russian statements in regard to the situation are absolutely unreliable. Many Japanese spies are here or in this neighborhood. One spy has been executed. It is believed he was an officer in the Japanese army.

Tokio, May 21.—Reports from Manchuria indicate that the Japanese line of battle south and southeast of Liao Yang has been brought almost to a standstill by heavy rain and swampy roads. It is feared that the converging movement on the Russian position has been checked sufficiently to permit Kuropatkin to get off with his ammunition and supplies, provided he has decided to fly.

General Kuroki's vanguard operating toward the enemy's rear at Muksden, cannot press forward while lacking the assurance of the timely cooperation on the part of the rest of the Japanese troops whose deployment swings around New Chwang.

Should the difficulties of the general advance prove less than they appear, it is still hoped the Islanders may seize a large part of Kuropatkin's stores and possibly even envelop the Russians. It is believed Kuropatkin will certainly be cut off to the north should he elect to stand.

The Japanese say that the Russians are still possessed with the idea of their own superiority, notwithstanding the history of the campaign. There is a tendency here, however, to believe the reports that have been arriving for a week to the effect that Kuropatkin is preparing to retreat.

Statements from St. Petersburg that a large Russian army is advancing from Vladivostok towards this capital is denied. It is thought that consolidation is the governing principle of the governing principle of Kuropatkin's strategy for the present.

Che Foo, May 21,—While cruising off Dalny this morning a despatch boat, with a Montreal Star correspondent on board, was stopped and examined by the Japanese cruiser Kahali. The Japanese officers informed us that two Russian destroyers had escaped from Port Arthur and were still at large. They stated that the Russians were using Chinese junks to place mines. They also informed us that they had sunk a tug and several junks that were discovered placing mines. In consequence of this pernicious mining, the Japanese fleet is moving a great distance off the coast, and all other navigation in these waters is suspended. There are indications that the Japanese destroyers have laid many mines outside of Port Arthur, hoping to catch the Russian destroyers on their attempt to return to Port Arthur. Many of these mines have been improperly anchored and are adrift. They are reported to be all over the gulf.

St. Petersburg, May 21.—Much interest is displayed in the case of the two engineers and steward of the British steamer Cameron, from Cardiff, who were arrested at Cronstadt, on suspicion that they were Japanese. Nothing is certainly known about the case, but it is stated that the prisoners were the only members of the steamer's crew who did not have papers. The captain engaged them at Cardiff and does not know their identity. Nevertheless, it is alleged that they had special accommodation on board the steamer.

London, May 21—The Odessa correspondent of the Central News, wires that the whole Russian Black Sea fleet has been ordered to be held on a complete war footing from August 1. Meanwhile the fleet is divided into two squadrons, which are executing a series of practical evolutions in Crimean waters. It is reported that an arrangement has been made whereby Turkey will allow the fleet to pass through the Dardanelles for service in the far east.

London, May 21.—A Chinese official on the Imperial Railway said to a Times representative:

"Concerning the war, the naval engagements have, as you have seen in the papers, already taken place, and the command of the sea is now with the Japanese much to the gratification of our Chinese. In this instance Japan is conducting a war for the whole civilized nations who have tradal interests in China. On the other hand, Russia's policy aims at closing markets to all except herself and this being the case, our sympathy must be with Japan. Further, the way Russia is conducting war in Manchuria and the treatment she metes out to the Chinese there would hardly entitle her to the name of a Christian power. I cannot myself see that she is a bit further ahead than the wild men of the South Seas, who respect no women and children. It is anticipated, however, that on account of her tremendous corruption she will be defeated by Japan on the field as on the water."—

JAPAN'S GREAT FUTURE PLAN.

Will Ask Nations to Develop Open Door Policy

RUSSIA TO BE IGNORED

All the Nations to Have Access to Manchurian and Corean Trade.

Tokio, May 21.—Plans have been developed for the creation of a net work of international interests in Manchuria under Chinese sovereignty, regulated and defended by Japan. The Mikado's government will invite foreign capitalists and traders to enter the redeemed territory and engage in pursuits of peace on the basis of equality among all the nations concerned. The Japanese authorities are assured of their competence, not only to guarantee the security of such enterprises in Manchuria, but also to convince business men of the effectualness of that guarantee. Japan is eager to establish relationships of reciprocal trust and benefit with the most progressive nations, being persuaded that therein lies the greatest promise of unrestricted and pacific developments of the empire. It especially desires prompt international penetration into Manchuria since the more complex, the economic conditions there the less is the likelihood that Russia will ever be abel to regain an exclusive hold on the country. Foreign observers are daily more astonished at the systematic and comprehensive character of Japan's anti-Russian methods. The government appears to have taken full account of every factor in the far east problem, naval, military, political, moral and financial. Two influential Japanese Musulmans who speak Turkish fluently are organizing an anti-Russian movement from Constantinople. They have established relations with the Albanians and Circassians of the Caucasus, with the object of promoting an insurrection. They are proceeding on the theory that the more difficulties is eased on Russia the quieter will be its political decline, and the sooner will its financial resources for war purposes be exhausted. These agitators profess to hope that a state of affairs will shortly arise that will compel a solution of the Balkan problem that practically ignores Muscovite pretensions.

MORE TROUBLE FOR FRANCE.

Large Number of Documents Stolen from Government

Paris, May 16.—The Matins London correspondent, having obtained nearly a hundred authentic plans of the fortifications at Toulon, besides numerous other compromising documents, that paper this morning begins the publication of the history of a treason affair which seems likely to exceed in importance the offences with which Captain Dreyfus was charged.

On April 21 the correspondent received a letter written in a queer semi-French, semi-Italian jargon, and signed "Fragola, Pietro," telling him that the writer, who was employed at a hotel, had been acting as a guide to two persons who had come to London to sell a large parcel of documents of the highest importance concerning French naval defences. The letter stated that the men had gone to Brussels, leaving the writer penniless. He, therefore, wanted to negotiate for the transfer of certain documents.

A SENSATIONAL REVELATION.

An appointment was made, and Fragola, who was desperately hungry, told the following story: He was formerly, he said, employed at the War Ministry in Rome, but became compromised in a case of espionage and was sentenced to six months' imprisonment. Subsequently he came to London, living from hand to mouth. Recently he has acted as guide and secretary to two men of Italian origin, with one of whom—a naturalised Frenchman—he had formerly been acquainted at the War Ministry in Rome. Both of these men, Fragola said, worked for foreign Governments, and had several times sold important secrets to Germany at high prices. The Italian's name was Cesare Golio and that of the naturalized Frenchman, Jeremie Mesqui. The latter had long been a contractor on public works at Toulon. They had gone to Brussels five days ago, leaving him entirely without means of living. He found after their departure that Golio had left documents behind him, and these he wanted to sell.

PLANS WERE PROVEN GENUINE.

Fragola thereupon produced eighty-five plans of the Toulon forts, some of them the French originals and others accurate copies, made at the Italian War Ministry. He also had in his possession a list of plans of Cherbourg, Brest and Toulon, with typewritten instructions, alleged by Fragola to have emanated from the German staff, concerning the marking of batteries of artillery. There was also a letter appointing a rendezvous at the Thuringer Kof, Berlin, for November 13, signed "X." To this was attached a card inscribed "Felix Friedrich Scholtz."

The Matin's correspondent gave Fragola a few shillings, and persuaded him to leave the documents in his hands in order that an examination of them might be made. The next morning he took them to the French Embassy, where the naval attache declared them to be absolutely genuine.

The Matin will continue its revelations tomorrow.

"ON TO TOKIO."

And Russians are Running in the Opposite Direction

London, May 21—A very mysterious movement is the re-embarkation at Kaui Chau of the Japanese force, which landed there a few days ago and which after driving fifteen hundred Russians out of New Chwang, occupied that town only to evacuate it almost immediately. 6th thousand Russian infantry and two batteries of artillery have re-entered New Chwang, but are prepared to get out again at very short notice. The destination of the Japanese force, which made the flying visit, is unknown. The Russian and Japanese armies near Liao Yang are said to be in close touch, but there is a temporary pause in the operations of both. The movements of both Russians and Japs are no doubt considerably retarded by the heavy rains which are making the roads bad. The military authorities at St. Petersburg continue to find excellent reasons for every Russian withdrawal, and cheerful explanations of every apparent Russian failure. Meanwhile the significant fact is that nearly every Russian movement of any importance is backward, and that while St. Petersburg is crying valorously "On to Tokio," General Kuropatkin is straining every nerve to get his army back to Harbin with as little sacrifice as possible.

New Chwang, May 19.—A correspondent who arrived here shortly before midnight reports that the Japanese fleet was sighted from Tower Hill, ten miles north of Kia Chou, on Monday. The bombardment of the coast was extensive, covering a distance of 25 miles. Only Japanese marines, it was reported, were landed. This, however, is not confirmable.

The Japanese force marched several miles inland, destroyed four miles of railway and other property, captured a Russian commissary train, and returned with a number of carts, animals and native drivers. The Japanese then reembarked and left the vicinity of their landing place. The transports shortly afterwards could not be seen from Tower Hill, but their course was southward. It is believed now that the landing was a feint to cover movements elsewhere.

St. Louis Mo., May 20.—General Nelson A. Miles, who is here attending the good roads convention, today expressed the belief that the Russo-Japanese war would eventually involve other nations.

"I believe that the war will be a long and disastrous one," said General Miles.

Incidentally he criticised the American cavalry by remarking that "50 per cent of our soldiers are mounted, while in other countries the percentage is only 7 to 10 per cent. We should have more infantry and less cavalry."

"In the next great war," said General Miles, "I believe the automobile will to a large extent supplant the horse. There are now 100,000 automobiles in the United States and the number is increasing rapidly. Their speed is becoming phenomenal. Automobiles can be used on bad roads as well as good ones, as is now evidenced everywhere.

—The janitor employed in a neighboring school resigned his position the other day, after having held the job for only a little over a week. "I guess I'm too sensitive," he explained. "Whenever I found anything that he dreen lost I always hung it up on the blackboard where the owner could see it and claim it. The other morning I went into one of the rooms early to clean up, and there on the blackboard was written, 'find the multiplicand.' I looked all over but couldn't find anything. The next morning I went into the same room and on the blackboard was written, 'Find the least common divisor.' Then says I to myself, 'If them things is lost and don't turn up the first thing I know they'll accuse me of swiping them.' So I threw up the job."

MORE FARMERS COMING

Many Scotch Agriculturists are Coming to Canada

London, May 20—Speaking to the Canadian Associated Press, Mr. Duncan, of the London emigration staff, who has just returned from a two months' propaganda in North Scotland and the Orkneys, reports that a large emigration will take place. Mr. Duncan received every assistance from the clergy and school authorities, who, recognizing that with any increase of population there must necessarily be emigration, are united in desiring to direct such emigration to Canada. The inhabitants of Orkney being essentially agriculturists and not fishermen, are especially adapted for Canadian conditions.

Canadian Woodman Refers to Mr. John Crane, of Town

The Canadian Woodman, which is the official organ of the Woodmen of the World, publishes a cut of Mr. John Crane, with the following notice:

"Sovereign J. Crane, who was lately made a member of Sherwood Forest Camp, No. 50, Peterborough, is manager of the Peterborough Branch of the Ontario Bank. Although quite a young man he succeeded to the management of the bank about two years ago, after having enjoyed the confidence of the present general manager, Mr. Charles McGill, for quite a number of years previously. Mr. Crane is well known to the public by his long association with the bank, having been connected with the staff of the local branch for seventeen years, and passed through all the intermediate stages from junior clerk to manager. The new banking offices of the Ontario Bank in Peterborough are not surpassed by any in the province, unless in the matter of size, and the business of this financial institution has trebled during the past 15 years. Sovereign Crane has always taken an active interest in secret societies and has filled positions in all of the branches of the Masonic Order in Peterborough, and is a member of the Board of Education of that growing city. Mr. Crane also takes a great interest in music and some of his pleasantest moments are devoted to the organ and choir of St. Paul's Presbyterian church."

POPE AROUSES INDIGNATION

Paris, May 21.—Government circles are seriously considering whether the pope's protest against President Loubet's visit to Rome should not be promptly followed by the recall of Nisard, the French ambassador to the vatican. The determination of this question probably will depend on Foreign Minister Delcasse's ability to calm the indignation aroused among the various elements in the chamber of deputies against the papal protest.

These elements, headed by the socialists insist on bringing the vulcan controversy to an issue and it is expected that the subject will cause a violent debate in the chamber. M. Delcasse will urge moderation but owing to the bitterness of the feeling aroused the government may be compelled to recall M. Nisard or take other decisive action. The parliamentary leaders are discussing a number of plans, including the abolition of the embassy to the vatican and the denunciation of the concordat.

The commission on the abolition of the concordat went over the subject lengthily today, but did not arrive at a decision. Heretofore M. Delcasse's stand about abolishing the vatican embassy has proved decisive, but owing to the present agitation the government leaders fear his counsels of moderation will not prevail.

A new route for excursionists is to be exploited shortly. The two Guilds of the George street Methodist church propose to run an excursion to Healey's Falls, down the river Trent, in the near future. The party will go by rail to Hastings, thence by steamer City of Peterborough to the Falls.

NEW 'PHONE CO. GET A 10 YEARS' FRANCHISE

And Will Commence Work on Outside Construction at Once--Col. E. B. Edwards Defends the Bell Co's. Interests

At a special meeting of the Town Council last night the Canadian Machine Telephone Co. were given a ten years' franchise for Peterborough, and the company will commence work on the outside construction at once.

The bylaw authorizing this did not go through, however, without opposition on the part of the Bell Telephone Co., who were represented by Mr. E. B. Edwards. Mr. F. D. McKay, the new company's energetic manager, measured swords with the ex-town solicitor in a very able manner. Arguments for both sides were quite interesting, and took up the greater portion of the meeting. The bylaw carried on a vote of ten to one, Ald. Edgcumbe opposing it on the ground that it's passage should be delayed on account of sufficient publicity not having been given to the terms of the franchise.

COMMITTEES REPORT.

Early in the evening Ald. McWilliams submitted the following report:

Gentlemen,—Your Committee of the Whole Council beg leave to report as follows:

1. Your committee considered the application of the Canadian Machine Telephone Company for a franchise of the use of the streets for the construction necessary to operate their system in Peterborough and approved of a draft agreement which will be submitted to you with a bylaw to authorize the execution of it.

2. We recommend that steps be taken to carry out the closing of Wolfe street in accordance with the recommendation of the report of the Board of Works adopted by the Council on March 7th last, and that the required notice be given, the Council to consider the matter at a meeting on June 5th next.

Opposition to the franchise here being invited, Mr. E. B. Edwards addressed the Council briefly. He had been instructed, he said, by the Bell Company to look into this matter and see what was being done. He had been unable to learn from the Town Clerk the terms of the franchise, as he had no papers bearing on it. The Bell Co., being in the field, naturally have an interest in the question. They had for years enjoyed an exclusive franchise, for which they had paid a sum agreed upon, and were agreeable to enter again into a similar agreement. He did not know whether the amount heretofore paid had been considered sufficient by this Council or not. He did not represent the company as opponents to this franchise but practically to learn if it will interfere wit their vested rights. He would suppose that in a matter of this kind, in which the public is largely concerned, a reasonable time should be given for consideration before executing the agreement.

Ald. McWilliams—"The first question is whether we are to give a franchise or not to the new company. The terms of the agreement comes later on. Unless the granting of this franchise is interfering with the Bell Co.'s vested rights, then they or their representatives have no right to be heard. But if they are objecting to another franchise being granted then they have a right to address Council."

His Worship—"I do not see how we can interfere with any of their vested rights, when whatever vested rights they have they hold independently of us."

The report was then adopted as read.

THE BYLAW.

A bylaw granting a franchise to the Canadian Machine Telephone Co. was here submitted.

Mr. E. B. Edwards, at this juncture, suggested that the agreement be read so that it be made public property.

Ald. McWilliams replied that the essential points of the agreement had been published in all the local papers, and he could see no reason why the whole thing should be gone through again.

On motion, however, the agreement was read clause by clause.

Mr. E. B. Edwards here pleaded for a stay of the proceedings. The Bell Co., he said, had for many years given to Peterborough, and to other parts of his Dominion, an efficient telephone service, and are naturally interested very much by what is done by any other company coming here to do business. The Bell Co. pay a rental of $30 per 'phone in Toronto, and $25 in Ottawa, and have been willing to pay $20 here. They have a plant in the city, and have been willing to extend it to meet the requirements of the town. They have been willing to meet the town in every way, and have been willing to pay $20 per 'phone. They have been willing to pay $20 per 'phone. They have been willing to pay $20 per 'phone. They

He wants to hear from men who have thirty-two that they have been unable to cure by ordinary treatment, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, constipation of parts, impotency, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but liberates all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, nervous debility, etc.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him, and if he accepts your case for treatment it is equivalent to a cure, as he does not under any consideration accept incurable cases for treatment; and, remember, if he does accept your case you may pay when you are cured. THE GROWTH OF METHODISM

Our readers do not require to be enlightened as to the standing of the Methodist denomination in Canada. They know that for years it has exhibited unusual virility; that it occupies a commanding position among our ecclesiastical bodies; and that it shows no signs to-day of weariness in good works.

The General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in session at Los Angeles, California, serves to draw the attention of the United States to the growth of Methodism within the limits of the Republic. A sketch of the life of Bishop Merrill, of Chicago, who has asked the Conference to place him on the retired list, serves to throw a brilliant light upon the career of this great denomination. Dr. Merrill is the senior bishop of his church, and has spent fifty-nine years of his seventy-nine years of life in active service as minister, editor and bishop.

As early as 1868 Bishop Merrill had made his mark in the General Conferences. His mental equipoise and mastery of constitutional principles made him editor of the Western Christian Advocate in 1868 and made him Bishop in 1872. He has been from that time the law giver or constitutional interpreter of the Methodist church, and his retirement means much to Methodism.

When Bishop Merrill entered upon his ministry, nearly sixty years ago, the Methodist Episcopal church had 1,171,000 members. It has now 3,000,000. There were then 4,232 preachers in the field; there are nowmearly 18,000. In the thirty-two years of Bishop Merrill's episcopacy the church has doubled its membership and has greatly increased its influence.

Of the eight bishops consecrated in 1872, Harris, Wiley, Peck, Gilbert, Haven and Foster are dead. Bishop Bowman was declared non-effective in 1886. Bishops Merrill and Andrews, born in the same year, remained longest in active service, and this meant, in spite of age, the highest degree of effectiveness.

To go into details, as brought out at the Los Angeles Conference is quite unnecessary. Methodism speaks for itself the continent over. Its leaders are men of great force, masterly in the control of the affairs of the church, true to the principles they espouse, with views on current questions that show them abreast with the times. Moulded by such hands Methodism commands our admiration. May it in Canada parallel in every movement the success that has been achieved by the older body in the United States.

THE PETROPAVLOVSK PAID FOR

The Russian Rearm and Take Possession of Their Abandoned Position

New Chwang, May 19.—A correspondent who arrived here shortly before midnight reports that the Japanese fleet was sighted from Tower Hill, ten miles north of Kiu Chou, on Monday. The bombardment of the coast was extensive, covering a distance of 25 miles. Only Japanese marines, it was reported, were landed. This, however, is not confirmable.

The Japanese force marched several miles inland, destroyed four miles of railway and other property, captured a Russian commissary train, and returned with a number of carts, animals and native drivers. The Japanese then reembarked and left the vicinity of their landing place. The transports shortly afterwards could not be seen from Tower Hill, but their course was southward. It is believed now that the landing was a feint to cover movements elsewhere.

THE PETROPAVLOVSK PAID FOR.

St. Petersburg, May 20.—The Admiralty has no confirmation of the reported destruction of two Japanese battleships. The report of the sinking of two Japanese ships might be well founded, as the official press despatches from Liao Yang report the Japanese fleet as cruising off Port Arthur daily at a distance of eight miles or less in order to throw shells into the fortress.

After the Petropavlovsk was destroyed the Russians attempted the same plan as the Japanese, that of sending out torpedo boats at night to place floating mines where the enemy had appeared a few hours before. Mines were especially planted off the Liau Ti Shan promontory, which was a favorable point from which the Japanese armoreads bombarded Port Arthur.

LITTLE LIGHT ON OPERATIONS.

Mukden, May 19.—Little is known here of the precise nature of the operations east or south of Liao Yang, but early and important events are anticipated in the immediate region of Liao Yang.

The isolated Russian forces northward of Port Arthur are withdrawing on Port Arthur, and it is reported that the Japanese are withdrawing from the vicinity of Kachou, and are advancing to the passes east of Hai Cheng and Liao Yang.

[The Russian official reports of the Japanese movements, given out at St. Petersburg, are practically impossible to understand, because of the Russian translation of the Chinese place names. It is plain, however, that great activity prevails in the First Army, under General Kuroki. It also appears that the Russians believe that a series of small retirements have been made by the Japanese along the roads which lead from Feng Wang Ching towards Liao Yang and Hai Cheng. What that means it is too early to guess. It is too early as yet for the Japanese to close in upon New Chwang from Kai Chau. There also the Russians showing indecision, its latest phase being the reoccupation of New Chwang. The only thing that is clear is that the bad weather is making bad roads and considerable hampering military operations.]

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The Amusement Rule of the Methodists

Los Angeles, Cal., May 20—The committee on the state of the Church of Methodist Episcopal General Conference having in charge the consideration of the proposed change of the rules in regard to dancing, card-playing and theatre-going has decided by a vote of 55 to 43 against recommending any change.

The Episcopacy Committee recommended the election of eight new bishops. The recommendation was adopted.

A CLERGYMAN'S APPEAL.

The Rev. W. F. Brownlee, Ridgetown, Anglican minister, has written the following letter to the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives:—

Dear Sir.—I fell in with a case to-day in my parish, a young woman very ill with consumption and I promised I would write you regarding her entrance into the hospital for consumptives in Muskoka. The case is one of great necessity and charity. The applicant is about 18 years of age. She is practically without a home, staying at present with a relative. She is bright and amiable, and would like to live. As I understand, you reject none on account of poverty. I commend the case to you as one most needy, and if you can send me instructions or papers for application to the hospital, I will see to raising necessary means for her transportation and have her sent at once, as I imagine she is not beyond receiving benefit.

[Note by Editor.—Sir Wm. R. Meredith, Kt., Vice-President of the National Sanitarium Association, or Mr. W. J. Gage, Chairman of the Executive Committee, Toronto, will gladly receive contributions for this and several other equally piteous cases calling for help.]

Escaped with Difficulty

Ogdensburg, N.Y., May 20.—Wetmore's hotel at Castorland, a stable, Brown and Terry's meat market, Fred Marquett's barber shop and the post office adjoining were burned to the ground. The hotel was a large three story frame structure and 25 guests on the second and third floors escaped only by knotting the sheets and bed clothing together and descending from the windows on these improvised ropes. The loss is estimated at thirty thousand dollars.

Paris, May 19.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Echo de Paris has been shown a letter from Lieut.-General Stoessel (now in command of the military forces at Port Arthur), to a relative recounting the loss of the battleship Petropavlovsk in which is the following:

"As the squadron approached the entrance to Port Arthur the battleship Pobedia was struck by a Whitehead torpedo, discharged by a submarine boat. We saw the submarine for a few seconds, and I ordered that fire be directed, but the boat was not hit."

Another letter from General Stoessel says he saw two submarine vessels in the roadstead on April 15.

Will Be a Long and Disastrous War

St. Louis Mo., May 20.—General Nelson A. Miles, who is here attending the good roads convention, today expressed the belief that the Russo-Japanese war would eventually involve other nations.

"I believe that the war will be a long and disastrous one," said General Miles.

Incidentally he criticised the American cavalry by remarking that "50 per cent of our soldiers are mounted, while in other countries the percentage is only 7 to 10 per cent. We should have more infantry and less cavalry."

"In the next great war," said General Miles, "I believe the automobile will to a large extent supplant the horse. There are now 100,000 automobiles in the United States and the number is increasing rapidly. Their speed is becoming phenomenal. Automobiles can be used on bad roads as well as good ones, as is now evidenced everywhere."

Drowns Herself and Baby

Columbus, O., May 20—Having tied her 5-year-old daughter to her left arm and waist, Mrs. M. B. Copeland of 645 East Long street to-day jumped from the north rail of the Rich street bridge over the Scioto river and both were drowned in twelve feet of water. No cause is known for the act. L. K. Harding, Charles Siefman and James Ballinger swam out into the river and tried to save the woman, but became exhausted and had to return to shore. Siegman nearly drowned, but was resuscitated.

Children brought up on Ferrozone are known by their strong rugged frames, their chubby cheeks and healthful appearance. Mothers find it an indispensable tonic and body builder, and in thousands of homes no other remedy is used.

Mrs. E. Montgommery, of Pittsburg, writes; "A little neice came to visit me, and noticing her pale looks and haggard looks, I started her on a course of Ferrozone. The change that girl underwent in a few weeks was marvellous. Her appetite [illegible] and a rosy color came into her cheeks that I never saw there before. I weighed my neice about the time she started to pick up, in seven weeks she gained almost eight pounds, and just looked the picture of health. I think this should be an example to many mothers, and I hope that others will try Ferrozone for their little boys and girls. I am thoroughly convinced that it's the most strengthening tonic. High Class Investment

THE OREGON MINING AND SMELTING COMPANY

Offer to Canadian investors a limited amount of stock of the above company The property owned by the Company consists at the present time of about 500 acres, which are located in the Tarryall District and Park County, Colorado. This whole district has been known for years on account of its rich placer ground, and is now prominently before the public owing to the number of very good properties which have been opened up recently producing, principally, gold, and lately some that are producing Platinum. On the Oregon property there are a number of well known veins of low grade ore that will yield a profit by being treated on the ground of the company. The company have recently opened up a fine vein in the Hawkeye group and this vein shows not only good values but an immense amount of ore which alone would make the property very valuable. Assays from ore taken from various parts of this property range from a few dollars to $373 per ton in gold. We have very little silver, lead or copper in the district. The company have a shaft 240 feet deep, with a good shaft house thoroughly well equipped with all modern machinery to develop same. They are now driving a tunnel which is in about 700 feet and which will cut the Hawkeye vein about 300 feet deeper than where it is opened at present. There is enough ore exposed on the property of this company to keep them busy for a number of years and the reason for selling stock at the present time is to secure funds to build a mill. The company will probably join with the Almaden Company in building this mill. There is water enough to furnish water power and over 100 acres of fine spruce and pine timber. The affairs of the company have always been managed in a business-like economical manner and there are no officers' salaries. The monies received from the sale of stock go direct into the property.

I can heartily recommend this stock as sale, as well as an unusually good investment, because of the immense amount of ore which the company have already opened up. It is not a mere prospect, but the property has been developed by expense of a considerable amount of money and time.

The company is splendidly officered by men of integrity and high standing. The company has not pushed the sale of stock the last year owing to a delay in getting title to the ground from the Government, but now that has been satisfactorily adjusted and work will be pushed to a finish.

The number of exceedingly rich strikes which have been made during the last few weeks in the various camps in the State of Colorado is the best evidence of the prosperity of the mining business. Almost every camp in the state has opened up rich bodies of ore, and Park County is well in the lead in that line.

There are only $25,000 of stock for sale, at $1.00 per share. The company is capitalized at $200,000, and the advantage to the investor of selling the stock at par, is that every share is fully paid up and non-assessable.

PREDICTS YEAR OF TORNADOES

A Great Storm is Predicted to Take Place this Year.

SUN SPOTS ARE THE CAUSE

Southern Scientists are Looking for Unusual Storms During the Summer.

Kansas City, Mo., May 20.—What is the mysterious connection between the condition of the sun and the prevalence of tornadoes? This seems one of the unexplainable phenomena of nature, the recurrence of which puzzle the scientists. Recent tornadoes in Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Texas and other parts of the west and south are monitary of the beginning of the storm season, and on the heels of this comes the announcement that a new sun spot period of unusual activity is also under way.

A prominent official of the United States signal service says that, while it is impossible to accurately forecast the effect of the disturbances on the sun upon American weather, it is likely to be more pronounced than during any like period within a generation.

It is an interesting fact that the tornado is an American specialty and its occurence is rare anywhere else on the globe. Even in this country it operates within certain definite limits. The tornado belt begins near the western edge of the continental plateau and follows the Missouri and the Southern States particularly Alabama, South Carolina and Georgia. Tornadoes never occur on the Alleghanies, and seldom in New York or New England. The greatest centre for these storms seems to be the plains of Kansas and around the junction of the Missouri, Ohio and Mississippi valleys.

[illegible] the southeastern border of an area of low barometric pressure, because only in such a situation is a warm, moist wind likely to force its way under a mass of cold air 1,000 or more feet above the earth. The prevailing winds are from the south and are usually laden with moisture from the Gulf and the Atlantic. This brings into play the tornado making forces. The warm, moist, air, being lighter than the cold air above it, seeks an outlet and when a weak point is found it begins to pour through and spread out like oil on water. To take its place the surrounding air rushes in.

Then for some reason which has never been satisfactorily explained, but which probably arises from the influence of the cyclonic winds themselves sweeping circularly around the centre of the storm, these currents of warm air, rushing toward the point where the rise is taking place, are deflected from their course in such a manner as to draw spirally inward in a direction opposite to the motion of the hands of a watch.

The more air that rushes in toward the centre the greater the velocity of motion at the centre itself. At length the whirl at the centre becomes so swift that a semi-vacuum is formed, trough which the warm air rushes upward as through the tall chimney of a factory. Thus the tornado is born.

The inrush of air sometimes attains a velocity of 200 miles an hour and when it reaches the centre ascends vertically with a suctional force which is sufficient to draw up to a height of hundreds, or thousands of feet the heaviest objects — farm implements, fragments of buildings, limbs of trees, heavy timbers, cattle and human beings.

SPEED OF A TORNADO.

The speed with which a tornado advances varies from twenty to fifty miles an hour. The path of destruction, that is to say, the width of the tornado funnel at the point where it touches the ground, commonly varies from 100 to 300 yards. Thus such a storm may sweep through a town of considerable size, making a narrow pathway within which every building has been destroyed and the trees and shrubbery levelled, while at a short distance aside from the path little destruction may have been wrought. The length of a tornado's path varies from a mile to fifty miles or more.

Persons who live in the tornado belt are well acquainted with the characteristic state and appearance of the atmosphere when a tornado is imminent. The sudden quiet, the oppressive temperature, the hush, the apparent waiting of nature, all these things are phenomena that have often been observed.

Inasmuch as the course of a tornado is almost always towards the east or the northwest, it is possible for the inhabitants of a threatened point who have seen the gathering of the cloud on the horizon to the west of them to know in advance whether they are in danger. The only safe refuge in case the funnel cloud is sweeping down on the point occupied by the spectator is furnished by the tornado or cyclone cellar.

There is a record of three thousand people killed in the United States by these storms since observation began. The last great period was in the late '70's and the early '80's. Some of the storms did millions of dollars' damage. For several years past they have been comparatively infrequent, but this year they have started in a threatening manner, and more may be heard about them, not only during the next few months, but for several years to come.

WHEAT SUPPLY OF THE CANADIAN WEST

Montreal, May 20.—Mr. G. W. Hastings Winnipeg, manager of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company, arrived in the city yesterday for a short stay. He states that the crops in the west are looking exceedingly well, though, of course, it is yet too early to judge of how matters will pan out.

As in the east the season is about two weeks late, but in spite of this everything is looking well, including the blades of wheat. In speaking of the wheat available in the west, Mr. Hastings is of the opinion that the men on the Montreal Board of Trade have been inclined to underestimate the amount. He states that there are still two million bushels in farmer's hands outside of the elevators, and that the old wheat which will be exported during the present season will be a good amount above the usual estimate, which was 2,500,000 bushels.

THE ACREAGE INCREASE.

The acreage increase over last year he estimates at about 10 per cent., which would mean 400,000 acres more of land under cultivation than there was a year ago. Mr. Hastings, as he spoke, had in front of him a very neatly compiled schedule of all the grain storage houses of the Territories and Manitoba. The total capacity of these elevators, great and small, is 40,764,000 bushels. Of these the Canadian Pacific Railway has on its lines a total storage capacity of 32,939,000, and upon the lines of the Canadian Northern 7,824,000 bushels. All this indicating that the storage capacity is keeping pace with the demands. Mr. Hastings states that the immigrants are flooding the west, and that there are now more newly arrived Englishmen there than he has seen in that country since he went out there in 1883.

According to the old preconceived idea, it was thought impossible to raise grain in that stretch of country lying between Winnipeg and Port Arthur. This illusion, Mr. Hastings states, has been dispelled pretty thoroughly and by no less a person than Sir William Van Horn. Sir William it appears, is the owner of 5,000 acres at East Selkirk and here he operates an extensive stock farm. Three years ago he resolved to try the raising of wheat. As a result, Mr. Hastings states that two years ago Sir William Van Horne sent to the elevator at Keewatin two cars of wheat weighing 80,000 pounds each, and this year he shipped into the elevator three cars with a total weight of 240,000 pounds; thus doing away forever with the idea that the section east of Winnipeg was fit only for stock raising. Mr. Hastings predicts that much

OUR PUZZLING LANGUAGE.

The Verb and the Preposition Are Difficulties Insurmountable to the Frenchman.

[illegible] foreigner to learn. The verbs and prepositions are particularly puzzling. A professor in Columbia School of Mines tells of the trouble of a Frenchman with the verb "to break," relates the New York Times.

"I begin to understand your language better," said my French friend, M. de Beauvoir, to me, "but your verbs trouble me still. You mix them up with prepositions.

"I saw your friend, Mrs. Berky, just now," he continues. "She says she intends to break down her school earlier than usual. Am I right there?"

"Break up her school, she must have said."

"Oh, yes, I remember; break up school."

"Why does she do that?" I asked.

"Because her health is broken into."

"Broken down."

"Broken down? Oh, yes! And, indeed, since fever has broken up in her town—"

"Broken out."

"She thinks she will leave it for a few weeks."

"Will she leave her house alone?"

"No; she is afraid it will be broken—broken—how do I say that?"

"Broken into."

"Certainly; it is what I meant to say."

"Is her son to be married soon?"

"No; that engagement is broken—broken—"

"Broken off."

"Yes, broken off."

"Ah, I had not heard that!"

"She is sorry about it. Her son only broke the news down to her last week. Am I right? I am anxious to speak English well."

"He merely broke the news; no preposition this time."

"It is hard to understand. That young man, her son, is a fine young fellow—a breaker, I think."

"A broker, and a fine fellow. Good day!"

So much for the verb "break."

PROHIBITION WILL BE THE SLOGAN

Premier Ross will Go to the Country Next Fall.

CONDITIONS FAVORABLE.

"Close the Bars" will be the Chief Plank in the Platform

Toronto, May 20—The Hamilton Herald thinks it has discovered the cause for the complacency with which the clerical deputation that saw Hon. G. W. Ross about liquor legislation received the non-committal letter in which he gave his reply. The Herald finds the explanation in a statement by Rev. Mr. Brown, of Blenheim, to the effect that the reason he knew there would not be any licenses granted in Blenheim next year is that Premier Ross will go to the country on a prohibition platform. Mr. Brown is credited with the statement that Mr. Ross privately gave the deputation to so understand.

The Herald draws the conclusion that the published letter was therefore not intended for the "politico-clerical" deputation at all, but for the eyes of the general public. The Herald's idea is that Premier Ross was giving his clerical friends a straight tip, while he was trying to put off the public with a letter which might mean anything.

Everything points to an early dissolution. That Mr. Ross will go to the country is conceded, and the closing of the bars will be the slogan.

Smuggler Gold Mining Co.'s Proposition

of which I am the authorized agent

Investments in mining stocks where they can be purchased cheaply whose property contains merit and whose directors are men of unquestionable honor and integrity, and especially when sufficient work has been done to guarantee a producing mine and the leads have been demonstrated to be permanent, offer the greatest opportunity for large returns from modern investments.

The shrewdest capitalists of England and America are giving more attention to mining properties and putting more money into them than at any time in the past history of the world.

The Smuggler Group consists of five full sized claims, to-wit: The Smuggler, Gangon, Black Jack, Star and Bed Rock, located in the Greenhorn District of Eastern Oregon. Surrounding mines are Potosi, Pride of Pendleton, Bonanza and Rockefeller, developing work to the extent of 1,000 feet of tunnelling, drifts and crosscuts have been made, exposing hundreds of tons of high grade ore, averaging from $25 to $45 per ton, based on smelter returns, and for the purpose of equipping the mines a limited number of shares of Treasury Stock will be sold at 25 cents per share, the par value of which is $1.00.

THE GREAT WORK GOING ON IN MUSKOKA.

Surprising Decrease of 25 Per Cent. in the Last Three Years in Deaths from Consumption.

Fifty-five Different Trades and Professions Represented by the Patients Admitted to the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Two Pavilions have had to be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds, and the Number of Patients Reduced from 75 to 50.

$25,000 Wanted this Year to Carry on this Great Work.

With a view of helping to bring to the attention of the public the needs of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have pleasure in publishing the following letter, in which an appeal is made for funds.

Dear Friend,—

It again becomes necessary to make an urgent appeal for funds for the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

A very heavy debt is pressing upon the trustees.

In addition to this, funds must be provided for the maintenance of patients. Last month there was a deficiency of nearly $1,500 over and above receipts from all sources.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives was opened eighteen months ago. 225 patients have been admitted.

No patient has ever been refused admission because of his or her poverty.

1,000 patients have been cared for in the two Muskoka Hospitals, the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The majority of these have either been cured, or so helped that they have been enabled to again become bread-winners for the family.

The public are beginning to find evidence of our work.

Already there has been a decrease of nearly 25 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption in the Province of Ontario.

The last report of the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health shows that in the last three years the deaths from consumption in Ontario have decreased from 3,484 to 2,634, a decrease of 790, or nearly 25 per cent.

This is the more gratifying when we remember that for a number of years previously the same report showed a steadily increasing death-rate prior to 1899.

Who will doubt that the work of our two Hospitals in Muskoka, and the persistent educational campaign carried on, has not helped to secure this surprising result?

In what better way can your gifts bring so good a return?

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 50.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

Very truly yours,

W. J. Gage

Old Hagar's Secret

BY MRS. M. J. HOLMES

Author of "For a Woman's Sake," "Love's Triumph," "Purified by Suffering," "A Grass Widow," "Woman Against Woman," Etc.

worcester, but it came to her at length, when, as the last fire company passed, the blue umbrella was closed and the leghorn bonnet turned in the direction of the hotel. There was no mistaking the broad, good humored face which looked so eagerly up at "George's window," and involuntarily Madam Conway glanced under the bed with the view of fleeing thither for refuge!

"What shall I do?" she cried, as she heard the umbrella on the stairs. "I'll lock her out," she continued; and in an instant the key was in her pocket, while, trembling in every limb, she awaited the result.

Nearer and nearer the footsteps came, there was a knock upon the door, succeeded by a louder one, and then, as both these failed to elicit a response, the handle of the umbrella was vigorously applied But all in vain, and Madam Conway heard the discomfited outrider say. "They told me Theodoshy's grandmarm was here, but I guess she's in the street. I'll come agin bime-by," and Mrs. Douglas senior walked disconsolately down the stairs, while Madam Conway thought it doubtful whether she gained access to the room that day, come as often as she might.

Not long after the gong sounded for dinner, and unlocking the door, Madam Conway was about descending to the dining-room, when the thought burst upon her, "what if she should be at the table? It is just like her."

The very idea was overwhelming, taking from her at once all desire for dinner: and returning to her room, she tried, by looking over the books, and examining the carpet, to forget how hungry and faint she was. Whether she would have succeeded is doubtful, had not an hour or two later brought another knock from the umbrella, and driven all thoughts of eating from her mind. In grim silence she waited until her tormentor was gone and then wondering if it was not time for the train, she consulted her watch. But alas! 'twas only four; the cars did not leave until six, and so another weary hour went by. At the end of that time, however, thinking the depot preferable to being a prisoner there, she resolved to go; and leaving the key with the clerk, she called a carriage and was soon on her way to the cars.

As she approached the depot she observed an immense crowd of people gathered together, among which the red coats of the firemen were conspicuous. A fight was evidently in progress, and as the horses began to grow restive, she begged of the driver to let her alight, saying she could easily walk the remainder of the way. Scarcely, however, was she on terra firma when the yelling crowd made a precipitate rush toward her, and in much alarm she climbed for safety into an empty buggy, whereupon the horse, equally alarmed, began to rear, and without pausing an instant, the terrified lady sprang out on the side opposite to that by which she had entered, catching her dress upon the seat, and tearing half the gathers from the waist.

"Heaven help me!" she cried, picking herself up and beginning to wish she had never troubled herself with Theo's mother-in-law.

To reach the depot was now her great object, and as the two belligerent parties occupied the front, she thought to effect an entrance at the rear. But the door was locked, and as she turned the corner of the building she suddenly found herself in the thickest of the fight. To advance was impossible, to turn back equally so, and while meditating some means of escape she lost her footing and fell across a wheelbarrow which stood upon the platform, crumpling her bonnet and scratching her face upon a nail which protruded from the vehicle. Nearer dead than alive, she made her way at last into the depot, and from thence into the cars, where, sinking into a seat, and drawing her shawl closely around her, the better to conceal the sad condition of her dress, she indulged in meditations not wholly complimentary to firemen in general, and her late comrades in particular.

For half an hour she waited impatiently, but though the cars were filling rapidly, there were no indications of starting; and it was almost seven ere the long and heavily loaded train moved slowly from the depot. About fifteen minutes previous to their departure, as Madam Conway was looking ruefully out upon the multitude, she was horrified at seeing, directly beneath her window, the veritable woman from whom, through the entire day, she had been hiding. Involuntarily she glanced at the vacant seat in front of her, which, as she feared, was soon occupied by Mrs. Douglas and her companion, who, as Madam Conway divined, was "Sam Babbit's wife."

Trembling nervously lest she should be discovered, she drew her veil closely over her face, keeping very quiet, and looking intently from the window into the gathering darkness without. But her fears were groundless, for Mrs. Douglas had no suspicion that the crumpled bonnet and sorry figure sitting so disconsolately in the corner was the same which but the day before had honored her with a call. She was in high spirits, having had, as she informed her neighbor, "a tip-top time." On one point, however, she was disappointed. "She meant as much as could be to have seen Theodoshy, but she wan't to hum. Her grandmarm was in town," said she, but if she was in the room she must have been asleep, or dreadful deaf, for I pounded with all my might. I'm sorry, for I'd like to scrape acquaintance with her, bein' we're connected."

An audible groan came from beneath the thick brown veil, whereupon both ladies turned their heads. But the indignant woman made no sign, and in a whisper loud enough for Madam Conway to hear, Mrs. Douglas said, "Some Irish critter in liquor, I presume. Look at her jammed beamed."

This remark drew from Mrs. Babbit a very close inspection of the veiled figure, who, smothering her wrath, felt greatly relieved when the train started and prevented her from hearing anything more. At the next station, however, Mrs Douglas showed her companion a crochet collar, which she had purchased for two shillings, and which, she said, "was almost exactly like the one worn by the woman who stopped at her house the day before."

Leaning forward, Madam Conway glanced contemptuously at the coarse knit thing, which bore about the same resemblance to her own handsome collar as cambric does to satin.

"Vulgar, ignorant creature!" she muttered, while Mrs. Babbit, after duly praising the collar, proceeded to make some inquiries concerning the strange lady who had shared Mrs. Douglas' hospitality.

"I've no idee who she was," said Mrs. Douglas; "but I think it's pugty likely she was some crazy critter they was takin' to the hospital."

Another groan from beneath the brown veil, and turning around, the kind-hearted Mrs. Douglas asked if she was sick, adding in an aside, as there came no answer, "Been fightin', I'll warrant!"

Fortunately for Madam Conway the cars moved on, and when they stopped again, to her great relief, the owner of the blue umbrella, together with "Sam Babbit's wife," alighted, and amid the crowd assembled on the platform she recognized Betsey Jane, who had come down to meet her mother. The remainder of the way seemed tedious enough, for the train moved but slowly, and it was near ten o'clock ere they reached the Hillsdale station, where, to her great delight, Madam Conway found Margaret awaiting her, together with Arthur Carrollton. The moment she saw the former, who came eagerly forward to meet her, the weary, worn-out woman burst into tears; but at the sight of Mr. Carrollton she forced them back, saying in reply to Maggie's inquiries that Theo was not at home, that she had spent a dreadful day, and been knocked down in a fight at the depot, in proof of which she pointed to her torn dress, her crumpled bonnet, and scratched face. Maggie laughed aloud in spite of herself, and though Mr. Carrollton's eyes were several times turned reprovingly upon her, she continued to laugh at intervals at the sorry, forlorn appearance presented by her grandmother, who for several days was confined to her bed from the combined effects of fasting, fright, firemen's muster, and her late encounter with Mrs. Douglas, Senior!

HEALTH AND BEAUTY HINTS

Suggestions Concerning Treatment of the Skin and Proper Footwear.

If there are brown spots on the hands make a paste of lemon juice and powdered sulphur and apply it whenever possible, allowing it to dry in the sun. Let it remain on as long as you can after each application. This paste, says the Chicago Daily News, will take effect more readily if the hands are soaked in warm water some time before it is applied.

Girls should heed the repeated warnings of physicians against the present fashion of wearing low shoes in winter. Medical men trace far more subtle diseases than mere colds and bronchitis directly to the chilling of the extremities. If low shoes are preferred as more comfortable and lighter, by all means protect the ankles with cloth gaiters.

An excellent tooth powder that is inexpensive, pure and efficient may be easily made by any one. Mix two ounces of pulverized borax with four ounces of precipitated chalk; add one ounce each of powdered myrrh and pulverized orris. Sift through fine bolting cloth and it is ready for use. Tooth powder bottles with adjustable covers, such as shop powder is put up in, may be saved and filled with this home-made product.

To be suddenly awakened from sound sleep sends a great rush of blood to the heart, thus overtaxing and straining it. People whose business necessitates their being awakened early have long suspected the practice of being an evil one, and have tried to rid themselves of it. But heretofore they have had no better reason for wishing to continue to lie in bed than that they found it inconvenient or unpleasant to rise early. Evidently they have right on their side. It is an unhygienic practice, this being waked up at unearthly hours in the dusk of the early morning. It is bad for the heart.

An inexpensive and useful accessory to the daily bath may be made by placing a cupful of odd bits of good soap in a large knitted or cheesecloth bag, with a quart of bran, an ounce of powdered orris root and half an ounce of almond meal. This makes the best skin beautifier ever invented, and after using it freely in the bath perceptible improvement in the complexion will be noticed at once. Constant use will make the improvement permanent and there will be also a luxurious feeling of perfect cleanliness as well as a flowerlike odor about the person, the effect of the orris root.

Always rinse your hands in cold water after having had them in water which is more than blood warm. During cold or windy weather it is best always to have some preparation handy, that it may be applied whenever the hands have been wet. Powdered starch is very healing to most skins; it is easily applied, not at all expensive, and does not prevent one from going about one's housework, even the cooking, if the hands are perfectly free from everything. Tie a little in a thin rag, and keep a box near the wash basin. When the hands begin to get sore, rub the starch well in while they are still moist.

A RARE CHANCE

FOR CANADIAN INVESTORS

THOMAS PATTERSON & CO.

BROKERS, PETERBOROUGH

HAVING BEEN APPOINTED CANADIAN FISCAL AGENTS OF THE

CRIPPLE CREEK ENTERPRISE GOLD MINING COMPANY

of Colorado, beg to inform their customers and investors generally that they have secured a block of stock of this Company, which they now offer for sale at 35 cents per share—par value $1.00.

This stock is bound to advance rapidly. All Shareholders are on an equal basis, no preferred stock. This is a proposition in all its details so simple that every shareholder will know at all times the value of his holdings. With the vast quantities of ore now in sight, and the facilities that will be put into operation to mine it, every dollar invested in this way may yield ten, twenty and a hundred fold. As has been chronicled in hundreds of instances in Cripple Creek, where persons have purchased stock in the early stages of a mine, the price at which the stock is offered is such a bargain that it cannot fail to be subscribed for at an early date, therefore investors should act quickly.

The shares are fully paid up and non-assessable (no individual liability). Each and every share represents a distinct and liberal portion of an enterprise which it is fully believed will produce millions of dollars.

The Cripple Creek Company is splendidly officered by men of high repute and with an expert knowledge of mining in all its details The Company was organized to operate in Colorado, and properly incorporated under the laws of that State.

In the incorporation of the Company 500,000 shares of the capital stock were set aside for development purposes, and cannot be used in any other way.

We will be pleased to give full particulars to investors, and would say in conclusion. Buy now! Get in on the ground floor, as the stock will quickly advance.

Property includes two great mining estates—one gold, the other copper—both containing wide, deep, proven veins of high and low grade ore.

Development work has been systematically carried on, with results that more than justify every claim made by the company, and unquestionably proves the destiny of the property to equal that of the greatest successful mining companies of the world.

Above Statement Can be Easily Verified

The following two facts alone will give anyone familiar with mining a rough idea of the great value of the property.

The Copper King Group contains one vein 30 feet wide, 8 feet of which runs from $10 to $100 per ton, and the Company owns 9,000 feet on this vein.

Ore running from $18 to $50 per ton is continually being shipped from the gold property, and 24 samples taken from widely different portions of the vein system averaged $38.25 per ton.

FACILITIES—The Company owns 1,720 acres of placer and timber land, water power of 500 (minimum) horse power. No expensive shaft work necessary. Ore easily treated on Company's property, thus saving freight and smelter charges.

LABOR SITUATION IN WINNIPEG

MR. PUTTEE'S ASSERTIONS ARE FLATLY CONTRADICTED

Winnipeg, May 19.—Without hardly a dissenting opinion, men most intimately associated with the labor situation in Winnipeg refute the assertion credited to Mr. A. W. Puttee, M.P., for Winnipeg, now at Ottawa, to the effect that this city is infested with hundreds of unemployed.

It is generally admitted that the tardy spring has had its effect on labor as well as in other fields in the same way of curbing the immediate burst of commercial energy that comes with the opening of the season. The subjoined interviews indicate, however, that if there be a surplus of men in the city at present, it is only due to the wet conditions throughout the country. The railway construction contracts already entered into, the greatly increased number of building permits issued in the city, and the immense improvements of the C.P.R., its subway, station and hotel buildings, together with a heavy program of work determined on by the city, will all absorb in their consummation every willing man in the city.

No Cause for Apprehension.

Mr. William Whyte, second vice-president of the C.P.R., says: "There may be a surplus of men in the city just at the present, but here is certainly no cause for apprehension. As soon as the branch lines in the West is in full swing, and the country is fully opened up, every man can find employment. As for artisans and mechanics, I believe the company's improvements in the north end should absorb as many as may come into the city."

The Acting Mayor's Statement.

Ald. J. G. Harvey, Acting Mayor, "I daresay there are some few men hanging about in the city just at present, but this is only a passing condition. As is well known, this has been a backward spring. A majority of the railway contractors' outfits have gone up into the North-West for their season's work, on account of wet lands, but these will strike out in a few days, I understand, which will take hundreds of men out of the city. The work on the C.P.R. subway will start any day now, which will also give employment to several hundred men, artisans as well as laborers. As for building mechanics, there have been nearly twice as many permits taken out this spring as for the corresponding period last year, and this work will soon be under way. The effects of the wet weather have here again been felt, as the brick kilns have not been able to turn out their products but brickmakers have told me that they will start very shortly now. There were practically no bricks left over from last year. And remember there are any number of towns in the Province and Territories that will want building artisans this spring, and it would be well under any conditions for some of the incoming members of the crafts to get out into the country, for they are needed there. Looking over all these works that are soon to start, I feel quite satisfied that any willing man will easily secure employment in Winnipeg."

The Employment Agencies.

J. J. Golden, of a permanent employment office says there is plenty of work for any class of men at good pay.

J. H. Sutton, an employment agent, says there may have been a number of unemployed men in Winnipeg a week ago, but there could be none now.

The C.P.R. employment bureau says: "There is no scarcity of work, and from present appearances we shall be begging for men in about ten days."

You may talk about yer Wabash an' yer Mississineway,
You may blow up the Ohio till you paralyze yer jaw;
You may sing about your Brandywine an' gollytustin' Blue;

You may preach about and screech about yer lazy Kankakee,
But there's not a single one of them that's good enuff fur me.
If you want to see a river that's a whoopin' crackerjack,
Jist take a double header fur the old Mus-cat-a-tack.

Rooster in the corn-crib, peacock on the gate,

The box is full of kindlin', an' the bucket's full o' coal;

The backloy's in the corner, the tobacker's in the pipe,
An' they've got my city cousin in the woods a-huntin' snipe.
The cellar's full of apples, an' the fodder's in the rack;
You kin bet it's jolly livin' on the old Mus-cat-a-tack.

Oh, hit's ever day in winter you kin find a rabbit track,
If you'll only go a-huntin' on the old Mus-cat-a-tack.

I kin hear the baby voices at the cabin on the hill;
I kin hear the wheels a-hummin' in the little yaller mill;
I kin see the water drippin' in the holler sugar troff;
I kin hear the gals a-laffin' as they come to "sugar-off."
I kin see my father standin' there, a-leanin' on the hoe;
I kin hear my mother singin' as she used to, long ago.
As soon as I kin git a chance, you'll see me make a track
Fur the water-beech an' willers on the old Mus-cat-a-tack.

THE GREAT WORK GOING ON IN MUSKOKA.

1,000 Patients Treated in the Two Muskoka Hospitals—the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Surprising Decrease of 25 Per Cent. in the Last Three Years in Deaths from Consumption.

Fifty-five Different Trades and Professions Represented by the Patients Admitted to the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Two Pavilions have had to be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds, and the Number of Patients Reduced from 75 to 50.

$25,000 Wanted this Year to Carry on this Great Work.

With a view of helping to bring to the attention of the public the needs of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have pleasure in publishing the following letter, in which an appeal is made for funds.

Dear Friend,—

It again becomes necessary to make an urgent appeal for funds for the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

A very heavy debt is pressing upon the trustees.

In addition to this, funds must be provided for the maintenance of patients. Last month there was a deficiency of nearly $1,500 over and above receipts from all sources.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives was opened eighteen months ago. 226 patients have been admitted.

No patient has ever been refused admission because of his or her poverty.

1,000 patients have been cared for in the two Muskoka Hospitals, the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The majority of these have either been cured, or so helped that they have been enabled to again become bread-winners for the family.

The public are beginning to find evidence of our work.

Already there has been a decrease of nearly 25 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption in the Province of Ontario.

The last report of the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health shows that in the last three years the deaths from consumption in Ontario have decreased from 3,484 to 2,684, a decrease of 790, or nearly 25 per cent.

This is the more gratifying when we remember that for a number of years previously the same report showed a steadily increasing death-rate prior to 1900.

Who will doubt that the work of our two Hospitals in Muskoka, and the persistent educational campaign carried on, has not helped to secure this surprising result?

In what better way can your gifts bring so good a return?

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 50.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

Very truly yours,

W. J. Gage

Consumption Can Be Cured

A Powerful and Effective Destroyer o Disease Germs Discovered Which Cures Consumption.

The ravages of consumption which for years have terrorized the modern world will no longer continue to cut off our population by thousands. Science has at last produced a remedy which not only can be readily applied to the lungs, but also kills every trace of bacilli in the throat, bronchial tubes, and air passages of all the breathing organs.

The name of this marvellous antiseptic about which the doctors are talking so much is Catarrhozone, the ozonated air cure. The vapor is more soothing than the air of pine woods, and its healing properties are without limit.

Through a skilfully devised inhaler the sufferer is enabled to breathe this fragrant medicated vapor into the most minute air cells of the lungs. It is so destructive to microbic life that the tubercular germs are rapidly killed and prevented from ever returning. Congestion and inflammation are relieved, coughing stops, all disagreeable symptoms are quickly cured by Catarrhozone.

So simple is Catarrhozone that anyone can use it. So certain to cure lung and throat troubles that it is prescribed by not less than twenty thousand doctors in United States and Canada. One well known authority who has made a life long study of consumption, has the following to say; "Catarrhozone is certainly a true specific for white plague. I find that its healing vapor readily spreads all through all the breathing organs passing over probably not less than one thousand square feet of mucous surface at a single inhalation. It is a perfect germicide and destroys tubercular germs with wonderful certainty. Catarrhozone is entitled to rank among the great medical discoveries of the age."

No matter how often you have been disappointed with other remedies you must not be discouraged. In Catarrhozone you will find new hope. What it has done before it can do again. Your case is not worse than others it has cured. Therefore if properly used you can also be cured by Catarrhozone. Two months treatment $1.00. At druggists or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., or Kingston, Ont. Refuse any substitute for Catarrhozone—only the genuine can cure.

STOCKHOLDERS MUST PAY

People with Shares in the Peterborough Sugar Company

The Times is in receipt of an enquiry regarding the subscribed stock in the Peterborough Sugar Company, which has, not been paid, as to whether or not payment can now be enforced, the following will be of special interest:

A suit arising out of the bankrupt Petkenham Pork Factory Company at Stouffville was recently decided. When the company went into liquidation the chief creditor entered an action to make the shareholders pay up in full their shares.

The court held that those having common stock must pay up, but those with preferred need not, because the company issued it without proper authority.

The Trying Time

In a young girl's life is reached when Nature leads her uncertain steps across the line which divides girlhood from womanhood. Ignorance and neglect at this critical period are largely responsible for much of the after misery of womanhood. Not only does Nature often need help in the regular establishment of the womanly function, but there is almost always need of some safe, strengthening tonic, to overcome the languor, nervousness and weakness, commonly experienced at this time.

If there is an invalid woman, suffering from female weakness, prolapsus, or falling of womb, or from leucorrhea who has used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription without complete success, Dr. Pierce would like to hear from such person—and it will be to her advantage to write as he offers in perfect good faith, a reward of $500 for any case of the above maladies which he cannot cure.

"I wish to tell you the benefit we have received from using your remedies," writes Mrs. Dora Hall, of Brookfield, Green Co., Wis. "Your Favorite Prescription' my daughter's health began to fail. Everything that could be thought of was done to help her but it was of no use. When she began to complain she was quite small; weighed 97 lbs; picture of good health, could about the age of thirteen, then in six months after she was up down her weight was but 72lbs. She kept failing and I gave up, thinking there was no use, she could die. Friends all said, 'you will lose your daughter.' I said I feel I shall. I must say, dear, that only for your 'Favorite Prescription' my daughter would have been in her grave today. When she had taken one bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery' I was encouraged and we bought another one, making only two bottles in all, and she completely recovered. Since then she is as well as can be."

Doctor Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE PETERBOROUGH SUGAR COMPANY

A NEW PROPOSITION FOR THE SHAREHOLDERS

Mr. John Fowler Makes an Offer for the Property Which Looks Alright

An informal gathering of stockholders of The Peterborough Sugar Co., Ltd., assembled last evening in the Business College, over the Bank of Commerce, to hear and discuss a proposal from Mr. John Fowler, of Toronto. Mr. Fowler was largely instrumental in establishing the Berlin sugar factory, and is thoroughly versed in the beet sugar industry. He is representing well-known capitalists in Toronto and Michigan, who know and have faith in the wealth-producing sugar beet. His proposal was briefly this: If citizens of this community will subscribe conditionally for stock amounting to $50,000, he and his friends will undertake to complete the factory and have it in successful operation in the fall of 1905. The condition referred to stipulates that no cash shall be paid on the stock so subscribed until the buildings are nearing completion and the machinery is on the grounds.

About twenty-five stockholders were present, who spoke enthusiastically of the prospects for a beet sugar factory in the Trent Valley, and subscribed on the spot for an additional $8,000 of stock.

Mr. Fowler stated that a new company would be organized, with a new name, which would purchase the assets of the former company on a fair and reasonable basis, and issue stock at par, to the old subscribers, equal to their former subscriptions. The new name selected will probably be "The Trent Valley Sugar Co. Ltd." The new Board of Directors will consist of nine members, five in Peterborough, two in Toronto and two in Michigan.

Let every citizen who has $100 or more to invest encourage this great undertaking.

HOW TWO BEAUTIFUL WOMEN ESCAPED SPRING CATARRH BY USE OF PE-RU-NA.

Nothing Robs One of Strength Like Spring Catarrh—Spring Fever is Spring Catarrh.

Mrs. Leone Dolehan.

Mrs. Leone Dolehan, in a letter from the Commercial Hotel, Minneapolis, Minn., writes:

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Gentlemen: "For two months my physician experimented with me trying to cure a hard cold which settled in my stomach, causing inflammation and catarrh. I then made up my mind he was simply unable to help me, and reading some of the flattering testimonials as to the value of Peruna in such cases, I thought I would try it.

"It was six weeks before I could eat a meal without unpleasant effects, but I have now been well for six months, and I give all the credit to Peruna."—Mrs. Leone Dolehan

Miss Helen Whitman.

Miss Helen Whitman, 2084 Grand Ave., Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

"There is nothing like Peruna for that tired feeling, which gives you no ambition for work or play. After a prolonged illness, about a year ago I felt unable to regain my health, but four bottles of Peruna made a wonderful change and restored me to perfect health. As long as you keep your blood in a good condition you are all right, and Peruna seems to fill the veins with pure, healthful blood. I thoroughly endorse it."—Miss Helen Whitman.

How to Get Strong Nerves.

First, repair the injury already done to your nerves. The way to do this is to do exactly as did Mr. Hal. P. Denton, Chief Department Publicity and Promotion of National Export Exposition.

He writes: "Toward the latter part of August I found myself in a very much run-down condition. My family physician said I had nervous prostration and recommended a sea voyage. I gradually grew worse. A kind friend whom I had known in Ohio recommended Peruna. Though skeptical, I finally yielded to his advice. After using one bottle I was much improved and with the fifth bottle came complete recovery. I am in perfect health today and owe everything to Peruna."—Hal. P. Denton.

A Spring Tonic.

Almost everybody needs a tonic in the spring. Something to brace the nerves, invigorate the brain, and cleanse the blood. That Peruna will do this is beyond all question. Everyone who has tried it has had the same experience as Mrs. D. W. Timberlake, of Lynchburg, Va., who, in a recent letter, made use of the following words: "I always take a dose of Peruna after business hours, as it is a great thing for the nerves. There is no better spring tonic, and I have used about all of them."—Mrs. D. W. Timberlake.

Catarrh in Spring.

The spring is the best time to treat catarrh. Nature renews herself every spring. The system is rejuvenated by spring weather. This renders medicines more effective. A short course of Peruna, assisted by the balmy air of spring, will cure old, stubborn cases of catarrh that have resisted treatment for years. Everybody should have a copy of Dr. Hartman's latest book on catarrh. Address The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

LARGE RUSSIAN ARMY MARCHING TO RELIEVE PORT ARTHUR GARRISON

The War Situation Becomes More Interesting Day by Day--Japanese to Make Desperate Attempt to Capture the Stronghold --Russians Greatly Encouraged

London, May 23.—The loss of two big warships in one day by Japan is the most serious disaster the Japs have encountered during the war, and may seriously affect the balance of power at Port Arthur, like so many of the Russian losses, both misfortunes were largely accidental. The battleship Hatsuse struck a mine ten knots away from the harbor of Port Arthur, which mine in all probability had drifted away. The cruiser Yoshimo sank through coming into collision with another cruiser, the Kasuga, off Port Arthur in a fog. This weakening of the Japanese fleet has of course greatly encouraged the Russians, and is likely to lead to the despatch of the Baltic fleet to attempt the relief of Port Arthur by sea. Meanwhile it is alleged that an army of 70,000 Russians is marching to Port Arthur. These considerations will naturally induce the Japs to make an early and desperate effort to carry the place by storm.

In Russian naval circles the Japanese catastrophe is a matter for rejoicing, though regrets are expressed that brave men have lost their lives, just as Japan voiced its sorrow to the world when brave men went down with the Petropavlovsk. But this feeling of sympathy is swallowed up in the greater thanksgiving for the blow inflicted on the sea power of the enemy. It is pointed out that the Hatsuse was one of Japan's finest battleships and that the loss of two cannot fail to deeply affect Japan and to influence the course of the campaign.

No surprise is expressed by the admiralty at the Japanese vessels striking Russian mines, the admiralty expecting such a mishap to Vice-Admiral Togo, particularly since the naval commanders at Port Arthur have faithfully duplicated his plan, which resulted in the sinking of the Petropavlovsk.

MINES LAID AT NIGHT.

Wherever off Port Arthur the Japanese squadron appeared during the day, that same night Russian torpedo boats stole out and carefully planted another opportunity for raids.

By the destroyers, but ships of heavier draught cruising in the mine fields would be sure to strike them.

The favorite point selected by the Japanese for bombardments of Port Arthur is Liao Ti Shan promontory and the water there has been thickly sown with Russian mines. Other points besides Liao Ti Shan have also been mined, and it has been dangerous for the Japanese ships to cruise in those waters.

The effect of the disaster undoubtedly will be to cause Togo to be more cautious, for he must save his squadron for the contest for supremacy of the sea with the Baltic fleet when it arrives in the Pacific.

The loss of the Hatsuse, irrespective of other casualties which may have occurred in Togo's fleet, is of the utmost importance, according to the general staff, members of which pointed out that it tends to restore the equilibrium afloat. Despite the number of casualties in the Russian fleet, it has really lost only one battle ship, the Petropavlovsk. It is true that the Retvizan and Czarevitch were torpedoed at the beginning of the war, but both these battle ships were safely towed into Port Arthur.

THINK LUCK HAS CHANGED.

The Russians now say that the fates are against the Japanese. The latest Japanese movements reported to the general staff tend nevertheless, to decidely befog the authorities as to the real intention of the enemy. Why General Kuroki should suddenly stop his advance on Hai Cheng and Liao Yang when General Kuropatkin was known to be preparing to withdraw is a question partially answered by the condition of the roads. Beyond this Kuroki is credited with another reason which Kuropatkin either has not discovered or has not communicated to the authorities here. It is suggested by many that it may have some connection with the landing and whereabouts of the mysterious third army which has become a bugaboo to the military strategists. But whether or not this is true the fact remains that Kuroki's positions are such as will enable him strategically to retain Kuropatkin in the interior and prevent him interfering with the operations connected with the clearing out of southern Manchuria and the operations against Port Arthur.

MUST TAKE PORT ARTHUR.

It is now generally agreed that the mission of the second Japanese army is not merely the investment of Port Arthur but its capture. The Japanese must appreciate, now that fleets has been weakened, that the appearance of the Baltic fleet will make Russia immensely superior afloat unless the Port Arthur squadron is destroyed.

If the Japanese are to be successful in the war they must retain command of the sea, however great the cost.

Whatever may have been the original object of the landing of troops in the southern part of the Liao Tung peninsula, it is believed here that it can now only be the destruction of the squadron at Port Arthur.

Even should the enemy capture the fortress, it was emphatically declared last night, they will never get the Russian warships. Under orders given before Port Arthur was cut off, the crippled squadron was to leave the harbor immediately before the fortress fell and attack the Japanese fleet.

If the enemy retained the superiority which existed before the ships were destroyed, there would have been little chance of a successful sortie. Now the authorities are hopeful that in case the squadron must go out the chances in the conflict will be more even. This will be the case if the repairs to the Retvizan and Czarovitch are finished in time.

The crippling of Togo's fleet will, it is thought, more than ever deter the Japanese commander from dividing his fleet, as he must retain his heavier ships off Port Arthur.

The Bourse Gazette remarks:

"The news of the enemy's losses will cheer Russia and make some amends for the Japanese attack at the outbreak of the war. It is now the enemy's misfortune to experience the deadly effect of submarine mines which have done us so much damage. Great is Russia's God. The war has entered on a new phase, hastening the Russian victory."

The Listo observes:

"There is no intention to celebrate the Japanese losses by a torchlight procession. It is not our custom to make a national rejoicing over an enemy's misfortune. None the less it is impossible to conceal the fact that the nation is greatly impressed by the catastrophe to the Japanese fleet, which goes to show once more how accidents may upset the best laid plans."

The Gazette makes the most caustic comment of any of the Russian papers. It says:

"It is just retribution for the treacherous attack on Port Arthur without declaring war, and the dastardly attack on the Variag and Korietz. The mines laid by our brave sailors have done their work, and all reproach for the Petropavlovsk disaster is wiped out."

STEAMSHIP WRECKED

Disaster in River at St. Lawrence with Loss of Life.

Montreal, May 23.—The SS. Turret Bay, which left Sydney, C.B., coal laden for Montreal, struck on a southwest point of St. Paul's Island a few hours after leaving port, and sank in deep water.

Fourteen of the crew were saved by the lifesaving crew of the island, but thirteen men perished before shore was reached.

It was at 10.30 when the Turret Bay with a cargo of 3,500 tons of coal, left Sydney Montreal bound. A short time later her bow crashed against the rocky coast of St. Paul's Island and she slipped off and sank in several fathoms of water.

The night was inky dark and the fog was the heaviest and the densest known for years on a coast where fogs are of frequent occurrence. In addition there was a heavy sea running and when the crash came it was but the work of a few moments before the Turret Bay, with her crew and valuable cargo was at the mercy of the waves. At 3 o'clock she struck and twenty minutes later she was lying on the rocky bottom with her crew struggling for life.

The life saving crew of the island were soon on the spot after the vessel struck and the work of rescue began. Boats were lowered and the search was commenced. Fourteen of the crew of the ill-fated vessel were found clinging to the wreckage, but five of them died before the shore was reached.

It is thought that the steamer mistook the fog alarm of the island for another steamer's whistle and continued on her course with apparent confidence until the rending crash came.

The heroic work of rescue in the inky blackness of the night with the fog blanket lying on the face of the waters combined with the heavy sea that was running was accomplished only after much difficulty.

The men who had been struggling in the water clinging to spars and planks were all completely exhausted when succor arrived. They were brought to shore speedily and given every care and attention.

EVENS NAVAL CHANCES

Russians Thus Look Upon Japanese Loss of Warships

St. Petersburg, May 23.—The loss of at least two Japanese warships is officially confirmed. A message dated at Port Arthur, received by carrier pigeon at Mookden, was transmitted to the Emperor early yesterday morning saying that two Japanese warships had been lost off that port. The message followed the Emperor to Koursk and no one knew its contents until late last night, when foreign telegrams brought full details of the Japanese loss.

RUSSIA TO AID MACEDONIA

Notwithstanding War Lamsdorff Says Reforms will be Demanded

St. Petersburg, May 23.—The Turkish minister called on Foreign Minister Lamsdorff yesterday and it is understood that he was informed that the views expressed by the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, Count Goluchowski, at Buda Pesth, Monday before the Austrian and Hungarian delegations, were those entertained by Russia. Count Lamsdorff told the Turkish minister in the most positive language that Russia will faithfully carry out her duties in the near east in spite of the herculean effort she is making in the far east, and energetically insist with Austria and the other powers on the complete observance of the Macedonian reforms.

UNCONFIRMED REPORT THAT KAI CHOU HAS FALLEN

Japanese Plans are Puzzling the Russians--Is Bogaytr Blown Up?--Russan Cavalry Routed

Tokio May 23.—Although it has not been officially reported, it is said on good authority that the Japanese forces have captured Kia Chou, driving the Russians back to Tashi Chia in the direction of New Chwang and preventing the advance of the Russian troops at New Chwang in the direction of Kai Chou. The bombardment by the Japanese of the vicinity of Kai Chou recently was probably in preparation for the landing of forces in the northwest corner of the Liao Tung peninsula for the purpose of capturing New Chwang and cooperating with the other armies in the march on Liao Yang.

Probably a small Japanese force has been landed at Kin Chou Bay. Taku Shan, where Japanese forces were landed May 19, is at the mouth of Dayan River west of the Yalu.

ADMIRAL TOGO REPORTS.

London May 23.—A despatch to the Japanese Legation from Tokio says Vice-Admiral Togo has reported today as follows:

"The gunboat squadron and the torpedoboat destroyers and torpedo boat flotillas approached Port Arthur yesterday for the purpose of reconnoitering, which was successfully effected with little damage in spite of a hot cross-fire from the forts. There was no casualties on our side."

RUSSIAN CAVALRY ROUTED.

Tokio May 23.—The Japanese forces which landed at Taku Shan Thursday surrounded and routed a force of Russian cavalry at 7 o'clock on Friday evening in the neighborhood of Wan Chi Tung, seven miles north of Taku Shan. The Russian force, which consisted of about one squadron, lost many men killed or wounded, as well as a captain, who was captured. The Japanese sustained no losses.

"BIG GOOD NEWS" EXPECTED.

Paris, May 23.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Echo de Paris says it is believed that important news has been received concerning Gen. Kuropatkin's plans. An officer of the general staff said: "May 29 will mark the culminating point of the enemy's offensive operations, and big good news may be expected within ten days."

JAPANESE HAVE HALTED.

Mukden, May 23.—The main body of the Japanese forces, estimated at 80,000 men, remains south of the Russian troops who are covering Liao Yang. They have apparently suspended their advance. This inaction causes surprise, and some satisfaction, as every day's postponement of a decisive engagement is considered favorable for the Russians, who are daily increasing their forces, and are enabled by the delay to strengthen their positions. It is supposed that the recent rains hampered the movements of the Japanese artillery and compelled a temporary halt.

The Russians still hold the railway to Tchikiau.

THE RUSSIANS ARE PUZZLED.

Liao Yang, May 23.—The Japanese plan of campaign is puzzling the Russian authorities. The Japanese appear and then vanish. It is impossible to gauge the strength of the troops they have landed as they are scattered and are occupying elevated positions in the mountains.

General Kuropatkin yesterday inspected the newly-arrived troops, all of whom are in excellent condition, especially the Siberian regiments. Typhus is very prevalent in Corea and is increasing daily. Typhoons are also causing immense damage along the coast.

Communication is now open to Tchikiau, midway between Henchau and Kai Ping.

The Russian wounded will not wait for complete recovery before taking to the field. The cry of every one of the wounded soldiers is, "We want to get back to the front to get even with those Japanese."

Chicago, May 23.—A special to the Daily News from Chefoo says:

"At 10.30 this morning a tremendous explosion was heard in the direction of Port Arthur.

"It was impossible to ascertain the cause."

COULD NOT HOLD RAILWAY.

Chefoo, May 23.—Heavy firing was heard in the direction of Port Arthur early this morning. Chinese arriving from Dalny say that the Russians regained control of the railway but lost it again. Port Arthur is well provisioned and prices are only slightly above normal.

LOST MANY OFFICERS.

Tokio May 23.—The loss of life incurred by the sinking of the cruiser Yoshino included Capt. Sayaki Commander Hirowateri, three first lieutenants, five second lieutenants, five midshipmen, a paymaster, surgeon, three engineers, cadets and eight boatswain mates. Of the crew the number of the s lost is unknown.

Those who were down with the battleship Hatsuse when she foundered were Commander Tsutamoto, Commander Viscount Nire, Commander Arimori, five second lieutenants, five sub-engineers, two surgeons, six midshipmen, four cadet engineers and ten non-commissioned officers.

DALNY BOMBARDED.

London, May 23.—The Tokio correspondent of the Morning Post says it is rumored that Admiral Togo rebombarded Dalny on May 17 and destroyed most of the railway and town approaches.

There is nothing new regarding the Japanese landing at Takushan.

On the naval side the feature attracting the most attention are Admiral Witgeft's confirmation of the report that a Japanese battleship apart from the Hatsuse, was damaged by a mine, and his statement that the entrance to Port Arthur is free for the exit of torpedo boats. It is expected that the torpedo flotilla will soon be heard from again. Their menace to the Japanese and the losses sustained by the Japanese fleet are considered to likely cause further energy in the efforts to capture Port Arthur in the hope of annihilating the Russian squadron and preventing Port Arthur from being used as a base by the Baltic fleet.

Tokio, May 23.—Official notice is given that Corea has canceled all treaties with Russia and all concessions made to Russian subjects.

THE NEWS AT WASHINGTON.

Washington, May 23.—The Corean Government, now completely under Japanese domination, has abrogated all her treaties and agreements with Russia including the concessions for the cutting of timber along the Yalu River. This important information came to the State Department yesterday in a despatch from Horace N. Allen, the United States Minister at Seoul.

It is apparent from Corea's action that she has thrown caution to the winds and cast in her lot with Japan. While the annulment of treaties does not mean, necessarily, an abandonment of neutrality, it will be so regarded by Russia, and probably by the civilized world in this instance.

It is expected that some other important step will be taken soon, bringing Corea and Japan into even closer relations than they now bear.

The Yalu timber concession was a frequent cause of friction between Russia and Japan when they were trying to settle their differences. Japan contended that Russian troops were advancing into Corea under the pretence of guarding the timber which Corea had given Russia the right to cut. Considerable ill-feeling was produced over this phase of the controversy.

Berlin, May 23.—A despatch to the Tageblatt from Harbin says that the Japanese have retired from before Hai Cheng.

A despatch from Harbin to the Lokal Anzeiger says that a big battle is expected near Hai Cheng.

How Kouropatkin Repulsed the Japanese?

Fighting Lasted Six Hours, the Japanese Being Disloged from Four Positions

St. Petersburg, May 23. — Admiral Alexieff has telegraphed to Grand Duke Alexis the following, which he received from Rear-Admiral Wigert by mail from Port Arthur Thursday night:

"Three of the enemy's battleships and three cruisers appeared to the eastward Sunday morning. Their movements were watched from Liao Tishin and Golden Hill. After crossing the meridian of Port Arthur the squadron to the eastward appeared to be getting into battle formation. An explosion was observed under the third battleship, a vessel of the two-funnelled Fuji type. The ironclad stopped, heeled to starboard, and sank by the bow, sending up a quantity of steam. Two cruisers immediately approached, and it was observed that they had lowered boats, after which the battleship gradually righted herself and appeared to recover from her injury. At that minute another battleship of the Shikishima type drew near the place where the accident had happened and a mine exploded under her midship section, and then there was a second explosion similar to that which occurred in the case of the Petropavlovsk. In the course of one minute she sank. The third ironclad put to sea, the cruisers remaining on the scene of the disaster. I sent 16 torpedo boats to harass the enemy, and should a favorable opportunity present itself to attack the ships separately. The cruiser Novik went out to the passage to support the torpedo boats if necessary, but the cruisers got up steam and drew towards the shore. Five of the cruisers opened fire with all their heavy guns on our torpedo boats, but the latter returned without loss. The damaged ironclad then disappeared below the horizon with the attendant cruisers escaping from the pursuit of our flotilla. Meantime night had befallen the wind had freshened and there was a rough sea. On the morning of May 15 three torpedo boats approached the scene of the disaster. I sent the Novik against them and they put to sea.

"The ship which blew up in Kerr Bay was evidently a cruiser to judge by her funnels and fighting top on the mizzenmast, which are visible at low water.

"According to reports from the coast three torpedo boats covering the attempted landing in Kerr Bay were damaged by our light artillery."

TOGO'S DETAILED REPORT.

Tokio May 23.—Vice-Admiral Togo's full report of the sinking of the Japanese warship is as follows:

"It is regrettable to have to report a third misfortune. At 5 o'clock Sunday morning I received a wireless message from Rear-Admiral Dewa saying that on that day at 5 o'clock in the morning, while returning from the work of blocking Port Arthur, he encountered a dense fog north of the Liao Tung promontory. The Kasuga collided with the port stern of the Yoshino, which was sunk. Boats from the Kasuga saved ninety of her crew. The dense fog still continues.

"This has been a most unfortunate day for our navy. While the fleet was watching the enemy off Port Arthur the Hatsuse struck one of the enemy's mines and her rudder was damaged. She sent a message for a ship to tow her, which was being sent when another message brought the lamentable report that the Hatsuse had struck another mine and immediately began to sink. The Hatsuse was then ten knots off Liao Te Shan promontory. No enemy was in sight. It must have been a mine or a submarine boat. Three hundred of the officers and crew were saved. The Hatsuse sank in thirty minutes. While sinking, sixteen of the enemy's torpedo craft appeared, and were driven off.

"Our fleet report is somewhat vague on account of the fact that some of the messages were received by Wireless telegraph."

ARRIVED JUST IN TIME.

The report of Rear-Admiral Togo, who should not be confounded with the Vice-Admiral of that name, and who commands the Japanese fleet sent to attack Kai Chau, on the west coast of the Liao Tung peninsula south of New Chwang, says he reached Port Arthur soon after the Japanese battleship Hatsuse was blown up, and assisted in saving her crew and driving back the Russian torpedo boat flotilla, which came out that evening. Rear-Admiral Togo entered Chili Gulf the morning of the 16th reconnoitred the coast near Kai Chau and drove the enemy off a range of hills near Tong Shan. On the 17th after clearing the sea of mines, Rear-Admiral Togo entered Kin Chau Bay from which his gunboats bombarded the railroad bridge, a military train and the enemy's buildings, effecting some damage.

TORPEDO FLEET ACTIVE.

London, May 23.—A despatch to the Daily News from Tien Tsin says that the Russian torpedo boat fleet is active outside of Port Arthur, which is now not blocked. Five Japanese transports bound for Talienwan Bay, have returned to Moji. The shipping companies have warned their captains that Russian contact mines have been distributed as far as the Shan Tung Promontory. Merchants fear that trade with North China will be imperilled by the activity of the Russian torpedo boat fleet.

SOMEONE BLUNDERED.

Tokio May 23.—Among the professions of calmness over the late disasters there are indications of a belief that somebody has blundered or failed in watchfulness. Some of the newspapers add to their earnest comments the hope that the disasters will lead to increased prudence and care. There is acute recognition of the fact that the lost ships cannot be replaced during the war. The public mourning is general. Flags everywhere are half masted, and many of the theatres are closed. It is recalled that the public sympathy when Admiral Makaroff was lost was similarly, if less generally, shown.

TO REINFORCE KUROKI.

Tokio May 23.—A portion of one army commenced landing at Taku Shan, west of the mouth of the Yalu River, yesterday.

Admiral Hosoya, commanding the third squadron, reports that with the third squadron, consisting of the Fuso, Hei Yen, Tsukushi, Sai Yen and other vessels, he protected the landing of troops at a new unnamed place (probably Tagu Shan) yesterday, bombarded the coast and landed a party of blue jackets, who occupied a point of land and raised the Japanese flag at 8 o'clock in the morning. The landing of troops immediately commenced, and was accomplished very quickly.

LOST 300 MEN.

London, May 23.—The Japanese Legation here gave out this morning the following despatch received from Tokio:

"The enemy's forces participating in the fight near Kin Chau, Liao Tung peninsula, May 16th, consisted of the Fifth, Fourteenth and Sixteenth sharpshooters (infantry), with eight quick-firing guns. They left on the field thirty dead officers and men. According to the prisoners the enemy's casualties were over Three hundred.

FIFTY RUSSIANS KILLED.

Tokio, May 23.—The following official statement has just been issued here:

"A section of infantry of the Liao Tung forces went in the direction of Shan Chuan to reconnoitre and met two sections of Russian infantry. The Russians were repulsed in thirty minutes. Our casualties were one officer and four men killed and one officer and eight men wounded. The Russian casualties were one officer and forty to fifty men killed."

"The landing of Japanese troops at Taku Shan began yesterday."

RUSSIANS ARE CALM.

St. Petersburg, May 23.—With greater calm than has been felt since the beginning of the war Russia to-day faces the situation in the far east. The disasters sustained by the Japanese fleet have strengthened the national spirit, and the officials carefully point out that they restore in a measure the prestige lost by the past unvarnished successes of the enemy. Should the persistent reports of the Japanese army having been driven back to Feng Wang Ching prove true then the authorities and people will feel that Russian progress has been vindicated, and that the two belligerents can recommence the war on a more even footing. The first effect of the Russians' successes will, it is believed, be apparent in the behavior of the Chinese whose attitude has been decidedly hostile to the Russians and to bring this charge about it is expected that the Russian agents in China will follow the Japanese plan of fully informing the Celestials of the losses inflicted on the enemy. Although in St. Petersburg there is individual enthusiasm over the Japanese disasters near Port Arthur, there will be no collective demonstration. The wholesale rejoicing will come with the announcement of an achievement of a more thrilling character, which will appeal to the volatile side of the Russian people.

The tone of the comments of the newspapers this morning is sober, while at the same time recognizing the importance of the Russian success, which is well expressed by the Russ, which says:

"Japan's brazen jingoistic hue and

NARGONI SYSTEM IN THE GULF

Contract Signed for the Construction of Seven Stations

CONTROL NORTH PASSAGE

Mr. Fishback Gives Particulars of the Manner in Which the System is to be Extended.

Montreal, May 23.—The Canadian Marconi Company has signed a contract to build seven stations in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and on the Atlantic seaboard.

Such was the announcement made to-day by Mr. G. W. Fishback, who is connected with the American Marconi Company, and who is now in Canada for the purpose of putting through these negotiations.

The first stations to be constructed are four in number and are to be located as follows: Fame Point, Heath Point, Point Armour and Belle Isle. The first is on the Gaspe coast, Heath Point is on Anticosti Island, Point Armour is on the Labrador coast, and the Belle Isle station will be located on Belle Isle Island.

The stations mentioned will control the northern passage being all within easy distance of any vessel taking the route north of Newfoundland either in or out of the gulf. These four stations are to be erected during June, July and August of this year and Mr. Fishback states that it is expected that they will all be complete and in working order by the time mentioned, if not sooner. Much of the material, he says, is already manufactured, but there are houses to erect for the operators, poles for the carrying of the currents, to be placed in position, etc.

The remaining three stations covered in the contract between the government and the Marconi Company are located at Cape Race, Sable Island and one along the Atlantic coast, probably at the Straits of Canso.

As soon as the first four stations are in place and in working order, the construction of the latter three will begin. According to the contract with the government all must be in place and working satisfactorily by June 30th of next year.

In each station will be located two men, one for day and one for night duty, so that there will be a continuous service without a break. By the contract the Marconi Company will erect the stations at their own expense, and after their completion the government will take them over, but at the same time the Marconi Company will control the management, the government allowing a stipulated sum for maintenance. Government messages will be sent free, while commercial business will come under the control of the Marconi Company, the government reserving the right, however, to regulate the tolls. The Marconi Company also binds itself to give all possible aid to vessels in distress.

At the present time, a few of the Allan line steamships are fitted with the Marconi wireless and it is expected that not only will the remainder of this company's large fleet be equipped with the same but that all other lines operating in the St. Lawrence will follow their example.

Sig. Marconi arrived in New York on the Cunard steamship Campania early this week, and sails again on her to-morrow. It was rather expected that he might visit Montreal in the interval, but he found it impossible to do so. On the way out the inventor tested different instruments with the result that the Cunarder kept in touch with Poldhu, Cornwall, England, until the vessel came within striking distance of the Nantucket lightship. It is now arranged that a daily paper will be published on the Cunarders, Marconigrams furnishing the news. Sig. Marconi returns to England by the same vessel.

AMERICANS IN BRITISH MARKETS

ETHICS OF SPECULATION

Archdeacon Madden, of Liverpool Reads Striking Paper--The Dissatisfied Londoners.

London, May 23.—A consular report on trade with Philadelphia issued from the Foreign Office says that in spite of the adverse Canadian tariff, the United States sent engines to the Dominion valued at £29,000, as against the United Kingdom's £4,000. The advantage of freight rates may have made some difference in favor of the United States, but push, advertising and good business methods did more, continues the report. It is possible that when the manufacturers of the United States become as familiar with conditions in the other British colonies as they are with Canada, they may accomplish similar results in them.

Archdeacon Madden, in a paper on "The Ethics of Speculation and Gambling," said that with regard to speculation in the markets of the world, while there was no such thing as legitimate gambling, there was such a thing as lawful speculation. "When, however, speculation turned from healthy trade into the region of flighty and risky enterprise, it became a mere game of chance. Archdeacon Madden declared that he had known of a dozen lads dismissed from Liverpool offices for embezzlement, and in nearly every case the money was taken for betting.

Recently there appeared in the Daily Chronicle a cable stating that twelve disgusted Londoners were returning. It turns out that the dozen has dwindled to two individuals, Saunders and Lee, who both declared to Mr. Preston's representative in Liverpool that the stories cabled in regard to their complaints had been greatly exaggerated.

The Liverpool passenger agents are of the opinion that Herr Ballin's campaign for securing a share of the Scandinavian and British emigrant business will fail to very keen competition for the Atlantic route.

ATHLETIC WORLD

BY OUR SPORTING EDITOR

Saturday afternoon was marked by the initial game in the Kawartha baseball league, when the T.A.S. and Auburn teams met on the Nichol's oval, the former winning a decisive victory by 2—7.

It was ideal baseball weather and quite a large crowd supporters of the respective teams were present. It is quite evident that just as keen interest is being taken in this league as in the city league last season, despite the fact that the "Excelsiors" have taken quite a number of the best players to represent the Peterborough in the Midland League. The ball played yesterday was good up until the seventh innings when Auburn seemed to go bad and allowed the T. A. S. to bring in four runs. It seemed to be an off day for some of the woollen aggregation, especially Earls, at short stop, who made some costly errors by fumbling the ball, that allowed safe hits which would have counted otherwise.

Manager Grady's nerves of ball tossers certainly did surprise the spectators as well as their opponents. Quinlan pitched great ball and received good support. McCorry did the twirling for Auburn and had good control, but received poor support, especially in the infield. The T. A. S. have a good man in Trainer, at first, and Callahan, on third, plays a sure and steady game. Ollies made his first appearance with Auburn on Saturday and played his position well, he took in everything coming his way and made good every opportunity. The feature of the game was the two base hits in the seventh by Callahan and Fitzpatrick, Callahan bringing in two runs on his hit. Up to the seventh each team had two runs with very little choice for a winner but the T. A. S. were playing the steadier game, and struck in to break the tie.

Following were the players:

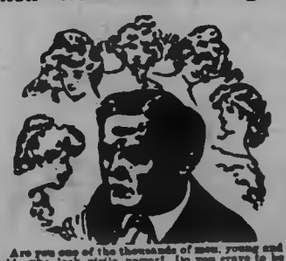
Men Restored to Vigor



Are you one of the thousands of men, young and old, who look virile power? Do you crave to be robust and vigorous, to have perfect manhood? Thousands know they are weak and impotent, but neglect to take the right steps to regain their full vigor and strength. Are you one of these?

Thousands suffer in ignorance of their real condition, believing themselves to be strong and well when they are far from it. Perhaps you are one of them. It is worth your time to ascertain your true condition of health, if you have any reason to doubt or suspect that you are not what you once were.

If you belong to either class mentioned above, do not be discouraged. Do not lose hope. Help is within your reach. You can be cured. Vim, vigor and vitality, health and happiness have been given to men who had been reduced to physical wrecks.

Be Honest With Yourself.

If you have been a victim to the follies and indiscretions of youth, committed excesses in married life, if you doubt your strength, it is your duty—your duty to those you love and who love you—to at once, today, consult an honest, reliable, recognized physician—a specialist who has a record for CURING weak men. Shut do not go astray. Consult no quack. There no patent "Cure All." No two cases are precisely alike. Every individual needs a treatment particularly suited to him. Go where you can get the right treatment for your case.

Cure Yourself at Home.

If there is no successful specialist near you, write at once to Dr. Goldberg, the noted specialist. He is the possessor of 16 diplomas and certificates which he received from medical colleges and state boards of medical examiners and he will send you his method free, to use in the privacy of your own home. It does not interfere with traveling, as it can be taken with convenience anywhere.

If you have stricture, prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotence, etc., or any complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, etc., write the doctor and if he accepts your case for treatment it is equivalent to a cure, as he never accepts an incurable case for treatment, and remember you may

Pay When You Are Cured.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor at once and confidentially lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as his booklet on the subject, containing the 16 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply Dr. B. Goldberg, 259 Woodward Ave., Room Detroit, Mich., and it will all immediate send you free, in a plain, sealed package.

THE BROCK STREET SIDEWALK MUDDLE.

TOWN WILL ATTEMPT TO SATISFY ALL PARTIES CONCERNED.

The Rights of the Toronto Loan and Savings Co. were Ignored—So Says Ald. McWilliams. Street Railway not to Run Until September 1st.

Mr. Edwards—It is quite evident that Mr. McKay has put his case to the council pretty strongly.

Mr. McKay—I stated the other night that we did not wish to be used in order to work something additional out of the Bell Company."

The Mayor—"It is impossible for us to take away any vested rights the Bell Company already enjoy. I am quite prepared to oppose any renewal of a five year franchise, but think that if we could get the service an exclusive franchise ought to give, that would be better than competition. I agree with Mr. McKay regarding the efficiency of the service when the Bell were in competition with the old Ontario Company, and have yet to hear of an opponent to this agreement before the council. We haven't a service now which justifies us in giving an exclusive franchise. There are citizens in this town who cannot get telephone connection." His Worship was much impressed with the Canadian Machine Telephone Company's offer to put their wires under ground. If they can do this so could all companies using wires. This is the beginning of the end so much desired that of doing away with poles on our streets."

Mr. Edwards—"Mr. Doane cannot remember any person being refused telephone connections. The company did make an application for a renewal of their franchise, which was not replied to."

His Worship—"Mr. Nesbitt, a neighbor of mine, applied for a 'phone and was refused unless he supplied the poles. I think that our hands are absolutely free to deal with this matter. If there is any opposition we should be happy to consider it."

Mr. Edwards—"The business men are opposed to it."

His Worship—"I haven't met one yet who has so expressed himself."

His Worship—"The Bell Company never applied for a renewal of their franchise. On the contrary, I suggested from time to time to their local agent here that they make an offer. I was quite prepared to renew an exclusive franchise from year to year, but not for five years."

Ald. Morrison here explained that the committee had invited the Bell people to make an offer for a franchise, and they had asked for an exclusive five years' agreement, they to pay $400 a year pole rent and furnish five 'phones free. The committee would not consider this, and did not think it necessary to reply."

Ald. Edgcumbe said he was not opposed to the new phone company, but was not sure that the public were conversant with the terms of the proposed agreement. He drew attention to an article in The Times to the effect that this agreement was framed behind closed doors. On these grounds he would favor the matter standing over for a time.

It was here pointed out that the Clerk had been instructed to furnish the press with the terms of that agreement for publication, which was done.

The by-law then passed its second and third reading.

The third reading was left over to ascertain whether this would release Mr. Stuart's cheque of $5,000 held by the town, and to get his consent to the by-law.

ORMOND & WALSH'S SUIT

The Mayor and Town Solicitor were authorized to try and effect an agreement with Ormond & Walsh for damages to their premises through an overflow of water from the street, without going to law.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

A by-law to authorize the borrowing of $50 000 to purchase a site and pay for the erection of a new Collegiate Institute passed its third reading.

THE STREET RAILWAY.

A by-law to extend the time for the construction of the street railway till September 1st passed its first and second readings.

NEW HYDRANTS.

Ald. McWilliams submitted the following report.

Gentlemen,—Your committee beg leave to report and recommend that in pursuance of the arrangement made with the Water Commissioners for 25 additional hydrants on existing mains, the council order the hydrants to be placed at the points recommended by the Chief of the Fire Brigade and Town Engineer, as follows:

4 on George street (fourway) at corners of Charlotte, Simcoe, Hunter and Brock.

33 on Aylmer street, at corners of Rink, Wolfe and Sherbrooke.

2 on Stewart street, at corners of Hunter and Murray.

2 on Bethune street, at corners of Dalhousie and Wolfe.

2 on Downie street, at corners of McDonnell and Hunter.

1 on Simcoe street, at Gas Works.

1 on Lake street, at the corner of Bethune.

1 on Perry street, 260 feet east of Aylmer.

1 on Gilmour street, near west boundary.

1 on McDonnell street, between George and Aylmer.

1 on Dennistoun avenue, at the corner of Inverlea.

1 on Elizabeth street, between Lake and Mark.

1 on Stewart street, between Douro and Elizabeth.

1 on Brown street, between Douro and Elizabeth.

1 on King street, on west side of creek.

1 on Rubidge street, at the corner of Kirk street.

1 on Homewood avenue, at Mercer avenue.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

This report was adopted as read.

Ald. Edgcumbe—"I understand that two years ago an agreement was entered into to extend the water mains up Benson avenue to the Dickson Park. I would like to know what is being done in this respect. We were petitioned by a number of ratepayers in that locality for fire protection, and those petitioners have a right to fire protection."

His Worship explained that this matter came up a year ago, and was referred to a joint meeting of the residents interested and the Water Commissioners. At that meeting the commissioners pointed out that they could not extend their mains until contracts were entered into with private consumers sufficient to bring in a revenue of 10 per cent. the cost of such extension. These terms have not yet been complied with, although he believed arrangements to this effect are now being consumated. The matter rests entirely with the citizens interested.

BOARD OF WORKS REPORT.

Ald. Best submitted the following report.

Gentlemen,—Your Board of Works beg leave to report as follows:

1. We recommend that the Board of Health be advised that there is no prospect of a sewer being completed in Ward No. 5 this year.

2. With reference to the application of the Bell Telephone Co. to place three poles on Westcott street, we recommend that they be requested to file a plan and that if it is approved of by the Town Engineer they be permitted to place the poles, subject to the Town Engineer's approval.

3. We recommend that the applications of James Lynch and Y. M. C. A. for permission to place illuminated signs in front of their premises be granted, subject to the approval of the Town Engineer and subject to the condition that they shall be removed at any time the council desires them to be removed.

4. We recommend that the application of Fred W. Bates to have a driveway into his premises repaired, be referred to the Street Commissioner with instructions to repair it if it is proper to do so.

5. We have examined the petition from T. J. Wilson and others, for the construction of a granolithic sidewalk as a local improvement, on the west side of Stewart street, from McDonnell street to Murray street, and found it sufficiently signed, with the exception that proof should be furnished that T. J. Wilson is an owner of property there, and upon this proof being furnished we recommend that the petition be granted.

6. We examined a petition from T. A. Kennedy and others for the construction of a granolithic sidewalk as a local improvement on the north side of Antrim street, from George street to Water street, and from F. J. Jamieson and others, for the construction of a granolithic sidewalk as a local improvement on the east side of Harvey street, from McDonnell street to London street, and found them sufficiently signed and recommend that they be granted.

7. With reference to the application of the Otonabee Power Co. for permission to place twelve poles on the west side of Rubidge street, between Sherbrooke and Rink streets, four poles on Aylmer street, between London and Dublin streets, and one pole on Stewart street, between Simcoe and Hunter streets, we recommend that they be asked to file a plan showing the location of the poles and if the location is approved of by the Town Engineer we recommend that the permission be granted subject to the approval of the Franchise Committee.

8. We have examined the petition of P. B. Doupe and others for the construction of a granolithic sidewalk as a local improvement on the south side of Antrim street, from George street west to the track of the Grand Trunk Railway and found it sufficiently signed and recommend that it be granted, subject to the owners of the property expressing approval of the plans for the sidewalk by signing them.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Ald. Adams here asked if any steps were being taken regarding the outfall sewer for Ashburnham as agreed upon at the time of union.

Ald. Best said the matter had never been referred to his committee, although he did suggest the other night that plans be secured and considered.

It being understood that the matter will be immediately dealt with by the Board, the report was adopted as read.

Ald. McWilliams submitted the following report:

Gentlemen—Your Legal Committee beg leave to report and recommend that the sidewalk on Brock street, between George and Chambers streets which was removed last year, be replaced.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Ald. McWilliams opined that the town is liable for replacing that sidewalk under its agreement with property owners on Brock street.

Good Complexion Rich Soft Skin

Spring Joy to Every Woman's Heart, an Draw Admiration from Every Ma How to Improve Your Appearance.

The true source of beauty is health, so at the first signs of failing health everyone should take proper steps to regain and maintain health.

When beauty begins to fade you can be almost certain that some derangement of the functional activity is secretly undermining strength and vigor. This must be stopped, and can be stopped by Ferrozone, which vivifies all bodily functions so quickly that an improvement in health and looks immediately follows.

Ferrozone increases the appetite and improves digestion. This stimulates nutrition and quickens the formation of rich pure blood. Better blood means stronger nerves. Increased nerve force reduces the wear and tear on the body. Strength develops, spirits rise an all-round improvement follows.

A rebuilding process is started by Ferrozone that results in a plump, well developed figure; the complexion becomes clear and rosy, pale hollow cheeks fill out and sunken eyes take on a new lustre and brightness.

No lady can afford to miss the benefit that invariably follows the use of the grand restorative. Ferrozone is a tonic, a rebuilder and regulator of unqualified merit. To its enduring and lasting results thousands have testified. In a convincing letter from her home in Lansdowne, Mrs. F. G. Butler says;

"For years I had a sallow complexion. I did everything to improve it but didn't succeed till I used Ferrozone. It improved the condition of my blood and in a few weeks brought a rosy flush to my cheek. I took one Ferrozone tablet at meals and gained strength and flesh. I can strongly recommend Ferrozone to every woman who wants clear healthy complexion. Ferrozone did wonders for me."

Ferrozone is the best, quickest and most permanent road to health. You should get it right away. But beware of a substitute and be sure to get Ferrozone when you ask for it. Price 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all druggists or by mail from the Ferrozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

Toronto, Ont., May 21.—Some time ago the Evangelical Union requested the Japanese government to allow Christian ministers to go with the troops to the front in the capacity of chaplains. News has been received that the petition is granted, and that six missionaries and six pastors with be permitted to go with the troops. They will rank as officers.

The Methodist Mission Board met here yesterday and appointed Rev Daniel Norman, B.A., of Orangeville, Ont., as the chaplain representing the mission of that denomination in Japan.

A CLERGYMAN'S APPEAL.

The Rev. W. F. Browne, Ridgetown, Anglican minister, has written the following letter to the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives:—

Dear Sir,—I fell in with a case to-day in my parish, a young woman very ill with consumption and I promised I would write you regarding her entrance into the hospital for consumptives in Muskoka. The case is one of great necessity and charity. The applicant is about 18 years of age. She is practically without a home, staying at present with a relative. She is bright and amiable, and would like to live. As I understand, you reject none on account of poverty. I commend the case to you as one most needy, and if you can send me instructions or papers for application to the hospital, I will see to raising necessary means for her transportation and have her sent at once, as I imagine she is not beyond receiving benefit.

[Note by Editor.—Sir Wm. B. Meredith, Kt., Vice-President of the National Sanitarium Association, or Mr. W. J. Gage, Chairman of the Executive Committee, Toronto, will gladly receive contributions for this and several other equally pitiful cases calling for help.]

High Class Investment

THE OREGON MINING AND SMELTING COMPANY

Offer to Canadian investors a limited amount of stock of the above company The property owned by the Company consists at the present time of about 500 acres, which are located in the Tarryall District and Park County, Colorado. This whole district has been known for years on account of its rich placer ground, and is now prominently before the public owing to the number of very good properties which have been opened up recently producing, principally, gold, and lately some that are producing Platinum. On the Oregon property there are a number of well known veins of low grade ore that will yield a profit by being treated on the ground of the company. The company have recently opened up a fine vein in the Hawkeye group and this vein shows not only good values but an immense amount of ore which alone would make the property very valuable. Assays from ore taken from various parts of this property range from a few dollars to $373 per ton in gold. We have very little silver, lead or copper in the district. The company have a shaft 240 feet deep, with a good shaft house thoroughly well equipped with all modern machinery to develop same. They are now driving a tunnel which is in about 700 feet and which will cut the Hawkeye vein about 300 feet deeper than where it is opened at present. There is enough ore exposed on the property of this company to keep them busy for a number of years and the reason for selling stock at the present time is to secure funds to build a mill. The company will probably join with the Almaden Company in building this mill. There is water enough to furnish water power and over 100 acres of fine spruce and pine timber. The affairs of the company have always been managed in a business-like economical manner and there are no officers' salaries. The monies received from the sale of stock go direct into the property.

I can heartily recommend this stock as safe, as well as an unusually good investment, because of the immense amount of ore which the company have already opened up. It is not a mere prospect, but the property has been developed by expense of a considerable amount of money and time.

The company is splendidly officered by men of integrity and high standing. The company has not pushed the sale of stock the last year owing to a delay in getting title to the ground from the Government, but now that has been satisfactorily adjusted and work will be pushed to a finish.

The number of exceedingly rich strikes which have been made during the last few weeks in the various camps in the State of Colorado is the best evidence of the prosperity of the mining business. Almost every camp in the state has opened up rich bodies of ore, and Park County is well in the lead in that line.

There are only $25,000 of stock for sale, at $1.00 per share. The company is capitalized at $200,000, and the advantage to the investor of selling the stock at par, is that every share is fully paid up and non-assessable.

ARMY FROM YALU MEETS DEFEAT?

Said to Have Been Driven Back to Fen-Wang-Cheng

RECEIVED HEAVY BLOWS

New-Chwang Hears that Russians Scored a Signal Success on Land Against Kouroki's Forces.

New Chwang, May 20.—It is reported here from reliable sources that the Japanese army from the Yalu has received a heavy blow and has been driven back to Feng Wang Cheng.

THREW AWAY THEIR ARMS.

Tokio, May 20.—A despatch to the Asahi, from Kin Chau, reports the occupation of that city by the Japanese troops on Monday. The Russians fled to Ta hikiao throwing their arms away as they fled. The Russians received reinforcements from New Chwang and the Japanese were forced to retire from Kaipang.

Russian prisoners attribute the defeat of the Russian army on the Yalu to disagreements among the members of the Russian staff. It is considered at headquarters that the occupation of Konli Chwang by the Japanese commands Kin Chau, which is only a mile and a half to the southwest.

The reports of preliminary operations published yesterday, it is believed, point to an important action soon.

A conference between the Cabinet and leading capitalists yesterday, though held in private, is understood to have upheld the government in the terms of the recent loan, notwithstanding the opposition at first manifested in some financial circles.

THE JAPANESE LINE.

Tokio May 20—It is unofficially reported that small skirmishes are taking place south of Kin Chau. On the Liao Tung peninsula the Japanese line extends from Chin Chaton to Chule Shan, across a ridge of hills, a mile pletely dominating that town, which and a half north of Kin Chau, can can be taken in half a day when the Japanese are ready to do so. Kin Chau is seven or eight thousand metres north of the narrowest part of the peninsula, and 40 miles north of Port Arthur. The Japanese line therefore is less than 45 miles from Port Arthur.

2,000 RUSSIAN CASUALTIES.

London, Friday, May 20—The Standard's correspondent at Tien Tsin cables that while the Japanese fleet was covering the landing of troops near Kin Chau on Monday a sharp engagement occurred at Hsin Yang Cheng. Two thousand Russians were killed or wounded. The Russians retreated and the Japanese occupied both Kaiping and Kin Chai.

The Chinese governor at Chen Chow has received news, the correspondent adds that the Russians have destroyed the railway between Taschi Chiao and New Chwang.

TEMPORARY WITHDRAWAL.

Mukden, May 20—The momentary retirement of the Japanese advance, especially from the south, as officially reported, indicates their temporary withdrawal from the position won during the fighting which apparently ended May 17.

New Chwang, May 20.—A correspondent who arrived here shortly before midnight reports that the Japanese fleet was sighted from Tower Hill, 20 miles north of Kin Chau, on Monday. The bombardment of the coast was extensive, covering a distance of 20 miles only Japanese marines. It was reported, was landed. This, however, is not confirmable.

The Japanese force marched several miles inland, destroyed four miles of railroad and other property, captured a Russian commissary train and returned with a number of carts, animals and native drivers. The Japanese then re-embarked and left the vicinity of their landing place. The transports shortly afterwards could not be seen from Tower Hill, but their course was southward. It is believed now that the landing was a feint to cover movements elsewhere.

A regiment of Russian infantry returned here yesterday afternoon. It was reported at 10 o'clock last night that the batteries of artillery will reach here to-day. The Russians seem to be bewildered and disheartened and unable to form lasting plans. Officers who left here, though their personal baggage remained at New Chwang, after bidding touching farewells to friends in New Chwang returned a few hours later and began directing the work of building entrenchments a mile south of here. But this post was abandoned in a few hours. It is believed here that the Russian authorities at Mukden are responsible for this vacillation.

In addition to the resemblance of military activity, the sailors are refitting the Russian gunboat Sivouch, which had been dismantled and loaded with wood and oil in order to destroy her, as well as two small river boats in the mud dock. The Russian statements in regard to the situation are absolutely unreliable. Many Japanese spies are here or in this neighborhood. One spy has been executed. It is believed he was an officer in the Japanese army.

Tokio, May 21.—Reports from Manchuria indicate that the Japanese line of battle south and southeast of Liao Yang has been brought almost to a standstill by heavy rain and swampy roads. It is feared that the converging movement on the Russian positions has been checked sufficiently to permit Kiropatkin to get off with his ammunition and supplies, provided he has decided to fly.

General Kuroki's vanguard operating toward the enemy's rear at Mukden, cannot press forward while lacking the assurance of the timely cooperation on the part of the rest of the Japanese troops whose deployment swings around New Chwang.

Should the difficulties of the general advance prove less than they appear, it is still hoped the Islanders may seize a large part of Kuropatkin's stores and possibly even envelop the Russians. It is believed Kuropatkin will certainly be cut off to the north should he elect to stand.

The Japanese say that the Russians are still possessed with the idea of their own superiority, notwithstanding the history of the campaign. There is a tendency here, however, to believe the reports that have been arriving for a week to the effect that Kuropatkin is preparing to retreat.

Statements from St. Petersburg that a large Russian army is advancing from Vladivostock towards this capital is denied. It is thought that consolidation is the governing principle of Kuropatkin's strategy for the present.

Che Foo, May 21.—While cruising off Dalny this morning a despatch boat, with a Montreal Star correspondent on board, was stopped and examined by the Japanese cruiser Kahati. The Japanese officers informed us that two Russian destroyers had escaped from Port Arthur and were still at large. They stated that the Russians were using Chinese junks to place mines. They also informed us that they had sunk a tug and several junks that were discovered placing mines. In consequence of this pernicious mining, the Japanese fleet is moving a great distance off the coast, and all other navigation in these waters is suspended. There are indications that the Japanese destroyers have laid many mines outside of Port Arthur, hoping to catch the Russian destroyers on their attempt to return to Port Arthur. Many of these mines have been improperly anchored and are adrift. They are reported to be all over the gulf.

St. Petersburg, May 21.—Much interest is displayed in the case of the two engineers and steward of the British steamer Cameross, from Cardiff who were arrested at Cronstadt, on suspicion that they were Japanese. Nothing is certainly known about the case, but it is stated that the prisoners were the only members of the steamer's crew who did not have papers. The captain engaged them at Cardiff and does not know their identity. Nevertheless, it is alleged that they had special accommodation on board the steamer.

London, May 21—The Odessa correspondent of the Central News, wires that the whole Russian Black Sea fleet has been ordered to be held on a complete war footing from August 1. Meanwhile the fleet is divided into two squadrons, which are executing a series of practical evolutions in Crimean waters. It is reported that an arrangement has been made whereby Turkey will allow the fleet to pass through the Dardanelles for service in the far east.

London, May 21.—A Chinese official on the Imperial Railway said to a Times representative:

"Concerning the war, the naval engagements have, as you have seen in the papers, already taken place, and the command of the sea is now with the Japanese much to the gratification of our Chinese. In this instance Japan is conducting a war for the whole civilized nations who have trade interests in China. On the other hand, Russia's policy aims at closing markets to all except herself and this being the case our sympathy must be with Japan. Further, the way Russia is conducting war in Manchuria and the treatment she metes out to the Chinese there would hardly entitle her to the name of a Christian power. I cannot myself see that she is a bit further ahead than the wild men of the South Seas, who respect no women and children. It is anticipated, however, that on account of her tremendous corruption she will be defeated by Japan on the field as on the water."—

JAPAN'S GREAT FUTURE PLAN.

Will Ask Nations to Develop Open Door Policy

RUSSIA TO BE IGNORED

All the Nations to Have Access to Manchurian and Corean Trade.

Tokio, May 21.—Plans have been developed for the creation of a new era of international interests in Manchuria under Chinese sovereignty, regulated and defended by Japan. The Mikado's government will invite foreign capitalists and traders to enter the redeemed territory and engage in pursuits of peace on the basis of equality among all the nations concerned. The Japanese authorities are assured of their competence, not only to guarantee the security of such enterprises in Manchuria, but also to convince business men of the effectiveness of that guarantee. Japan is eager to establish relationships of reciprocal trust and benefit with the most progressive nations, being persuaded that therein lies the greatest promise of unrestricted and pacific developments of the empire. It especially desires prompt international penetration into Manchuria since the more complex, the economic conditions there the less is the likelihood that Russia will ever be able to regain an exclusive hold on the country. Foreign observers are daily more astonished at the systematic and comprehensive character of Japan's anti-Russian methods. The government appears to have taken full account of every factor in the far east problem, naval, military, political, moral and financial. Two influential Japanese Musulmans who speak Turkish fluently are organising an anti-Russian movement from Constantinople. They have established relations with the Albanians and Circassians of the Caucasus, with the object of promoting an insurrection. They are proceeding on the theory that the more difficulties h eaged on Russia the quicker will be its political decline, and the sooner will its financial resources for war purposes be exhausted. These agitators profess to hope that a state of affairs will shortly arise that will compel a solution of the Balkan problem that practically ignores Muscovite pretensions.

MORE FARMERS COMING

Many Scotch Agriculturists are Coming to Canada

London, May 20—Speaking to the Canadian Associated Press, Mr. Duncan, of the London emigration staff, who has just returned from a two months' propaganda in North Scotland and the Orkneys, reports that a large emigration will take place. Mr. Duncan received every assistance from the clergy and school authorities, who recognizing that with any increase of population there must necessarily be emigrations, are united in desiring to direct such emigration to Canada. The inhabitants of Orkney being essentially agriculturists and not fishermen, are especially adapted for Canadian conditions.

TO CANADIAN INVESTORS

I desire to call the attention of investors to the

Smuggler Gold Mining Co.'s Proposition

of which I am the authorized agent

Investments in mining stocks where they can be purchased cheaply whose property contains merit and whose directors are men of unquestionable honor and integrity, and especially when sufficient work has been done to guarantee a producing mine and the leads have been demonstrated to be permanent, offer the greatest opportunity for large returns from modest investments.

The shrewdest capitalists of England and America are giving more attention to mining properties and putting more money into them than at any time in the past history of the world.

The Smuggler Group consists of five full sized claims, to-wit:—The Smuggler, Gampon, Black Jack, Star and Bed Rock, located in the Greenhorn District of Eastern Oregon. Surrounding mines are Potosi, Pride of Pendleton, Bonanza and Rockefeller, developing work to the extent of 1,000 feet of tunnelling, drifts and crosscuts have been made, exposing hundreds of tons of high grade ore, averaging from $25 to $45 per ton, based on smelter returns, and for the purpose of equipping the mines a limited number of shares of Treasury Stock will be sold at 25 cents per share, the par value of which is $1.00.

THE GREAT WORK GOING ON IN MUSKOKA.

1,000 Patients Treated in the Two Muskoka Hospitals — the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Surprising Decrease of 25 Per Cent. in the Last Three Years in Deaths from Consumption.

Fifty-five Different Trades and Professions Represented by the Patients Admitted to the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Two Pavilions have had to be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds, and the Number of Patients Reduced from 75 to 50.

$25,000 Wanted this Year to Carry on this Great Work.

With a view of helping to bring to the attention of the public the needs of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have pleasure in publishing the following letter, in which an appeal is made for funds.

Dear Friend,—

It again becomes necessary to make an urgent appeal for funds for the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

A very heavy debt is pressing upon the trustees.

In addition to this, funds must be provided for the maintenance of patients. Last month there was a deficiency of nearly $1,500 over and above receipts from all sources.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives was opened eighteen months ago. 236 patients have been admitted.

No patient has ever been refused admission because of his or her poverty.

1,000 patients have been cared for in the two Muskoka Hospitals, the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The majority of these have either been cured, or so helped that they have been enabled to again become bread-winners for the family.

The public are beginning to find evidence of our work.

Already there has been a decrease of nearly 25 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption in the Province of Ontario.

The last report of the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health shows that in the last three years the deaths from consumption in Ontario have decreased from 3,484 to 2,694, a decrease of 790, or nearly 25 per cent.

This is the more gratifying when we remember that for a number of years previously the same report showed a steadily increasing death-rate prior to 1899.

Who will doubt that the work of our two Hospitals in Muskoka, and the persistent educational campaign carried on, has not helped to secure this surprising result?

In what better way can your gifts bring so good a return?

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 50.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

Very truly yours,

W. J. Gage

CHAPTER XV.

Mr. Carrollton had returned from Boston on Thursday afternoon, and finding them all gone from the hotel, had come on to Hillsdale in the evening train, surprising Maggie as she sat in the parlor alone, wishing herself in Worcester, or in some place where it was not as lonely as there. With his presence the loneliness disappeared, and in making his tea and listening to his agreeable conversation, she forgot everything until, observing that she looked weary, he said, "Maggie, I would willingly talk to you all night, were it not for the bad effect it would have on you to-morrow. You must go to bed now," and he showed her his watch, which pointed to the hour of midnight.

Exceedingly mortified, Maggie was leaving the room, when, noticing her evident chagrin, Mr. Carrollton came to her side and laying his hand very respectfully on hers, said kindly, "It is my fault, Maggie, keeping you up so late, and I only send you away now, because those eyes are growing heavy, and I know that you need rest. Good-night to you, and pleasant dreams."

He went with her to the door, watching her until she disappeared up the stairs, then half wishing he had not sent her from him, he, too, sought his chamber, but not to sleep, for Maggie, though absent, was with him still in fancy. For more than a year he had been haunted with a bright, sunshiny face, whose owner embodied the dashing, independent spirit, and softer qualities which made Maggie Miller so attractive. Of this face he had often thought, wondering if the real would equal the ideal, and now that he had met with her, had looked into her truthful eyes, had gazed upon her sunny face, which mirrored faithfully her every thought and feeling, he was more than satisfied, and to love that beautiful girl seemed to him an easy matter. She was so childlike, whom he had ever known, that he was interested in her at once. But Arthur Carrollton never did a thing precipitately. She might have many glaring faults, he must see her more, must know her better, ere he lavished upon her the love whose deep fountains had never yet been stirred.

After this manner he reasoned as he walked up and down his chamber, while Maggie, on her sleepless pillow, was thinking, too, of him, wondering if she did hate him as much as she intended, and if Henry would be offended at her sitting up with him until after twelve o'clock.

It was nearly half-past nine when Maggie awoke next morning, and making a hasty toilet, she descended to the dining-room, where she found Mr. Carrollton awaiting her. He had been up a long time; but when Anna Jeffrey, blessed with an uncommon appetite, fretted at the delay of breakfast, and suggested calling Margaret, he objected, saying she needed rest, and must not be disturbed. So, in something of a pet, the young lady breakfasted alone with her aunt, Mr. Carrollton preferring to wait for Maggie.

"I am sorry I kept you waiting," said Maggie, seating herself at the table, and continuing to apologize for her tardiness.

But Mr. Carrollton felt more than repaid by having her thus alone with him, and many were the admiring glances he cast toward her, as with her shining hair, her happy face, her tasteful morning gown of pink, and her beautiful white hands which handled so gracefully the silver coffee-urn, she made a living, glowing picture, such as any man might delight to look upon. Breakfast being over, Mr. Carrollton proposed a ride, and as Anna Jeffrey at that moment entered the parlor, he invited her to accompany them. There was a shadow on Maggie's brow, as she left the room to dress, a shadow which had not wholly disappeared when she returned; and observing this, Mr. Carrollton said, "Were I to consult my own wishes, Maggie, I should leave Miss Jeffrey at home; but she is a poor girl whose enjoyments are far less than ours, consequently I invited her for this once, knowing how fond she is of riding."

"How thoughtful you are of other people's happiness!" said Maggie, the shadow leaving her brow at once.

"I am glad that wrinkle has gone, at all events," returned Mr. Carrollton, laughingly, and laying his hand upon her forehead, he continued: "Were you my sister, Helen, I should probably kiss you for having so soon got over your pet; but as you are Maggie Miller, I dare not," and he looked earnestly at her, to see if he had spoken the truth.

Coloring crimson as it became the affianced bride of Henry Warner to do, Maggie turned away, thinking Helen must be a happy girl, and half wishing she, too, were Arthur Carrollton's sister. It was a long, delightful excursion they took, and Maggie, when she saw how Anna Jeffrey enjoyed it, did not altogether regret her presence. On their way home she proposed calling upon Hagar, "whom she had not seen for three whole days."

"And who, pray, is Hagar?" asked Mr. Carrollton; and Maggie replied, "She is my old nurse—a strange, crazy creature, whom they say I somewhat resemble."

By this time they were near the cottage, in the door of which old Hagar was standing, with her white hair falling round her face.

"I see by your looks, you don't care to call, but I shall," said Maggie, and bounding from her saddle, she ran up to Hagar, pressing her hand and whispering in her ear, that it would soon be time to hear from Henry.

"Kissed her, I do believe!" said Anna Jeffrey. "She must have admirable taste!"

Mr. Carrollton thought so, too, and with a half-comical, half-displeased expression, he watched the interview between that weird old woman and fair young girl, little suspecting how nearly they were allied.

"Why didn't you come and speak to her?" said Maggie, as he alighted to assist her in again mounting Gritty. "She used to see you in England, when you were a baby, and if you won't be angry, I'll tell you what she said; it was that you were the crossest, ugliest young one she ever saw! There, there, don't set me down so hard!" and the saucy eyes looked mischievously at the proud Englishman, who, truth to say, did place her in the saddle with a little more force than was at all necessary.

Not that he was angry. He was only annoyed for what he considered Maggie's undue familiarity with a person like Hagar, but he wisely forbore making any comments in Anna Jeffrey's presence, except, indeed, to laugh heartily at Hagar's complimentary description of himself when a baby. Arrived at home, and alone with Maggie, he found her so very good-natured and agreeable, that he could not chide her for anything, and Hagar was for a time forgotten.

That evening, as the reader knows, they went together to the depot, where they waited four long hours, but not impatiently, for sitting there in the moonlight, with the winding Chicopee full in view, and Margaret Miller at his side, Arthur Carrollton forgot the lapse of time, especially when Maggie, thinking no harm, gave a most ludicrous description of her call upon Mrs Douglas, senior, and of her grandmother's distress at finding herself so nearly connected with what she termed "a low, vulgar family."

Arthur Carrollton was very proud, and, had Theo been his sister, he might to some extent, have shared in Madam Conway's chagrin, and so he said to Maggie, at the same time fully agreeing with her that George Douglas was a refined, agreeable gentleman, and as such entitled to respect. Still had Theo known of his parentage, he said, it would perhaps have been better that it should not be known; but it was time to hear the train of it.

These words were little heeded then by Maggie, but with most painful distinctness they recurred to her in the after time, when, humbled in the very dust, she had no hope that the highborn, haughty Carrollton would stoop to a child of Hagar Warren! But no shadow of the dark future was over her now, and very eagerly she drank in every word and look of Arthur Carrollton, who, all unconsciously, was trampling on another's rights, and gradually weakening the fancied love she bore for Henry Warner.

The arrival of the train brought their pleasant conversation to a close, and for a day or two Maggie's time was wholly occupied with

MORE TROUBLE FOR FRANCE.

Large Number of Documents Stolen from Government

Paris, May 16.—The Matin's London correspondent, having obtained nearly a hundred authentic plans of the fortifications at Toulon, besides numerous other compromising documents, that paper this morning begins the publication of the history of a treason affair which seems likely to exceed in importance the offences with which Captain Dreyfus was charged.

On April 21 the correspondent received a letter written in a queer semi-French, semi-Italian jargon, and signed "Fragola, Pietro," telling him that the writer, who was employed at a hotel, had been acting as a guide to two persons who had come to London to sell a large parcel of documents of the highest importance concerning French naval defences. The letter stated that the men had gone to Brussels, leaving the writer penniless. He, therefore, wanted to negotiate for the transfer of certain documents.

A SENSATIONAL REVELATION.

An appointment was made, and Fragola, who was desperately hungry, told the following story: He was formerly, he said, employed at the War Ministry in Rome, but became compromised in a case of espionage and was sentenced to six months' imprisonment. Subsequently he came to London, living from hand to mouth. Recently he has acted as guide and secretary to two men of Italian origin, with one of whom—a naturalized Frenchman—he had formerly been acquainted at the War Ministry in Rome. Both of these men, Fragola said, worked for foreign Governments, and had several times sold important secrets to Germany at high prices. The Italian's name was Cesare Golio and that of the naturalized Frenchman, Jeremie Mesqui. The latter had long been a contractor on public works at Toulon. They had gone to Brussels five days ago, leaving him entirely without means of living. He found after their departure that Golio had left documents behind him, and these he wanted to sell.

PLANS WERE PROVEN GENUINE.

Fragola thereupon produced eighty-five plans of the Toulon forts, some of them the French originals and others accurate copies, made at the Italian War Ministry. He also had in his possession a list of plans of Cherbourg, Brest and Toulon, with typewritten instructions, alleged by Fragola to have emanated from the German staff, concerning the marking of batteries of artillery. There was also a letter appointing a rendezvous at the Thuringer Kof, Berlin, for November 13, signed "X." To this was attached a card inscribed "Felix Friedrich Scholtz."

The Matin's correspondent gave Fragola a few shillings, and persuaded him to leave the documents in his hands in order that an examination of them might be made. The next morning he took them to the French Embassy, where the naval attache declared them to be absolutely genuine.

The Matin will continue its revelations tomorrow.

—The Sons of England will attend service at the Charlotte street Methodist church tomorrow evening.

A RARE CHANCE

FOR CANADIAN INVESTORS

THOMAS PATTERSON & CO.

BROKERS, PETERBOROUGH

HAVING BEEN APPOINTED CANADIAN FISCAL AGENTS OF THE

CRIPPLE CREEK ENTERPRISE GOLD MINING COMPANY

of Colorado, beg to inform their customers and investors generally that they have secured a block of stock of this Company, which they now offer for sale at 35 cents per share—par value $1.00.

This stock is bound to advance rapidly. All Shareholders are on an equal basis, no preferred stock. This is a proposition in all its details so simple that every shareholder will know at all times the value of his holdings. With the vast quantities of ore now in sight, and the facilities that will be put into operation to mine it, every dollar invested in this way may yield ten, twenty and a hundred fold. As has been chronicled in hundreds of instances in Cripple Creek, where persons have purchased stock in the early stages of a mine, the price at which the stock is offered is such a bargain that it cannot fail to be subscribed for at an early date, therefore investors should act quickly.

The shares are fully paid, up and non-assessable (no individual liability). Each and every share represents a distinct and liberal portion of an enterprise which it is fully believed will produce millions of dollars.

The Cripple Creek Company is splendidly officered by men of high repute and with an expert knowledge of mining in all its details. The Company was organized to operate in Colorado, and properly incorporated under the laws of that State.

In the incorporation of the Company 500,000 shares of the capital stock were set aside for development purposes, and cannot be used in any other way.

We will be pleased to give full particulars to investors, and would say in conclusion, Buy now! Get in on the ground floor, as the stock will quickly advance.

MR. FIELDING'S BUDGET

It May Provide for Change in Woollen Duties

Ottawa, May 21.—A special says. "It is stated that when Mr. Fielding brings his budget down, which will likely be the week after next, it will be found to contain among other things a proposal for the readjustment of the woollen duties. At the present time the tariff item on woollens is 35 per cent. ad valorem, which on British goods with the preference of one-third deducted, makes the duties as against British goods 23 1-3 per cent. The government's proposal it is said, is to increase the general tariff to 45 per cent. on woollens, which would make the duty upon British goods with one-third off 30 per cent. In other words, the only additional protection which the Canadian woollen manufacturers would get from a change of this nature would be an increase of 6 2-3 per cent., as against British imports."

BIBLE IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Toronto, May 21.—Chancellor Wallace of McMaster University, in a letter to the Canadian Baptist, criticizes the action of the Ontario Sabbath-School Association toward having the Bible used in the public and high schools of the province. He contradicts the association's assertion that the introduction of the Bible would teach religion, but would not link church and state, and says the state should not be involved to aid in work which Christ has committed to His churches and to families.

A Christian Science Case

St. Thomas, Ont., May 21.—Audrey Merrill Kennedy, the eleven year old daughter of R. H. Kennedy, Michigan railway conductor, died of diphtheria on April 22, no physician having been called until the child was unconscious and past all aid. County Crown Attorney McCrimmon ordered an inquest, which was concluded last night. The evidence disclosed the fact that the mother was a Christian Scientist and that the child had been treated by Mrs. Helen Chittick, a Christian Science reader. It was shown also that if a physician had been called in time and anti-toxine administered the girl could have recovered. The jury found that Mrs. Chittick assuming to treat the child, prevented the attendance of a physician and treatment earlier, which would have tended to save the life of the patient. Criminal proceedings likely will be taken.

A TERRIBLE ACCIDENT

One Dead and Another Fatally Injured at Windsor Mills

Sherbrooke, Que., May 21.—The St Francis mill of the Canada Paper Company, at Windsor Mills, was the scene of a fatal accident yesterday afternoon, as a result, one man, Auguste Pelletier, is dead, and a young lad, M. Healey, son of Harry Healey is at the Sherbrooke, probably fatally injured. They were working at one of the presses, endeavoring to put a heavy belt on a pulley. Both were caught and whirled around the shaft until each had his arm torn from his shoulder, when they dropped to the floor. Pelletier died at 8 o'clock. He leaves a wife and six children. Healy's condition is very serious.

A Mysterious Drowning

Winnipeg, May 21.—Mysterious circumstances surround the supposed drowning of an Indian named Jacobs, his wife and two children, which took place eight miles from Dallas on the 10th inst. The affair was not reported by the Indians until yesterday, and only one body has been found. The canoe is intact with a good load of provisions, and various circumstances lead to suspicions of foul play. The Crown Attorney is investigating.

AN OVERWORKED MINISTER

Hon. Mr. Sutherland Needs a Long Rest

An Ottawa Police Scandal

Ottawa, May 21.—Hon. Jas Sutherland, about whose health there has been very disquieting rumors for some time, left yesterday for his home in Woodstock, for a rest, prior to going to some health resort for a prolonged stay. Mr. Sutherland caught cold at Mr. McCreary's funeral, with the result that he was nearly suffering from inflammation of the lungs. That has passed off but his old complaint of insomnia has again seized him and a long time of inactiveness is considered desirable. During his absence Hon. Chas. Hyman will administer his department.

GLORIOUS INDIAN HERO

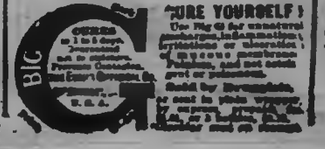
Montreal Honored by the Presence of a Great Warrior

Montreal, May 21.—Montreal has a distinguished visitor in the person of General Sir Robert Cunliffe Low G.C.B., late commander of the forces at Bombay, who is staying at the Windsor Hotel. The veteran soldier has a record in military matters. Born in 1838 and the son of a famous military man, General Sir John Low, K.C.B., Sir Robert has seen much active service. In 1854 he entered the Bengal Cavalry and served through the Indian Mutiny. The Afghan War of 1879-80 saw him in active service once more, and in the Burman War in 1886 to 1888 he participated. In 1895 Sir Robert Low was appointed in command of the Chitral expedition, and in 1896 was gazetted Commander-in-Chief of the Bombay Forces.

Sir Robert, who is accompanied by Miss Low, is on a purely pleasure tour.

Drowning Fatality

Three Rivers, May 21.—News has reached this city of another drowning fatality at the "Little Piles," a dangerous spot on the St. Maurice River, a short distance below the Grand Piles. It is reported that some three or four men were in a canoe, when one of them took a fit, and in attempting to prevent the poor fellow from falling into the river, the canoe upset and all were precipitated into the water and were drowned.



THE GREAT WORK GOING ON IN MUSKOKA.

1,000 Patients Treated in the Two Muskoka Hospitals—the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Surprising Decrease of 25 Per Cent. in the Last Three Years in Deaths from Consumption.

Fifty-five Different Trades and Professions Represented by the Patients Admitted to the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Two Pavilions have had to be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds, and the Number of Patients Reduced from 75 to 60.

$25,000 Wanted this Year to Carry on this Great Work.

With a view of helping to bring to the attention of the public the needs of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have pleasure in publishing the following letter, in which an appeal is made for funds.

Dear Friend,—

It again becomes necessary to make an urgent appeal for funds for the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

A very heavy debt is pressing upon the trustees.

In addition to this, funds must be provided for the maintenance of patients. Last month there was a deficiency of nearly $1,500 over and above receipts from all sources.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives was opened eighteen months ago. 235 patients have been admitted.

No patient has ever been refused admission because of his or her poverty.

1,000 patients have been cared for in the two Muskoka Hospitals, the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The majority of these have either been cured, or so helped that they have been enabled to again become bread-winners for the family.

The public are beginning to find evidence of our work.

Already there has been a decrease of nearly 25 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption in the Province of Ontario.

The last report of the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health shows that in the last three years the deaths from consumption in Ontario have decreased from 8,484 to 2,694, a decrease of 790, or nearly 25 per cent.

This is the more gratifying when we remember that for a number of years previously the same report showed a steadily increasing death-rate prior to 1899.

What will come that the work of our two Hospitals in Muskoka, and the persistent educational campaign carried on, has not helped to secure this surprising result?

In what better way can your gifts bring so good a return?

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 60.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

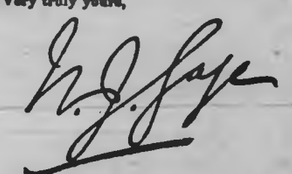
Very truly yours,



Toronto, December 10, 1903.

Sir Wm. R. Meredith, Kt., or Mr. W. J. Gage, Toronto, will receive and acknowledge any contributions made.

Lung, Throut and Catarrhal Troubles

A MARVELLOUS DISCOVERY THAT HAS DELIGHTIED ALL CANADA BY ITS PROMPT CURES

The method that has proved successful through its enormous advantages of being pleasant and free from the danger of creating the drug habit employs dry air as the carrying agent.

By this method every part of the breathing apparatus is bathed by a medicated air. Germs which excite the trouble are immediately destroyed. Sore and tender spots are healed and the congested surfaces restored to normal condition

This method of treatment is known as Catarrhozone, and has obtained a footing never attained by any other remedy for the many diseases affecting the respiratory tract.

Catarrhozone is fragrant, healing, balsamic, pleasant as the air of the pine woods and more active as a healing agent than anything hitherto discovered. It contains neither cocaine nor any of those irritating substances which really increase the congestion and add to the difficulty, instead of curing as Catarrhozone re quickly does.

MRS. BINY BROWN, of Tenecape, N.S., had lung trouble and catarrh. She took cough mixtures but they made her sick. Then she used an atomizer, but after resorting without benefit to poultices and numerous other remedies, she tried Catarrhozone. "I used Catarrhozone Inhaler," she writes, "five minutes every hour, and soon recognized it was going to cure. I could feel the soothing medicated air spreading through the air passages of the throat, and it touched the sore spots in the lungs that other remedies failed to reach. Catarrhozone seemed to go just where it was needed most, and soon put a stop to my cough. It restored me to perfect health, and I am convinced that no cough, cold or catarrh can exist where Catarrhozone is used."

This complete Catarrhozone outfit contains a large bottle of inhalent, sufficient to keep recharging the inhaler for two months. It costs $1.00 and is guaranteed to cure; sample size 25c. Sold by all druggists or sent direct to your home by mail if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., or Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

Particularly Sad Death

Much sympathy is felt by the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. John Shaughnessy, of Otonabee, in the death of their daughter Agatha, who passed away on Friday last. The deceased who was greatly beloved was only fifteen years of age. Interment took place yesterday in the R. C. cemetery. The Times extends its sincere sympathy to the bereaved family.

Will Begin Aug 1st

The Railway commission have issued an order with respect to the crossing of the Grand Trunk line at Lindsay, Ont., by the Lindsay, Bobcaygeon & Pontypool Railway. Each is to have interlocking semaphores, but the Grand Trunk is also to install derailing appliances. The Lindsay Bobcaygeon & Pontypool Railway expects to be ready for operation by August 1st.

A Quiet Wedding

A quiet wedding took place on Thursday evening last at St. John's Rectory, when Miss Annie Elizabeth Drysdale and Wilfrid Byron Armstrong, both of Perth, were married by Rev. J. C. Davidson. The bride was charmingly dressed in pearl grey cashmere daintily trimmed, and was assisted by Mrs. Davidson, while Mr. Lafferty acted as groomsman. Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong will reside at 264 McDonnell street.

Cobourg in Line

The crusade against spitting on the pavements is not confined to Peterborough. The council of Cobourg has amended the spitting by-law, by amending by-law No. 119 regulating the public streets by adding on the following section: "It shall be unlawful for any person to spit on any sidewalk or pavement, &c in any passageway, stairways or entrances to buildings used by the public, and in rooms halls, buildings and places to which the public resort."

THE STREET RAILWAY

Extension of Time to 1st of September to Be Granted

It will be noticed in our report of the proceedings of the council that the Street Railway Company have applied for an extension of time from the first of July to first September for the completion of the road. The by-law was given its second reading, and now Mr. Stuart will be communicated with in order to ascertain whether the extension will in any way affect the guarantee cheque of $5,000 which he deposited, there being a suggestion that the change might release it.

Mr. Larmonth, the capable manager of the company, hopes to have the road in operation early in August. It has been found necessary to purchase new cars and motors, and these cannot be delivered until about the middle of August.

THE NEW SUGAR COMPANY

Proposition of Mr. Fowler Very Favorably Received

The proposition of Mr. John Fowler, of Toronto, in regard to reorganizing the Sugar Company, is being very favorably commented on by citizens generally. It is believed that the matter can be successfully carried through. On Friday evening Mr. Fowler and Mr. Reid were the guests of the Albany Club, and gave fuller details of their plans. If the required amount of stock can be subscribed —and we believe it can—there will be no trouble as Mr. Fowler does not want a penny until the plant is completed and in running order.

On the streets on Saturday there was but one sentiment regarding the proposal, which, it is needless to say, was entirely favorable. Farmers who heard the good news were delighted and will join in assisting to make the industry a success.

Mr. Fowler and Mr. Reid returned to Toronto on Saturday.

Bowmanville Business Men Pass Resolution on Trent Canal

Mr. J. A. Culverwell gave an illustrated lecture in the council chamber in Bowmanville to the business men and citizens of the town on the Waterways and Canals of Canada. Mayor M. A. James presided. The lecturer gave particular attention to the Trent Valley Canal, now under course of construction and at the close the following resolution was moved by ex-Mayor W. F. Allan, seconded by Dr. Brimacombe:

"That we, the business men of Bowmanville, memorialize the Dominion Government to complete the Trent Valley Canal, and to make the outlet to Lake Ontario, by way of Port Hope, thereby benefiting western Ontario, as well as easte n Ontario and protesting against the request of interested power holders on the line canal for the diversion of public money for unnecessary additional storage reservoirs, which will only benefit private interests, and the council be requested to act likewise."

"I had scrofula and erysipelas for eighteen years, until I heard

Of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mr. Hilary Koons, of Queens, W. Va. "When I commenced to take this medicine I weighed one hundred and thirty pounds. I have taken six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and three vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets,' and am glad to say I feel like a new man. I now weigh one hundred and seventy-five pounds. When I had used one bottle of the medicine I could feel it was helping me. I realize Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best medicine on earth."

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood and entirely eradicates the poisons that breed and feed disease. It cures scrofula, eczema, erysipelas, boils, pimples and other eruptions that mar and scar the skin. Pure blood is essential to good health. The weak, run-down, debilitated condition which so many people experience is commonly the effect of impure blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery not only cleanses the blood of impurities, but it increases the activity of the blood-making glands, and it enriches the body with an abundant supply of pure, rich blood.

FREE. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE LINDSAY BREWERY

Will be Rebuilt and Operated by a Joint Stock Company

Lindsay Watchman-Warder: The brewery will be rebuilt on a larger scale, and, it is expected will be in operation by the first of July.

During the time that Mr. Fred Cornell operated the brewery, he satisfied the best judges of ale that he was an expert in his business. His ale was certainly the most popular that was ever sold over the bar in Lindsay; and when, over a year ago, the brewery was burned, the hotelmen and their customers were greatly disappointed.

Since that time difficulty over the disposal of the insurance on the building has hindered operations to restore it. Now this has been so far disposed of that a joint stock company has been formed, and has set actively to work on rebuilding. Besides an up-to-date brewery, the company will equip a malting plant. Upon this latter large hopes of the success for the enterprise are set. A bushel of barley worth 40 cents will make a little more than a bushel of malt which is worth 70 to 75 cents. The capacity of the brewing plant will be between 5,000 and 6,000 gallons a week.

The chief stockholders are Messrs. W. H. Meldrum, Peterborough; Fred Cornell and J. M. Knowlson, Lindsay; M. W. Brandon, Fenelon Falls, and G. W. Prescott, Toronto. Mr. Geo. Jordan is floating the company which will be capitalized at $10 000. A small quantity of the stock is being offered for sale.

MR. FITZGERALD'S POSITION

To the Editor of The Times:

Dear Sir,—As a ratepayer in the Township of Smith, I wish to ask if Mr. George W. Fitzgerald is entitled to retain his seat in the County council or, as I am informed, he has disposed of his property and is no longer resident in the municipal district?

This is most important, as we want to know at once whether or not we are legally represented by Mr. Fitzgerald.

SMITH.

The Times called up Warden Peck, who said:

Mr. Fitzgerald is not disqualified by reason of his disposing of his farm and moving to Peterborough after his election and acceptance of the office of County Councillor.

The Municipal Act requires all councillors to have at the time of election and of taking declaration of office certain property qualifications, and as to county councillor's residence in the division is also necessary at those times, but thereafter the only provisions which apply to the case are section 207 of the Municipal Act, which is as follows:

"If after the election of a person as a member of a council he is convicted of felony or infamous crime, or becomes insolvent, or applies for relief as an intigant debtor, or remains in close custody, or assigns his property for the benefit of his creditors, or absents himself from the meetings of the council for three months without the authority of the council his seat in the council shall thereby become vacant."

And section 80, which prevents persons holding certain offices, such as judges, sheriffs, clerks of municipalities, registrars, etc., from being councillors, appointment to such offices constituting disqualification.

None of these provisions, of course, apply to Mr. Fitzgerald's case.

PORT ARTHUR DOOMED JAPS WILL TAKE IT

Fortress Must be Reduced without Delay at All Costs--Will be Attacked on Land and Sea.

London, May 24.—The Post's special says that Japan is making immense preparations for the reduction of Port Arthur. The doomed city will be attacked by land and sea. Immense siege guns are being placed in position, and it is thought that these will be ready in a week's time.

Tokio, May 21.—Port Arthur is doomed. The loss of the battleship Hatsuse and of the cruiser, Yoshino, causes regret and sorrow throughout the nation, but at the same time the disaster has nerved the military and naval mind to the determination to storm the Russian sea fortress at all costs. No attempt is being made here to minimize the loss to the nation's strength. The destruction of the Hatsuse has deeply shocked the people. That vessel alone was considered equivalent to an army corps. No blame is attached to the officers. It is realised that the unfortunate vessel was sunk by an unavoidable accident, and that both the Hatsuse and the Yoshino had done excellent work in the recent naval operations. Confidence in Admiral Togo and the naval leaders is unshaken, and the army and navy are not daunted in the slightest degree by the comparative slight loss at sea which leaves Japan still in command of the naval situation. At the same time it is felt that Port Arthur must fall ... ence, and a determined effort will be made to effect its capture the moment proper preparations have been completed. Siege guns have yet to be placed in position, and the land forces appointed for the assault have to be strengthened. The unexpected loss of two fine vessels has emphasized the insecurity of sea power, and the authorities feel that no chances must be taken that would encourage Russia to send out the Baltic fleet, counting on finding a harbor of refuge in Port Arthur.

It is realized that the storming of the fortress will inevitably cost many lives, but it is said that the waters where the Japanese ships are forced to manoeuvre are becoming so dangerous because of floating mines that heroic measures are imperative. Under these circumstances it is thought that life will be economised by storming the stronghold and elliminating it and the adjacent waters from the area of actual conflict. It was stated at the Ministry of War this morning that the Japanese leaders know of no reason for altering the general plan of land campaign because of changed probabilities at the point of the peninsula.

All the towns. If one wishes to travel in safety in time of peace he will travel in safety in time of peace he will employ a bandit to accompany him, when he will be in no danger of attack. Now in time of war I presume they are very much more active.

CLIMATE ON PENINSULA.

"The climate in the Liao Tung peninsula is very much like that of the Eastern Townships. The campaign can probably be continued till December. The country affords an ample supply of wheat and barley, and if the usual crops are produced this year, both armies will be able to procure all such provisions required.

"The Japanese are better marchers than the Russians. They are more mobile. The Russians were so far outnumbered at the Yalu River battle that it is impossible to judge the fighting qualities of the two forces from it. The Russians may not have much success this summer. Winter and the next campaign will tell the tale. The winter problem will be more serious for the Japanese than the Russians. There is ample provision at Harbin for the wintering of troops.

"I expect the war to last all this year. The powers may bring about peace between the two combatants in the coming winter, when their fighting ardour is not so great. If not, the war will probably go on for another year.

"The Japanese are determined that the Russians shall not possess Manchuria. The Russians, actuated by a desire to retrieve their fortunes and remove the blemish on their honor will put up a big fight yet. I think they have a chance to accomplish their purpose. If the fighting is at a standstill during the winter they can accumulate men and perhaps make good their boast to drive the Japs into the sea.

"The Japs have a better knowledge of the country even than the Russians. When in possession of it after the war with China, they had thorough surveys made, and since that have been fully informed upon every change and every Russian gun which has been mounted.

"Russia's commercial interests in the Far East are small. She is not a large purchaser of Manchurian products except locally, and sells little to them. Port Arthur is important to her as a naval base and a winter port for her trans-Siberian Railway.

"The Japanese will find Vladivostok a difficult place to operate against. It is not as vulnerable as Port Arthur. It is located farther from the sea and is protected on the sea side by several lines of fortresses, while Port Arthur has but one line. It would be very difficult to cut off Vladivostok by land as has been done in the case of Port Arthur."

Mr. Davidson will remain in Sherbrooke about three weeks, and then after a visit to St. Louis, will proceed to the coast and sail for Japan about the first of July.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

Says a Crime was Committed near Peterborough Many Years Ago

The Times is in receipt of the following letter:

Rossland, B. C., May 13, 1904.

To the Editor of The Times.

Sir—Enclosed I see find one dollar for which send me The Times. I want information concerning a crime committed somewhere near Peterborough some years ago, in which the name of Asquith figured prominently. When a child I overheard two men talking about the crime, and one of the men remarked:

"They will never catch us under the names we now bear."

Hoping to be able to assist in clearing this matter up, I am, etc.

P. S.—Please do not publish my name.

The above speaks for itself. If any of our readers know anything about any crime committed near Peterborough many years ago, and want to investigate it, they can procure the address of the writer of the above letter by calling at this office.

THE TELEPHONE FRANCHISE.

The New Company Had a Demonstrating System in Ottawa

The Times has received the following letter from the city editor of the Journal, Ottawa, which speaks for itself:

To the Editor of the Times.

Dear Sir,—The Canadian Machine Telephone Company opened only a demonstration plant here. No business was done and no agreement was made with the city other than allowing street privileges for test line. The demonstrating system was favorably commented on but NO REAL TEST OF HOW A SYSTEM WOULD WORK WAS MADE. The company some time ago moved to Toronto.

Yours truly,

W. MACDONALD

City Editor.

It is evident from the above that the new telephone is yet only an experiment, and if it should not work satisfactorily, which is quite probable, the citizens will be put to considerable annoyance and loss by having the streets torn up and disfigured.

We would say further that the Bell Company will not, we are told, reduce the price of its phones. The result will be that all business men, as well as others who require to keep in touch with outside points, must use the Bell wires, and this will mean from $15 to $25 per year extra. Certainly it is not a rosy prospect for the already overtaxed citizen.

A lacrosse game between Lindsay and Peterborough will constitute a part of the programme. In the evening the 57th Band will give a patriotic concert in the rink.

A concert, which will also partake of a patriotic nature will be given in the Opera House.

WHO WAS GRAHAM?

Man Who Claimed to Belong to Peterborough Drowned

Col. Rogers, postmaster, received a letter from the postmaster at Biwabik, Minn., yesterday asking if there is a "family by the name of Graham in Peterborough, and if so, to apprise them of the fact of their son's death by drowning at that place. The writer says a gentleman claiming to know, informed him that deceased came from this city."

THE "SOVEREIGN" LAUNCHED

The Tidy Little Steamer Taken to the Water Like a Little Duck

The new steamer "Sovereign," built at Macdonald's ship yard, was launched yesterday afternoon about six o'clock. The handsome craft glided into the water with ease and grace, without any mishap.

The new craft will be quite an addition to the Otonabee River fleet. The boat is expected to be ready for business in two weeks' time.

NEW ZEALAND; IMPERIAL NAVY

The Colony will Still Further Co-operate with Great Bratain.

BATTLESHIP LAUNCHED

Premier Announces New Zealand will Furnish 400 Men to Australian Squadron.

Auckland, N.Z., May 24.—Considerable interest is being evinced in naval matters in New Zealand. At a crowded public meeting organized by the Wellington branch of the Navy League, resolutions were unanimously passed expressing the opinion that New Zealand would still further cooperate with the Mother Country in strengthening the navy in these waters.

In the course of his speech at this meeting, the Premier, Hon. R. J. Seddon, said one of the cruisers of the re-organized Australian squadron was to be manned entirely by New Zealanders and Australians and there were to be three drill ships, one of them to be manned entirely by New Zeanders and the other two by Australians. Altogether, between 300 and 400 officers and men would be wanted from New Zealand and Australia.

The new battleship, New Zealand, named after the colony, has been successfully launched and a public subscription is being made in the colony to provide a piece of plate for the table of the officers' mess and annual prizes for the best gunners on the ship.

RUSSIA BLAMES THEMSELVES

The Educated Russians and the Present National Fiasco.

St. Petersburg, May 24.—Educated Russia attributes the national fiasco in the Far East to the lack of general culture. Interchanges of opinion are in progress between the leading professors of the land as to how their view can best be recommended to the government. It is probable that the throne may be memorialized. The professors who are alarmed as to the future of the country, are willing to append their names to the statement of their fears, coupled with a declaration of the principles they consider necessary to avert disaster.

It is not hoped to stem the tide that is overwhelming Russian strength in Manchuria. It is believed that the temporary loss of everything Russia has south of the Amur is all but certain. They purpose to build against continued disaster and if possible in the course of time to retrieve the prestige of the Russian name in the distant East. Intellectual centres are in a state of activity scarcely surpassed by the seething activity of official quarters. Ideas are circulating never before heard in Russia, and the prospect is filled with promise of great changes.

FORTIFYING HAI CHENG.

New Chwang, May 23.—The latest authentic reports show that there are two divisions of the Yalu army. One is moving on Hai Cheng and the other was going towards Liao Yang.

It is understood that the siege guns removed from the New Chwang forts and taken to the Hai Cheng forts were mounted there to-day. A field battery was also placed in position.

The Russians claim that they will place 3000 men in New Chwang in a few days, but this is believed to few days, but this is believed to be an exaggeration. The Japanese control the railroad south of Wa Fang Tien, and the Russian force between there and New Chwang is small, consisting of a few scouts.

Almost all the railroad wires are down, but the Russian military telegraph line between New Chwang and Port Arthur is working and the Japanese are tapping it.

CANADIAN HOME FROM FAR EAST.

Mr. Davidson Talks of Port Arthur and the War.

ITS PROBABLE DURATION.

Russians May Have the Advantage if There is a Second Campaign.

Sherbrooke May 24.—William S. Davidson, a seven years' resident in the Far East, who left Port Arthur two weeks after the opening of hostilities, who was reported missing from Harbin, and became the subject of international enquiries, but who arrived safely in this country, proceeding first to New York on business, has arrived in Sherbrooke on a visit to his father, Chief of Police Davidson, and for a brief sojourn in his native town. He is accompanied by Mrs. Davidson. There is probably no man in this country today as well versed on the Far East situation as he. One year he has spent in Tokio, two years in Vladivostok, and the last four years in Port Arthur as representative of Clarkson & Co., of London.

"The war came a month sooner than the Russians expected it," said Mr. Davidson, in an interview with a press correspondent. "At the end of January, within a week of the striking of the first blow they did not realize that war was imminent. They evidently expected to prolong diplomacy, for they had laid in absolutely no coal supplies for the railway. Not till the 30th of January, did they place orders for coal, and I left Port Arthur by steamer to buy this coal for them. I made arrangements for the coal and returned to Port Arthur on February 9th. The war had already begun. That night a torpedo attack had been made. The big battleships Czarevitch and Retvizan had been put out of business for the whole war and the Pallada had been seriously damaged."

JUST A GERMAN YARN.

Mr. Davidson characterizes the Harbin despatch that he and another foreigner named Reilly had disappeared as a German yarn without reason. Reilly left Port Arthur last November, and as for himself, he left with the knowledge and by the order of the Russian authorities.

"The defences of Port Arthur are strong by land and sea, and it will cost many lives for the Japs to take out in less than a year. I doubt if the place by assault. I do not believe they can starve the Russians there are as many men in the stronghold as has been estimated. I should say ten or twelve thousand in the army and eight to ten thousand in the navy. I don't consider the Russian navy, as it is not at all effective. Aside from the damage done by the Japs, the big ships which have lain four months without docking, would be greatly reduced in speed." Such is Mr. Davidson's view of the situation at Port Arthur. He believes that the entrance to the harbor is practically closed. Twenty-one ships have been sunk in that vicinity, and if the channel is not actually blocked, it is so torturous that ships would find it very difficult of navigating. There is only twenty-four deep of water in the channel at low water, and some of the ships draw twenty-seven feet, so that they can only pass it at high tide under the best of conditions.

"I do not think the Japs will always find it as clear sailing on land as they have thus far, though I expect to see them drive the Russians back to Mukden and probably to Harbin. The Russians are outnumbered. If Kuropatkin could concentrate as many men as Kuroki the latter's task would be different. It is evidently the Japanese intention to strike their heavy blows at once before the Russians can equal them in numbers.

"The Chinese bandits are very strong and cause a good deal of trouble in Manchuria. They are well organized and have representatives in

TO-NIGHT'S MILITARY CONCERT

The following is the programme of the band concert to be given in the Brock Street Skating Rink to-night by the splendid band of the 57th Regt., under the direction of Mr. K. Gliddon. As will be seen by the numbers provided for, this programme is one of exceptional merit, and the capacious rink will undoubtedly be filled to the doors.

Programme

PART ONE

1.—MARCH ..... "Konigsgardisten" ..... Max Fischer

2.—OVERTURE ..... "William Tell" ..... Rossini

The overture opens with a lovely movement depicting the mystery of mountain solitudes at sunrise. Presently clouds gather, the rain-drops fall and the roar of heaven's artillery rends the air. As the storm dies away a beautiful pastoral is heard, called "Renz Des Vaches," played by the mountaineers to call their herds together. When all is peace again the trumpets sound a call to arms with startling suddenness. The shepherd's pipe is abandoned for the patriot's sword, and the overture ends amid brilliant notes of victory over oppression.

3.—NOVELLETTE ..... "Allagazam" ..... Abe. Holtzmann

4.—LULLABY ..... "Sweet and Low" ..... Barnby

5.—AMERICAN SKETCH .... "Down South" ..... Myddleton

The sketch opens with a quaint dance. The first two movements depict the restless nature of the languid southern darkey. The trio introduces a tuneful melody which is hummed by a majority of the band, and the audience, carried away with a drowsy strain, finds itself unconsciously humming with the band.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Will Hold a Three Days' Session Here, Commencing To-day

The Canadian Knights of Columbus will hold a three days' session here commencing this morning. It will be inaugurated by the delegates attending divine service in St. Peter's Cathedral, when the rector, Rev. Father McColl, will officiate. It is expected that a considerable number of the distinguished members of the order will attend the session, as well as some prominent gentlemen of the United States. The sessions will be held in the Foresters' Hall and the principal business will be the initiation of candidates into the degrees of the order.

A FAR-AWAY ORDER

British Columbia Government Orders Many Hat Tents

Messrs. J. J. Turner & Son, the progressive tent and awning manufacturers, yesterday received an order from the government of British Columbia for one of their famous hospital tents. The order also stated that twenty additional tents would be required if this sample one proved satisfactory. Of this there is no doubt as these tents are everywhere regarded as the best in the world.

RUSSIANS CLAIMS TO HOLD HER OWN WITH JAPS

Japanese Troops Met with a Reverse at a Kin-Chau on the 15th but Held Railway .

Chefoo, May 24.—Forty Russians, who left Dalny Sunday, arrived here to-day. Up to the date of their departure Dalny had not been attacked by the enemy.

According to their account, the Japanese troops met with a reverse at Kin Chau on the 15th inst., but the Russians failed to regain control of the railway. They are positive that another Japanese war vessel was damaged at the time the battleship Hatsuse was destroyed. Civilians is daily expectation of an attack upon Dalny by the Japanese forces, are leaving there on junks.

A STORY THAT WILL NOT DOWN.

Chefoo, May 24.—The captain of a Russian merchantman, who left Port Arthur on May 20, and is among the recent arrivals from Dalny, says in an interview that the whole of the Japanese fleet had not returned to Port Arthur since the 15th instant when, besides the battleship Hatsuse another big vessel struck a mine and was towed away disabled.

Gunboats and torpedo boats returned off the port on the 20th instant.

TO BE OVERHAULED

The Local Post Office to be Greatly Improved

The residents of Peterborough will learn with pleasure that Mr. R. R. Hall, the Liberal candidate for the West Riding, has succeeded in interesting the Government in this important matter and has received assurances that an appropriation will be made for the carrying out of the improvements which are necessary, or thought to be necessary. It is proposed to have two general delivery wickets, and possibly a third one, for the delivery of parcels to box holders. The arrangements are said to include a complete outfit of new boxes and fittings, which will no doubt be made up to date in every respect.

NEW TERROR IN NAVAL WARFARE

England Disturbed over Blowing up of the Japanese Battleship

London, May 24. — Englishmen, whose whole defence is on the sea, have been made supremely uncomfortable this week by Japan's ill luck. As one of the Conservative papers says, "As loss of the Hatsuse shows how slight, comparatively, is the tenure on which maritime superiority is held. A battleship is the equivalent of at least an army corps, but an army corps cannot be annihilated in five minutes because a non-commissioned officer has lost his head or because a dashing subaltern of the enemy's cavalry has risked his life on a forlorn hope. This is what may come about at sea at any moment."

A NEW WAR TERROR.

War gains quite a new terror for the greatest maritime power if the indiscriminate sowing of open waters with floating mines is to become a general feature." One journal pictures the harbor of New York mined against attack, and many mines floating daily into the Gulf stream. The danger presumably is outside the scope of that strange vague thing called international law, but it is felt that it might usefully form the subject of a Geneva convention. Bellicose minded Englishmen dwell upon the terrible risk of reliance on a slight margin of numerical superiority in ships over the navies of possible enemies; in other words, England must have more warships, must better the two power standard.

THE KING AND PEACE.

Others find in the week's incidents fresh reason for wishing success to King Edwards coming visit to Kiel. The King sees that French friendship being secure, the German Emperor's personal sympathy would immensely assist whatever pacificatory measures the European governments have found it possible to suggest. Out of the Kiel visit some first approaches towards an armament agreement may very well come.

MR. BALFOUR A CHAMBERLAINITE.

This week's debate in the House of Commons on the fiscal question clears up some doubts. It proves, as the Spectator says today, that "Mr. Balfour is a Chamberlainite, and when in his judgment the proper time has come, will publicly proclaim himself one. To proclaim himself at this moment, would precipitate a crisis which would destroy the Government and produce a dissolution, and Mr. Balfour does not want dissolution."

AN UNDERSTANDING REACHED.

The compact between Mr. Balfour and Mr. Chamberlain is, in fact, based roughly upon an understanding that Mr. Balfour shall not be obliged to go as far as Mr. Chamberlain at the present moment, he may refuse to go beyond the retaliation idea, but is obliged not to do or say anything hostile to Mr. Chamberlain's full policy. Moreover, Mr. Balfour will not support those Ministerialists, called Unionist free-traders who oppose Mr. Chamberlain, nor hinder Mr. Chamberlain's plans to purge the Unionist party of these free traders.

During the present session neither Mr. Balfour nor Mr. Chamberlain will bring the fiscal question before Parliament, but when the general election comes, probably in the spring, so much of the Ministerial party as supports Mr. Chamberlain will make a frank and open appeal for Imperial reciprocity, plus a moderate tariff. Mr. Balfour must then make his final decision, and there is little doubt that he and most of his special followers will join the Chamberlain forces, leaving Mr. Winston Churchill, Lord Hugh Cecil, Mr. Ritchie, and a band of perhaps thirty Unionists, to join the Liberals or form a new fourth Unionist free trade party. That Chamberlainism will not lack funds was indicated at this week's meeting of its political supporters, when $125,000 were subscribed offhand.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. A BIG STRIDE TO END WAR.

A Proposal to Neutralize the Mediterranean Sea.

WAR SHIPS WILL DEPART

And the Immense Armament will Kept--There will no Longer be Needed.

London, May 24.—Perhaps the world is not growing better, but it has the look of it when it is seriously talked that the Mediterranean sea be neutralized. That means that there shall be no battling in those waters. All the other seas fighting of the world, from the beginning of time, does not equal that recorded of the great midland sea. On no other waters are such vast naval establishments maintained to this day. The strain of naval competition is so intense that statesmen begin to cast about for methods of reducing its enormous cost in order that national energies may be less diverted from fields of industry. The American peril of commercial supremacy hastens the day of Mediterranean deliverance.

Great Britain is anxious to reduce her naval force at Gibraltar, Malta, Cyprus, Egypt and elsewhere. France and Italy may save many millions yearly when they cut down their Mediterranean naval defense. International agreement is all that is necessary and that may be accomplished by the three great Powers, England, France and Italy, with largest interests in the basin. The small states must fall in with the agreements of the big ones. It may be long before this project is realised, but it is not to be regarded as purely chimerical. It is naturally the first step toward the neutralization of all the waters of the earth and the settlement of international disputes by arbitration. Distant as the achievement of this grand idea may be it is inevitable in the march of the ages but will not come to pass all at once but only by degrees.

Immense progress toward the substitution of peaceful for warlike methods of adjusting national disputes has been made within recent years. As the commercial spirit and the spirit of Christianity gain in strength and military spirit declines in popular favor.

Turn Time Backward. Be Young Again.

At last there is hope for the army of young, old and middle aged men who either through early indiscretions, later excesses or unnocrs find themselves lacking in virile power. How many of you are now reaping the harvest of your folly? At last you are face to face with the realization that nature cannot be deceived, neither does it forget the wrong done it, whether through ignorance or otherwise; but the punishment always corresponds with the amount of abuse committed. Do not, however, lose hope, as there is a cure, thanks to Dr. Goldberg, the noted specialist, who can give you what is rightfully yours—perfect manhood. If you are not what you should be: if you have stricture, prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotency, rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, nervous debility, etc. write at once to Dr Goldberg, and he will send you his method of curing these diseases free of charge.

The doctor has received fourteen diplomas, certificates and licenses from colleges and state boards of medical examiners, which should convince you as to his standing and abilities.

His acceptance of a case for treatment is equivalent to a cure, as he never accepts an incurable one for treatment, and should you decide to doctor with him you may

Pay When You Are Cured.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he does not say that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor at once and confidentially lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as his booklet, on the subject, containing the 14 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply Dr B Goldberg 233 Woodward Ave. Room Detroit, Mich., and it will all immediately be sent you, free, in a plain, sealed package.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 24 1904

PRICE OF PORK.

Mr. C. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, asked why, in the face of falling prices of pork and evidences of depression in the packing industry, the department continued to advise the farmers to produce pork as a by-product of dairying, said that to such a question a very definite answer was impossible. The department had no information suggesting that the talked of depression in the packing industry was anything more than a temporary fluctuation in prices. The growth of the pork industry in Canada during the past few years had been unequalled by any other branch of agriculture. The value of pork, bacon and hams exported from Canada since 1896 was as follows:

1896	$ 4,446,884
1897	5,871,988
1898	8,092,920
1899	10,473,211
1900	12,868,934
1901	11,829,820
1902	12,457,863
1903	16,029,269

Mr. James pointed out that an industry having been established it could not be abandoned in a year. There were temporary rises and falls in the market, due to outside influences, that could not be foreseen or avoided. The dairy industry was a paying one for the farmers of itself, but if the waste products were utilized in the production of pork it would be that much more profitable. A considerable portion, at any rate, of these waste products could not be utilized in any other way. The counties of Essex, Kent, Bruce, Huron, Simcoe and Grey were large producers of pork as an independent industry, while in Oxford, Perth, Brant and Middlesex pork was largely produced in conjunction with dairying. That has necessitated in the latter counties the production of coarse grains, oats and barley for feeding as an adjunct to the dairy waste. Between 1893 and 1902 the production of barley in Ontario increased from 9,806,088 bushels to 21,890,602 bushels, and oats from 56,564,529 bushels to 106,491,439 bushels. To change all that was not the work of a single year.

CHURCH UNION.

The movement in favor of Church union has been making remarkable headway. It seems even to have extended beyond the three great Protestant Churches in which it had its origin to the Evangelical or Low Church section of the Anglican Church. Beyond that line, of course, it cannot be expected to go. The Ritualists will not be induced to resign or compromise his doctrines of Sacramental Real Presence and the Apostolic Succession of the priesthood. Whether the obstacles of vested interests, differences in the pattern of Church government, and, though last, perhaps not least, the tenacity of long familiar names, will yield to the yearning for Christian unity remains yet to be seen. Economical arguments conspire with sentiment of Christian brotherhood in favor of the movement. However the movement has already had an important result. Already the futility of dogmatic divisions has been mentally recognized by at least three great Churches, and a great step, so far as those Churches are concerned, has been taken from the rule o ecclesiastical synods to the Church which is really universal. If organic union in the end proves unattainable, spiritual union has already in large measure been attained.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Lord's Day Alliance is appealing to Parliament to pass more stringent laws regarding Sunday observance. The Privy Council's decision, setting aside the Provincial Sunday laws enacted since Confederation, has given birth to a new agitation in favor of a Dominion law which would prohibit every form of labor on that day. This includes the through railway traffic that is now permissible on the ground of the loss and inconvenience that would result from the delay of perishable goods and livestock en route. It is argued that with the modern methods of transportation, combining cold storage with swift locomotion, there is no need for Sunday movement. Such traffic can be safely delayed.

It is rumored, at Winnipeg, that the Government has disposed of 250,000 acres of Provincial lands to a Duluth company. These lands came into the hands of the Government in settlement of an old claim against the Winnipeg & Hudson Bay Railway, the franchise and assets of which were acquired by the Canadian Northern. The price is said to be over $1,600,000, and the sale is regarded as fairly satisfactory, in price, as showing the continued confidence of the American investors in values of Manitoba farm lands.

A CLERGYMAN'S APPEAL.

The Rev. W. F. Brownlee, Ridgetown, Anglican minister, has written the following letter to the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives:—

Dear Sir,—I fell in with a case to-day in my parish, a young woman very ill with consumption and I promised I would write you regarding her entrance into the hospital for consumptives in Muskoka. The case is one of great necessity and charity. The applicant is about 18 years of age. She is practically without a home, staying at present with a relative. She is bright and amiable, and would like to live. As I understand, you reject none on account of poverty. I commend the case to you as one most needy, and if you can send me instructions or papers for application to the hospital, I will see to raising necessary means for her transportation and have her sent at once, as I imagine she is not beyond receiving benefit.

[Note by Editor.—Sir Wm. R. Meredith, Kt., Vice-President of the National Sanitarium Association, or Mr. W. J. Gage, Chairman of the Executive Committee, Toronto, will gladly receive contributions for this and several other equally piteous cases calling for help.]

Well Balanced Nerves

YOUR SUCCESS IN LIFE DEPENDS UPON THEM

If Lacking in Nerve Force, Build Up Your System With Ferrozone—It Has Helped Others—Let It Help You too

Happy is the man who can work unceasingly without fear of an "attack of the nerves." He gets along, prospers, rises to position of power, and importance. The strong man is pushed over the heads of his weaker brothers by virtue of being capable to do and act when necessity calls. The weak nervous man is distanced before the race starts. But he shouldn't give up without trying what Ferrozone can do for him. This strengthening tonic has great power for building up people who are run down, tired and exhausted.

Ferrozone starts right at the root of the trouble, and drives all impurities out of the blood. Then it gives the blood an additional supply of iron and other strengthening elements which enables it to nourish the nerves back to normal condition. Once the nerves are toned up, indigestion and stomach trouble disappear. Then your system is in good order, and capable of being rebuilt in the proper way. Nerve tissue is formed, flabby muscles begin to harden, weak organs regain strength, and before long the half-wrecked man glories in the new-found vigor that Ferrozone has brought him.

You may have tried a hundred remedies; they may all have failed. But this mustn't influence you against Ferrozone, which is so different from other preparations. Ferrozone actually makes blood, and makes the kind of blood that is valuable in maintaining health. Then Ferrozone has a wonderful action on food, converting it into nutriment, so that everything you eat is going to be useful to your body.

Ferrozone is unexcelled as a rebuilding tonic for children, women and men, the young and old, in fact everybody can derive benefit from Ferrozone, which is specially recommended for chlorosis, anaemia, lassitude, weakness, and all disorders arising from impaired nerves or blood. Try Ferrozone yourself. Price 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50. Sold by druggists and by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

Obstinacy.

"One of the most remarkable cases in my experience," said a country doctor, "was an old woman in a fisherman's hut on the Carolina shore. It was a long, dreary drive of ten miles, and when I reached the place I found that the only occupant besides the sick woman was a skit of a girl, who was utterly worn out by weeks of care and nursing. I examined the patient and found every sign of early dissolution. Her pulse was growing feebler, and it was only a question of a few hours, in my mind, before the end would come. The idea of the girl being left alone in that hut touched me, and I decided to remain with her, even though the unexpected happened and the old lady lived through the night. The men of the hut were fishermen, and they would probably be back the next day. So I sat with the girl in the corner of the room and told her what I intended to do.

"'Won't she get well?' asked the girl after I had explained as mercifully as I could.

"'No,' I replied, 'she will not get well. She will die tonight.'

"Just then there was a feeble movement on the bed, and a thin, angry voice drawled out: 'It ain't so. I won't die. I expect to eat the goose that eats the grass off of your grave.'

"Oh, yes. She's quite well now, and she does not hesitate to tell me how much she likes goose."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Dickens and His Work.

Light is thrown upon the unfinished condition of Dickens' "Mystery of Edwin Drood" by the following story, told by a surviving friend:

"I ventured to ask him what method he pursued in the composition of works and if they were all completed before going to press. 'By no means,' he replied. 'They are not written beyond the part that is to be published at a given time. But the plot, the motive of the book, is always perfected in my brain for a long time before I take up my pen. I add a great deal to the original idea as I work on, but as I always know the end of the beginning I can safely commit my work in parts to the press.'"

"'But suppose,' I stammered, with just a little awe and wonderment in my voice (only the temerity of youth could have induced me to say such a thing), 'suppose you died before all your work was written?'"

"'A-h!' he said, and paused, then added. 'That has occurred to me at times,' and again the long, future piercing look seemed to be penetrating the golden haze. Then he turned his kindly glance on me and said cheerfully, 'One can only work on, you know—work while it is day.'"

Some Remarkable Guns.

At the siege of Rhodes the Turks constructed mortars by hollowing out cavities in the solid rock at the proper angle, and in the arsenal at Malta is a trophy of the long and glorious defense of Valetta, in a Turkish gun, about a six pounder, composed of a copper tube coiled over with strong rope and "jacketed" with rawhide. In the same collection are some antique "quick firers," breechloaders, with small bores and immensely long barrels, like punt guns. The Malay pirates put great trust in the long brass swivel guns called "lela," and in Borneo these lelas were used as a kind of currency, large sums being estimated in guns.

The Chinese cast excellent bronze guns (there is a fine specimen of them in Devonport dockyard), but up little did they understand gunnery that in the so called "opium war" the forts of the Bocca Tigris, defending the Canton river, had the guns built immovably into the walls. The Sikh gunners opposed to us in the two Punjab wars, though they loaded with amazing recklessness, shoveling in the powder from open boxes, stuck to their guns to the last. The blood of the first man killed was smeared on the gun, and the whole detachment died beside it sooner than retreat.—Chambers' Journal.

His Pet Superstition.

"Superstition seems to be connected in the minds of most people with women, ladders, rabbits' feet and horseshoes," said the young girl at the piano. "As a matter of fact, however, I know that men are fully as superstitious as the women of my acquaintance, and sometimes more so. One young man of my acquaintance, for instance, who has literary yearnings and who feels sure he could astonish the public with his brilliant stories if he could only get some editor to accept them, spends his summers in the country gathering inspiration, local color and—four leaf clovers. When winter comes he returns to his bailroom in the city, writes stories by the wholesale and dispatches with each consignment to the editors a four leaf clover. Sometimes the articles are accepted, and then the writer ascribes his success to the talisman. More often, however, they are returned, with the mascot in a more or less crumpled condition, and he spends what leisure hours he has in trying to figure out why it is those clovers don't work every time. Never for a moment does he ascribe failure to any faults in his manuscripts. Isn't that the limit in the way of superstition?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Batch of Anecdotes.

Some interesting anecdotes and gossip, new and old, of the law courts are given in the English Illustrated Magazine. The writer of the article, Mr. A. J. Hughes, was once present in court when a juror who opened the ball by saying, "This case, my lord, really lies in a nutshell," received the reply, "You crack it then."

There have been times when clever witnesses have got the better of counsel in a skirmish of words. When the farrier was asked where he got his knowledge of the mare's age from, he said, "From the mare's own mouth, sir."

Irish lawyers are generally endowed by Dame Nature with quick wits. Among them all, perhaps, Curran held the palm for lightness and vivacity. When some one told him that no student should be called to the bar who did not possess a landed estate of his own, he retorted, "How many acres make a wiseacre?"

But it was a Scotsman, appropriately enough Lord Brougham, who, seeing his horse take fright, yelled to the coachman, "Drive into something cheap!"

OUR PUZZLING LANGUAGE.

The Verb and the Preposition Are Difficulties Insurmountable to the Frenchman.

English is said to be one of the most difficult languages in the world for a foreigner to learn. The verbs and prepositions are particularly puzzling. A professor in Columbia School of Mines tells of the trouble of a Frenchman with the verb "to break," relates the New York Times.

"I begin to understand your language better," said my French friend, M. de Beauvoir, to me, "but your verbs trouble me still. You mix them up with prepositions.

"I saw your friend, Mrs. Berky, just now," he continues. "She says she intends to break down her school earlier than usual. Am I right there?"

"Break up her school, she must have said."

"Oh, yes, I remember; break up school."

"Why does she do that?" I asked.

"Because her health is broken into."

"Broken down."

"Broken down? Oh, yes! And, indeed, since fever has broken up in her town—"

"Broken out."

"She thinks she will leave it for a few weeks."

"Will she leave her house alone?"

"No; she is afraid it will be broken-broken—how do I say that?"

"Broken into."

"Certainly; it is what I meant to say."

"Is her son to be married soon?"

"No; that engagement is broken—broken—"

"Broken off."

"Yes, broken off."

"Ah, I had not heard that!"

"She is sorry about it. Her son only broke the news down to her last week. Am I right? I am anxious to speak English well."

"He merely broke the news; no preposition this time."

"It is hard to understand. That young man, her son, is a fine young fellow—a breaker, I think."

"A broker, and a fine fellow. Good day!"

So much for the verb "break."

High Class Investment

THE OREGON MINING AND SMELTING COMPANY

Offer to Canadian investors a limited amount of stock of the above company The property owned by the Company consists at the present time of about 500 acres, which are located in the Tarryall District and Park County, Colorado. This whole district has been known for years on account of its rich placer ground, and is now prominently before the public owing to the number of very good properties which have been opened up recently producing, principally, gold, and lately some that are producing Platinum. On the Oregon property there are a number of well known veins of low grade ore that will yield a profit by being treated on the ground of the company. The company have recently opened up a fine vein in the Hawkeye group and this vein shows not only good values but an immense amount of ore which alone would make the property very valuable. Assays from ore taken from various parts of this property range from a few dollars to $373 per ton in gold. We have very little silver, lead or copper in the district. The company have a shaft 240 feet deep, with a good shaft house thoroughly well equipped with all modern machinery to develop same. They are now driving a tunnel which is up about 700 feet and which will cut the Hawkeye vein about 300 feet deeper than where it is opened at present. There is enough ore exposed on the property of this company to keep them busy for a number of years and the reason for selling stock at the present time is to secure funds to build a mill. The company will probably join with the Almaden Company in building this mill. There is water enough to furnish water power and over 100 acres of fine spruce and pine timber. The affairs of the company have always been managed in a business-like economical manner and there are no officers' salaries. The monies received from the sale of stock go direct into the property.

I can heartily recommend this stock as safe, as well as an unusually good investment, because of the immense amount of ore which the company have already opened up. It is not a mere prospect, but the property has been developed by expense of a considerable amount of money and time.

The company is splendidly officered by men of integrity and high standing. The company has not pushed the sale of stock the last year owing to a delay in getting title to the ground from the Government, but now that has been satisfactorily adjusted and work will be pushed to a finish.

The number of exceedingly rich strikes which have been made during the last few weeks in the various camps in the State of Colorado is the best evidence of the prosperity of the mining business. Almost every camp in the state has opened up rich bodies of ore, and Park County is well in the lead in that line.

There are only $25,000 of stock for sale, at $1.00 per share. The company is capitalized at $200,000, and the advantage to the investor of selling the stock at par, is that every share is fully paid up and non-assessable.

How Kouropatkin Repulsed the Japanese?

Fighting Lasted Six Hours, the Japanese Being Disloged from Four Positions

St. Petersburg, May 23. — Admiral Alexieff has telegraphed to Grand Duke Alexis the following, which he received from Rear-Admiral Wigert by mail from Port Arthur Thursday night:

"Three of the enemy's battleships and three cruisers appeared to the eastward Sunday morning. Their movements were watched from Liao Tishin and Golden Hill. After crossing the meridian of Port Arthur the squadron to the eastward appeared to be getting into battle formation. An explosion was observed under the third battleship, a vessel of the two-funnelled Fuji type. The ironclad stopped, heeled to starboard, and sank by the bow, sending up a quantity of steam. Two cruisers immediately approached and it was observed that they had lowered boats, after which the battleship gradually righted herself and appeared to recover from her injury. At that minute another battleship of the Shikishima type drew near the place where the accident had happened and a mine exploded under her midship section, and then there was a second explosion similar to that which occurred in the case of the Petropavlovsk. In the course of one minute she sank. The third ironclad put to sea, the cruisers remaining on the scene of the disaster. I sent 16 torpedo boats to harass the enemy, and should a favorable opportunity present itself to attack the ships separately. The cruiser Novik went out to the passage to support the torpedo boats if necessary, but the cruisers got up steam and drew towards the shore. Five of the cruisers opened fire with all their heavy guns on our torpedo boats, but the latter returned without loss. The damaged ironclad then disappeared below the horizon with the attendant cruisers escaping from the pursuit of our flotilla. Meantime night had befallen the wind had freshened and there was a rough sea. On the morning of May 16 three torpedo boats approached the scene of the disaster. I sent the Novik against them and they put to sea.

"The ship which blew up in Kerr Bay was evidently a cruiser to judge by her funnels and fighting top on the mizzenmast, which are visible at low water.

"According to reports from the coast three torpedo boats covering the attempted landing in Kerr Bay were damaged by our light artillery."

TOGO'S DETAILED REPORT.

Tokio, May 23.—Vice-Admiral Togo's full report of the sinking of the Japanese warship is as follows:

"It is regrettable to have to report a third misfortune. At noon on Sunday morning I received a wireless message from Rear-Admiral Dewa saying that on that day at 6 o'clock in the morning, while returning from the work of blocking Port Arthur, he encountered a dense fog north of the Shan Tung promontory. The Kasuga collided with the port steam of the Yoshino, which was sunk, boats from the Kasuga saved ninety of her crew. The dense fog still continues.

"This has been a most unfortunate day for our navy. While the fleet was watching the enemy off Port Arthur the Hatsuse struck one of the enemy's mines and her rudder was damaged. She sent a message for a ship to tow her, which was being sent when another message brought the lamentable report that the Hatsuse had struck another mine and immediately began to sink. The Hatsuse was then ten knots off Liao Te Shan promontory. No enemy was in sight. It must have been a mine or a submarine boat. Three hundred of the officers and crew were saved. The Hatsuse sank in thirty minutes. While sinking, sixteen of the enemy's torpedo craft appeared, and were driven off.

"Our fleet report is somewhat vague on account of the fact that some of the messages were received by wireless telegraph."

ARRIVED JUST IN TIME.

The report of Rear-Admiral Togo, who should not be confounded with the Vice-Admiral of that name, and who commands the Japanese fleet sent to attack Kai Chau, on the west coast of the Liao Tung peninsula south of New Chwang, says he reached Port Arthur soon after the Japanese battleship Hatsuse was blown up, and assisted in saving her crew and driving back the Russian torpedo boat flotilla, which came out that evening. Rear-Admiral Togo entered Chili Gulf the morning of the 16th reconnoitred the coast near Kai Chau and drove the enemy off a range of hills near Tong Shan. On the 17th after clearing the sea of mines, Rear-Admiral Togo entered Kin Chau Bay from which his gunboats bombarded the railroad bridge, a military train and the enemy's buildings, effecting some damage.

TORPEDO FLEET ACTIVE.

London, May 23.—A despatch to the Daily News from Tien Tsin says that the Russian torpedo boat fleet is active outside of Port Arthur, which is now not blocked. Five Japanese transports bound for Talienwan Bay, have returned to Moji. The shipping companies have warned their captains that Russian contact mines have been distributed as far as the Shan Tung Promontory. Merchants fear that trade with North China will be imparilled by the activity of the Russian torpedo boat fleet.

SOMEONE BLUNDERED.

Tokio, May 23.—Among the professions of calmness over the late disasters there are indications of a belief that somebody has blundered or failed in watchfulness. Some of the newspapers add to their earnest comments the hope that the disasters will lead to increased prudence and care. There is acute recognition of the fact that the lost ships cannot be replaced during the war. The public mourning is general. Flags everywhere are half masted and many of the theatres are closed. It is recalled that the public sympathy when Admiral Makaroff was lost was similarly, if less generally, shown.

TO REINFORCE KUROKI.

Tokio May 23.—A portion of one army commenced landing at Taku Shan, west of the mouth of the Yalu River, yesterday.

Admiral Hosoya, commanding the third squadron, reports that with the third squadron, consisting of the Fuso, Hei Yen, Taikushi, Sai Yen and other vessels, he protected the landing of troops at a new unnamed place (probably Tagu Shan) yesterday, bombarded the coast and landed a party of blue jackets, who occupied a point of land and raised the Japanese flag at 8 o'clock in the morning. The landing of troops immediately commenced, and was accomplished very quickly.

LOST 300 MEN.

London, May 23.—The Japanese Legation here gave out this morning the following despatch received from Tokio:

"The enemy's forces participating in the fight near Kin Chau, Liao Tung peninsula, May 16th, consisted of the Fifth, Fourteenth and Sixteenth sharpshooters (infantry), with eight quick-firing guns. They left on the field thirty dead officers and men. According to the prisoners the enemy's casualties were over three hundred.

FIFTY RUSSIANS KILLED.

Tokio, May 23.—The following official statement has just been issued here:

"A section of infantry of the Liao Tung forces went in the direction of Shan Chuan to reconnoitre and met two sections of Russian infantry. The Russians were repulsed in thirty minutes. Our casualties were one officer and four men killed and one officer and eight men wounded. The Russian casualties were one officer and forty to fifty men killed.

"The landing of Japanese troops at Taku Shan began yesterday."

RUSSIANS ARE CALM.

St. Petersburg, May 23—With greater calm than has been felt since the beginning of the war Russia today views the situation in the far east. The disasters sustained by the Japanese fleet have strengthened the national spirit, and the officials carefully point out that they possess in a measure the prestige lost by the past unfinished successes of the enemy. Should the persistent reports of the Japanese army having been driven back to Feng Wang Cheng prove true then the authorities and people will feel that Russian progress has been vindicated, and that the two belligerents can recommence the war on a more even footing. The first effect of the Russian successes will, it is believed, be apparent in the behavior of the Chinese whose attitude has been decidedly hostile to the Russians and to bring this change about it is expected that the Russian agents in China will follow the Japanese plan of fully informing the chiefs of the losses inflicted on the enemy. Although in St. Petersburg there is individual enthusiasm over the Japanese disasters near Port Arthur, there will be no collective demonstration. The wholesale rejoicing will come with the announcement of an achievement of a more thrilling character, which will appeal to the volatile side of the Russian people.

The tone of the comments of the newspapers this morning is sober, while at the same time recognizing the importance of the Russian success, which is well expressed by the Russ, which says:

"Japan's losses jeopardizes her military of the sea. It is a streak of bad luck, like ours. The forces are now about equal without the Battle squadron. It is not for us to rejoice but it was not worth while to bring the Kasuga from Genoa to sink the Yoshino."

The Bourse Gazette remarks:

"The news of the enemy's losses will cheer Russia and make some amends for the Japanese attack at the outbreak of the war. It is now the enemy's misfortune to experience the deadly effect of submarine mines which have done us so much damage. Great is Russia's God. The war has entered on a new phase, hastening the Russian victory."

The Listo observes:

"There is no intention to celebrate the Japanese losses by a torchlight procession. It is not our custom to make a national rejoicing over an enemy's misfortune. None the less it is impossible to conceal the fact that the nation is greatly impressed by the catastrophe to the Japanese fleet, which goes to show once more how accidents may upset the best laid plans."

The Gazette makes the most caustic comment of any of the Russian papers. It says:

"It is just retribution for the treacherous attack on Port Arthur without declaring war, and the dastardly attack on the Variag and Korietz. The mines laid by our brave sailors have done their work, and all reproach for the Petropavlovsk disaster is wiped out."

EVENS NAVAL CHANCES

Russians Think Loss Japanese Loss of Warships

St. Petersburg, May 23.—The loss of at least two Japanese warships is officially confirmed. A message dated at Port Arthur, received by carrier pigeon at Mookden, was transmitted to the Emperor early yesterday morning saying that two Japanese warships had been lost off that port. The message followed the Emperor to Kourak and no one knew its contents until late last night, when foreign telegrams brought full details of the Japanese loss.

of which I am the authorized agent

Investments in mining stocks where they can be purchased cheaply whose property contains merit and whose directors are men of unquestionable honor and integrity, and especially when sufficient work has been done to guarantee a producing mine and the leads have been demonstrated to be permanent, offer the greatest opportunity for large returns from modest investments.

The shrewdest capitalists of England and America are giving more attention to mining properties and putting more money into them than at any time in the past history of the world.

The Smuggler Group consists of five full sized claims, to wit:—The Smuggler, Gangon, Black Jack, Star and Bed Rock, located in the Greenhorn District of Eastern Oregon. Surrounding mines are Potosi, Pride of Pendleton, Bonanza and Rockefeller, developing work to the extent of 1,000 feet of tunnelling, drifts and crosscuts have been made, exposing hundreds of tons of high grade ore, averaging from $25 to $45 per ton, based on smelter returns, and for the purpose of equipping the mines a limited number of shares of Treasury Stock will be sold at 25 cents per share, the par value of which is $1.00.

THE GREAT WORK GOING ON IN MUSKOKA.

1,000 Patients Treated in the Two Muskoka Hospitals — the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Surprising Decrease of 25 Per Cent. in the Last Three Years in Deaths from Consumption.

Fifty-five Different Trades and Professions Represented by the Patients Admitted to the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Two Pavilions have had to be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds, and the Number of Patients Reduced from 75 to 50.

$25,000 Wanted this Year to Carry on this Great Work.

With a view of helping to bring to the attention of the public the needs of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have pleasure in publishing the following letter, in which an appeal is made for funds.

Dear Friend,—

It again becomes necessary to make an urgent appeal for funds for the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

A very heavy debt is pressing upon the trustees.

In addition to this, funds must be provided for the maintenance of patients. Last month there was a deficiency of nearly $1,500 over and above receipts from all sources.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives was opened eighteen months ago. 286 patients have been admitted.

No patient has ever been refused admission because of his or her poverty.

1,000 patients have been cared for in the two Muskoka Hospitals, the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The majority of these have either been cured, or so helped that they have been enabled to again become bread-winners for the family.

The public are beginning to find evidence of our work.

Already there has been a decrease of nearly 25 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption in the Province of Ontario.

The last report of the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health shows that in the last three years the deaths from consumption in Ontario have decreased from 3,484 to 2,694, a decrease of 790, or nearly 25 per cent.

This is the more gratifying when we remember that for a number of years previously the same report showed a steadily increasing death-rate prior to 1899.

Who will doubt that the work of our two Hospitals in Muskoka, and the persistent educational campaign carried on, has not helped to secure this surprising result?

In what better way can your gifts bring so good a return?

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 50.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

Very truly yours,

W. J. Gage

Old Hagar's Secret

BY MRS. M. J. HOLMES

Author of "For a Woman's Sake," "Love's Triumph," "Purified by Suffering," "A Grass Widow," "Woman Against Woman," Etc.

her grandmother, to whom she frankly acknowledged having told Mr. Carrollton of Mrs. Douglas and her daughter Betsey Jane. The fact that he knew of her disgrace and did not despise her was of great benefit to Madam Conway, and after a few days she resumed her usual spirits, and actually told of the remarks made by Mrs. Douglas concerning herself and the fight she had been in! As time passed on she became reconciled to the Douglases, having, as she thought, some well-founded reasons for believing that for Theo's disgrace, Maggie would make amends by marrying Mr. Carrollton, whose attentions each day became more and more marked, and were not apparently altogether disagreeable to Maggie. On the contrary, his presence at Hillsdale was productive of much pleasure to her, as well as of a little annoyance.

From the first he seemed to exercise over her an influence she could not well resist—a power to make her do whatever he willed that she should do; and though she sometimes rebelled, she was pretty sure in the end to yield the contest, and submit to one who was evidently the ruling spirit. As yet nothing had been said of the hair ornament which, out of compliment to him, her grandmother wore every morning in her collar, but at last, one day Madam Conway spoke of it herself, asking "if it were, as she had supposed, his grandmother's hair?"

"Why, no," he answered, involuntarily; "it is a lock Maggie sent me in that wonderful daguerreotype!"

"The stupid thing!" thought Maggie, while her eyes fairly danced with merriment, as she anticipated the question she fancied was sure to follow, but did not.

One glance at her tell-tale face was sufficient for Madam Conway. In her whole household there was but one head with locks as white as that, and whatever her thoughts might have been, she said nothing, but from that day forth, Hagar's hair was never again seen ornamenting her person! That afternoon Mr. Carrollton and Maggie went out to ride, and in the course of their conversation he referred to the pin, asking whose hair it was and seemed much amused when told that it was Hagar's.

"But why did you not tell her when it first came," he said, and Maggie answered, "Oh, it was such fun to see her sporting Hagar's hair, when she is so proud. It didn't hurt her either, for Hagar is as good as anybody. I don't believe in making such a difference because one person chances to be richer than another."

"Neither do I," returned Mr. Carrollton. "I would not esteem a person for wealth alone, but there are points of difference which should receive consideration. For instance, this old Hagar may be well enough in her way, but suppose she were nearly connected to you—your grandmother if you like—it would certainly make some difference in your position. You would not be Maggie Miller, and I——"

"Wouldn't ride with me, I dare say," interrupted Maggie; to which he replied, "I presume not," adding as he saw slight indications of pouting, "and therefore I am glad you are Maggie Miller, and not Hagar's grandchild."

Mentally pronouncing him a "proud, hateful thing," Maggie rode on a while in silence. But Mr. Carrollton knew well how to manage her, and he, too, was silent until Maggie, who could not refrain from talking any length of time, forgot herself and began chatting away as gaily as before. During their excursion they came near to the gorge of Henry Warner mendry, and Maggie, who had never quite forgiven Mr. Carrollton for criticising her horsemanship, resolved to show him what she could do. The signal was accordingly given to Gritty, and ere her companion was aware of her intention she was tearing over the ground at a speed he could hardly equal. The ravine was just on the border of the wood, and without pausing an instant, Gritty leaped across it, landing safely on the other side, where he stopped, while half fearfully, half exultantly, Maggie looked back to see what Mr. Carrollton would do. At first he had fancied Gritty beyond her control, and when he saw her directly over the deep chasm he shuddered, involuntarily stretching out his arm to save her; but the look she gave him as she turned around convinced him that the risk she had run was done on purpose. Still he had no intention of following her, for he feared his horse's ability as well as his own to clear that pass.

"Why don't you jump? Are you afraid?" and Maggie's eyes looked archly out from beneath her tasteful riding cap.

For half a moment he felt tempted to join her, but his better judgment came to his aid, and he answered, "Yes, Maggie, I am afraid, having never tried such an experiment. But I wish to be with you in some way, and as I cannot come to you, I ask you to come to me. You seem accustomed to the leap!"

He did not praise her. Nay, she fancied there was more of censure in the tones of his voice; at all events, he had asked her rather commandingly to return, and "she wouldn't do it." For a moment she made no reply, and he said again, "Maggie, will you come?" then half playfully, half reproachfully, she made answer, "A gallant Englishman indeed! willing I should risk my neck where you dare not venture yourself. No, I shan't try the leap again to-day; I don't feel like it; but I'll cross the long bridge half a mile from here—good-by," and fully expecting him to meet her, she galloped off, riding, ere long, quite slowly, "so he'd have a nice long time to wait for her!"

How then was she disappointed, when, on reaching the bridge, there was nowhere a trace of him to be seen! neither could she hear the sound of his horse's footsteps, though she listened long and anxiously.

"He is certainly the most provoking man I ever saw," she exclaimed, half crying with vexation. "Henry wouldn't have served me so, and I'm glad I was engaged to him before I saw this hateful Carrollton, for grandma might possibly have coaxed me into marrying him, and then wouldn't Mr. Dog and Mrs. Cat have led a stormy life! No, we wouldn't," she continued; "I should in time get accustomed to minding him, and then I think he'd be splendid, though no better than Henry. I wonder if Hagar has a letter for me!" and chirruping to Gritty, she soon stood at the door of the cabin.

"Have you two been quarreling?" asked Hagar, noticing Mag's flushed cheeks. "Mr. Carrollton passed here twenty minutes, or more, ago, looking mighty sober, and here you are with your face as red—What has happened?"

"Nothing," answered Mag, a little testily, "only he's the meanest man! —Wouldn't follow me, when I leaped the gorge, and I know he could, if he had tried."

"Showed his good sense," interrupted Hagar, adding that Maggie mustn't think every man was going to risk his neck for her.

"I don't think so, of course," returned Maggie; "but he might act better—almost commanded me to come back and join him, as though I was a little child; but I wouldn't do it. I told him I'd go down to the long bridge and cross, expecting, of course, he'd meet me there; and instead of that, he has gone off home. How did he know what accident would befall me?"

"Accident!" repeated Hagar; "accident befall you, who know every crook and turn of these woods so much better than he does?"

"Well, any way, he might have waited for me," returned Mag. "I don't believe he'd care if I were to get killed. I mean to scare him and see;" and springing from Gritty's back, she gave a peculiar whistling sound, at which the pony bounded away toward home, while she followed Hagar into the cottage, where a letter from Henry awaited her.

They were to sail for Cuba on the 15th of October, and he now wrote, asking if Maggie would go without her grandmother's consent. But though irresolute when he before broached the subject, Mag was decided now. "She would not run away," and so she said to Hagar, to whom she confided the whole affair.

"I do not think it would be right to elope," she said. "In three years more I shall be twenty-one, and free to do as I like; and if grandma will not let me marry Henry now, we must wait. I can't run away. Rose would not approve of it, I'm sure, and I 'most know Mr. Carrollton would not."

"I can't see how his approving or not approving can affect you," said

STEAMSHIP WRECKED

Disaster in River of St. Lawrence with Loss of Life.

Montreal, May 23.—The SS. Turret Bay, which left Sydney, C.B., coal laden for Montreal, struck on a southwest point of St. Paul's Island a few hours after leaving port, and sank in deep water.

Fourteen of the crew were saved by the lifesaving crew of the island, but thirteen men perished before shore was reached.

It was at 10.30 when the Turret Bay with a cargo of 3,500 tons of coal, left Sydney Montreal bound. A short time later her bow crashed against the rocky coast of St. Paul's Island and she slipped off and sank in several fathoms of water.

The night was inky dark and the fog was the heaviest and the densest known for years on a coast where fogs are of frequent occurrence. In addition there was a heavy sea running and when the crash came it was but the work of a few moments before the Turret Bay, with her crew and valuable cargo was at the mercy of the waves. At 3 o'clock she struck and twenty minutes later she was lying on the rocky bottom with her crew struggling for life.

The life saving crew of the island were soon on the spot after the vessel struck and the work of rescue began. Boats were lowered and the search was commenced. Fourteen of the crew of the ill-fated vessel were found clinging to the wreckage, but five of them died before the shore was reached.

It is thought that the steamer mistook the fog alarm of the island for another steamer's whistle and continued on her course with apparent confidence until the rending crash came.

The heroic work of rescue in the inky blackness of the night with the fog blanket lying on the face of the waters combined with the heavy sea that was running was accomplished only after much difficulty.

The men who had been struggling in the water clinging to spars and planks were all completely exhausted when succor arrived. They were brought to shore speedily and given every care and attention.

RUSSIA TO AID MACEDONIA

Notwithstanding War Lamsdorff Says Reforms will be Demanded

St. Petersburg, May 23.—The Turkish minister called on Foreign Minister Lamsdorff yesterday and it is understood that he was informed that the views expressed by the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, Count Goluchowski, at Buda Pesth, Monday before the Austrian and Hungarian delegations, were those entertained by Russia. Count Lamsdorff told the Turkish minister in the most positive language that Russia will faithfully carry out her duties in the near east in spite of the herculean effort she is making in the far east, and energetically insist with Austria and the other powers on the complete observance of the Macedonian reforms.

At the police court on Saturday a vagrant named R. W. Chesley, was ordered to leave town immediately. Another case was a charge of non-support against James S. Loudeau, of Ashburnham. The magistrate remanded him for a week and ordered him to pay his wife $4 a week.

A RARE CHANCE

FOR CANADIAN INVESTORS

THOMAS PATTERSON & CO.

BROKERS, PETERBOROUGH

HAVING BEEN APPOINTED CANADIAN FISCAL AGENTS OF THE

CRIPPLE CREEK ENTERPRISE GOLD MINING COMPANY

of Colorado, beg to inform their customers and investors generally that they have secured a block of stock of this Company, which they now offer for sale at 35 cents per share—par value $1.00.

This stock is bound to advance rapidly. All Shareholders are on an equal basis, no preferred stock. This is a proposition in all its details so simple that every shareholder will know at all times the value of his holdings. With the vast quantities of ore now in sight, and the facilities that will be put into operation to mine it, every dollar invested in this way may yield ten, twenty and a hundred fold. As has been chronicled in hundreds of instances in Cripple Creek, where persons have purchased stock in the early stages of a mine, the price at which the stock is offered is such a bargain that it cannot fail to be subscribed for at an early date, therefore investors should act quickly.

The shares are fully paid up and non-assessable (no individual liability). Each and every share represents a distinct and liberal portion of an enterprise which it is fully believed will produce millions of dollars.

The Cripple Creek Company is splendidly officered by men of high repute and with an expert knowledge of mining in all its details. The Company was organized to operate in Colorado, and properly incorporated under the laws of that State.

In the incorporation of the Company 500,000 shares of the capital stock were set aside for development purposes, and cannot be used in any other way.

We will be pleased to give full particulars to investors, and would say in conclusion. Buy now! Get in on the ground floor, as the stock will quickly advance.

AMERICANS IN BRITISH MARKETS

ETHICS OF SPECULATION

Archdeacon Madden, of Liverpool Reads Striking Paper—The Dissatisfied Londoners.

London, May 23.—A consular report on trade with Philadelphia issued from the Foreign Office says that in spite of the adverse Canadian tariff, the United States sent engines to the Dominion valued at £29,000, as against the United Kingdom's £4,000. The advantage of freight rates may have made some difference in favor of the United States, but push, advertising and good business methods did more, continues the report. It is possible that when the manufacturers of the United States become as familiar with conditions in the other British colonies as they are with Canada, they may accomplish similar results in them.

Archdeacon Madden, in a paper on "The Ethics of Speculation and Gambling," said that with regard to speculation in the markets of the world, while there was no such thing as legitimate gambling, there was such a thing as lawful speculation. When, however, speculation turned from healthy trade into the region of flukey and risky enterprise, it became a mere game of chance. Archdeacon Madden declared that he had known of a dozen lads dismissed from Liverpool offices for embezzlement, and in nearly every case the money was taken for betting.

Recently there appeared in the Daily Chronicle a cable stating that twelve disgusted Londoners were returning. It turns out that the dozen has dwindled to two individuals. Saunders and Lee, who both declared to Mr. Preston's representative in Liverpool that the stories cabled in regard to their complaints had been greatly exaggerated.

The Liverpool passenger agents are of the opinion that Herr Ballin's campaign for securing a share of the Scandinavian and British emigrant business will lead to very keen competition for the Atlantic route.

—The steamer Beaver, owned by Thomas Harris, of Gore's Landing, was sunk the other day in Rice Lake. She encountered a sunken pier which formerly did service in the line of railway from Cobourg.

ISLAND OF SAKHALIN.

WHERE FOES TO RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT ARE CONFINED.

Chance for Japanese to Liberate Convicts Who Have Plotted Against the Czar—The Siberian System.

Japanese naval victories have already demoralized Russia's exile system, and they soon might deal it a staggering blow by throwing open its chief Siberian prison. After sinking a few more Muscovite ships Japan would be able to land troops on the convict island of Sakhalin, just north of the Japanese archipelago, and release the 40,000 men and women imprisoned there, says the New York Tribune of recent date. Once free, the murderers, traitors, nihilists and revolutionists who compose the population would be able at last to avenge themselves to some small degree upon the government which has doomed them to a living death.

The convict island is situated at the northern end of the Japan sea, like the keystone of an arch. Southwest is the Asiatic coast of the Russian-Siberian province of Amoor and the seaport of Vladivostok. Southeast, across a narrow strait, lies the Japanese island of Yezo. Although 600 miles long, Sakhalin is so narrow that it has the shape of a pickerel on the map. In area it is equal to the state of South Carolina; in climate it may be likened to southern Greenland or northern Norway. If dug up and laid down on the Atlantic coast, between the same parallels of latitude, it would stretch from Bangor, Me., to central Labrador.

To this cold, inhospitable, remote part of the earth Russia banishes her worst enemies of state. When a peasant commits an atrocious murder the penalty is Sakhalin. When a bank teller embezzles a fortune he is doomed to exile in Sakhalin. Should some high official prove a traitor to his government, he exchanges his splendid St. Petersburg drawing rooms for the log huts of Sakhalin.

There was a naval military conference between Russia and France a little more than a year ago, when the two powers agreed on a mode of attack on Germany should either nation go to war with the kaiser. Not long afterward it was discovered that Germany by some mysterious means had learned the strategem. Col. Grimm, a trusted Russian officer, was suspected of treachery, and in the face of indisputable evidence he confessed himself a traitor. It was estimated that the changes in fortifications made necessary by his treachery cost the Russian government $5,500,000. Yet he was not hanged or shot. His fate was worse. He was banished to Sakhalin.

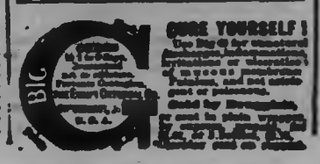
Since Russia has completed the continental railroad across her Asiatic domain she has sought to change the character of Siberia from a penal colony to a great industrial province. She has endeavored to wipe out the wretched associations which haunt the name of Siberia because of its past, and which has stunted its growth. As long as Russia continued to found penal settlements within this region, to which were condemned murderers as well as refined men and women banished thither because of their political views, voluntary immigration into Siberia from the congested parts of Russia amounted to little or nothing. For the reason that the convict settlements were adjacent to towns, a Russian citizen of good standing had no desire to emigrate to such a community, where his family must needs associate with the outcasts of society.

Accordingly, Russia in recent years has been sending her chief offenders to the far distant island of Sakhalin. The war, however, has put a stop to further deportation of convicts to the island. If Russia attempts to send her convicts by ship, as was once her custom, from the Black sea port of Odessa, the Japanese warships will hold them up somewhere along the Pacific coast. If she sends them by railroad to Vladivostok, the mikado's ships are likely to capture them after they have been put on board ships for the island.

Russia began sending exiles to Siberia in the middle of the seventeenth century, instead of branding them with hot irons, impaling them on hooks, cutting out their tongues or amputating their limbs, as she had done before. In the middle of the eighteenth century the Muscovites abolished capital punishment, and, instead of executing their worst criminals, they banished them to Asiatic Russia. They populated vast tracts with sparsely scattered colonies of convicts. Between the years 1833 and 1867 nearly 900,000 men and women were torn from their homes in Europe and driven to faraway Siberian settlements.

Value of Learning to Knit.

Fifty years ago every woman and girl was taught to knit as part of her education. Now, however, comparatively few are taking up knitting needles with any seriousness of intention. Young women should become expert knitters, not because they cannot buy many things as cheaply as they can produce them, but with a view of that faroff day which is certain to come in time—the day of old age. To the brightest girl there may 50 years hence arrive the day of deafness, when the voices of music shall be brought low, or the day of blindness, when this fair world shall be dim and darkening to twilight or night. To the gayest of us all may come in the faroff time of the future a period of great loneliness, for "friend after friend departs." When one cannot see or hear well, when acquaintances are few and hours drag, there is a great satisfaction in being able to employ the fingers. A good knitter uses here with the swiftness of an automaton. She sits in the firelight and knits, an embodiment of contentment.



THE GREAT WORK GOING ON IN MUSKOKA.

1,000 Patients Treated in the Two Muskoka Hospitals—the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Surprising Decrease of 25 Per Cent. in the Last Three Years in Deaths from Consumption.

Fifty-five Different Trades and Professions Represented by the Patients Admitted to the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Two Pavilions have had to be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds, and the Number of Patients Reduced from 75 to 50.

$25,000 Wanted this Year to Carry on this Great Work.

With a view of helping to bring to the attention of the public the needs of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have pleasure in publishing the following letter, in which an appeal is made for funds.

Dear Friend,—

It again becomes necessary to make an urgent appeal for funds for the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

A very heavy debt is pressing upon the trustees.

In addition to this, funds must be provided for the maintenance of patients. Last month there was a deficiency of nearly $1,500 over and above receipts from all sources.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives was opened eighteen months ago. 225 patients have been admitted.

No patient has ever been refused admission because of his or her poverty.

1,000 patients have been cared for in the two Muskoka Hospitals, the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The majority of these have either been cured, or so helped that they have been enabled to again become bread-winners for the family.

The public are beginning to find evidence of our work.

Already there has been a decrease of nearly 25 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption in the Province of Ontario.

The last report of the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health shows that in the last three years the deaths from consumption in Ontario have decreased from 3,484 to 2,694, a decrease of 790, or nearly 25 per cent.

This is the more gratifying when we remember that for a number of years previously the same report showed a steadily increasing death-rate prior to 1899.

Who will doubt that the work of our two Hospitals in Muskoka, and the persistent educational campaign carried on, has not helped to secure this surprising result?

In what better way can your gifts bring so good a return?

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 50.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

Very truly yours,

W. J. Gage

A drift run on the vein 178 FEET IN ORE, the Gold value or contents running from 2 to 8 ounces, per ton, or from $40 to $160. This ore has not been stoped and will not be until the main shoot is reached.

The breast of the drift is, only 52 feet, according to engineer's survey, from the first BIG vertical ore shoot, which, at the surface, 550 feet above, shows values of 2 to 7 ounces gold, per ton.

Slabs and feeders of gold ore are coming in freely in the drift.

This is a business proposition. It is the KIND AND QUALITY which makes for great and permanent success. It is worth an investment of 10c. on the dollar, per share, now. It will be worth par with development.

Consumption is Not Hereditary

It is Not Handed Down From Generation to Generation but is Simply "Caught" by the Germs Getting Into Your Lungs Cured by Catarrhozone

Consumption was formerly believed by some to be due to poverty of the blood. By others it was supposed to be hereditary. Both these beliefs are incorrect.

If the disease passes through several members of the same family it is because the germs get into the clothes, bedding, furniture and carpets that are in general use.

These germs find their way into the air, are inhaled, lodge themselves securely in the throat and lungs where they rapidly increase, and soon claim another victim.

The only remedy that has cured a genuine case of Consumption is Catarrhozone. Its germ killing vapor is inhaled into every air cell and air passage of the head, throat and lungs, and creates a healthy condition of these organs in which disease germs cannot live.

It is impossible for consumption to make headway in the soothing antiseptic vapor of Catarrhozone is inhaled a few times daily into the lungs. The cause of the disease (germ life) is at once removed, the inflamed mucous surfaces are healed, and a lasting cure effected.

Catarrhozone is breathed right into the lungs. By its soothing influence the soreness caused by coughing is removed. The cough becomes less severe and soon ceases all together. Catarrhozone aids expectoration, quiets the nerves, and leads to the patient a large measure of comfort.

Consumptives are strongly urged to use Catarrhozone as immediate relief always follows. It is a direct method of treatment, and is endorsed by the highest medical authorities everywhere. The balsamic vapor reaches the lungs and respiratory tracts in a speedy manner that no medicine taken into the stomach can do.

Catarrhozone is just as good as a change of climate, equally pleasant and cheaper. It can be used at home at any hour of the day or night and never causes inconvenience or bother.

This complete Catarrhozone outfit contains two months treatment and costs only $1.00. It is a perfect boon to consumptives and their surrounding friends. You cannot afford to miss the benefit of Catarrhozone and should order it today. Sold by all druggists or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., or Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

New Sugar Company

Mr. James Fowler has opened an office for the proposed new Sugar Company at 385 Water street, where he will be pleased to see any who feel interested in the enterprise.

A Trip to Stony Lake

The Majestic will leave Lakefield on the arrival of the train this morning and make a trip around the lakes returning to connect with the last train for Peterborough.

The Street Railway

Work on the trolley wires was begun. Yesterday a gang of men were busily engaged in removing the old wires, which will all be taken down and put up again in proper position.

Getting Busy.

Our building contractors are getting very busy and are likely to continue so until late in the fall. A large number of residences are now under contract, and more are contemplated. It looks very much as if the building mechanics would have a most successful season.

Entertaining Lord Dundonald

The Peterborough Ladies' Golf Club will entertain Lord Dundonald and party, and the officers of the 57th Regiment, at the club house this afternoon to five o'clock tea. All members of both the ladies' and gentlemen's golf clubs are cordially invited.

Union Farmers' Excursion

The Annual Union Farmers' Excursion, of East Durham, East and West Peterborough Farmers' Institutes will be run to the Agricultural College, Guelph, on Monday, June 9th, 1904, via G.T.R., special train service and you will have an opportunity to attend the great horse show to be held there from the 9th to 11th. For particulars of fares and timetables see large posters.

Injured on a Drive

The young man, Wm. Maxwell, of Ironsdale who was injured on a drive and who was brought to the Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, where his leg was amputated, is doing as well as can be expected. His father, Mr. John Maxwell, ex-reeve of Glamorgan Township, Haliburton, visited him on Saturday. It appears that the lad, who is only 18 years of age, had his leg caught in the warping rope and was so badly injured that amputation was necessary.

Contemporary's "Break"

It is lucky the following paragraph appeared in the Watchman-Warder, of Lindsay, otherwise this great family journal would have been forced to the conclusion that the subject of horns was not one to be trifled with.

"Mr Dan Wyann has a horse with two horns. The horse is a two year old and the horns are on his ears. They are not large, but are distinctly of horn substance and shape. How big they will grow is a question and that the ear should produce them at all is a wonder. Mr Wyann has refused big money for his curiosity."

Sabbath Observance

The Governments of the Dominion and Ontario are in consultation with a view to settling the vexed question of jurisdiction in connection with the enforcement of observance of the Sabbath. Recent judicial decisions have left the matter in a somewhat confusing position and an effort is being made to arrive at some definite conclusion, respecting the extent to which the Dominion and province have jurisdiction. It has not yet been accomplished by concurrent legislation by Parliament and Legislature or by the submission of a case to the Supreme Court.

The Storehouse Collapsed

On Thursday morning last the roof of Brown's grain warehouse at Roseboro collapsed and fell inward, and the far spring part of the side sheeting. The building contained about 15,000 bushels of wheat, oats and barley, the property of Flavelle Milling Co., Lindsay, and when Mr. Flavelle was notified he gave orders that the mills here be closed down Friday and that the day staff be sent down on the morning train to bag the loose grain and load it in the cars. This was accomplished, but some loss will be occasioned owing to the partial wetting of a quantity.

A NEW SUGGESTION

To the Editor of the Times:

Dear Sir,—I do not see why the people of Peterborough and surrounding country do not advocate the route for the Trent Valley Canal via Port Hope as being far cheaper for the country, and by far the most direct route. Why not build a fourteen foot water way to Port Hope make Peterborough one of the lake ports and deliver coal here and have a line of steamers sail direct from here to Liverpool with grain, flour, etc., thereby making Peterborough a transhipping point for all the back country trade, as well as a very large grain trade to the old country? This would thoroughly utilize the Trent Valley Canal and add materially to the importance and welfare of our town and make it one of the best and most prosperous shipping ports on the lakes.

Yours truly,
D. CARLAW.

A Quart Baby.

Now and again there is an item in the newspapers concerning the birth of a puny baby so small that a quart cup holds it comfortably. If the article told all the facts it would probably tell also of a mother who in weakness and misery had looked forward to the baby's advent with shrinking and fear.

To have fine, healthy children the mother must be healthy, and it is the common testimony of mothers that the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription not only promotes the mother's health but also gives her strength to give her child.

"Favorite Prescription" accomplishes these results by tranquillizing the nerves, promoting a healthy appetite, and giving refreshing sleep. It increases physical vigor and gives great muscular elasticity, so that the baby's advent is practically painless. It is the best of tonics for nursing mothers.

"I gladly recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. J. W. O. Stephens, of Mills, Northumberland Co., Va. "Before my third little boy was born I took six bottles. He is the finest child and has been from birth, and I suffered very much less than I ever did before. I unhesitatingly advise expectant mothers to use the 'Favorite Prescription.'"

Dr. Pierce now feels fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which he cannot cure. All he asks is a fair and reasonable trial of his means of cure.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 50 one-cent stamps for the cloth-bound volume, or only 21 stamps for the book in paper covers. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

FOUND IN A JAR

BODIES OF THREE CHILDREN PICKED UP IN THE RIVER

They Were All Perfectly Formed and About Three Inches Long

Yesterday morning, while the steamer Water Lily was taking on some lumber from the wrecked scow that had floated down the river, the engineer noticed a large glass jar floating on the surface of the stream and on taking it out of the water was horrified to find that it contained the bodies of three infants, each about three inches long. As soon as the steamer arrived Chief Rossel was notified, and the jar was given to him and at once turned over to Dr. Gray, coroner.

The doctor was seen by The Times last night and stated that he could do nothing. The lid of the jar was screwed down tight, and the vessel was more than half submerged, as it floated down stream.

There is no theory as to where the bodies came from or who placed them in the river. That a crime has been committed there is little doubt, but the fact of three infants being found destroys any theory that one might weave regarding the mysterious occurrence.

Billeting Committee Meet

The Billeting Committee of the Methodist Conference for the Bay of Quinte district met in the office of Mr. A. Cox last night to make final arrangements for entertaining the delegates which will compose the conference, which meets in the George street church on the 7th of June. Up to a late hour the work had not been completed and we are unable to give the list in this issue, as intended.

The Best Ever Presented

The programme to be presented at the rink this evening by the splendid band of the 57th Regiment, under the direction of Mr. Rupert Gliddon, is the best we believe ever presented in Canada by an amateur band. We print it in full in another column. We hope to see the rink crowded as it never was before. Lord Dundonald and staff have promised to grace the occasion with their presence.

PROPERTIES SITUATED NEAR SILVERTON, SAN JUAN COUNTY, COLORADO. Properties consist of three groups; namely,—

THE PROSPECT BASIN AND MAMMOTH TUNNEL GROUP of 30 claims and Tunnel site aggregating 570 acres of mineral ground all held by location, and free from any conflict as to title; also a same location, three mill sites and one lode claim, total 25 acres all now being patented

THE LEAD CARBONATE GROUP, adjoining the Gold King, of 78⅝ acres all of mineral territory; this group is patented

THE STONY PASS GROUP, 110 acres in Stony Gulch, surveyed for patent which will shortly be applied for; no adverses; title perfectly clear.

Total area Mineral territory	75⅝ acres
" " Mill and building sites	5 "
" " Timber properties	9 "
Total	90⅝ acres

This was the total acreage held at organization of the Stony Pass Mining Company in December 1902. Since that date 230 acres additional have been located in Prospect Basin and surveyed with view of applying for patent at an early day.

Complete Saw Mill plant located in Cement Creek, capacity 20,000 feet per day; Lumber on hand in mill yards and at the Hercules shaft 500,000 feet. Round logs ready for the mill 300,000 feet. Cost to Company approximately $5,400, market value lumber alone $5,100.

TIMBER RESERVES.

Estimated timber, on timber and mineral lands owned by Company, 5,000,000 feet. Contiguous territory controlled by Government from which timber can be had for cutting providing same is used for mineral purposes 40,000,000 feet.

To al cost of development to date, present management,	$53,000.00
" " " " former owners	18,000.00
" " surface improvements, buildings, saw mill plant, horses, wagons, ore cars, track, tools, etc.	17,000 00
" " Machinery paid for and to be installed	6,000 00
	$99,000 00

Above items do not include moneys expended for additional properties since Company was organized, which approximate $26,000.00.

Plant of machinery for tunnel now being installed, and all will be in operation within 30 days.

The Hercules shaft will be equipped with machinery at an early date it being impossible to do so now owing to the heavy snows.

With the Hercules property equipped with a hoisting plant, (good for a depth of 1000 feet) we will immediately sink the present shaft to a depth of 500 feet driving levels at each 100 feet to fully open the ore bodies now developed to the 145 foot point.

The Mammoth Tunnel is now in nearly 800 feet. We are confident that with the machinery in operation we will be enabled to drive the tunnel at least 200 feet per month; we are now about 600 feet from one of the main leads crossing the Tunnel. Our machinery should be in operation in about 30 days, which will put us in shape to drive ahead and cut the above mentioned lead by August 1st.

We have recently cut a number of small veins carrying high values in lead, copper and silver. These are all spurs to the vein ahead of the breast and a certain indication of the ore ahead of us.

With the Hercules developed to a depth of 500 feet and the Mammoth Tunnel through the vein and brought to the producing stage, we will be given an accurate basis for calculation as to the uniform output which may be attained for milling purposes, then mill will be built.

In the meantime only the high grade Smelting ores will be shipped the profits from which will add as materially in further opening up the properties and building up a treasury reserve for future operations and mill construction. It is likely in view of present favorable conditions, that the sale of treasury stock will be discontinued after August 1st.

Stock is now selling at 60c a share. It will be but a short time when stock will be selling at $1.00 per share, and will do so on merit.

DIVIDENDS.

We are confident that dividends will be inaugurated early in 1905, and be continuous thereafter, and gradually increase in proportion as property developes to at least 30% per annum within two years from date of first dividend.

Considering the extent of the properties and intrinsic value underlying the stock, the shares should, with that dividend in force, sell at from $3.50 to $4.00 per share.

With active development resumed on the Hercules and regular shipment of ore going to the Smelter, we will issue monthly reports to our stockholders. These should commence with the First of July.

The surface improvements on the several groups consist of 3 blacksmith shops, 2 stables, 2 large boarding houses and kitchens, coal sheds, shaft house, saw mill buildings, pipe lines, tunnel buildings, wagon roads, besides rails, railroad switch, bridges, etc.

With the equipment on the Hercules and the Mammoth Tunnel in working order, it will be unnecessary to expend finds for any other purpose but actual developements. By having our own horses and wagons, we have saved on haulage more than enough to pay for them. The Saw Mill plant, too, has paid for itself. Lumber at Silverton is worth from $18.00 to $20.00 per M., the cost to us by reason of having a mill is not over $10.00 per thousand feet.

In my next report to you it will be my pleasure to inform you that everything is in shape for a season of active operation and that shipments of ore have commenced.

Very truly yours,
A. A. BROWN.

The above is a copy of report issued early in April. Stock sells at 60c and will soon sell at $1.00 per share. The object is to build a Stamp Mill this year and Smelter as soon as enough ore is produced from these mines to run Mill and Smelter continuously. In no other form of production is capital assured of such large and certain profits as with Mining and Smelting combined under one management. It is likely that this will be accomplished by the Stony Pass Mining Co, within the next year. I will be happy to furnish you with all available information regarding these matters.

Yours truly,
ROBERT HARRISON.

200,000 BAUDITS ARE NOW FIGHTING RUSSIA.

The Potent Part Played in War by the Powerful Robber Bands in Manchuria.

London, May 26.—Potent factors in the war in the far east are the Manchurian bandits. Locally they are called "Chunchuses" or Hungusha, and by the authorities are known as red-bearded robbers. You hear of them now almost every day as operating against the Russians, who are their avowed enemies, and their special efforts seem to be directed against the Manchurian Railway.

The Chunchuses make their living by preying on the public and the villagers, and until the invasion by the Russians in 1900 they virtually controlled the trade of the province. Their mode of operation is simple but effective. Divided into bands under approved leaders, they manage to rule the carrying trade, extorting large fees from the persons engaged in it. They give what might be called permits to the villagers or country people who bring their produce to the towns both by water and roadway. Carts and boats bolding passes from these robbers carry the flag of the band that issues The passes, and, strange to relate, these flags are always respected by members of the other bands. Once having paid his toll to the bandit the villager goes on his way rejoicing, well knowing that he has nothing more to fear.

BANDITS NUMBER 200,000.

The bandits are reported to be 200,000 strong. They have plenty of small arms but no artillery or large guns. Mostly composed of disbanded soldiers who have been drilled by foreigners, they generally are better shots than the Siberian Cossacks, for their straight shooting is their living. The Chinese militia are very friendly to the Chunchuses, and in case of a general uprising very probably would join the robber bands. These militia are pretty fair, soldiers, and are armed with modern weapons—in fact, they use the rifles which they capture from the robbers from time to time. A conjunction of these forces would be a serious matter for Russia for both the robbers and the militia man hate the czar and his army, and are strong friends of the Japanese.

The reason for this feeling is easily explained. When the Japanese took possession of southern Manchuria following the war of 1894-5, seeing that they could not cope with the bandit, they allowed him to carry on a trade that kept the country settled, to the satisfaction of both villager and bandit, and wisely decided not to interfere. On the other hand, when the Russians seized Manchuria during the Boxer troubles of 1900 they endeavored to put down the Chunchuses by force of arms when they could not bribe them to meet their demands.

COSSACK WORSE THAN ROBBER.

Incidentally it should be remembered that the Siberian Cossack is not too well paid, and, as he generally was on patrol in the various villages, the villagers fell between the bandit and the Cossack; but as the troops were always being moved about the country the unfortunate villager was required to provide himself with a pass from each new body of troops in contrast to the bandits' one request, and this request was of daily occurrence. The result was that the robber could not get his living because he could not guarantee the villager against losses through the Cossacks; hence the conditions were that the villager dared not send his goods to market, for even if he could settle with the bandit he was sure to fall into the hands of the Cossack. Thus it will easily be seen that neither the villager nor the bandit has any warm regard for the Russian forces.

The bandits, it will be remembered, destroyed the Manchurian railway between Mukden and Port Arthur, during the Boxer revolt. They carried away rails and ties for miles and cut into pieces the iron bridges, a feat one would think to be impossible, but they have the country people to help them. Their operations in the present war have become so serious that General Kuropatkin practically has lost the services of about 30,000 soldiers, who now are assigned to duty guarding the road. It has become obvious that Japan's hopes were well grounded when she counted on the assistance of these desperate men. Similarity of language permits them to understand one another, while the Russians as a general thing have no knowledge of the Manchurian tongue.

NOT INSPIRED BY CHINA.

It is a mistake to assert that the Chinese government is provoking the Chunchuses to attack the czar's forces for the bandits are no way subservient to China. In fact, the strong force of Chinese troops sent toward the mongolian Manchurian frontier is for the purpose of preventing the bandits from invading China proper and the neutral part thereof. If this precautionary step had not been taken the robbers, in event of their being driven off by the operations of the armies of Japan and Russia would begin preying on the rich province of Chili, and might even prove a menace to Pekin. China desires to show that she intends to keep neutral and will use strong efforts to confine to the bandits the display of animosity to Russia. Any connivance on her part with the operations of the Chunchuses would only furnish the Muscovites the opportunity of declaring to the world that the "yellow peril" really exists, and that there ought to be unity of action among the powers to repel the imaginary danger.

St. Petersburg, May 24.—Educated Russia attributes the national fiasco in the Far East to the lack of general culture. Interchanges of opinion are in progress between the leading professors of the mind as to how their view can best be recommended to the government. It is probable that the throne may be memorialized. The professors who are alarmed as to the future of the country, are willing to append their names to the statement of their fears, coupled with a declaration of the principles they consider necessary to avert disaster.

It is not hoped to stem the tide that is overwhelming Russian strength in Manchuria. It is believed that the temporary loss of everything Russia has south of the Amur is all but certain. They purpose to build against continued disaster and if possible in the course of time to retrieve the prestige of the Russian name in the distant East. Intellectual centres are in a state of activity scarcely surpassed by the seething activity of official quarters. Ideas are circulating never before heard in Russia, and the prospect is filled with promise of great changes.

FORTIFYING HAI CHENG.

New Chwang, May 23.—The latest authentic reports show that there are two divisions of the Yalu army. One is moving on Hai Cheng and the other was going towards Liao Yang.

It is understood that the siege guns removed from the New Chwang forts and taken to the Hai Cheng forts were mounted there to-day. A field battery was also placed in position.

The Russians claim that they will place 3000 men in New Chwang in a few days, but this is believed to be an exaggeration. The Japanese control the railroad south of Wa Fang Tien, and the Russian force between there and New Chwang is small, consisting of a few scouts.

Almost all the railroad wires are down, but the Russian military telegraph line between New Chwang and Port Arthur is working and the Japanese are tapping it.

NORWAY'S BATTLE FOR FREEDOM.

Norse Kingdom Has Vindicated Right to Equality in Union with Sweden

Bergen, May 26.—In order to appreciate the legitimacy of the claims of Norway to perfect equality in the union with Sweden and to comprehend the profundity of the liberal sentiments pervading the Norwegians, a brief synopsis of the history and traditions of the people is indispensable.

HAARFAGRE MADE NATION.

In ancient times, within the borders of Norway, there lived a number of monarchical communities belonging to a common race, speaking a common language and having a common form of worship. Their occupation was agriculture, cattle-raising, fisheries and the chase. In the year 872 of the Christian era these nations, then numbering about thirty, were fused into one by King Harald Haarfagre and in fullness of time the country was Christianized by the missionary kings Olav Trygvesson (995 to 1000) and Olav Haraldsson, surnamed "The Holy" (1016 to 1030.)

Norway then entered upon a remarkable career as a civilized and independent nation. The country received a complete ecclesiastical organization, a system of jurisprudence was developed, colonies were planted in distant parts and North America was discovered by the Norwegians in the year 1000. Lastly, a copious literature was created, still the wonder of the world, which, eclipsing that of all the other Teutonic nations of Europe combined, illuminated the northern sky with the lustre of the aurora borealis.

LED NORTH IN ELEVENTH CENTURY.

In the eleventh century Norway was the leading nation of the north and it was her illustrious king, Magnus Olavsson I., the "Charles Martel of the north" (1035 to 1047), who turned the tide of Slavic invasion of the north by his decisive victory over the Wends on the plains of Lyrskog in Slesswick, September 28, 1043.

Toward the close of the fourteenth century, however, Norway entered into an inauspicious connection with Denmark and in 1450 a union was established which might have lasted till this very day; but in 1814 the Dano-Norwegian king, Frederick VI., absolved the Norwegians from their allegiance and the latter nation promptly framed a constitution and organized a separate government. The nephew and heir-presumptive of King Frederick VI., Christian Fredrik (May 17 to October 10, 1814) was chosen king of Norway.

UNION WITH SWEDEN IN 1814.

By the peace of Kiel (1814), however, England, Germany, Austria and Russia had conferred Norway on the King of Sweden, Charles XIII (1809-1818) as an indemnity for the cession of Finland to Russia in 1809. After vain remonstrances Norway then, as a last resort, offered armed resistance, by no means despicable, as in proportion to her population her army of 33,000 men, besides officers and noncommissioned officers, exceeded that of any other European power. At the Vienna congress subsequently (1814-1815) the ardent Swedish dynasty had many ardent advocates and fearing an unfavorable result of their deliberations the King of Sweden accepted the terms for a union of the two countries, proposed by the Norwegians. This union was to be a defensive alliance and the Norwegian constitution of May 17, 1814, was recognized with slight alterations.

In recognizing Norway as an equal member of the union it appears that Sweden was merely yielding to necessity and that it was her intention subsequently to further the absorption of Norway and gradually fuse the two countries into one Swedish nation. A struggle therefore began which has lasted for ninety years, and which has retarded the progress of the two countries and somewhat estranged them from one another. But notwithstanding the constant friction the great work of national regeneration has proceeded uninterruptedly, and in regard to industrial pursuits as well as mental achievements Norway now occupies a very creditable position among the nations of the world.

In their struggle for unabridged political equality with Sweden and Norwegians have now arrived at the stage when the question of a separate consular service for Norway is to be decided. A revision of the articles of confederation, or act of union as it is called, was contemplated in the first half of the nineteenth century, and committees were appointed for the purpose in 1839, 1864 and last in 1897, but nothing resulted from their labors. In 1902, however, the negotiations of the third so-called union committee were resumed by the appointment of a Swedo-Norwegian consular committee, the result of whose labors was embodied in a so-called "communique" subsequently published, which became officially recognized by a protocol prepared in a joint session of the cabinets of Norway and Sweden.

This protocol was laid before the Storthing February 13, of the current year, and by it submitted to the committee on constitutional affairs. When reported upon and returned by the committee to the Storthing a decisive debate will take place, and a change of ministry may be the result, as the Storthing will not ratify terms for a separate consular service that might hamper its future action in regard to another important national issue—the appointment of a separate foreign minister for Norway.

OUTING FOR JUNE

The cheery laugh of the New York street gamin, a cool breeze from Newfoundland, and a little Parisian atmosphere from the Seine give June Outing a cosmopolitan character that will please every class of reader. "The Fishermen o. Newfoundland," by F. J. McGrath, takes you to the blue waters of the banks and introduces you to the picturesque people who live by the northern sea. The hardiness and bewaithfulness of their primitive existence is vividly portrayed by graphic descriptions and many beautiful art photographs done in color on plate paper. The resemblance of this article is further emphasized by the design on cover picturing two old salts in a wave tossed dory.

Vance Thompson injects the European element into the number by his chatty description of "The Water Way of Paris." Excellent photographs of boating on the Seine reinforce his word pictures.

"Gamins of the City Street," by Robert Dunn, whose Mt. McKinley diaries have commanded so much attention, is as typical of New York as Mr. Thompson's article is of Paris. Real boys—"gamins," "muckers," if you will — are always interesting. Mr. Dunn has caught the New York variety both in picture and in spirit, and describes in a sympathetic vein their antics at Hon Pon, Horse Shoe and Mare, Digging for Diamonds, Church on Fire and other kindred amusements.

"The Confessions of a Middle-Aged Man," is a pleasant bit of humorous advice from Price Collier. Another contribution abounding in humor is "The Sheriff's Strategy," a short story. The most notable fiction in the number is, however, the last installment of Stewart Edward White's "Silent Places," or "The Trail of Jingoes," by far the most exciting chapters of the best story of the year. Almost as interesting as fiction and fully as absorbing to women readers is a cleverly illustrated article on "Women Who Play Golf Well — and Ungracefully," by Caroline F. Mansfield, the Metropolitan champion. New pictures of all the leading women golfers accompany the article.

John Burroughs, now a regular editorial contributor to Outing, touches in his characteristic manner on many timely nature subjects. "High speed Launches and Launch Racing," by W. P. Stephens, and "Getting Good Roads in America," by Franklin Matthews, are two notable examples of the breadth of interest in modern outdoor activities. In a well written article on "How the National Game Developed," James L. Steele tells about the early days of baseball when the scores resembled those of billiard matches. "In a Northern Valley," by Matthew L. Crosby; "The Sea Rises of England," by F. G. Aflalo; "Hitting a fill an important part in covering the whole outdoor field.

An illustrated article on "Polo in the Philippines," shows the spread of American ideas in our dependencies. The usual departments by such experts as William C. Harris, Edwyn Sandys, Joseph A. Graham and Dan Beard complete the number. In general appearance and outside attractiveness Outing is, as usual, unsurpassed.

The Engineering Magazine

The Engineering Magazine for June is particularly strong in matters of immediate practical interest. The leading article, by Mr. S. M. Vauclain, the distinguished superintendent of the Baldwin Locomotive Works describes the apprentice system in the shops of that company—one so successful in its working that the establishment has never had a strike in all its history. The interest of the paper is heightened by its illustrations. Other illustrated studies in characteristic branches of engineering are the contributions of the late Mr. Herbert C. Fyfe, on the latest London "Tube" Railway; of Mr. Geo L. Fowler, on the labor conditions in the Pocahontas coal fields and of Mr. A. Frederick Collins on the Multamorphote in Wireless-Telegraph Apparatus. Mr. Hess' graphic study of wage-paying methods and Mr. A. W. Thompson's description of the adaptation of the "premium plan to a repair shop are accompanied by charts and diagrams. The other features of the number are Mr. Knowlton's analysis of the fire hazards in electric plants and the means of reducing them and Mr. S. H. Bunnell's comprehensive descriptive summary of furnaces and methods of mechanical refrigeration. There is also the usual excellent Review and Index of the Engineering Press.

VICTORIA DAY IN PETERBOROUGH

Presentation of Colors to the 57th Regiment

LORD DUNDONALD'S VISIT

Field Day of Sports in the Afternoon Band Concert at the Rink and the Officers Banquet in the Evening

Victoria Day was celebrated here, the special features which distinguished the occasion being the presence of Lord Dundonald, Commander-in-Chief, and his aide, Capt. Newton. The military demonstration took place on Nicholl's Park Oval, in the presence of thousands of spectators from the town and surrounding places. The 57th Regiment mustered in full strength, and after being inspected by Lord Dundonald performed with great success the drooping of the color. The next event was the presentation to the Regiment on behalf of the ladies of the town of a new stand of colors. The presentation was made by Mrs. J. F. Dennistoun and Mrs J. R. Stratton, President and Vice-President respectively of the Ladies' committee. An address to the Regiment was acknowledged by Lieut.-Col J. W. Miller. Lord Dundonald also made a brief address, and Mayor Roger gave a cordial civic welcome to the reliever of Ladysmith, Lord Dundonald, who expressed himself well pleased with the set-up and work of the 57th. He was entertained at luncheon by Mrs. Dennistoun, and at tea by the Golf Club. In the evening he was the guest of honor at the officers' mess and later attended a patriotic concert given by the splendid band of the 57th.

In the evening the Peterborough Council of the Knights of Columbus a Roman Catholic fraternal organization, held a grand initiation ceremony. Visiting knights to the number of 200 were present, representing the councils of Montreal, Ottawa, Cornwall Brockville, Kingston, Belleville, Madoc, Tweed, Hastings, Cobourg, Lindsay, Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo. In the morning the visiting and local knights attended a solemn high mass, coram pontifica, his Lordship Bishop O'Connor being present, at St. Peter's cathedral.

The band concert at the rink in the evening was a leading attraction, and drew together about 1,000 persons. It was attended by Lord Dundonald, who, during the entertainment, sought the director, Mr. Gliddon, and paid him a high compliment for the splendid music given by the band. Peterborough has just reason for feeling proud of her band.

The concert given in the opera house was fairly well attended. The program was a delightful one and those who were not present missed much.

The T.A.S. field day of sports was well patronized on the holiday afternoon. There was practically nothing else doing, and the large crowd of people who attended the ceremony of the presenting of colors to the 57th and the reviewing of the splendid regiment by Lord Dundonald on the Oval in the fore part of the day sauntered to the parks or took in the sports on the school grounds in the afternoon.

About 8,00 people were present to witness the different events pulled off. The lacrosse match between Lindsay and a picked team from the T.A.S. and Peterboroughs proved the strong drawing card for the afternoon, although the running and jumping events, which were all closely contested for, provided considerable excitement. A number of outside athletes were among the contestants, but the local men proved too much for them, and succeeded in carrying off the majority of the prizes.

THE LACROSSE MATCH.

Peterborough 14, Lindsay 1.

The lacrosse match was the opening game of the season, and was only a fair exhibition of the national game, as the Lindsay players were evidently out of their class, as the score indicates. Seldom at any stage of the game were the visitors able to cope with the locals. In the field they were outclassed in running and Dunsford, McGrath and Crowley seemed to walk away from them. Their passing was very inaccurate and slow, while their defence was quite frequently drawn out, allowing the locals home to get right in on the nets, and Glover, McCabe and Parnell made good every opportunity. In Dillon, Morgan, Howell and Mein the visitors found a stonewall defence, and only once did they succeed in getting one past O'Brien, who was in the nets for the Peterboroughs. For the first appearance this season the locals made a good impression, and, although the home passed wide at times, they never lost many opportunities to make their work effective. The defense handled themselves well, and refused all invitations to be drawn out. The Lindsay team arrived three players short, and Boyle, McWilliams, formerly of Lindsay, and Angleye, were substituted, all three putting up a strong game. Peterborough scored the first 4 goals, when Lindsay took their first and only boil. Peterborough adding 10 more to their number.

Mr. F. A. Clarke referred the game, and kept the players well under control. A number from both teams decked the fence.

Following were the players:

SAYS WARDEN IS IN ERROR

So Says a Correspondent Regarding Mr. Fitzgerald's Seat

A correspondent writes the Times to the effect that the Warden is wrong in maintaining that Mr. G. W. Fitzgerald, a member of the County Council, is entitled to retain his seat at the board on account of having disposed of his property and removed from the electoral district. The writer submits the following:

"Section 77 of the Municipal Act says, 'Every member of a county council shall possess the same property qualifications as a mayor of a town is requested to possess, and shall also be a resident of the county council division for which he is a county councillor.'"

Mr. Fitzgerald possessed all the qualifications necessary at the time of his election, and, Mr. Peck holds is not therefore disqualified.

INDIAN TRAVELLER HERE

Mr. W. R. Jackson Says England Will Seize Thibet

Mr. R. M. Jackson, who spent a few hours in town yesterday, the guest of his brother, Chamberlain street, has just returned from Nepaul, Indian, on the slope of the Himalaya Mountains.

"It was through Nepaul," he said to The Times, "that Colonel Younghusband's expedition invaded Thibet. He will be reinforced from time to time, until he has a sufficient army to occupy the capital. Russia's difficulty is England's opportunity and from the standpoint of statecraft Lord Curzon is abundantly justified in seizing Thibet. If he failed to do so, he would leave the country to Russia, and military security never could allow Russian occupation.

"It is understood in India also that Thibet is not the useless land it has been considered. There is gold and coal in Thibet, the latter even more valuable to India than the former. For India is compelled to import the whole coal supply, and now that she has railways and is getting factories coal is indispensable.

"The present viceroy, Lord Curzon, is the ablest England has sent out for forty years. He is a great administrator, he impresses the natives and he is bold enough not to hesitate to seize any advantage that may be offered him. England cannot do better for herself than to send him back to Calcutta for another five years."

Mr. Jackson leaves for the west this evening.

A STABBING AFFRAY

Three Men Wounded on Tuesday Night on Georg Street

A stabbing affray on George street caused some excitement on Tuesday evening about 9.30 o'clock. It appears a party of some four or more Italians were coming north on George street and when opposite Sutcliffe's place of business some one threw a fire cracker so close to them that they became enraged and attacked the boy who threw it. The assault was witnessed by many passers, some of whom interfered in the boys behalf when the Italians drew their knives and Mr. Robert Sheridan was stabbed in the right thigh, the wound being about three inches long. Mr. Jos. Grey was also passing at the time and in attempting to stop the affray received a cut on the left arm, and a man named Baker was bitten on the finger. The Italians then took to their heels and made off before the arrival of the police on the scene. No serious results are expected from any of the wounds inflicted. Three of the suspected parties were arrested about half or three-quarters of an hour afterwards and were in the police court yesterday morning, but claimed they were not guilty. They were remanded until Tuesday next. An interpreter had to be called to understand our language. The suspects gave their names as Frank Tamburino Fidelo Giacomb and Etto Santplan.

Modern Naval Guns Cause Terrible Wounds.

An American Tells Story of Caring for Wounded Russians on Crusier Variag.

Washington, May 26.—Never since the development of the modern ironclad has the mechanical department of the United States navy had so good an opportunity to study the terrific effects on ship board of modern heavy gun fire as that presented in the captain of this ship (Vicksburg) to go the Russian crews of the Variag and the Koreitz and the department has been waiting with great interest for the report of Dr. H. D. Wilson of the Vicksburg.

This was received yesterday by Surgeon General Rixey, and it is said to be of the highest value, not only for the technical lessons it teaches, but also as conclusively sustaining the statements made by Capt. Marshall of the Vicksburg as to the tender of the assistance to the Russian crew.

The report bearing on that incident is as follows:

"Immediately after the Russian cruiser Variag had returned from the fight with the Japanese fleet and had anchored I was directed by the Saddle Horse" by Francis M. Ware, all on board and offer to do anything possible in assisting to take care of the wounded. The Russian commander accepted and offer and requested me to go below, where the wounded were being cared for.

"The medical officers from the French, English and Italian ships were on board at work, they having arrived before me as their ships were anchored much nearer the Russian.

"On deck were most of the dead, as they had been instantly killed at the guns; below the wounded were being cared for, each medical officer selecting a convenient place to dress them. It was impracticable to do more than supply dressing of a most temporary nature, as there were so many cases needing immediate attention, and also it was not known but that the Japanese would resume the fighting at any time, as the Russian ship had not surrendered when she returned to the inner harbor.

"The greater percentage of the wounds were of a serious nature, as all had been caused by the explosion of large shells (from eight to ten inches).

"Of the wounds dressed nearly all were in the lower extremities, which is accounted for by the fact that while many were hit in various parts of the body the pieces of shell, etc. were so large as to cause death when ever they attack the body or head.

"No attempt was made to perform operations, and as soon as dressing were applied the wounded were put in boats and taken to some of the foreign ships, as the Russian captain intended to leave his ship and sink her.

"I offered to send any wounded on board the U. S. Zafiro, which was in port, as the commanding officer of the Vicksburg had directed me to proffer her services for the wounded. The offer was declined by both the captain and the executive officer, they informed me that there was sufficient room on the other warships.

"Many of the wounded died later from the operation and from the effects of the wounds, as the parts were so damaged as to make an operation absolutely hopeless.

"The Russian ship has as good, if not better, sick accommodations than the average vessel, but it was totally inadequate to the call made upon it.

"I think the engagement showed that it will be impossible to attend to the wounded during an engagement between modern ships unless the number of medical attendants is tremendously increased. With the present allowance the wounded would be obliged to take entire care of themselves until the fight is over.

"In this battle the ships were from 3000 to 7000 yards apart and actual firing lasted not over twenty-five minutes, yet over 300 men were disabled. It also must be taken into consideration that here the main battery only was used, the ships not being hit once by rapid fire projectiles.

OFFICERS BANQUET LORD DUNDONALD

Was Guest of Honor at the Armory Last Night

A very pleasant evening was spent at the armory on Tuesday night, when a complimentary banquet was tendered Lord Dundonald, Commanding Officer of the Militia. The mess room was beautifully decorated, and an abundance of flowers lent an additional brilliancy to the scene. Lord Dundonald occupied the seat of honor at the centre of the table, with Lt.-Col. Edwards on his right, and Lt.-Col. Miller on his left. Major Halliday was president of the mess, and Major Hayes vice-president. There were also present Capt. Newton, Lord Dundonald's aide-de-camp, Col. H. C. Rogers, Col J. Z. Rogers, Hon Chaplain J. C. Davidson, Mayor Roger, Mr. R. R. Hall, Mr. Jas. Kendry, M.P., Warden E. A. Peck, and the officers of the regiment. Hon. J. R. Stratton was unavoidably absent, having been called to Toronto during the afternoon.

Mr. Harry Long, in his usual good form, efficiently catered to the party.

After the toast of "The King" had been honored, "Our Guest" was proposed in a felicitous manner by Major Halliday, and was responded to by Lord Dundonald, who gave a practical address on military matters, after complimenting the Regiment on its successful carrying out of the day's program. He referred to the new peace service now being inaugurated in the Canadian Militia.

The evening was spent in speeches and songs until about midnight, when the party separated.

ANOTHER PIONEER GONE

Death of Mr. Samuel Adams, An Old Resident

Yesterday morning an old and very much respected citizen of the town was called to join the great majority beyond. We refer to Mr. Samuel Adams, who passed away at the residence of his son, Alderman Frank Adams, after a week's illness. The deceased was a native of Ireland, being born in Monaghan. He came to Canada in the year 1857, and for a time resided in Ottawa, afterwards coming to Ashburnham, where he continued to reside for a great number of years. He was in the 73rd year of his age. He leaves a wife, seven sons and two daughters, the latter being Mrs. J. Burgess, of London, and Miss Maud, of Snowflake. Manitoba: the sons are Alderman Frank and T. H., of this town; Jas. and Samuel, of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.; Robert, of Winnipeg; Wm., of Snowflake, Man.; and Geo., of Seller, Alta., Ka.

The funeral takes place today at 3 o'clock.

Figures on Naval Armaments

London, May 26.—Great Britain has 445 warships, while 104 are being built. the figures are given in a return issued as a parliamentary paper.

Torpedo boat destroyers number 124 and submarines 8. Twenty-one of the latter are building. The ill-fated A1 "will probably be reinstated in the navy," says a foreigner in the return.

Japan's warships of all classes number 148; Russia's, 280. The Japanese have 82 torpedo boats; Russia has 167. France's whole fleet numbers 299 Germany's 235, Italy's 204, and the United States 111.

BALFOUR AND CHAMBERLAIN AGREE ON POLICY

Colonial Legislation as to Control of Lipuor Trade

London, May 24—Last weeks' debate in the House of Commons on the fiscal question clears up some doubts. It proves, as the Spectator says, that "Mr. Balfour is a chamberlainite and when in his judgment the proper time has come, will publicly proclaim himself one. To proclaim himself a Chamberlainite at this moment would precipitate a crisis which would destroy the government and produce a dissolution, and Mr. Balfour does not want dissolution." The compact between Mr Balfour and Mr. Chamberlain is, in fact, based roughly upon an understanding that Mr. Balfour shall not be obliged to go as far as Mr. Chamberlain goes at the present moment, that he may refuse now to go beyond the retaliation idea, but is obliged not to do or say anything hostile to Mr. Chamberlain's full policy. Moreove Mr. Balfour will not support those Ministerialists, called Unionist "free fooders," who oppose Mr. Chamberlain, a gibrinder Mr Chamberlain's plans to purge the Unionist party of such free traders. During the present session neither Mr. Balfour nor Mr. chamberlain will bring the fiscal question before parliament, but when the general election comes, probably in the spring, so much of the Ministerial party as supports Mr. Chamberlain will make a frank and open appeal for imperial reciprocity, plus a moderate tariff. Mr. Balfour must then make his final decision, and there is little doubt that he and most of his special followers will join the Chamberlain forces, leaving Mr. Winston Churchill, Lord Hugh Cecil, Mr. Ritchie and a band of perhaps thirty Unionists, to join the Liberals or form a new fourth Unionist free trade party. That Chamberlainism will not lack funds was indicated at last week's meeting of its political supporters, when $125,000 were subscribed offhand.

SIR WILFRID LAWSON'S BILL.

London, May 24.—Sir Wilfrid Lawson's liquor sellers liability bill, just issued by the printers, has a memorandum declaring that the bill follows precedents established in Canada, and America, giving the right of action for damages against the seller, compensation to dependents of a person imprisoned for intoxication, or for a fatal accident, murder arising from intoxication, or bodily injury to an habitual drunkard.

London, May 24.—These rules for prolonging life have been laid down before the Royal College of Physicians, London, by Dr Herman Weber:

Throws Money in River

Green Bay, Wis., May 26.—Between $3000 and $4000 in cash was thrown into the Fox river by Joseph Doehm previous to his suicide at his home by hanging. A note written by Doehm and found near where the hanging took place gives all the particulars. It states that the deceased had determined that his relatives as well as those of his wife, who he declared were trying to get his money, should not succeed in their attempt and that he had therefore thrown his money in the Fox river near the Doeman mill.

Detroit Specialist Discovers Something Entirely New for the Cure of Men's Diseases in Their Own Homes.

YOU PAY ONLY IF CURED.

Expects No Money Unless He Cures You—Method and Full Particulars Sent Free—Write for It This Very Day.

A Detroit specialist who has 14 certificates and diplomas from medical colleges and state boards of medical examiners, has perfected a startling method of curing the diseases of men in their own homes; so that there may be no doubt in the mind of any man that he has both the method and the ability to do as he says, Dr. Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their name and address. He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotency, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, nervous debility, etc.

The Possessor of 14 Diplomas and Certificates, Who Wants No Money That He Does Not Earn.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him, and if he accepts your case for treatment it is equivalent to a cure, as he does not under any consideration accept incurable cases for treatment; and, remember, if he does accept your case you may pay when you are cured. He sends the method, as well as his booklet on the subject, containing the 14 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply

THE PRICE OF BRITAIN'S COMMERCIAL SUPERIORITY

The price that Britain pays to maintain its commercial superiority in the far east is graphically told of by Wm. E. Curtis in correspondence to the Chicago Record-Herald. Mr. Curtis describes the great British commercial fortified port of Hong Kong, in China. He shows that not only is the harbour that holds all the shipping the most important military and naval station of Great Britain beyond the British coast, and fortified even more strongly than Gibraltar, but that the port and the little colony, though having less than 300,000 population, are protected by a fleet of some twenty-five battleships, cruisers, gunboats, torpedo boats, to p'do boat destroyers, etc. In the fleet are five battleships, all of over 12,000 tons. There are three admirals, a vice admiral and a rear admiral, residing at the station. There is another fleet at Shanghai and up the Yang tse River, the vessels at Yokohama and other of the northern ports.

That Britain gets something for the money expended is shown by the fact that during the last year 20,218 vessels of 8,734,208 tons burden entered the harbor of Hong Kong, and 20,094 vessels of 8,595,517 tons cleared with cargoes. The British steamers numbered 3,377, with a tonnage of 4,429,743; Germany came next with 797 steamers of 1,184,202 tons, Japan with 303 of 598,362 tons, France with 452 steamers of 588,000 tons, while down toward the end of the list is the United States, with 96 steamers of 137,271 tons. These figures place Hong Kong among the great ports of the world.

At Hong Kong there are several dry docks and the largest is big enough to take in any ship that floats. All the navies and merchant fleets take advantage of them.

The most important duty of the fleet is to protect the big docks ship yards, arsenals, warehouses and other places where the British have stored supplies for the army and fleet. In case England becomes involved in a war the enemy's fleets would start straight for Hong Kong, for it is the base of British supplies.

Could Britain by any accident be drawn into the war, Hong Kong would in Mr. Curtis' opinion be able to take care of itself. He says among other things:

The harbor has two entrances, one at either end, and both are commanded by extensive earthworks concealed among the hills and armed with the latest ordnance. No one is allowed to approach them. You cannot see the fortifications from the harbor nor from the ships as they enter and leave—only the roofs of the houses are visible. The guns are entirely concealed. There are immense barracks, military hospitals, warehouses, arsenals, machine shops, gun factories and other military institutions scattered all over the island, and at present 7,640 English and Indian troops and 5,597 sailors and marines are on duty here, while floating in the harbor is the largest fleet of battleships, cruisers and torpedo boats this side of the British channel. They all have their war paint on, the lead color that is supposed to be invisible, and are lying quietly, ready for whatever may turn up.

WARSAW.

A load of young people went to Norwood on Friday night and took in the play "The King's Daughters." They left Warsaw before the setting of the sun and returned about the rising. How and where they spent the time is a mystery.

Dr. Michell is in a great dilema. His footman has broken his arm. His butler has brain fever and his two maid servants have been married.

Mr. Harold Chaot's excursion to the west "Fritz" him very well. When the object of his journey is removed he will be a "Moloney" boy.

The Stokers' Union met on Wednesday evening last and decided to send a delegation to the annual Provincial Stokers' Union, to be held in Chemong on June 11. It was resolved that Mr. Roland Kidd and Dr. Michell be the delegates.

The citizens of Warsaw are waiting patiently for the first issue of the "Warsaw Times."

Warm weather has returned, much to the joy of the burghers. The steam yachts are plying to and fro with passengers, who bask in the sun and enjoy the picturesque scenery and beautiful cottages on shore.

The Best Tonic is Ferrosone—Read of the Marvel it Performed For Three Sisters in Lawrencetown—It Can Do The Same For You

Speaking for herself and sisters, Miss Dorothea Bordman writes; "I am anxious to make known the great benefit that I and my sisters derived from Ferrosone. A short time ago I was tired out and depressed, and felt as if some severe illness was hanging over me. I was so nervous that I found it hard to keep up with my work. Noticing that many Canadian women were being built up by Ferrosone I sent for a supply and took it regularly for a month. So great was the improvement that my sisters also took Ferrosone. Not one of us had a spark of color in our cheeks, but Ferrosone soon made our complexions ruddy. We soon had good appetites, slept better, and were helped a lot by Ferrosone. We still use Ferrosone, because we find it keeps our systems in a strong, healthy condition. It is certainly a wonderful tonic, and a fine remedy for weak women. Ferrosone has been worth its weight in gold in our family."

To take Ferrosone means you get more strength; means a reserve of energy, and protection against weakness and sickness. Ferrosone is a food medicine, that supplies the body with everything needed to build up the brain, blood and nerve tissues. If its health you seek, Ferrosone will bring it quickly. It is a food tonic that every woman should use. Refuse a substitute and see that you get the genuine Ferrosone. Price 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all Druggists or N. C. LOT'S STRATEGY

By SUSAN BROWN ROBBINS

Copyright, 1903, by the S. S. McClure Company

"I don't know what it is," said Lot despairingly.

"Imagination," returned his sister shortly.

Lot turned on her. "Look here, Maria Bemis," he said almost fiercely. "You pride yourself on your faculty for seeing things. You've been here three days, and haven't you seen that there was something come between us since you were here before and that she has stopped caring anything about me?" His voice broke at the last words, and he turned away from her.

Maria looked at his back, and there was an expression on her face of mingled pity, contempt and amusement.

"I've been here three days, Lot," she said quietly, "and I've seen that you are a pair of foolish children. But before I go on I want to ask you if you have got over caring for her."

Lot looked at her with indignation too strong for words.

"I didn't think you had," said his sister in a tone of relief. "If you had, it would be a serious state of affairs; but, as you haven't, I don't see any difficulties."

"You must admit that she isn't happy," he said at length.

"Yes."

"But, don't you see, it must be me, because she doesn't see anybody else, hardly."

She settled herself more comfortably on the grain chest and began to speak deliberately. "Don't you know that when two people, I don't care who they are, live on a lonely farm and don't see anybody but each other for weeks at a time—don't you know that they are bound to get morbid and imagine all sorts of things about themselves and each other? That is why so many farmers' wives go insane."

"But what can I do?" Lot asked, a look of terror in his face. "I've tried to get her to go to places with me, but I can't."

"I'll tell you," said Maria decisively. "The first nice day take her out over the farm and spend the day. I'll see to things while you are gone, and I'll put up a lunch for you. Show her all you are doing and plan to do. Take her to the pretty places and, most of all, make love to her as though your life depended on it."

"I don't believe she'd go. I couldn't persuade her. You've no idea how set she is."

Maria looked at her brother scornfully. "Perhaps you never heard of such a thing as strategy."

She turned away and walked out of the barn.

For a long time he stood looking at his Grandfather Stetson's old covered wagon. It had been considered an elegant affair in its day, but now it was seldom taken out except when some of the children came home at Thanksgiving or for short visits.

He took out his jackknife and opened it, felt of the edge, then got into the wagon and knelt down on the seat. Very carefully, and following the thread in the cloth, he cut a slit two inches long in the back of the seat. He picked at the cotton batting stuffing with the point of his knife. Then he let the flap go back in place, the cotton batting showing a little all along the cut. "That looks very natural," he muttered.

The next morning Lot spoke to his sister when Eunice was in another room. "Just as soon as the dew gets off some," he said, and she nodded after breakfast she carried to the barn a large covered basket, a demijohn of with a look of comprehension. Soon cold tea, a shawl and her sister-in-law's sunbonnet. These Lot helped her stow away under the back seat.

At 9 o'clock Lot came into the house. "I'm going to start off with the old covered wagon in a little while," he said, "and I find there's a tear or a cut in the back of the seat. Do you suppose you could mend it?"

Eunice went to get her workbasket. She found a piece of green cloth and pulled some ravellings from it; then she went out and got into the covered wagon and set quietly and patiently to work.

Lot watched her furtively from the barn. When he thought she was nearly half through he began harnessing with feverish haste. What if she should get through too soon? She looked around as he backed the horse into the shafts. "I'm not quite through yet, Lot," she said mildly.

"Don't hurry," he answered. He waited with the reins in his hand until she had taken the last stitch; then he jumped in, sat down beside her and spoke to the horse. Eunice half started to her feet, but he laid his hand gently on her arm, and she sank back again.

"We are going to ride over the farm," he said quietly.

He drove on, talking rapidly about his plans, recalling incidents of the haymaking and speaking of the getting in of the ensilage.

Eunice was silent, and in spite of his lively chatter Lot was anxious.

In the middle of the pasture Lot stopped the horse and glanced about. Some of the cows were feeding near, and they lifted their heads to look with big, inquiring eyes.

"Pretty good looking cattle, I call them," he said proudly. He paused. His face was quiet, white and agitated, and he did not dare look at his wife.

"I always thought an awful lot of Buttercup," said Eunice in her sweet, gentle voice. "I liked her looks so well that I learned her to drink and took all the care of her myself."

"Yes," he said, "I remember, and it was a good thing that you did take charge of her. She's made a fine cow." His voice grew curiously husky, and he spoke almost sharply to the horse. "Get up, Nell."

As they went slowly through the pasture the cows one by one dropped their noses to their feeding again. Eunice gazed about her eagerly, a new light in her face. "Oh," she sighed contentedly, "it is a lovely day."

The next path was very rough, and the wagon bobbed and pitched along, the overhanging bushes and young trees brushing against its top and sides. Eunice laughed like a child and now and then gave an involuntary little scream.

Lot laughed too. "I guess I'll have to put my arm around you," he said. And he drew her close, driving with his free hand.

"Isn't this fun?" she laughed. "And it won't hurt the wagon, either. How did you happen to think of such a nice idea?"

"Why didn't I think of it years ago?" he returned evasively. "I ought to have, with the poor little wife kept at home with a weak ankle."

"I have wanted to see the farm awfully," she said, nestling up to him as his arm went around her again, "but I didn't see how I could, and I never expected to."

Suddenly she impulsively threw her arms about his neck and buried her face on his shoulder with a little sob.

"It's awful silly," she murmured, "for folks as old as we are to act so spoony, but I—thought—I'd got a notion that you'd got all over caring anything about me, and I'm so glad to find it isn't so."

As for Lot, he held his wife close, and in his heart was a great joy.

They Agreed.

To his valet no man is a hero. Even his caddie is apt to hold the highest in very low estimation. The latter discovery was made the other day by a certain legal luminary who already had quite a modest opinion of his own abilities, though he has been for many years an ornament of the bench and is himself the son of a judge. During his off days he usually divides his energies between golf and dairy farming. On the occasion in question it happened to be golf, and not being in his usual form he made a very bad foozle.

He gazed incredulously at the ground, looked inquiringly at his club and having apparently solved the difficult problem faced his caddie and exclaimed with emphasis, "Well, I am an ass!" The caddie, startled out of a dream of bliss, was too well trained to contradict his employer, so he solemnly replied, "Yes, sir!" The man of law had overlooked the other's existence, but this candid opinion recalled him to earth. He looked at the caddie and the caddie looked at him for a brief second. Then both burst into a shout of laughter. The humor of the situation had struck them simultaneously.—London Tatler.

High Class Investment

THE OREGON MINING AND SMELTING COMPANY

Offer to Canadian investors a limited amount of stock of the above company. The property owned by the Company consists at the present time of about 500 acres, which are located in the Tarryall District and Park County, Colorado. This whole district has been known for years on account of its rich placer ground, and is now prominently before the public owing to the number of very good properties which have been opened up recently producing, principally, gold, and lately some that are producing Platinum. On the Oregon property there are a number of well known veins of low grade ore that will yield a profit by being treated on the ground of the company. The company have recently opened up a fine vein in the Hawkeye group and this vein shows not only good values but an immense amount of ore which alone would make the property very valuable. Assays from ore taken from various parts of this property range from a few dollars to $373 per ton in gold. We have very little silver, lead or copper in the district. The company have a shaft 240 feet deep, with a good shaft house thoroughly well equipped with all modern machinery to develop same. They are now driving a tunnel which is in about 700 feet and which will cut the Hawkeye vein about 330 feet deeper than where it is opened at present. There is enough ore exposed on the property of this company to keep them busy for a number of years and the reason for selling stock at the present time is to secure funds to build a mill. The company will probably join with the Almaden Company in building this mill. There is water enough to furnish water power and over 100 acres of fine spruce and pine timber. The affairs of the company have always been managed in a business-like economical manner and there are no officers' salaries. The monies received from sale of stock go direct into the property.

I can heartily recommend this stock as a sale, as well as an unusually good investment, because of the immense amount of ore which the company have already opened up. It is not a mere prospect, but the property has been developed by expense of a considerable amount of money and time.

The company is splendidly officered by men of integrity and high standing. The company has not pushed the sale of stock the last year owing to a delay in getting title to the ground from the Government, but now that has been satisfactorily adjusted and work will be pushed to a finish.

The number of exceedingly rich strikes which have been made during the last few weeks in the various camps in the State of Colorado is the best evidence of the prosperity of the mining business. Almost every camp in the state has opened up rich bodies of ore, and Park County is well in the lead in that line.

There are only $25,000 of stock for sale, at $1.00 per share. The company is capitalized at $200,000, and the advantage to the investor of selling the stock at par, is that every share is fully paid up and non-assessable.

PORT ARTHUR DOOMED JAPS WILL TAKE IT

Fortress Must be Reduced without Delay at All Costs--Will be Attacked on Land and Sea.

London, May 24.—The Post's special says that Japan is making immense preparations for the reduction of Port Arthur. The doomed city will be attacked by land and sea. Immense siege guns are being placed in position, and it is thought that these will be ready in a week's time.

Tokio, May 24.—Port Arthur is doomed. The loss of the battleship Hatsuse and of the cruiser, Yoshino, causes regret and sorrow throughout the nation, but at the same time the disaster has nerved the military and naval mind to the determination to storm the Russian sea fortress at all costs. No attempt is being made here to minimize the loss to the nation's strength. The destruction of the Hatsuse has deeply shocked the people. That vessel alone was considered equivalent to an army corps. No blame is attached to the officers. It is realized that the unfortunate vessel was sunk by an unavoidable accident, and that both the Hatsuse and the Yoshino had done excellent work in the recent naval operations. Confidence in Admiral Togo and the naval leaders is unshaken, and the army and navy are not daunted in the slightest degree by the comparative slight loss at sea which leaves Japan still in command of the naval situation. At the same time it is felt that Port Arthur must fall at once, and a determined effort will be made to effect its capture the moment proper preparations have been completed. Siege guns have yet to be placed in position, and the land forces appointed for the assault have to be strengthened. The unexpected loss of two fine vessels has emphasized the insecurity of sea power, and the authorities feel that no chances must be taken that would encourage Russia to send out the Baltic fleet, counting on finding a harbor of refuge in Port Arthur.

It is realized that the storming of the fortress will inevitably cost many lives, but it is said that the waters where the Japanese ships are forced to manoeuvre are becoming so dangerous because of floating mines that heroic measures are imperative. Under these circumstances it is thought that life will be economized by storming the stronghold and eliminating it and the adjacent waters from the area of actual conflict. It was stated at the Ministry of War this morning that the Japanese leaders know of no reason for altering the general plan of land campaign because of changed probabilities at the point of the peninsula.

RUSSIANS CLAIMS TO HOLD HER OWN WITH JAPS

Japanese Troops Met with a Reverse at a Kin-Chau on the 15th but Held Railway

Chefoo, May 24.—Forty Russians, who left Dalny Sunday, arrived here today. Up to the date of their departure Dalny had not been attacked by the enemy.

According to their account, the Japanese troops met with a reverse at Kin Chau on the 15th inst., but the Russians failed to regain control of the railway. They are positive that another Japanese war vessel was damaged at the time the battleship Hatsuse was destroyed. Civilians, in daily expectation of an attack upon Dalny by the Japanese forces, are leaving there on junks.

A STORY THAT WILL NOT DOWN.

Chefoo, May 24.—The captain of a Russian merchantman, who left Port Arthur on May 20, and is among the recent arrivals from Dalny, says in an interview that the whole of the Japanese fleet had not returned to Port Arthur since the 15th instant when, besides the battleship Hatsuse another big vessel struck a mine and was towed away disabled.

Gunboats and torpedo boats returned off the port on the 20th instant, when the Russians succeeded in sinking a small gunboat and two torpedo boats.

RUSSIANS ARE CONFIDENT.

The Russians are now confident of holding Port Arthur with the thirty thousand men stationed there, exclusive of the navy and the crowd of mechanics working on the damaged warships, all of which except the Czarewitch and the Ratvizan, are ready to rejoin the fleet. These will also be ready for sea service by June 1st.

The entrance to the harbor has been cleared and small boats now pass in and out freely from Port Arthur to Dalny.

The forts on the escadallis of Port Arthur have been completed, and are now prepared for a severe contest.

Of the few soldiers left at Dalny, the majority have gone to Port Arthur and the only defences left there now are the mines in the harbor.

The attempt of the Japanese to land troops in the Kin Chau Gulf on the 16th instant failed, owing to insufficient water to float the boats.

NEW TERROR IN NAVAL WARFARE

England Disturbed over Blowing up of the Japanese Battleship

London, May 24. — Englishmen, whose whole defence is on the sea, have been made supremely uncomfortable this week by Japan's ill luck. As one of the Conservative papers says, "As loss of the Hatsuse shows how slight, comparatively, is the tenure on which maritime superiority is held. A battleship is the equivalent of at least an army corps, but an army corps cannot be annihilated in five minutes because a non-commissioned officer has lost his head or because a dashing subaltern of the enemy's cavalry has risked his life on a forlorn hope. This is what may come about at sea at any moment."

A NEW WAR TERROR.

War gains quite a new terror for the greatest maritime power if the indiscriminate sowing of open waters with floating mines is to become a general feature. One journal pictures the harbor of New York mined against attack, and many mines floating daily into the Gulf stream. The danger presumably is outside the scope of that strange vague thing called international law, but it is felt that it might usefully form the subject of a Geneva convention. Bellicose minded Englishmen dwell upon the terrible risk of reliance on a slight margin of numerical superiority in ships over the navies of possible enemies; in other words, England must have more warships, must better the two power standard.

THE KING AND PEACE.

Others find in the week's incidents fresh reason for wishing success to King Edwards coming visit to Kiel. The King sees that French friendship being secure, the German Emperor's personal sympathy would immensely assist whatever pacificatory measures the European governments have found it possible to suggest. Out of the Kiel visit some first approaches towards an armament agreement may very well come.

MR. BALFOUR A CHAMBERLAINITE.

This week's debate in the House of Commons on the fiscal question clears up some doubts. It proves, as the Spectator says today, that "Mr. Balfour is a Chamberlainite, and when in his judgment the proper time has come, will publicly proclaim himself one. To proclaim himself at this moment, would precipitate a crisis which would destroy the Government and produce a dissolution, and Mr. Balfour does not want dissolution."

AN UNDERSTANDING REACHED.

The compact between Mr. Balfour and Mr. Chamberlain is, in fact, based roughly upon an understanding that Mr. Balfour shall not be obliged to go as far as Mr. Chamberlain at the present moment, he may refuse to go beyond the retaliation idea, but is obliged not to do or say anything hostile to Mr. Chamberlain's full policy. Moreover, Mr. Balfour will not support those Ministerialists, called Unionist free-traders, who oppose Mr. Chamberlain, nor hinder Mr. Chamberlain's plans to purge the Unionist party of these free traders.

During the present session neither Mr. Balfour nor Mr. Chamberlain will bring the fiscal question before Parliament, but when the general election comes, probably in the spring, so much of the Ministerial party as supports Mr. Chamberlain will make a frank and open appeal for Imperial reciprority, plus a moderate tariff. Mr Balfour must then make his final decision, and there is little doubt that he and most of his special followers will join the Chamberlain forces, leaving Mr. Winston Churchill, Lord Hugh Cecil, Mr. Ritchie, and a band of perhaps thirty Unionists, to join the Liberals or form a new fourth Unionist free trade party. That Chamberlainism will not lack funds was indicated at this week's meeting of its political supporters, when $125,000 were subscribed offhand.

TO CANADIAN INVESTORS

I desire to call the attention of investors to the

Smuggler Gold Mining Co.'s Proposition

of which I am the authorized agent

Investments in mining stocks where they can be purchased cheaply whose property contains merit and whose directors are men of unquestionable honor and integrity, and especially when sufficient work has been done to guarantee a producing mine and the leads have been demonstrated to be permanent, offer the greatest opportunity for large returns from modest investments.

The shrewdest capitalists of England and America are giving more attention to mining properties and putting more money into them than at any time in the past history of the world.

The Smuggler Group consists of five full sized claims, to-wit:—The Smuggler, Gangron, Black Jack, Star and Bed Rock, located in the Greenhorn District of Eastern Oregon. Surrounding mines are Potosi, Pride of Pendleton, Bonanza and Rockefeller, developing work to the extent of 1,000 feet of tunnelling, drifts and crosscuts have been made, exposing hundreds of tons of high grade ore, averaging from $25 to $45 per ton, based on smelter returns and for the purpose of equipping the mines a limited number of shares of Treasury Stock will be sold at 25 cents per share, the par value of which is $1.00.

THE GREAT WORK GOING ON IN MUSKOKA.

1,000 Patients Treated in the Two Muskoka Hospitals — the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Surprising Decrease of 25 Per Cent. in the Last Three Years in Deaths from Consumption.

Fifty-five Different Trades and Professions Represented by the Patients Admitted to the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Two Pavilions have had to be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds, and the Number of Patients Reduced from 75 to 50.

$25,000 Wanted this Year to Carry on this Great Work.

With a view of helping to bring to the attention of the public the needs of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have pleasure in publishing the following letter, in which an appeal is made for funds.

Dear Friend,—

It again becomes necessary to make an urgent appeal for funds for the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

A very heavy debt is pressing upon the trustees.

In addition to this, funds must be provided for the maintenance of patients. Last month there was a deficiency of nearly $1,500 over and above receipts from all sources.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives was opened eighteen months ago. 225 patients have been admitted.

No patient has ever been refused admission because of his or her poverty.

1,000 patients have been cared for in the two Muskoka Hospitals, the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The majority of these have either been cured, or so helped that they have been enabled to again become bread-winners for the family.

The public are beginning to find evidence of our work.

Already there has been a decrease of nearly 25 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption in the Province of Ontario.

The last report of the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health shows that in the last three years the deaths from consumption in Ontario have decreased from 3,484 to 2,694, a decrease of 790, or nearly 25 per cent.

This is the more gratifying when we remember that for a number of years previously the same report showed a steadily increasing death-rate prior to 1899.

Who will doubt that the work of our two Hospitals in Muskoka, and the persistent educational campaign carried on, has not helped to secure this surprising result?

In what better way can your gifts bring so good a return?

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 50.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

Very truly yours,

W. J. Gage

Old Hagar's Secret

BY MRS. M. J. HOLMES

Author of "For a Woman's Sake," "Love's Triumph," "Purified by Suffering," "A Grass Widow," "Woman Against Woman," Etc.

Hagar; then bending down, so that her wild eyes looked full in Maggie's eyes, she said, "Are you beginning to like this Englishman?"

"Why, no, I guess I ain't," answered Mag, coloring slightly, "I dislike him dreadfully, he's so proud. Why, he did the same as to say that if I were your grandchild he would not ride with me."

"My grandchild, Maggie Miller!—my grandchild?" shrieked Hagar. "What put that into his head?"

Thinking her emotion caused by anger at Arthur Carrollton, Mag mentally chided herself for having inadvertently said what she did, while, at the same time, she tried to soothe old Hagar, who rocked to and fro, as was her custom when her "crazy spells" were on. Growing a little more composed, she said, at last, "Marry Henry Warner, by all means, Maggie; he ain't as proud as Carrollton—he would not care so much if he knew it."

"Knew what?" asked Mag; and, remembering herself in time, Hagar answered adroitly, "Knew of your promise to let me live with you. You remember it, don't you?" and she looked wistfully toward Mag, who, far more intent upon something else, answered, "Yes, I remember. But hush! Don't I hear horses' feet coming rapidly through the woods?" and running to the window, she saw Mr Carrollton, mounted upon Gritty, and riding furiously toward the house.

"You go out, Hagar, and see if he is looking for me," whispered Mag, stepping back, so he could not see.

"Henry Warner must snare the bird quick, or he will lose it," muttered Hagar, as she walked to the door, where, evidently much excited, Mr. Carrollton asked if "she knew aught of Miss Miller, and why Gritty had come home alone? It is such an unusual occurrence," said he, "that we felt alarmed, and I have come in quest of her."

From her post near the window, Maggie could plainly see his face, which was very pale, and expressive of much concern, while his voice, she fancied, trembled as he spoke her name.

"He does care," she thought; woman's pride was satisfied, and ere Hagar could reply she ran out, saying laughingly, "And so you thought maybe I was killed, but I'm not. I concluded to walk home and let Gritty go on in advance. I did not mean to frighten grandma."

"She was not as much alarmed as myself," said Mr. Carrollton, the troubled expression of his countenance changing at once. "You do not know how anxious I was when I saw Gritty come riderless to the door, nor yet how relieved I am in finding you thus unharmed."

Maggie knew she did not deserve this, and blushing like a guilty child, she offered no resistance when he lifted her in the saddle gently—tenderly, as if she had indeed escaped some great danger.

"It is time you were home," said he; and, throwing the bridle across his arm, he rested his hand upon the saddle and walked slowly by her side.

All his fancied coldness was forgotten; neither was the leap, nor yet the bridge, once mentioned, for he was only too happy in having her back alive, while she was doubting the propriety of an experiment, which, in the two matters had taken, seemed to involve deception. Observing at last that he occasionally pressed his hand upon his side, she asked the cause, and was told that he had formerly been subject to a pain in his side, which excitement or fright greatly augmented. "I hoped I was free from it," he said, "but the sight of Gritty dashing up to the door without you brought on a slight attack; for I knew if you were harmed the fault was mine for having rather unceremoniously deserted you."

This was more than Mag could endure in silence. The frank ingenuousness of her nature prevailed, and turning toward him her dark, beautiful eyes, in which tears were shining, she said "Forgive me, Mr. Carrollton. I sent Gritty home on purpose to see if you would be annoyed, for I felt vexed because you would not humor my whim and meet me at the bridge. I am sorry I caused you any uneasiness," she continued, as she saw a shadow flit over his face. "Will you forgive me?"

Arthur Carrollton could not resist the pleading of those lustrous eyes, nor yet refuse to take the ungloved hand she offered him; and if, in token of reconciliation, he did press it a little more fervently than Henry Warner would have thought at all necessary, he only did what under the circumstances, it was very natural he should do. From the first Maggie Miller had been a puzzle to Arthur Carrollton; but he was fast learning to read her—was beginning to understand how perfectly artless she was—and this little incident increased, rather than diminished, his admiration.

"I will forgive you, Maggie," he said, "on one condition. You must promise never again to experiment with my feelings in a similar manner."

The promise was readily given, and then they proceeded on as leisurely as if at home there was no anxious grandmother vibrating between her high-backed chair and the piazza, nor yet an Anna Jeffrey, watching them enviously as they came slowly up the road.

That night there came to Mr. Carrollton a letter from Montreal, saying his immediate presence was necessary there, on a business matter of some importance, and he accordingly decided to go on the morrow.

"When may we expect you back?" asked Madam Conway, as in the morning he was preparing for his journey.

"It will, perhaps, be two months at least before I return," said he, adding that there was a possibility of his being obliged to go immediately to England.

In the recess of the window Mag was standing, thinking there was no such thing as parting from those she liked—even as little as she did Arthur Carrollton.

"I won't let him know that I care, though," she thought, and forcing a smile to her face, she was about turning to bid him good-by when she heard him tell her grandmother of the possibility there was that he would be obliged to go directly to England from Montreal.

"Then I may never see him again," she thought, and her tears burst forth involuntarily at the idea of parting with him forever.

Faster and faster they came, until at last, fearing lest he should see them, she ran away up stairs, and mounting to the roof, sat down behind the chimney, where, herself unobserved, she could watch him far up the road. From the half-closed door of her chamber, Anna Jeffrey had seen Mag stealing up the tower stairs, had seen, too, that she was weeping, and suspecting the cause, she went quietly down to the parlor to hear what Arthur Carrollton would say. The carriage was waiting, his trunk was in its place, his hat was in his hand, to Madam Conway he said good-by, to Anna Jeffrey, too, and still he lingered, looking wistfully round in quest of something, which evidently was not there.

"Where's Margaret?" he asked at last, and Madam Conway answered, "Surely, where can she be? Have you seen her, Anna?"

"I saw her on the stairs some time ago," said Anna, adding that possibly she had gone to see Hagar, she usually visited her at this hour.

A shade of disappointment passed over Mr. Carrollton's face as he replied, "Tell her I am sorry she thinks more of Hagar than of me," leaning against the chimney. Mag watched with tearful eyes the carriage as it wound up the grassy road.

The next moment he was gone, and On the brow of the hill, just before it would disappear from sight, it suddenly stopped. Something was the matter with the harness, and while John was busy adjusting it Mr. Carrollton leaned from the window, and looking back, started involuntarily as he caught sight of the figure so clearly defined upon the house-top. A slight suspicion of the truth came upon him, and kissing his hand, he waved it gracefully toward her. Mag's handkerchief was wet with tears, but she shook it out in the morning breeze, and sent to Arthur Carrollton, as she thought, her last good-by.

Fearing lest her grandmother should see her swollen eyes, she stole down the stairs, and taking her shawl and bonnet from the table in the hall, ran off into the woods, going to a pleasant, sunny bank, not far from Hagar's cottage, where she had more than once sat with Arthur Carrollton, and where she fancied she would never sit with him

The Local Post Office to be Greatly Improved

The residents of Peterborough will learn with pleasure that Mr. R. R. Hall, the Liberal candidate for the West Riding, has succeeded in interesting the Government in this important matter and has received assurances that an appropriation will be made for the carrying out of the improvements which are necessary, or thought to be necessary. It is proposed to have two general delivery wickets, and possibly a third one, for the delivery of parcels to box holders. The arrangements are said to include a complete outfit of new boxes and fittings, which will no doubt be made up to date in every respect.

Col. A RARE CHANCE

FOR CANADIAN INVESTORS

THOMAS PATTERSON & CO.

BROKERS, PETERBOROUGH

HAVING BEEN APPOINTED CANADIAN FISCAL AGENTS OF THE

CRIPPLE CREEK ENTERPRISE GOLD MINING COMPANY

of Colorado, beg to inform their customers and investors generally that they have secured a block of stock of this Company, which they now offer for sale at 35 cents per share—par value $1.00.

This stock is bound to advance rapidly. All Shareholders are on an equal basis, no preferred stock. This is a proposition in all its details so simple that every shareholder will know at all times the value of his holdings. With the vast quantities of ore now in sight, and the facilities that will be put into operation to mine it, every dollar invested in this way may yield ten, twenty and a hundred fold. As has been chronicled in hundreds of instances in Cripple Creek, where persons have purchased stock in the early stages of a mine, the price at which the stock is offered is such a bargain that it cannot fail to be subscribed for at an early date, therefore investors should act quickly.

The shares are fully paid up and non-assessable (no individual liability). Each and every share represents a distinct and liberal portion of an enterprise which it is fully believed will produce millions of dollars.

The Cripple Creek Company is splendidly officered by men of high repute and with an expert knowledge of mining in all its details. The Company was organized to operate in Colorado, and properly incorporated under the laws of that State.

In the incorporation of the Company 500,000 shares of the capital stock were set aside for development purposes, and cannot be used in any other way.

We will be pleased to give full particulars to investors, and would say in conclusion. Buy now! Get in on the ground floor, as the stock will quickly advance.

Full particulars in every detail will be given to all to whom such a proposition may appeal, but please do not ask for them unless y cally are interested, because ou waste your own time and ours also.

Capital $1,000,000, 500,000 Shares in Treasury

Property includes two great mining estates—one gold, the other copper—both containing wide, deep, proven veins of high and low grade ore.

Development work has been systematically carried on, with results that more than justify every claim made by the company, and unquestionably proves the destiny of the property to equal that of the greatest successful mining companies of the world.

Above Statement Can be Easily Verified

The following two facts alone will give anyone familiar with mining, a rough idea of the great value of the property.

The Copper King Group contains one vein 30 feet wide, 8 feet of which runs from $10 to $16 per ton, and the Company owns 2,000 feet on this vein.

Ore running from $18 to $30 per ton is continually being shipped from the gold property, and 24 samples taken from widely different portions of the vein system averaged $26.25 per ton.

FACILITIES—The Company owns 1,720 acres of placer and timber land, water power of 60 (maintenance) horse power. No expensive shaft work necessary. Ore easily treated on Company's property, thus saving freight and smelter charges.

NEWS BY CABLE TO-DAY OF THE FISCAL FIGHT

BALFOUR AND CHAMBERLAIN HAVE AGREED UP THERE POLICY A CONTINENTAL CUT IN ATLANTIC STEERAGE RATES

London, May 24—Last weeks' debate in the House of Commons on the fiscal question clears up some doubts. It proves, as the Spectator says, that "Mr. Balfour is a chamberlainite and when in his judgment the proper time has come, will publicly proclaim himself one. To proclaim himself a Chamberlainite at this moment would precipitate a crisis which would destroy the government and produce a dissolution, and Mr. Balfour does not want dissolution." The compact between Mr. Balfour and Mr Chamberlain is, in fact, based roughly upon an understanding that Mr. Balfour shall not be obliged to go as far as Mr. Chamberlain goes at the present moment, that he may refuse now to go beyond the retaliation idea, but is obliged not to do or say anything hostile to Mr. Chamberlain's full policy. Moreove Mr. Balfour will not support those Ministerialists, called Unionist "free fooders," who oppose Mr. Chamberlain, in oblrinder Mr Chamberlain's plans to purge the Unionist party of such free traders. During the present session neither Mr. Balfour nor Mr. Chamberlain will bring the fiscal question to ore parliament, but when the general election comes, probably in the spring, so much of the Ministerial party as supports Mr Chamberlain will make a frank and open appeal for imperial reciprocity, plus a moderate tariff. Mr. Balfour must then make his final decision, and there is little doubt that he and most of his special followers will join the Chamberlain forces, leaving Mr. Winston Churchill, Lord Hugh Cecil, Mr Ritchie and a band of perhaps thirty Unionists, to join the Liberals or form a new fourth Unionist free trade party. That Chamberlainism will not lack funds was indicated at last week's meeting of its political supporters, when $125,000 were subscribed offhand.

SIR WILFRID LAWSON'S BILL.

London, May 24.—Sir Wilfrid Lawson's liquor sellers liability bill, just issued by the printers, has a memorandum declaring that the bill follows precedents established in Canada, and America, giving the right of action for damages against the seller, compensation to dependents of a person imprisoned for intoxication, or for a fatal accident, murder arising from intoxication, or bodily injury to an habitual drunkard.

RULES FOR LONG LIFE.

London, May 24.—These rules for prolonging life have been laid down before the Royal College of Physicians, London, by Dr Herman Weber:

Moderation in eating, drinking and physical indulgence.

Pure air, out of the house and within.

Keep every vital organ in constant working order.

Regular exercise every day in all weathers.

Sleep only from six to seven hours; going to bed early and rising early.

Daily baths, warm one day, cold the next.

Regular work and mental occupation. Cultivate placidity, cheerfulness, hopefulness. Control passions and nervous fear. Strengthen the will in carrying out whatever is useful. Check the craving for stimulants and anodynes.

Toronto, May 24.—The town of Meaford is without a mayor or council. Mayor John D. Smith and Councillors Sewell, Farrar, Stephen and Snider were unseated to-day by the Master in Chambers, because they, acting for the town, have borrowed and spent more than the statute permits, which for towns must not exceed eighty per cent. of the taxes of the previous year, inclusive, according to the Master's decision, of school and debenture funds. The Master also gave costs against them, adding that the ratepayers might reimburse them by subscription if they choose. It is likely the mayor and councillors will be re-elected, as they were in March last, when they resigned on the announcement that these proceedings would be taken.

THE BORROWED RIG

A TRUE ANIMAL STORY OF WHAT HAPPENED TO A PETERBOROUGH COUPLE

The following story was given the Times for publication, and its truth is vouched for.

In the west end there lives a man who owns a horse and buggy. Nearby is a young neighbor of the thrifty sort who borrows the rig to save livery bills. With the outfit goes a faithfully collie. The other afternoon the thrifty neighbor made the customary touch to take a "lady" friend out to Lakefield. The faithful dog trotted along behind and all went well until some May flowers beside the road beyond Ashburnham took them and maid to stop the horse, clamber down and gather a bunch. True to his training the faithful dog jumped up into the buggy and went on guard duty. He had never been formally introduced to the couple and when they started to climb back in he showed his teeth and growled. "Nay, nay, Pauline This is my masters' rig and I don't know you." Both threat and persuasion were in vain and residents along that road were mystified to see a young man, leading a horse attached to a buggy on the east of which perched a big shaggy dog, walking slowly back to town, while a bedraggled young woman followed meekly behind. Then the young man made his weary way to Park street, where he turned the whole outfit over to the owner, with the remark the next time he would leave the dog at home. But the wise owner winked at the dog. The dog blinked back with pure instinct, and the owner said: "Ah, but the dog goes with the rig always."

RUSSIA BLAMES THEMSELVES

The Educated Russians and the Present National Fiasco.

St. Petersburg, May 24.—Educated Russia attributes the national fiasco in the Far East to the lack of general culture. Interchanges of opinion are in progress between the leading professors of the land as to how their view can best be recommended to the government. It is probable that the throne may be memorialized. The professors who are alarmed as to the future of the country, are willing to append their names to the statement of their fears, coupled with a declaration of the principles they consider necessary to avert disaster.

It is not hoped to stem the tide that is overwhelming Russian strength in Manchuria. It is believed that the temporary loss of everything Russia has south of the Amur is all but certain. They purpose to build against continued disaster and if possible in the course of time to retrieve the prestige of the Russian name in the distant East. Intellectual centres are in a state of activity scarcely surpassed by the seething activity of official quarters. Ideas are circulating never before heard in Russia, and the prospect is filled with promise of great changes.

FORTIFYING HAI CHENG.

New Chwang, May 23.—The latest authentic reports show that there are two divisions of the Yalu army. One is moving on Hai Cheng and the other was going towards Liao Yang.

It is understood that the siege guns removed from the New Chwang forts and taken to the Hai Cheng forts were mounted there to-day. A field battery was also placed in position.

The Russians claim that they will place 3000 men in New Chwang in a few days, but this is believed to few days, but this is believed to be an exaggeration. The Japanese control the railroad south of Wa Fang Tien, and the Russian force between there and New Chwang is small, consisting of a few scouts.

Almost all the railroad wires are down, but the Russian military telegraph line between New Chwang and Port Arthur is working and the Japanese are tapping it.

A FAR-AWAY ORDER

British Columbia Government Orders Hospital Tent

Messrs. J. J. Turner & Son, the progressive tent and awning manufacturers, yesterday received an order from the government of British Columbia for one of their famous hospital tents. The order also stated that twenty additional tents would be required if this sample one proved satisfactory. Of this there is no doubt as these tents are everywhere regarded as the best in the world.

THE GREAT WORK GOING ON IN MUSKOKA.

1,000 Patients Treated in the Two Muskoka Hospitals—the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Surprising Decrease of 25 Per Cent. in the Last Three Years in Deaths from Consumption.

Fifty-five Different Trades and Professions Represented by the Patients Admitted to the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Two Pavilions have had to be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds, and the Number of Patients Reduced from 75 to 50.

$25,000 Wanted this Year to Carry on this Great Work.

With a view of helping to bring to the attention of the public the needs of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have pleasure in publishing the following letter, in which an appeal is made for funds.

Dear Friend,—

It again becomes necessary to make an urgent appeal for funds for the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

A very heavy debt is pressing upon the trustees.

In addition to this, funds must be provided for the maintenance of patients. Last month there was a deficiency of nearly $1,500 over and above receipts from all sources.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives was opened eighteen months ago. 225 patients have been admitted.

No patient has ever been refused admission because of his or her poverty.

1,000 patients have been cared for in the two Muskoka Hospitals, the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The majority of these have either been cured, or so helped that they have been enabled to again become bread-winners for the family.

The public are beginning to find evidence of our work.

Already there has been a decrease of nearly 25 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption in the Province of Ontario.

The last report of the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health shows that in the last three years the deaths from consumption in Ontario have decreased from 3,484 to 2,694, a decrease of 790, or nearly 25 per cent.

This is the more gratifying when we remember that for a number of years previously the same report showed a steadily increasing death-rate prior to 1899.

Who will doubt that the work of our two Hospitals in Muskoka, and the persistent educational campaign carried on, has not helped to secure this surprising result?

In what better way can your gifts bring so good a return?

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 50.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

Very truly yours,

W. J. Gage

Toronto, December 10, 1903.

Sir Wm. R. Meredith, Kt., or Mr. W. J. Gage, Toronto, will receive and acknowledge any contributions made.

Powerful Healing Effective Cure

FOR COLDS, COUGHS, CATARRH BRONCHITIS AND ASTHMA

Simply Inhale Catarrhozone; it Cures Because it Goes where the Disease Actually Is.

These diseases cannot be cured by stomach medicines; they must be treated locally. Catarrhozone is inhaled to the very source of the trouble, and gives the diseased membranes local treatment with the strongest, most-healing antiseptics known.

After one trial of Catarrhozone you will wonder how you ever lived without it. Nasty colds in the head it cures in an hour, coughs are stopped in two hours, and catarrh and bronchitis are relieved at once. Nothing could be simpler or more pleasant than to inhale the fragrant vapor of Catarrhozone. Nothing is half so certain to cure your trouble permanently.

Nor is proof of Catarrozone's merit lacking, for it is endorsed more strongly by the medical profession than any other remedy. Its superiority to-day is unquestioned, and its sale by far exceeds that of any other two remedies on the market. Why? Because it does what is claimed for it—cures permanently those who use it for any disease of the breathing organs.

Mr. S E. MacAuley, the well-known attorney of Portland, endorses Catarrhozone in the following letter. "I am anxious to make known that after three years' suffering from weak throat and catarrh, I have been cured byn Catarrhozone.' I was treated by many doctors of wide reputation. I have used scores of different remedies. I have suffered everything catarrh entails, and I am convinced that no medicine is so sure to cure as Catarrhozone, which did me untold good and completely eradicated this awful disease from my system.'

Complete outfit, guaranteed to cure costs $1, sample size 25c. At all druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., or Hartford, Conn. U.S.A. Beware of substitutes and insist on getting Catarrhozone when you ask for it.

Delegate to England

Mr. R. C. Braund, the enterprising general merchant, has been appointed a delegate from Peterborough to the great Salvation Army Congress which will assemble in London in July. It is expected that there will be at least 100,000 delegates present, from 49 different countries throughout the world. Mr. Braund will leave about June 6th.

The Care of Lawns

An expert in lawn watering sends the following to the Hamilton Times. It is reproduced for the benefit of Peterborough owners of lawns: Don't water your lawn too much, or begin to water before it needs it. This weakens the grass and makes it soft, drawing the roots up to the surface. Twice a week should be sufficient if well soaked. A thorough soaking once a week is better than daily watering. If your lawn will not stand for three days or four without water there must be a deficiency of good soil, and without good soil you cannot have a good lawn.

The Children's Protection Act:

Section 5 of the above act, amended in 1903, provides for the appointment in each electoral district within the Province of a committee of six persons or more, not less than half of whom shall be women, who shall be known as the "Children's committee" and each member may be known as a children's agent. The said committee, or members thereof, shall cooperate with the Superintendent of Neglected and Dependent Children (Mr. J. J. Kelso, Toronto), and with the local Children's Aid Society, and assist in every possible way in the work of improving the condition of neglected and dependent children. In compliance with the act, in March last Judge Dean, Warden Shannon, and Sheriff McLennan different parts of the Ridings, and forwarded to Mr. Kelso the following names of persons who have consented to act viz.: West Riding, Mrs. E. LeTeru, Little Britain; Mrs. C. E. Weeks, Mrs. (Dr.) John McKay, Woodville; Mr. Thomas Watson, Sonya; Mr. John Walsh, Kirkfield, and Mr. Newton Smale Lindsay. East Riding—John Bailey, Head Lake; Miss T. Scully, Renboro, Mr. Eugene Shine, Downeyville. Mr. Kelso had forwarded the above names to Miss E. E. FAVOR PURCHASE OF SEPARATE SCHOOL GROUNDS

Providing the Government Grants $40,000 and the Town 12,000

A special meeting of the Board of Education was held last evening in the office of the Secretary to consider the question of purchasing a site for the proposed new Collegiate Institute building. There were present Messrs J. J. Hartley, chairman, J. Stevenson P. Hamilton, W. G. Ferguson, L. M. Hayes, F. J. Jamieson, W. H. Hill, Wm. Pringle, V. Eastwood, R. Fair, R. B. Rogers and H. P. Kennedy.

The meeting was called to order at the appointed time, when the chairman briefly stated the object for which they had come together, and asked if the Special committee appointed to look over the ground were prepared to present a report.

A report was then read favoring the purchase of the Separate school grounds, west of the drill shed, at a cost of $30,000, on condition that the Government grant $10,000 toward it.

The Board then went into committee of the whole, and at the suggestion of one of the members, Mr R. R. Hall was heard as to the likelihood of the Government contributing said amount.

Mr. Hall stated, we understand, that he had reason to believe the Government would do so.

The committee then rose, when the report was adopted by a large majority, subject, of course, to the granting of the sum named by the Government, and a further sum of some $10,000 or $12,000 by the Town.

The Board then adjourned.

ELECTED BY ACCLAMATION

Mr. Henry Moore, North Dummer, was elected to the County Council by acclamation at Warsaw yesterday. Mr. Frank Moher was returning officer. Mr. Moore will fill the vacancy in the 5th Division caused by the death of Ex-Warden Crowe.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Movements of the People—What They Are Doing and Saying

—Mr. Harry Browning, of St. Catharines, spent the holiday with relatives in town.

—We had the pleasure of a call yesterday from Mr. W. D. Parker, who spent the holiday in town.

—Mr. R. A. Dutton left for Montreal this morning to purchase a couple of carloads of lemons and oranges.

—Mr. Alex. Haggart, K.C., formerly of this town, was elected to the Aldermanic Board at Winnipeg on Monday.

—Mr. John Smith, of the Hume store, Campbellford, spent the holiday in town visiting friends and renewing acquaintances.

BREEZY LOCAL BREVITIES.

By The Times Reporters on Their Daily Rounds

—At the police court yesterday an assault case was enlarged until tomorrow morning.

—St. Andrew's Young Men's Guild will run their annual excursion on the third Thursday of June, to the back lakes.

—The Charlotte street Epworth League will meet next Friday, instead of Monday. A social evening with a good program will be given.

—Lord Dundonald desires to have it stated publicly that he fully intended to attend both concerts given on Tuesday night, but lack of time prevented him from carrying out his intentions, which fact he deeply regretted.

—The High Court at Toronto has just ousted the mayor and council of Meaford for borrowing and spending more money on account of their town than the statute permits. "And I must give costs against them," said his honor, "for their action is deliberate. But the ratepayers may reimburse them by subscriptions if they care to do so."

WARSAW.

A load of young people went to Norwood on Friday night and took in the play "The King's Daughters." They left Warsaw before the setting of the sun and returned about the rising. How and where they spent the time is a mystery.

Dr. Michell is in a great dilema. His footman has broken his arm, his butler has brain fever and his two maid servants have been married.

Mr. Harold Chaot's excursion to the west "Frits" him very well. When the object of his journey is removed he will be a "Mojoney" boy.

The Stokers' Union met on Wednesday evening last and decided to send a delegation to the annual Provincial Stokers' Union, to be held in Chemaka on June 11. It was resolved that Mr. Roland Kidd and Dr. Michell be the delegates.

The citizens of Warsaw are waiting patiently for the first issue of the "Warsaw Times."

Warm weather has returned, much to the joy of the burghers. The steam yachts are plying to and fro with passengers, who bask in the sun and enjoy the picturesque scenery and beautiful cottages on shore.

EVERYBODY READS THE TIMES.

There are a great many hungry hearted women who would attend a baby sale if babies were ever offered for sale, because there are a great many wives who love children and have been told by physicians that they can never hope to nurse a child of their own.

Some of these women who have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of womanly ills have been made happy mothers as a result of the cure of womanly disease and the building up of the general health.

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I wrote to you some time ago to get information about my case," says Mrs. Mary Lee Pleasary, of Dryden, Va. "I was troubled with female weakness and pains. Received answer from you advising me to take Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I took two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and found it did me good. I had been married four years and had no children; now I can say that our house is blessed with a little baby boy, born July 7th, by the help of God and your medicine. I praise your medicine highly.

A CLERGYMAN'S APPEAL.

The Rev. W. F. Brownlee, Ridgetown, Anglican minister, has written the following letter to the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives:—

Dear Sir,—I fell in with a case to-day in my parish, a young woman very ill with consumption and I promised I would write you regarding her entrance into the hospital for consumptives in Muskoka. The case is one of great necessity and charity. The applicant is about 18 years of age. She is practically without a home, staying at present with a relative. She is bright and amiable, and would like to live. As I understand, you reject none on account of poverty. I commend the case to you as one most needy, and if you can send me instructions or papers for application to the hospital, I will see to raising necessary means for her transportation and have her sent at once, as I imagine she is not beyond receiving benefit.

[Note by Editor.—Sir Wm. R. Meredith, Kt., Vice-President of the National Sanitarium Association, or Mr. W. J. Gage, Chairman of the Executive Committee, Toronto, will gladly receive contributions for this and several other equally pitiful cases calling for help.]

PROPERTIES SITUATED NEAR SILVERTON, SAN JUAN COUNTY, COLORADO. Properties consist of three groups; namely,—

THE PROSPECT BASIN AND MAMMOTH TUNNEL GROUP of 30 claims and Tunnel site aggregating 570 acres of mineral ground all held by location, and free from any conflict as to title; also in same location, three mill sites and one lode claim, total 25 acres all now being patented

THE LEAD CARBONATE GROUP, adjoining the Gold King, of 78⅓ acres all of mineral territory; this group is patented

THE STONY PASS GROUP, 110 acres in Stony Gulch, surveyed for patent which will shortly be applied for; no adverses; title perfectly clear.

Total area Mineral territory	758⅓	Acres
" " Mill and building sites	55	"
" " Timber properties	90	"
Total	903⅓	acres

This was the total acreage held at organization of the Stony Pass Mining Company in December 1902. Since that date 230 acres additional have been located in Prospect Basin and surveyed with view of applying for patent at an early day.

Complete Saw Mill plant located in Cement Creek, capacity 20,000 feet per day; Lumber on hand in mill yards and at the Hercules shaft 500,000 feet. Round logs ready for the mill 300,000 feet. Cost to Company approximately $5,400, market value lumber alone $5,100.

TIMBER RESERVES.

Estimated timber, on timber and mineral lands owned by Company, 5,000,000 feet. Contiguous territory controlled by Government from which timber can be had for cutting providing same is used for mineral purposes 40,000 000 feet.

Total cost of development to date, present management,	$53,000.00
" " " " former owners -	18,000.00
" " surface improvements, buildings, saw mill plant, horses, wagons, ore cars, track, tools, etc. -	17,000 00
" " Machinery paid for and to be installed -	6,000 00
	$99,000 00

Above items do not include moneys expended for additional properties since Company was organized, which approximate $26,000.00.

Plant of machinery for tunnel now being installed, and all will be in operation within 30 days.

The Hercules shaft will be equipped with machinery at an early date it being impossible to do so now owing to the heavy snows.

With the Hercules property equipped with a hoisting plant, (good for a depth of 1000 feet) we will immediately sink the present shaft to a depth of 500 feet driving levels at each 100 feet to fully open the ore bodies now developed to the 145 foot point.

The Mammoth Tunnel is now in nearly 800 feet. We are confident that with the machinery in operation we will be enabled to drive the tunnel at least 500 feet per month; we are now about 600 feet from one of the main leads crossing the Tunnel. Our machinery should be in operation in about 30 days, which will put us in shape to drive ahead and cut the above mentioned lead by August 1st.

We have recently cut a number of small veins carrying high values in lead, copper and silver. These are all spurs to the vein ahead of the breast and a certain indication of ore ahead of us.

With the Hercules developed to a depth of 500 feet and the Mammoth Tunnel through the vein and brought to the producing stage, we will be given an accurate basis for calculation as to the uniform output which may be attained for milling purposes, then mill will be built

In the meantime only the high grade Smelting ores will be shipped the profits from which will aid us materially in further opening up the properties and building up a treasury reserve for future operations and mill construction. It is likely in view of present favorable conditions, that the sale of treasury stock will be discontinued after August 1st.

Stock is now selling at 60c a share. It will be but a short time when stock will be selling at $1.00 per share, and will do so on merit.

DIVIDENDS.

We are confident that dividends will be inaugurated early in 1905, and be continuous thereafter, and gradually increase in proportion as property developes to at least 30% per annum within two years from date of first dividend.

Considering the extent of the properties and intrinsic value underlying the stock, the shares should, with that dividend in force, sell at from $3.50 to $4.00 per share.

With active development resumed on the Hercules and regular shipment of ore going to the Smelter, we will issue monthly reports to our stockholders. These should commence with the First of July.

The surface improvements on the several groups consist of 3 blacksmith shops, 2 stables, 2 large boarding houses and kitchens, coal sheds, shaft house, saw mill buildings, pipe lines, tunnel buildings, wagon roads, besides rails, railroad switch, bridges, etc.

With the equipment on the Hercules and the Mammoth Tunnel in working order, it will be unnecessary to expend finds for any other purpose but actual developments. By having our own horses and wagons, we have saved on haulage more than enough to pay for them. The Saw Mill plant, too, has paid for itself. Lumber at Silverton is worth from $18.00 to $20.00 per M., the cost to us by reason of having a mill is not over $10.00 per thousand feet.

In my next report to you it will be my pleasure to inform you that everything is in shape for a session of active operation and that shipments of ore have commenced.

Very truly yours,

A. A. BROWN.

The above is a copy of report issued early in April. Stock sells at 60c and will soon sell at $1.00 per share. The object is to build a Stamp Mill this year and Smelter as soon as enough ore is produced from these mines to run Mill and Smelter continuously. In no other form of production is capital assured of such large and certain profits as with Mining and Smelting combined under one management. It is likely that this will be accomplished by the Stony Pass Mining Co, within the next year. I will be happy to furnish you with all available information regarding these matters.

Yours truly,

CHINESE ARE ANXIOUS TO JOIN JAPANESE IN THE FIGHT.

It is Believed that a Revolution in China is Imminent

The War Fever in the Celestial Empire Grows against Russia --Bandits Chief in Control.

Liao Yang, May 27.—General Ma, commander of the Chinese troops, is in constant communication with Toulsan, the chief of the Chinese bandits, who are adopting military organization under Japanese instructors. Toulsan's district is the granary of Manchuria. He is a great organizer and has built seven immense granaries, which are strongly garrisoned. Toulsan ordered the inhabitants to bring in their surplus grain, forbidding them to sell it to the Russians and ordering them to reserve the grain for the Chinese armies which are coming from the northwest.

BANDIT CHIEF IN CONTROL.

Hundreds of disguised soldiers are coming up the river, styling themselves workingmen. They remain idle and are well fed, while the Russians are unable to get food. The Chinese officials are obsequious to Toulsan, who collects the taxes of the district. Swarms of disguised Chinese soldiers are in the vicinity of Liao Yang and Chinese troops are guarding the Shan Hai Kwan Shin Min Tung Railway.

PLOT A REVOLUTION.

The Russians are having the greatest difficulty in pacifying the inhabitants, who apparently are anxious to rise against them. Toulsan, General Ma and Viceroy Yuan Shi Kai are partisans of the Ming dynasty and are openly planing a revolution, with the aid of the Japanese, who cleverly take advantage of the quarrels between the partisans of the Tai Sing and Ming dynasties. The former is championed by the bannermen, or privileged classes of Mongols, who hate the Chinese. The latter are headed by Yuan Shi Kai and the whole Chinese nation seems to be following his lead. The provinces and cities where the Chinese element predominates are invariably pro-Japanese. The Russian sympathizers are only to be found among the bannermen Mongols.

The Setting Mines Adrift.

A British Warship More Likely to Receive Death Blow than the Vessel of Any Other Nation.

London, May 27.—An interesting point for consideration is what would the effect on the war be should a British, an American of a German merchantman get blown up by one of those floating Russian mines? The London Times' correspondent reports that his boat passed a mine floating near Wei Hai Wai, the British coaling station across from Port Arthur. The correspondent, who by the way is or was a British military officer, asks whether it is not a violation of international law to set mines adrift. He says that nations whose ports are being blockaded doubtless have a perfect right to mine their harbors against the enemy, but it is another thing for the besieged to set adrift mines which may blow up non-combatant ships. As the Russians seem to have set adrift a number of mines around Port Arthur, the future is full of possibilities. It is not likely that a warship of any non-combatant nation will get blown up, as from all that can be ascertained they are discreetly keeping out of the way in Chinese ports. It is possible, however, that a British war vessel might get into trouble, as Britain is altogether likely to have war vessels at Wei Hai Wei. But the difficulty in any case would lie in proving who set the mine out.

RUMORS OF BATTLE NOT CONFIRMED

PERSISTENT CLAIMS THAT RIVAL ARMIES HAVE CLASHED

No news of importance has transpired during the past forty-eight hours. There has settled down that period of silence—broken only by confused accounts of skirmishes which are unintelligible by reason of our ignorance of the general line of advance—which has preceded every important Japanese movement.

General Kuroki maintains his position opposite the Motien Mountains, and threatening Hai-Cheng. Skirmishing is in progress at various points, and it is significant that the Russians declare that Japanese scouting parties have succeeded in skirting the north-eastern end of the Motien Mountains. But we do not know whether General Kuroki is making a serious attack or whether he is waiting for reinforcements.

Absolute uncertainty still prevails as to the Japanese force landed at Kin Chem. The Russians still hold New Chwang, and the railway junction which connects it with Liao Yang.

Rumors are thick that the Japanese have commenced the attack on the exterior defences of Port Arthur, but there is no certainty.

ST. PETERSBURG IS HOPEFUL.

St. Petersburg, May 25.—There are indications that Gen. Kouropatkin is preparing to make a very important move against the enemy. One of the reasons for this belief is the sudden increased restrictions upon the war correspondents at the front. The prevailing belief here is that Gen. Kuroki's army is in difficulties.

The following despatch from Gen. Kuropatkin, to the Emperor, dated May 23, has been received;

"Our cavalry outposts on May 22 and May 23 observed a movement of a portion of the Japanese forces westwardly along the Hai Cheng road near the village of Daliendiapatse, six miles from Feng Wang Cheng.

"On May 21, a Japanese detachment of six companies of infantry and three squadrons of cavalry attacked some sotnias of Cossacks on the heights on the right bank of the Sedzi River, near the village of Pootaikha. When the engagement began the Japanese cavalry remained under cover, and the infantry, which declined to cross the valley, maintained a distant almost harmless fire, without sparing ammunition. A small party unsupported tried to cross the river for the purpose of truing our left flank, but was driven back by the charge of half a sotnia of Cossacks, and the fire of the sotnia occupying the heights. Towards evening the Japanese retired.

"Details of the engagement May 22 and 21 at Sikhoutchindza have not yet been ascertained."

MORE RUMORS OF BATTLE.

Liao Yang, May 25.—There are further rumors of heavy fighting at the advanced positions of General Fock's forces on the Liao Tung peninsula, but the correspondent of the Associated Press has been unable to officially confirm the reports.

A report has been received from New Chwang saying that on May 18 five battalions of Japanese troops reconnoitered to the south almost as far as Kin Chou and ran into Major General Fock's artillery, which was strongly posted on the heights in a narrow section of the Liao Tung peninsula, and that the Japanese were entirely wiped out. The report lacks confirmation.

General Kuropatkin has just returned from a tour of inspection of the Russian camps, with the general health of which he is greatly pleased.

JAPANESE ADVANCING.

Mukden, May 25.—According to the latest information obtainable, the Japanese have resumed their forward movement. Several columns are advancing though the bulk of the invading army is still near Feng Wang Cheng.

There are persistent reports of a bloody battle having taken place between the Japanese army advancing along the railroad from Petsatien and the Russians near Kin Shou (Liao Tung Peninsula) resulting in the defeat of the Japanese with great loss.

Small parties of Japanese scouts have been seen northeast of Mukden at a considerable distance but no important body of the enemy has been located in this vicinity.

Che Foo, May 25.—Chinese junks arriving from Taku Slan, a port lying southwest of Antung, report the landing of 6,000 Japanese troops at Takushan on the 21st instant. Another junk from Pitsewo reports the Japanese landing a small number of troops there every day, and building temporary barracks on Elliot Island, where a hundred ships, including men-of-war and transports have made a rendezvous.

Only small skirmishes are reported along the western shore of the Liao Tung peninsula up to the 22nd instant.

Heavy firing was heard in the direction of Port Arthur yesterday, indicating that a land attack had commenced, as the Japanese fleet is not to be seen off Port Arthur.

Dalny refugees say that General Stoessel has taken all the cash from the Port Arthur and Dalny banks, so that the depositors are unable to cash cheques.

Freeport Jury Justifies Slaying of Agitator by a Baker

Freeport, Ill., May 27.—The coroner's jury that investigated the death of John Wuerth, the union baker, who assaulted Arthur Newsum, a non-baker, last Saturday night and received a bullet that caused his death excoriated Newsum to-day, "fired the shot in justifiable self-defense."

The verdict in the case of Edward Smith, the bystander, who was killed by a shot fired by Newsum, was virtually the same.

Newsum was held on the charge of carrying concealed weapons and will have a hearing Thursday. John Horrer, the president of the Bakers' Union, and Philip Mattern, a shoemaker both of whom assaulted Newsum, were held on a charge of riot.

Paper Manufacturers Say Long Hour System Must Go Into Effect.

Appleton, Wis., May 27.—The labor crisis in the paper mills of Wisconsin will be reached next Saturday night, when the manufacturers will order a resumption of the long hour schedule, which means Saturday night and Sunday work or a shutdown. The ultimatum, it is officially announced, will be issued to the employes Thursday night. Members of the Brotherhood of Paper Makers declare they will walk out in a body and resent with a strike any effort on the part of the manufacturers to re-establish the long hour system.

The order will affect upwards of 2,000 hands employed in the nine mills in this locality and more than 5,000 employes in nineteen other mills in other parts of the state.

AT MERCY OF THE KURDS.

Sultan Plans to Drive the Armenians Into the Valleys.

Paris, May 27.—A dispatch to the Temps from Constantinople says that under the pretext of putting a stop to the incursion of Armenian bands from the mountains in villages of the Sassoun district the Ottoman government has decided to execute systematically a plan for removing the people from the mountains and establishing them in the valley. The Armenians, it is added, will resist their removal, knowing that the change will place them completely at the mercy of the Kurds.

SEEKING SUNKEN TREASURE

Spain Will Try to Recover Gold Lost in Vigo Bay in 1702

Madrid, May 27.—The Spanish government has just awarded to a German wrecking company the contract to recover the treasure lost in the Vigo Bay in 1702 when the Spaniards sent to the bottom seven ships loaded with bars of silver rather than let them fall into the hands of the English and Dutch fleets.

The crew of the steamer San Clemente, furnished with all the necessary apparatus and a new hydroscope recently invented by the Italian engineer Pino who is directing the work has already succeeded in finding four of the lost vessels near the island called Cies, in proof of which discovery an enormous anchor and a long iron chain were raised from the wreckage. The four ships seem to be almost uninjured and the amount of silver they contain is calculated at $12,000,000 or 60,000,000 pesetas.

The hydroscope which Mr. Pino has invented can carry eight persons to the bottom, is furnished with immense lenses and can resist a pressure of twenty atmospheres, while its range of observation extends to more than 3,000 feet. There is no doubt that the treasure will soon be brought to the surface and will be a godsend for the Spanish government.

TRAITORS TO BE SLAIN.

Russian Officers Under Sentence for selling Goods to Chinese.

Berlin, May 27.—A correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung, writing from Harbin under date of April 21 gives details illustrative of the conditions of the Russian army and the relations existing between the Russians and the Chinese. He says that two officers, Lieutenant colonel Korlinksy and Staff Captain Ignotowsck are in the Harbin prison awaiting the carrying out of the sentence of death imposed upon them for selling large quantities of gunpowder to the Chinese from the army depots. The officers charged the Chinese $25 per thirty-six pounds, but, their supplies running low, they filled the boxes partly with sand and placed a layer of gunpowder on top. At the same time they raised the price to $50.

The Chinese merchants, incensed at the swindle, caused the matter to be known in higher quarters and a watch was set, resulting in the detection of the officers in the act of selling gunpowder to Russian intermediaries.

By similar means the robber bands are well supplied with the most modern rifles and plenty of ammunition. Although it is prohibited to sell arms to the Chinese, it is well known that every native village possesses a regular arsenal containing the best repeating rifles, including many of the German model of 1900.

Continuing, the correspondent says that ferocious bitterness prevails throughout the Chinese population against the Russians. He then relates the following incidents in explanation thereof. After saying that the Russian settlers regarded the natives as being far lower than dogs the correspondent says Russian officers assured him that the settlers tested their new rifles by taking a native as a target.

"One engineer with whom I travelled," he asserts, "did not affect a well known officer because the latter had shot down eight of the engineer's best laborers in mere wantonness. His boring urgent messages from subcomplaint remained unanswered."

In consequence of such conditions, the correspondent asserts in conclusion, the entire laboring population is looking for the moment when it may dare to fall upon its tormenters.

A REMARKABLE PATIENT

Recovering From Wounds in Lung and Heart

New York May 25.—By slow degrees and greatly to the astonishment of the surgeons, Oscar Coller twenty years old, is recovering from a pistol wound which the surgeons were confident would cause his death. In an attempt to end his life on May 11, because, it is said, his sweetheart had jilted him, Coller fired five shots at himself in his home at No. 435 East 117th street. One of the bullets penetrated his left lung and grazed the wall of the heart.

In a dying condition the man was hastened to the hospital in an ambulance by Dr. Lawrence and Dr. Thomas H. Manley, an attending surgeon was hurried summoned. Coller was sinking so rapidly that it was not thought he would live long enough for Dr. Manley to examine him.

As not one patient in a thousand, Dr. Manley says, recovers from an injury of such a sort, he was inclined to give Coller up as a dead man. Contrary to expectations, Coller began to mend.

So remarkable was the case that Harem physicians when they learned of it visited the hospital to examine the prodigy. At first his improvement was hardly noticeable but gradually he grew stronger, until now Dr Manley says that his recovery is practically assured.

"I never heard of a similar case," said Dr. Manley yesterday. "As a general rule a patient whose lungs has been pierced so close to the heart dies. But this man also injured his heart, making a combination which ordinarily would cause the death of the average person."

JAPANESE ARE SILENT

Russians Cannot Understand Them and Do Not Know What to Extract.

London, May 27.—Russia's conclusion from the halt of the main columns of the Japanese armies, that the delay is due less to the inmity condition of the roads than to the purpose of the Mikado's commanders properly to base their support and coordinate their line of battle, is taken by English critics as further proof of the inability of the Slavs to appreciate Japanese methods. They therefore, concluded that the Japanese are likely to add to their successes. It is certain that the islanders are pleased with the indications that General Kuropatkin is toying with the idea of advance instead of giving most thought to the question of how best to effect a retreat. They felt fairly certain that if the Russian general should remain in that frame of mind for a fortnight or so, Kuroki will be able to force a fight somewhere south of Thieling. They think that such an engagement in view of the comparative weakness of Kuropatkin's present army, would leave the enemy little opportunity of carrying on further operations in Manchuria.

FLEE FROM THE SCENE OF WAR

Missionary Writes Of Experience With the Soldiers

UTTER CONFUSION EXISTS

The Narrow Escape of Himself and Family When war Broke out

Mr. Wm. Kearns, town, received a letter from his brother, who is a missionary in the east, telling of the narrow escape of himself and family to Ping Yang when the hostilities between Japan and Russia and Corea was occupied by the foreigners. Mr. Kearns is a Presbyterian missionary. He has been laboring in Corea for ten years.

His letter shows the utter confusion that exists on all sides when Corea was occupied. In telling of his escape Mr. Kearns also gives some idea of the tumultuous times that the little kingdom is experiencing. He says: "Saturday, February 20, a telegram came saying that chair coolies had already been sent from Ping Yang and urging that the ladies and children be sent immediately to Ping Yang. Hasty preparations were begun, but were stopped in a few hours by the arrival of 400 Cossacks, who seized houses and prepared to camp for the night.

"Opinions differed as to whether escape was any longer feasible. The Koreans were in a panic and fleeing from their homes by scores. The main road was fast becoming deserted. An American woman traveling in Corea requires at the minimum about eight coolies, four to carry her and four to carry her luggage. To move the five women and five children of Sun Chium station to Ping Yang would take at least fifty Corean coolies, and if the houses along the road were deserted how was such a force to be fed? To take food enough for fifty men for a four or five days' march was impossible.

"And then would the Russians let us pass through their lines, when we overtook them on the road? Would they not be justified in turning back those who might take news of their movements into the Japanese lines? And if we succeeded in getting through the Russian lines we were likely to meet the Japanese advance from Ping Yang and a road filled by a marching army would hardly be the route for women and children who wanted to go in the opposite direction.

"The Cossacks went on in the morning and were followed by an equal number during the day. The chair coolies arrived on Sunday morning but laborers in mass wantonness. His bearing urgent messages from missionaries in Ping Yang. After consultation a narrow mountain path paralleled to the main road was selected as a possible route. Christian coolies were finally secured after much effort. The only condition on which they would go was that the missionaries, who remained behind should attend immediately to sending their families out into the mountains. This was faithfully promised and on Monday morning three ladies and one child, escorted by one of the men, started on the difficult trip with ten professional chair coolies, one horse and a few Christian men from Sun Ch'um to carry the very small amount of baggage which it was possible to take.

"This amount was decreased on the journey as coolies gave out or deserted and their loads had to be abandoned. By the end of the second day this force had diminished to nine men two of whom acted for the rest of the trip as chair bearers, leaving seven men and the horse to carry what was left of the baggage. The missionary walked and his riding donker was pressed into service as a baggage-carrier.

MR. SMITH'S DENIAL

He Has Made no Suggestions to Mr. Carnegie

New York, May 24.—The Sun today has the following letter, addressed to the editor:

Sir,—A report has found its way into several papers that I have expressed an intention of appealing to Mr. Carnegie, instead of endowing circulating libraries to provide better dwellings for the poor. Let me assure you that I have neither expressed nor entertained any such intention.

For my own part I cannot help thinking that the first and best of all objects of charity is the improvement of the low quarters in our great cities, which cannot fail to be seed plots of disease as well as of barbarism and misery. But I have not presumed or thought of presuming to interfere with the direction of Mr. Carnegie's munificence.

JAPANS' SIDE OF THE WAR IN THE EAST

The Japanese Minister at Washington Made a Statement Regarding the War

HIS VIEW OF THE YELLOW PERIL BOGEY

Declares His Goverment is Not Seeking Territory or the Control of China-Attitude Toward China

Washington, May 27.—I give you today an interview which I have just had with Kogoro Takahira, the minister from Japan, on the situation in the far east. Mr. Takahira is one of the oldest of the diplomats at Washington. He has for years been connected with the foreign office of Japan, and has also represented his country as minister in Corea, Holland, and Denmark, Italy, Austria, Switzerland and, since 1900, at Washington. He is a man of broad education, speaking several languages, including English, in which our conversation was carried on. The talk took place in the parlors of the Japanese legation. My first question was as to what Japan expects to get from the war with Russia.

"That question can be answered in one word," said the minister. "Japan expects justice. But speaking more in detail I may say that she expects the war to result in such a determination of the rights of the two countries as regards the North Asian littoral as will secure her against aggression in the future."

ATTITUDE TOWARD CHINA.

"But how about China, your excellency? Some people speak of the war as one for the control of China. Is Japan ambitious to control China?"

"Distinctly and emphatically not!" replied Minister Takahira. "Japan's attitude upon that subject was fully defined in the negotiations which preceded this war. In those negotiations she insisted upon a mutual engagement between herself and Russia to respect the independence and territorial integrity of the Chinese and Corean empires, and also upon a mutual engagement to maintain the principle of equal opportunity for the commerce and industry of all nations in those countries."

"Will there ever be an alliance of Japan and China against the world?"

"No," replied the minister from Japan. "I don't believe that any sane political thinker who understands the actual conditions of the two nations can honestly suggest such a possibility. The suggestion is either founded on gross ignorance, or it is based upon a malicious desire to injure Japan in the eyes of the world. An alliance between two powers must necessarily be based upon mutual advantage, and where could Japan gain strength by an alliance offensive and defensive with China? It is an established principle of modern political science that the power which is to hold any weight in the world must be able not only to defend itself from outside nations, but also to control and organize its people at home. It must keep order, put down rebellions and be able to call out its subjects at need to call out its subjects at times of national defense. Every one knows that China is not in this condition, and while we of Japan admire the Chinese people for their scholarship, commercial integrity and other high qualities, we realize that they are not a military power, and we question whether they will be so in the ages to come. This being the case there is no fear of any such aggressive alliance as you suggest, and hence no 'yellow peril,' as such a possible alliance has been called.

FOR INDEPENDENT POWER.

"What Japan would like to see as to China," continued the minister, "is that she should follow in her footsteps in utilizing such elements of the western civilization as are suited to her needs. This would lead to the development of her great resources in industry, commerce and trade, and in these Japan only wishes to share equally with the other powers. What we need most is that the other nations should take the same position toward China that the United States has so ably maintained for the past few years. That, more than anything else, would help to preserve peace in the far east."

"Then you think that China should hold its present independent position upon the map of the world."

"I do," replied the Japanese minister. "From our standpoint the preservation of Chinese independence, or what has been well termed the administrative entity of the Chinese pire is most desirable. That is one of the objects for which Japan is contending. A divided China means peril to Japan, and I sincerely believe that it would be of no lasting advantage to any western nation. On the other hand, an independent China, with her territorial integrity unimpaired must, as her enormous resources are more developed, prove a fruitful field to the commerce and industry of all the nations."

DEFINES POSITION OF COREA.

"How about Corea?" I asked.

"Speaking generally," replied the Japanese minister, "I may say that we hope the same good for Corea, with the introduction of western methods and civilizing influences and the peaceful development of its resources. At the same time the world recognizes the fact that the near neighborhood of Corea to Japan and the strategic importance of Corean territory, so far as regards the maintenance of the security of the Japanese empire, naturally give Japan what was called in the ante bellum negotiations a 'preponderating interest' in Corea. In saying this I do not mean that Japan has any designs upon the independence and territorial integrity of Corea, nor any purpose of excluding from Corea the industries of commerce of other nations nor hampering foreign enterprise in any way. I mean that Japan cannot, with due regard to her own safety, permit any other nation to absorb Corea, or to use Corea as a vantage point from which to attack the Japanese empire."

"But even if Japan does not nominally own Corea, Mr. Takahira, will she not eventually control it by her predominance of trade and her ownership of the railroads, much as England controls Egypt?"

"I think not," replied the Japanese minister. "Japan has not ought exclusive privileges of any kind whatever in Corea. She does not seek the exclusive ownership of the railroads. The arrangements under which the Fusan railroad is being built have been published, and they show that Corean rights are guarded in the minutest particulars. The arrangements are, I may say, far different from those under which the Eastern Siberian Railway has been constructed. As to other concessions, one of the most valuable in Corea, the gold mines in the northwestern part of the empire, is owned by an American syndicate, and there is no reason why American and European enterprises shall not have their full share in the future development of Corean resources. Japan has most certainly no desire to prevent such participation in the benefits which must follow the development of Corea."

"What is your opinion, Mr. Takahira, does Russia want in the far east?"

"That is a subject concerning which I must naturally speak with reserve," replied the minister from Japan. "We have shown what we thought of Russia's designs in the far east by our present action. Whether these designs were the result of a fixed policy or the intrigues of a faction, as has been publicly stated, is not for me to say. It is sufficient to remember that Russia's actions before the war plainly indicated the intention of permanently occupying Manchuria and of finally absorbing Corea. We have to deal with facts, not theories, and after endeavoring to obtain Russia's adhesion to proposals, which I think were very properly termed moderate and unselfish, and having failed to obtain the assent of the Russian government to those proposals or to any other proposals likely to establish a firm and enduring peace in the extreme east, nothing remained but to offer forcible opposition to the completion of plans which not only threatened Japan's commercial and industrial interests in China and Corea, but even her national safety."

"But can Japan raise the money to carry on a war like this?" I asked.

"This far she has had no difficulty," replied the Japanese minister. "The domestic loans were subscribed for at home five times over, and the careful estimates of our financial experts in-

HOW FRANK HOPE DIED

Grasped a Live Electric Wire That Caused Instant Death

The Evening Recorder, of Albion, Michigan, of May 9, 1904, contains the following reference to the death of Frank Hope, of Peterborough, as the result of contact with a live wire:

Frank Hope, a lineman in the telephone service, while working upon a pole in East Erie street, Saturday afternoon, was accidentally killed by grasping a live electric light wire. He fell about 35 feet to the cement walk below, and died ten minutes after the accident occurred.

Hope was working alone at the new cable box on a pole opposite the south entrance to Bullen's store, about four o'clock, putting in some fuses. It appears that he was balancing himself by the messenger wire on his left, and somehow inadvertently grasped a live wire close to the pole, on the other side opposite his shoulder. A dead ground circuit was thus made and he received the 2,200 volts from the primary circuit wire on the electric lighting system. The shock stiffened his body, drawing him up for a few seconds, and then he dropped to the walk below. He struck upon his head and shoulders, fracturing his skull. Drs. Hafford, Grant and Marsh were summoned, but could do nothing for him, as his skull was badly crushed.

The accident was witnessed by a large crowd of people, including Dalton Carey and Patrick Edwards, who had been talking to him only a few minutes before, also by Bert Taylor and Barney Gable, who were working in the street—all these being members of the same construction gang. Carey was part way up the pole to release the body when it fell to the walk.

The deceased, who had been working in Albion since the telephone improvements began, about two months ago, was about forty years old and unmarried. His home was in Peterborough, Canada, where he leaves a mother, sister and brother. He was a man of good habits, quiet and industrious, and of an agreeable disposition, being well liked by all those who had worked with him since, he entered the company's employ over ten years ago. His remains were taken to Canada yesterday, Dan. Cummings accompanying the body.

The funeral of the late Frank Hope took place on Tuesday, May 10, from the home of his mother, 184 London street, to Little Lake cemetery. Rev. J. A. Wilson, of St. Paul's conducted the service, and the following gentlemen acted as pallbearers; Messrs. J. Donoghue, J. Robinson, R. Hutchinson, W. Mitchell, T. Darry, J. J. Howden. The young men had many friends here and they were largely represented in the attendance at the funeral.

Men Restored to Vigor

Are you one of the thousands of men, young and old, who lack virile power? Do you crave to be robust and vigorous, to have perfect manhood? Thousands know they are weak and impotent, but neglect to take the right steps to regain their full vigor and strength. Are you one of them?

Thousands suffer in ignorance of their real condition, believing themselves to be strong and well when they are far from it. Perhaps you are one of them. It is worth your time to ascertain your true condition of health, if you have any reason to doubt or suspect that you are not what you once were.

If you belong to either class mentioned above, do not be discouraged. Do not lose hope. Help is within your reach. You can be cured. Vim, vigor and vitality, health and happiness have been given to men who had been reduced to physical wrecks.

Be Honest With Yourself.

If you have been a victim to the follies and indiscretions of youth, committed excesses in married life, if you doubt your strength, it is your duty—your duty to those you love and who love you—to at once today, consult an honest, reliable, recognized physician—a specialist who has a record for CURING weak men. But do not go astray. Consult no quack. Take no patent "Cure All." No two cases are precisely alike. Every individual needs a treatment particularly suited to him. Go where you can get the right treatment for your case.

Cure Yourself at Home.

If there is no successful specialist near you, write at once to Dr. Goldberg, the noted specialist. He is the possessor of 16 diplomas and certificates which he received from medical colleges and state boards of medical examiners and he will send you his method free, to use in the privacy of your own home. It does not interfere with traveling, as it can be taken with convenience anywhere.

If you have stricture, prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotency, etc., or any complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, etc., write the doctor and if he accepts your case for treatment it is equivalent to a cure, as he never accepts an incurable case for treatment, and remember you may

Pay When You Are Cured.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor at once and confidentially lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as his booklet on the subject, containing the 16 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply Dr. S. Goldberg, 338 Woodward Ave., Room Detroit, Mich., and it will all immediately be sent you free, in a plain, sealed package.

BETTER TIMES IN INDIA

India has had so much trouble lately that it is cheering to notice that her misfortunes are decreasing. The comparatively prosperous condition of the country has been the subject of many congratulations addressed to Sir Edward Law, the financial secretary of the viceroy's council. A surplus of nearly two and three-quarters millions sterling was reported. An increase in land revenue proved the gradual disappearance of the effects of famine. The receipts from opium even exceeded the estimates by a million and a quarter, while the profits on the coinage of rupees were nearly two million and a half. But perhaps the most significant figures were the railroad receipts, which exceeded the estimates by eleven hundred thousand pounds. This is said to be the result of normal development, and is held to be a sure sign that the natives are beginning at last to appreciate the railroads and use them. Hitherto there has always been a strong party of Anglo-Indians which has maintained that all money expended upon railroads instead of irrigation has been money wasted. The present figures are considered to be a sufficient answer to that argument and a liberal provision for railroad extension has been made for the coming year.

If the English make a lot of money out of India and at the same time keep the Hindoos from starving their work will be a noble one.

JAPAN'S SIDE OF THE WAR IN THE EAST

dinate that there will be no difficulty in our raising funds enough to carry on the war for some time to come. We have no foreign debt of any great amount and so far we have made no effort to secure any large sum of money from abroad."

NOT A FIGHT FOR TERRITORY.

"What is the size and population of Japan?" I asked.

"The empire contains about 161,000 square miles. It is about four times as large as your state of Ohio. Its population, as shown by the census of 1900, was 47,000,000."

"That is more than half as many people as we have in the United States," said I. "Is not Japan overcrowded, and is this war after all a fight for territory?"

"On Japan's part most certainly not," replied Minister Takahira. "We have distinctly declared that we are most outstanding for territorial aggrandizement, and even if we had not made that solemn pledge there is no necessity for us to acquire territory for our surplus population, for we have abundant outlets for that as it is."

"Japan is and is not overcrowded," continued Mr. Takahira. "I mean by that that we have available territory of our own to meet the demands of our increasing population, although the emigration of the Japanese is not as yet directed to those parts of the empire. Take Yeso and Formosa, for example. The Japanese government has systematically endeavored to develop the resources of these countries. It has met with fair success but the climate in both territories has been an obstacle to their rapid development, and that especially in Formosa, where the most desirable parts of the land are unhealthy. The government is improving sanitary conditions there, and in time Formosa will be a desirable place of residence for both Japanese and foreigners. The same may be said of Yeso, which has large undeveloped resources and which will support a large population. There will always be an outlet for a certain portion of our population on the Asiatic continent. Many Japanese will settle in Corea and in the other adjacent regions on the same terms as the citizens and subjects of other nations, and such settlement will be to the advantage to the countries, inasmuch as our people are naturally peaceful and industrious, making excellent citizens wherever they go."

DEVELOPMENT OF FORMOSA.

"You speak of Formosa, Mr. Takahira," said I. "What is the condition of that colony to-day?"

"Formosa is rapidly improving," replied Minister Takahira. "Since it became a part of the Japanese empire its revenue has been increased by 600 per cent. It has been charged that our government has done nothing for the development of the island, nor for the betterment of its people since it became a part of the empire. This is not true. In connection with it I cannot do better than to quote what Rev. W. Campbell, a Scotch missionary, who has lived in Formosa many years, says. He writes that in considering Formosa it must be remembered that when the Japanese took possession of it in 1895 they found the people everywhere in arms against them, and that they had to fight their way from north to south before they could establish a settled government. As soon as this was done they sent out surveyors and scientists to report on the resources of the newly ceded territory. A complete census of the population was taken in 1897 and at this time 800 miles of roads were made and a tramway line constructed from Takow to Sin-tek. This was followed by the building of a railway from Kelung to Takow, about half of which is now open for goods and passenger traffic. Three cables were laid down connecting Formosa with Japan, China and the Pescadore Islands, and a telegraph and telephone system so improved that immediate communication is now possible with every important inland center. There are now 100 postoffices in Formosa, and at the close of 1899 122 government educational institutions had been established, of which 113 were for natives. There are ten government hospitals on the island, where 60,000 patients are annually treated without charge; and at the same time free vaccinations and other sanitary precautions have become so general that the dangers of smallpox and the plague have been much reduced."

JAPAN AND UNITED STATES.

The conversation here turned to the relations between Japan and the United States and I asked his excellency as to how his nation regarded us. He replied:

"It is not saying too much to declare that no nation holds a higher place in the Japanese estimation than the United States. This is not alone because it was the United States that opened Japan to intercourse with the western world but also because during the whole of that period, which may be termed the transition period in Japan's national life, the United States has consistently and disinterestedly been the helpful friend of our empire. As you know, one of the most important events in Japanese history since the time of the restoration was the conclusion of treaties whereby Japan gained a foothold of perfect equality with all other nations. Thios marked an epoch in the history of international relations between the east and west, and no nation did more in assisting Japan to bring it about than the United States."

Parents can't afford to neglect the health of their children, for if disease fastens itself on the child of tender years it may be the beginning of a long train of serious sickness. Ferrozone is a remedy that mothers can rely on, and every child will be benefitted by using it. Mrs. Henrietta Laflame of Quebec, writes; "Last year my daughter, aged sixteen, was run down and looked very poorly. Ferrozone gave her strength and toned her up splendidly. I am very grateful to Ferrozone and know that children would be much stronger if treated with Ferrozone."

CHILDREN GROW STRONG ON FERROZONE

Mrs. James E. Devine of Frankford, says Ferrozone has no equal for strengthening children, and writes; "When my little daughter was weak and miserable I gave her one Ferrozone tablet at meals. MALABAR

By Frank H. Sweet

Copyright, 1903, by the S. S. McClure Company

"Do you think Malabar will run?"

The girl did not reply, but her lips began to tremble. The face of the man bending toward her grew dark, but it was the darkness of despair, not of purpose.

"Perhaps if he knew what you have told me." He hesitated. "Malabar is brave and strong and noble. He would not stoop to a small deed."

"I promised him with the new year that he should run for me at the green corn dance. I—I did not know then," looking piteously into the gloomy, delicate face above her. "Malabar would not stoop to a small deed—no. But this is not small. He has let it be known that he will run for me. He would not turn from his purpose a hair's breadth—not if he saw something in front that would crush him. And—and it is right for a great warrior, Ankona, but it is hard."

"We will fly, White Egret, into the deepest fastnesses of the Everglades!" he cried hoarsely. "There are places where even Malabar's relentless arms would be powerless."

But White Egret only looked at him with sorrowful eyes.

"We are Seminoles, Ankona," she rebuked gently. "You know our laws. You would be the last one to break them."

His arm fell back impotent. Yes; he would be the last one to break them.

"Perhaps Malabar will not be proof against the black drink this time," he suggested. "He has killed, and it will be made strong. Others have died. But, no, no! Malabar is a great chief and a better man for the tribe than I. He has tasted the black drink before and will not die."

"You say well, Ankona," broke in a stern, powerful voice, and a figure, dark, towering and implacable, stepped from the gathering shadows. "I shall not fall before the black draft. It would not be a fit ending for a warrior."

White Egret threw back her head and regarded him steadily. Ankona bowed his head.

"You heard all?" he questioned in a strained voice.

"All," calmly. "It was childish prattle. I shall run for the White Egret, for have I not said it, and has she not made her promise? It is only when we forget our promises that we become weak and childish. Ankona is young yet and should be humored. I will let him run the race with me and will give him one-third the distance start as due to his weakness. Now go!"

They went, with a single despairing glance toward each other. Ankona's face was bloodless and set—bloodless with pride crushed, set with foreknowledge of utter inability to cope with this man of iron will and strength. Better be crushed than allowed to exist by sufferance.

Other forms were appearing from the forest—warriors in full headdress and leggings, carrying the guns they had purchased from white traders; squaws with camp equipage, medicine men stalking solemnly and mysteriously, with eyes bent upon the ground; children and dogs, some from the camp on White River bay, some from Okeechobee, some from the shifting camp among the keys—all coming for the great annual green corn dance, where tribal laws were to be made, marriages celebrated and criminals punished.

These criminals were now moving unwatched, unnoticed, in many cases unknown even, among the others. Whatever crime they had committed during the year had gone unpunished at the time, but now tribal honor brought them here to expiate their misdeeds. On the morrow they would be placed in closely shut tents and almost suffocated with steam made by pouring water upon hot stones. After that they would drink of the black draft. If they died, they were guilty. On the other hand, if they were strong enough to survive, their innocence would be clearly established. Later the racing for wives would take place.

Malabar was known to every one—revered, feared, honored. All knew that he was to race for a wife and that before the race he was to drink the dreaded black draft. Ordinarily they would have scoffed at such absurdity. If a man drank and lived, it would be a notable proof of strength, but to drink and live and then race for a wife. As to his crime, it was only what any of them would have done if brave enough. He had killed a man! True, but he had been provoked. He must be punished, for that was the law, but they did not wish him harm.

And they all knew Ankona, the gentle one, the dreamer and story maker, and, though none of them revered or feared him, they all had a tender place for him in their hearts. If he could race with White Egret and win her, they would be glad. But Malabar came first, for White Egret herself had made it so.

Malabar was the first who presented himself for punishment. While he was in the closed tent the tribe stood about silent, with eyes furtively watching the point whence the condemned would walk forth innocent or be brought forth guilty.

At length the tent flap was raised, and he staggered out. For a moment he stood there in the sunlight, his hand to his head, swaying blindly. Then they saw him threw his shoulders back with a mighty effort, as one whose will was strong enough to cast off the weight of all things. Slowly he turned away from them and strode into the forest to be by himself. That, too, was Malabar's way.

Not until the maidens were brought forth did Malabar reappear.

"I will race for my squaw at once," he called in a voice that all could hear. "Before the White Egret grows weak through waiting, and I shall give her one-half the distance start because she is a woman. Ankona will also enter the race with me, and I will give him one-third the distance because he is but half a man. Let them be placed."

The onlookers stared and gasped. Ankona, his rival, to enter the race and to be given one-third the distance, and White Egret, the fleet footed, to be given one-half! No one could win a race thus handicapped. And yet was it not Malabar?

He swept them with his glance.

"I shall win," he said confidently, "because I will have it so."

Ankona had been watching him with baleful eyes. For an instant he drew back as though to spurn the concession. Then, as he saw White Egret being led forward to her place, he hurried to his own position.

And for a brief space after the signal was given and they were speeding on with straining muscles he had a wild, insane belief that he would win.

But only for a brief space. Then came that steady, accelerating, implacable rush behind, drawing nearer and nearer, then opposite, then passing. When three-fourths of the distance had been covered, Malabar was four march paces ahead. Suddenly he turned. White Egret was almost within his reach.

"Stop, Ankona!" Malabar called. "Have I not won?"

Ankona did not answer.

"Have I not won?" sternly.

"Yes, Malabar, you have won," Ankona answered, and his voice was full of a great despair.

"It is well. Now you may go on and catch the girl. Malabar will have no squaw who does not come to him willingly."

And he turned proudly from the race and strode back into the forest.

Draping an Arched Doorway.

An unusual treatment of an arched doorway was noticed in a house recently. Often a pole is placed above the highest point in the arch, from which a lambrequin or curtain falls straight, an arrangement which, of course, destroys the arched effect. In this doorway, however, the arch was preserved in a simple and effective way. A curved frame of soft wood about three inches wide was made to fit the arch, its shape and appearance suggesting an elongated skirt hanger. This was first covered with a piece of the lambrequin material, shirred on, with a short, fringed crossplece of the same festooned from one side to the other in graceful fashion. The whole thing was then hung up on three hooks placed for the purpose on the wall at the point of either end of the arch.—Table Talk.

High Class Investment

THE OREGON MINING AND SMELTING COMPANY

Offer to Canadian investors a limited amount of stock of the above company The property owned by the Company consists at the present time of about 500 acres, which are located in the Tarryall District and Park County, Colorado. This whole district has been known for years on account of its rich placer ground, and is now prominently before the public owing to the number of very good properties which have been opened up recently producing, principally, gold, and lately some that are producing Platinum. On the Oregon property there are a number of well known veins of low grade ore that will yield a profit by being treated on the ground of the company. The company have recently opened up a fine vein in the Hawkeye group and this vein shows not only good values but an immense amount of ore which alone would make the property very valuable. Assays from ore taken from various parts of this property range from a few dollars to $373 per ton in gold. We have very little silver, lead or copper in the district. The company have a shaft 240 feet deep, with a good shaft house thoroughly well equipped with all modern mach nery to develop same. They are now driving a tunnel which is in about 700 feet and which will cut the Hawkeye vein about 300 feet deeper than where it is opened at present. There is enough ore exposed on the property of this company to keep them busy for a number of years and the reason for selling stock at the present time is to secure funds to build a mill. The company will probably join with the Almaden Company in building this mill. There is water enough to furnish water power and over 100 acres of fine spruce and pine timber. The affairs of the company have always been managed in a business-like economy manner and there are no officers' salaries. The monies received from sale of stock go direct into the property.

I can heartily recommend this stock as sale, as well as an unusually good investment, because of the immense amount of ore which the company have already opened up. It is not a mere prospect, but the property has been developed by expense of a considerable amount of money and time.

The company is splendidly officered by men of integrity and high standing. The company has not pushed the sale of stock the last year owing to a delay in getting title to the ground from the Government, but now that has been satisfactorily adjusted and work will be pushed to a finish.

The number of exceedingly rich strikes which have been made during the last few weeks in the various camps in the State of Colorado is the best evidence of the prosperity of the mining business. Almost every camp in the state has opened up rich bodies of ore, and Park County is well in the lead in that line.

There are only $25,000 of stock for sale, at $1.00 per share. The company is capitalized at $200,000, and the advantage to the investor of selling the stock at par, is that every share is fully paid up and non-assessable.

Modern Naval Guns Cause Terrible Wounds.

An American Tells Story of Caring for Wounded Russians on Crusier Variag.

Washington, May 26.—Never since the development of the modern ironclad has the mechanical department of the United States navy had so good an opportunity to study the terrific effects on ship board of modern heavy gun fire as that presented in the captain of this ship (Vicksburg) to go the Russian crew of the Variag and the Koreitz and the department has been waiting with great interest for the report of Dr. H. H. Wilson of the Vicksburg.

This was received yesterday by Surgeon General Rixey, and it is said to be of the highest value, not only for the technical lessons it teaches, but also as conclusively sustaining the statements made by Capt. Marshall of the Vicksburg as to the tender o the assistance to the Russian crew

The report bearing on that incident is as follows:

"Immediately after the Russian cruiser Variag had returned from the fight with the Japanese fleet and had anchored I was directed by the Saddle Horse" by Francis M. Ware, all on board and offer to do anything possible in assisting to take care o the wounded. The Russian commander accepted and offer and requested me to go below, where the wounded were being cared for.

"The medical officers from the French, English and Italian ships were on board at work, they having arrived before me as their ships were anchored much nearer the Russian.

"On deck were most of the dead as they had been instantly killed a the guns; below the wounded were being cared for, each medical officer selecting a convenient place to dress them. It was impracticable to d more than supply dressing of a most temporary nature, as there were a many cases needing immediate attention, and also it was not known bu that the Japanese would resume th fighting at any time, as the Russia ship had not surrendered when she returned to the inner harbor.

"The greater percentage of the wounds were of a serious nature, a all had been caused by the explosio of large shells (from eight to ten in ches.)

"Of the wounds dressed nearly a were in the lower extremities, whic is accounted for by the fact tha while many were hit in various part of the body the pieces of shell, etc were so large as to cause death when ever they struck the body or head.

"No attempt was made to perform operations, and as soon as dressing were applied the wounded were pu in boats and taken to some of th foreign ships, as the Russian captai intended to leave his ship and sin her.

"I offered to send any wounded o board the U. S. Zafiro, which was part, as the commanding officer of th Vicksburg had directed me to proffe her services for the wounded. The offe was declined by both the captain ar the executive officer, they informed m hat there was sufficient room on th ther warships.

"Many of the wounded died later from the operation and from the effects of the wounds, as the parts were so damaged as to make an operation absolutely hopeless.

"The Russian ship has as good, if of better, sick accommodations than the average vessel, but it was totally inadequate to the call made upon it.

"I think the engagement showed that it will be impossible to attend to the wounded during an engagement between modern ships unless the number of medical attendants is tremendously increased. With the present allowance the wounded would be obliged to take entire care of themselves until the fight is over.

"In this battle the ships were from 3000 to 7000 yards apart and actual firing lasted not over twenty-five minutes, yet over 300 men were disabled. It also must be taken into consideration that here the main battery only was used, the ships not being hit once by said fire projectiles.

200,000 BAUDITS ARE NOW FIGHTING RUSSIA.

The Potent Part Played in War by the Powerful Robber Bands in Manchuria.

London, May 26.—Potent factors in the war in the far east are the Manchurian bandits. Locally they are called "Chunchuses" or Hunguzbs, and by the authorities are known as red-bearded robbers. You hear of them now almost every day as operating against the Russians, who are their avowed enemies, and their special efforts seem to be directed against the Manchurian Railway.

The Chunchuses make their living by preying on the public and the villagers, and until the invasion by the Russians in 1900 they virtually controlled the trade of the province. Their mode of operation is simple but effective. Divided into bands under approved leaders, they manage to rule the carrying trade, extorting large fees from the persons engaged in it. They give what might be called permits to the villagers or country people who bring their produce to the towns both by water and roadway. Carts and boats holding passes from these robbers, carry the flag of the band that issues the passes, and, strange to relate, these flags are always respected by members of the other bands. Once having paid his toll to the bandit the villager goes on his way rejoicing, well knowing that he has nothing more to fear.

BANDITS NUMBER 200,000.

The bandits are reported to be 200,000 strong. They have plenty of small arms but no artillery or large guns. Mostly composed of disbanded soldiers who have been drilled by foreigners, they generally are better shots than the Siberian Cossacks, for their straight shooting is their living. The Chinese militia are very friendly to the Chunchusts, and in case of a general uprising very probably would join the robber bands. These militia are pretty fair, soldiers, and are armed with modern weapons—in fact, they use the rifles which they capture from the robbers from time to time. A conjunction of these forces would be a serious matter for Russia for both the robbers and the militia men hate the czar and his army, and are strong friends of the Japanese.

The reason for this feeling is easily explained. When the Japanese took possession of southern Manchuria following the war of 1894-5, seeing that they could not cope with the bandit, they allowed him to carry on a trade that kept the country settled, to the satisfaction of both villager and bandit, and wisely decided not to interfere. On the other hand, when the Russians seized Manchuria during the Boxer troubles of 1900 they endeavored to put down the Chunchuses by force of arms when they could not bribe them to meet their demands.

COSSACK WORSE THAN ROBBER.

Incidentally it should be remembered that the Siberian Cossack is not too well paid, and, as he generally was on patrol in the various villages, the villagers fell between the bandit and the Cossack; but as the troops were always being moved about the country the unfortunate villager was required to provide himself with a pass from each new body of troops in contrast to the bandits' one request, and this request was of daily occurrence. The result was that the robber could not get his living because he could not guarantee the villager against losses through the Cossacks; hence the conditions were that the villager dared not send his goods to market, for even if he could settle with the bandit he was sure to fall into the hands of the Cossack. Thus it will easily be seen that neither the villager nor the bandit has any warm regard for the Russian forces.

The bandits, it will be remembered, destroyed the Manchurian railway between Mukden and Port Arthur, during the Boxer revolt. They carried away rails and ties for miles and cut into pieces the iron bridges, a feat one would think to be impossible, but they have the country people to help them. Their operations in the present war have become so serious that General Kuropatkin practically has lost the services of about 30,000 soldiers, who now are assigned to duty guarding the road. It has become obvious that Japan's hopes were well grounded when she counted on the assistance of these desperate men. Similarity of language permits them to understand one another, while the Russians as a general thing have no knowledge of the Manchurian tongue.

NOT INSPIRED BY CHINA.

It is a mistake to assert that the Chinese government is provoking the Chunchuses to attack the czar's forces for the bandits are no way subservient to China. In fact, the strong force of Chinese troops sent toward the mongolian Manchurian frontier is for the purpose of preventing the bandits from invading China proper and the neutral part thereof. If this precautionary step had not been taken the robbers, in event of their being driven off by the operations of the armies of Japan and Russia would begin preying on the rich province of Chili, and might even prove a menace to Pekin. China desires to show that she intends to keep neutral and will use strong efforts to confine to the bandits the display of animosity to Russia. Any connivance on her part with the operations of the Chunchuses would only furnish the Muscovites the opportunity of declaring to the world that the "yellow peril" really exists, and that there ought to be unity of action among the powers to repel the imaginary danger.

St. Petersburg, May 24.—Educated Russia attributes the national fiasco in the Far East to the lack of general culture. Interchanges of opinion are in progress between the leading professors of the mind as to how their view can best be recommended to the government. It is probable that the throne may be memorialized. The professors who are alarmed as willing to append their names to the statement of their fears, coupled with a declaration of the principles they consider necessary to avert disaster.

It is not hoped to stem the tide that is overwhelming Russian strength in Manchuria. It is believed that the temporary loss of everything Russia has south of the Amur is all but certain. They purpose to build against continued disaster and if possible in the course of time to retrieve the prestige of the Russian name in the distant East. Intellectual centres are in a state of activity scarcely surpassed by the seething activity of official quarters. Ideas are circulating never before heard in Russia, and the prospect is filled with promise of great changes.

of which I am the authorized agent

Investments in mining stocks where they can be purchased cheaply whose property contains merit and whose directors are men of unquestionable honor and integrity, and especially when sufficient work has been done to guarantee a producing mine and the leads have been demonstrated to be permanent, offer the greatest opportunity for large returns from modern investments.

The shrewdest capitalists of England and America are giving more attention to mining properties and putting more money into them than at any time in the past history of the world.

The Smuggler Group consists of five full sized claims, to wit:—The Smuggler, Gangon, Blast Jack, Star and Bed Rock, located in the Greenhorn District of Eastern Oregon. Surrounding mines are Potosi, Pride of Pendleton, Bonanza and Rockefeller, developing work to the extent of 1,000 feet of tunnelling, drifts and crosscuts have been made, exposing hundreds of tons of high grade ore, averaging from $25 to $45 per ton, based on smelter returns and for the purpose of equipping the mines a limited number of shares of Treasury Stock will be sold at 25 cents per share, the par value of which is $1.00.

THE GREAT WORK GOING ON IN MUSKOKA.

1,000 Patients Treated in the Two Muskoka Hospitals — the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Surprising Decrease of 25 Per Cent. in the Last Three Years in Deaths from Consumption.

Fifty-five Different Trades and Professions Represented by the Patients Admitted to the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Two Pavilions have had to be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds, and the Number of Patients Reduced from 75 to 50.

$25,000 Wanted this Year to Carry on this Great Work.

With a view of helping to bring to the attention of the public the needs of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have pleasure in publishing the following letter, in which an appeal is made for funds.

Dear Friend,—

It again becomes necessary to make an urgent appeal for funds for the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

A very heavy debt is pressing upon the trustees.

In addition to this, funds must be provided for the maintenance of patients. Last month there was a deficiency of nearly $1,500 over and above receipts from all sources.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives was opened eighteen months ago. 236 patients have been admitted.

No patient has ever been refused admission because of his or her poverty.

1,000 patients have been cared for in the two Muskoka Hospitals, the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The majority of these have either been cured, or so helped that they have been enabled to again become bread-winners for the family.

The public are beginning to find evidence of our work.

Already there has been a decrease of nearly 25 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption in the Province of Ontario.

The last report of the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health shows that in the last three years the deaths from consumption in Ontario have decreased from 3,484 to 2,694, a decrease of 790, or nearly 25 per cent.

This is the more gratifying when we remember that for a number of years previously the same report showed a steadily increasing death-rate prior to 1899.

Who will doubt that the work of our two Hospitals in Muskoka, and the persistent educational campaign carried on, has not helped to secure this surprising result?

In what better way can your gifts bring so good a return?

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 50.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

Very truly yours,

W. J. Gage

again.

"I don't believe it's for him that I am crying," she thought, as she tried in vain to stay her tears. "I always intended to hate him, and I 'most know I do; I'm only feeling badly, because I won't run away, and Henry and Rose will go without me so soon!" And fully satisfied at having discovered the real cause of her grief, she laid her head upon the bright autumnal grass and wept bitterly, holding her breath and listening intently as she heard, in the distance, the sound of the engine which was bearing Mr Carrollton away.

It did not occur to her that he could not yet have reached the depot, and as she knew nothing of a change in the time of the trains, she was taken wholly by surprise when, fifteen minutes later, a manly form bent over her, as she lay upon the bank, and a voice, earnest and thrilling in tones, murmured softly, "Maggie, are those tears for me?"

When about half-way to the station Mr. Carrollton had heard of the change of the time, and knowing he should not be in season, had turned back, with the intention of waiting for the next train, which would pass in a few hours. Learning that Maggie was in the woods, he had started in quest of her, going naturally to the mossy bank, where, as we have seen, he found her weeping on the grass. She was weeping for him—he was sure of that. He was not indifferent to her, as he had sometimes feared, and for an instant he felt tempted to take her in his arms and tell her how dear she was to him.

"I will speak to her first," he thought, and so he asked "if the tears were for him?"

Inexpressibly astonished and mortified at having him see her thus, Maggie started to her feet, while angry words at being thus intruded upon trembled on her lips. But, winding his arm around her, Mr. Carrollton drew her to his side, explaining to her in a few words how he came to be there, and continuing: "I do not regret the delay, if by its means I have discovered what I very much wish to know. Maggie, do you care for me? Were you weeping because I had left you?"

He drew her very closely to him—looking anxiously into her face, which she covered with her hands. She knew he was in earnest, and the knowledge that he loved her thrilled her for an instant with indescribable happiness. A moment, however, and thoughts of her engagement with another flashed upon her. "She must not sit there thus with Arthur Carrollton—she would be true to Henry," and with mingled feelings of sorrow, regret and anger—though why she should experience either she did not then understand—she drew herself from him, and when he said again, "Will Maggie answer? Are those tears for me?" she replied, petulantly: "No, can't a body cry without being bothered for a reason? I came down here to be alone?"

"I did not mean to intrude, and I beg your pardon for having done so," said Mr. Carrollton, sadly, adding, as Maggie made no reply: "I expected a different answer, Maggie. I almost hoped you liked me, and I believe now that you do."

In Maggie's bosom there was a fierce struggle of feeling. She did like Arthur Carrollton—and she thought she liked Henry Warner—at all events, she was engaged to him, and half angry at the former for having disturbed her, and still more angry at herself for being thus disturbed, she exclaimed, as he again placed his arm around her, "Leave me alone, Mr. Carrollton. I don't like you. I don't like anybody!" and gathering up her shawl, which lay upon the grass, she ran away to Hagar's cabin, hoping he would follow her. But he did not. It was his first attempt at love-making, and very much disheartened he walked slowly back to the house; and while Maggie, from Hagar's door, was looking to see if he were coming, he, from the parlor window, was watching, too, for her, with a shadow on his brow and a load upon his heart. Madam Conway knew that something was wrong, but it was in vain that she sought for an explanation. Mr. Carrollton kept his own secret, and, consoling herself with his volunteered assurance that in case it became necessary for him to return to England, he should, before embarking, visit Hillsdale, she bade him a second adieu.

In the meantime, Maggie, having given up all hopes of again seeing Mr. Carrollton, was waiting impatiently the coming of Hagar, who was absent, having, as Maggie readily conjectured, gone to Richland. It was long past noon when she returned, and by that time the stains had disappeared from Maggie's face, which looked nearly as bright as ever. Still, it was with far less eagerness than usual that she took from Hagar's hand the expected letter from Henry. It was a long, affectionate epistle, urging her once more to accompany him, and saying if she still refused she must let him know immediately, as they were intending to start for New York in a few days.

"I can't go," said Maggie; "it would not be right." And going to the time-worn desk, where, since her secret correspondence, she had kept materials for writing, she wrote to Henry a letter, telling him she felt badly to disappoint him, but she deemed it much wiser to defer their marriage until her grandmother felt differently, or at least until she was at an age to act for herself. This being done, she went slowly back to the house, which to her seemed desolate indeed. Her grandmother saw readily that something was the matter, and rightly guessing the cause, she forbore questioning her, neither did she once that day mention Mr. Carrollton, although Anna Jeffray did, telling her what he had said about her "thinking more of Hagar than of himself," and giving as her opinion that he was much displeased at her rudeness in running away.

"Nobody cares for his displeasure," answered Maggie, greatly vexed at Anna, who took especial delight in annoying her.

Thus a week went by, when one evening, as Madam Conway and Maggie sat together in the parlor, they were surprised by the sudden appearance of Henry Warner. He had accompanied his aunt and sister to New York, where they were to remain for a few days, and then, impelled by a strong desire to see Margaret once more, he had come with the vain hope that at the last hour she would consent to fly with him, or her grandmother consent to give her up. All the afternoon he had been at Hagar's cottage waiting for Maggie, and at length determining to see her, he had ventured to the house. With a scowling frown Madam Conway looked at him through her glasses, while Maggie, half joyfully, half fearfully, went forward to meet him. In a few words he explained why he was there, and then again asked of Madam Conway if Margaret could go.

"I do not believe she cares to go," thought Madam Conway, as she glanced at Maggie's face, but she did not say so, lest she should awaken within the young girl a feeling of opposition.

She had watched Maggie closely, and felt sure that her affection for Henry Warner was neither deep nor lasting. Arthur Carrollton's presence had done much toward weakening it, and a few months more would suffice to wear it away entirely. Still, from what had passed, she fancied that opposition alone would only make the matter worse by rousing Maggie at once. She knew far more of human nature than either of the young people before her; and after a little reflection she suggested that Henry should leave Maggie with her for a year, during which time no communication whatever should pass between them, while she would promise faithfully not to influence Margaret either way.

"If at the end of the year," said she, "you both retain for each other the feelings you have now, I will no longer object to the marriage, but will make the best of it."

At first Henry spurned at the proposition, and when he saw that Margaret thought well of it, he reproached her with a want of feeling, saying, "she did not love him as she had once done."

"I shall not forget you, Henry," said Maggie, coming to his side and taking his hand in hers, "neither will you forget me; and when the year has passed away, only think how much pleasanter it will be for us to be married here at home, with grandma's blessing on our union!"

"If I only knew you would prove true!" said Henry, who missed something in Maggie's manner.

"I do mean to prove true," she

OFFICERS BANQUET LORD DUNDONALD

Was Guest of Honor at the Armory Last Night

A very pleasant evening was spent at the armory on Tuesday night, when a complimentary banquet was tendered Lord Dundonald, Commanding Officer of the Militia. The mess room was beautifully decorated, and an abundance of flowers lent an additional brilliancy to the scene. Lord Dundonald occupied the seat of honor at the centre of the table, with Lt.-Col. Edwards on his right, and Lt.-Col. Miller on his left. Major Halliday was president of the mess, and Major Hayes vice-president. There were also present Capt. Newton, Lord Dundonald's aide-de-camp, Col. H. C. Rogers, Col. J. Z. Rogers, Hon. Chaplain J. C. Davidson, Mayor Roger, Mr. R. R. Hall, Mr. Jas. Kendry, M.P., Warden E. A. Peck, and the officers of the regiment. Hon. J. R. Stratton was unavoidably absent, having been called to Toronto during the afternoon.

Mr. Harry Long, in his usual good form, efficiently catered to the party.

After the toast of "The King" had been honored, "Our Guest" was proposed in a felicitous manner by Major Halliday, and was responded to by Lord Dundonald, who gave a practical address on military matters, after complimenting the Regiment on its successful carrying out of the day's program. He referred to the new pace service now being inaugurated in the Canadian Militia.

The evening was spent in speeches and songs until about midnight, when the party separated.

Throws Money in River

Green Bay, Wis., May 26.—Between $3000 and $4000 in cash was thrown into the Fox river by Joseph Doehm previous to his suicide at his home by hanging. A note written by Doehm and found near where the hanging took place gives all the particulars. It states that the deceased had determined that his relatives as well as those of his wife, who he declared were trying to get his money, should not succeed in their attempt and that he had therefore thrown his money in the Fox river near the Doughman mill.

A RARE CHANCE

FOR CANADIAN INVESTORS

THOMAS PATTERSON & CO.
BROKERS, PETERBOROUGH

HAVING BEEN APPOINTED CANADIAN FISCAL AGENTS OF THE

CRIPPLE CREEK ENTERPRISE GOLD MINING COMPANY

of Colorado, beg to inform their customers and investors generally that they have secured a block of stock of this Company, which they now offer for sale at 35 cents per share—par value $1.00.

This stock is bound to advance rapidly. All Shareholders are on an equal basis, no preferred stock. This is a proposition in all its details so simple that every shareholder will know at all times the value of his holdings. With the vast quantities of ore now in sight, and the facilities that will be put into operation to mine it, every dollar invested in this way may yield ten, twenty and a hundred fold. As has been chronicled in hundreds of instances in Cripple Creek, where persons have purchased stock in the early stages of a mine, the price at which the stock is offered is such a bargain that it cannot fail to be subscribed for at an early date, therefore investors should act quickly.

The shares are fully paid up and non-assessable (no individual liability). Each and every share represents a distinct and liberal portion of an enterprise which it is fully believed will produce millions of dollars.

The Cripple Creek Company is splendidly officered by men of high repute and with an expert knowledge of mining in all its details. The Company was organized to operate in Colorado, and properly incorporated under the laws of that State.

In the incorporation of the Company 500,000 shares of the capital stock were set aside for development purposes, and cannot be used in any other way.

We will be pleased to give full particulars to investors, and would say in conclusion. Buy now! Get in on the ground floor, as the stock will quickly advance.

of BOULDER, COLORADO

Solicits the co-operation of reputable men in providing means for the thorough and rapid development of two large gold and copper mining estates, which are second to none in intrinsic value, and to this end extends every opportunity for determination as to whether statements made by the company are true or false.

The proposition when developed will pay no less than 50 per cent. per annum on the investment, and it behooves anyone who wishes to better his financial condition, to give immediate attention to this.

Full particulars in every detail will be given to all to whom such a proposition may appeal, but please do not ask for them unless you really are interested, because our waste your own time and ours also.

Capital $1,000,000, 500,000 Shares in Treasury

Property includes two great mining estates—one gold, the other copper—both containing wide, deep, proven veins of high and low grade ore.

Development work has been systematically carried on, with results that more than justify every claim made by the company, and unquestionably proves the destiny of the property to equal that of the greatest successful mining companies of the world.

Above Statement Can be Easily Verified

The following two facts alone will give anyone familiar with mining a rough idea of the great value of the property.

The Copper King Group contains one vein 30 feet wide, 8 feet of which runs from $10 to $100 per ton, and the Company owns 9,000 feet on this vein.

Ore running from $18 to $50 per ton is continually being shipped from the gold property, and 24 samples taken from widely different portions of the vein system averaged $38.25 per ton.

FACILITIES—The Company owns 1,720 acres of placer and timber land. Water power of 50 (minimum) horse power. No expensive shaft work necessary. Ore easily treated on Company's property, thus saving freight and smelter charges.

DIVIDENDS—To begin earning and paying large dividends it is only necessary to erect two 50 ton mills, one on each property. To obtain funds for this purpose a limited amount of stock is offered at

NEW MILLINERY TRIMMINGS

Feathers and Ornaments Will Be Much in Vogue on Fashionable Headgear.

Feathers and flowers are worn all the year around. But it must be acknowledged that feathers have a wonderful vogue. There are beautiful feathers of the shaded variety and these, upon a hat of straw, afford a very pretty sight One of these feather trimmed hats is of brown of a very lovely shade of straw. At one side the brim takes an upward curve, and just here the feather is fastened. It is a deep brown. But it shades gradually lighter, and upon the tip it is a bright yellow. It is secured to the hat with a great dull gold ornament.

Gold ornaments will be worn a great deal upon the hats of spring, as will silver and gun metal. Indeed, gold and silver seem to be taking the place of the rhinestone pin, which held its favor so long. The rhinestone pin is, of course, used. But there are many times when the gold slide or the gold buckle or the great round gold ornament is the best thing that could be used.

Roses which have always been worn will continue to be worn, and a little garden of rosebuds is seen upon many of the handsomest French hats. Roses never come in smiles, and one can get them in all colors, even to blue and black. If one wants to be perfectly safe stick to roses. They come this year in the tiniest sizes, and are particularly chic combined with black. There are floral hats of tiny roses and black panne velvet, and there are small toques of irregular shape, that pin well back upon the coiffure. These are as becoming as anything that can be imagined.

AN ACCOMMODATING KING.

African Monarch Butchers a Native to Obtain Skin for His English Guest.

Capt. Foote, of the British ship Mary Hendry, has recently been trading on the coast of southern Nigeria. While there he entertained King Ogby, the ruler of the Jakrimen, who inhabit the country.

The dusky monarch, says Capt. Foote, in a letter, while feasting on roast pork, inquired if it was white man's meat. The king has over 1,000 slaves, numerous wives, and crowds of children.

When King Ogby was leaving the ship Capt. Foote asked him for a piece of tanned skin with which to make a pair of slippers, and the next day he received the hide of a negro, from the neck to the waist, who had been killed by order of the king to obtain his skin.

TAKE TO OUR APPLES

EUROPEANS LEARNING TO LIKE AND USE OUR GOOD FRUIT.

The Demand Increases at the Rate of a Million Barrels a Year—French Make Wine of Them.

Since last fall nearly 3,000,000 barrels of apples, almost a million more than in the previous year, have been exported from American ports. Most of them have gone to Great Britain and other European countries, where they have found a ready market at good prices, says the New York Sun.

The demand for the fruit still keeps up any many thousands of barrels are being shipped each week to the other side. Germany has taken to the American apple this season with especial kindness, and Baldwins and Newtown pippins, which are the favorite varieties with the Germans, now are frequently found in the small stores and on stands and peddlers' wagons in Berlin and other large cities.

While these apples do not always have the fine flavor of the fruit as we know it, yet, owing to the great care with which they have been packed, they are a credit to the American grower, both in appearance and taste. The American farmer is now studying the best methods of picking and packing fruit for long distance shipment, and there is every reason to expect that in a short time our apples will be sold in Europe in practically as good condition as in the home markets.

A curious feature of the American apple's invasion of Europe has been the large sale on the continent in the last few months of the evaporated product for wine making purposes. The shortage of the grape crop in France has led to a corresponding scarcity of wine, and the peasants and others of the poorer classes, unable to buy the native wines, have been forced to fall back on the dried apple.

From what are known in the apple trade as chops, or apples cut up and dried, the peasants make a cheap drink which is said to have satisfying properties and to furnish a very fair substitute for wine pressed from the grape. A New York exporter who has sampled this beverage says of it:

"It's a sort of apple champagne or beer, and it's not bad, either. The natives make it by putting the dried apples into a barrel or tub of water, adding a quantity of yeast and letting the mixture stand for a week or so.

"By that time it's good and sharp and ready for drinking. It's to the Frenchman about what cider is to our American farmers, and they smack their lips over it just as if it was the real thing."

Several hundred carloads of dried apples have been sent to France for this use since last fall, and fresh shipments are going forward every week. The fruit costs about two and one-half cents a pound in New York, and the freight to the other side is only one-quarter cent more, so that the Frenchman who wants a cheap substitute for the native wine gets it.

The Germans, also, make an inexpensive wine from dried apples; but the practice is not so general with them as with the French, and the exports of American dried apples to Germany are therefore more limited. A good many hundreds of tons of dried apple cores and skins have been sold in German markets this year for use as a basis for certain jams and jellies.

The great bulk of all apples shipped abroad, both of fresh fruit and evaporated, comes from New York state. Wayne county, in the western end, supplies most of the dried apples made in this country, there being no fewer than 2,000 evaporators at work there every fall. The same county also furnishes a large share of the best fresh fruit marketed at home or abroad.

Perhaps She Was Sane.

"I was asked to play before the inmates of an insane asylum by an alienist," said Kubelik, the violinist, "the doctor believing that music was a fine medicine for unbalanced minds. I accordingly accompanied him to the institution, where he introduced me, and I said I would favor my hearers with something gay and happy. The crazy folks were all seated about the platform in chairs, and seemed to be intensely interested. As I finished, a very pretty young woman rose and beckoned to me. I thought, artistlike, that she wanted an encore.

"The doctor was about to question her, when she exclaimed:

"'To think of the likes of me being in here, and he being at large in the wurrid!'

"That was the last time I ever played in an insane asylum."—Rochester Herald.

Smokeless Boiler.

The smokeless boiler of Sir John Priestross, of Glasgow, is claimed to be revolutionary in several ways. It depends upon a separate water-jacketed chamber, in which combustion takes place, and only the gaseous products of combustion impinge on the fire or water-tube steam-raising surfaces. The air and fuel are fed together, no unconsumed gases escaping from the furnace, while no smoke or carbonic acid comes from the chimney or funnel. Great economy in fuel and efficiency in steam are effected, and experiments on a marine boiler indicate that the new system will give a ship its present power with half the present boiler-room space and boiler-room weight.

Automobile Train.

The characteristic feature of the automobile train invented in France is the principle that each car propels itself; the propeling force only is furnished by the locomotive. The latter, therefore, as it has no pulling to perform, but only to supply power, can be built proportionately very light.

THE GREAT WORK GOING ON IN MUSKOKA.

1,000 Patients Treated in the Two Muskoka Hospitals—the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Surprising Decrease of 25 Per Cent. in the Last Three Years in Deaths from Consumption.

Fifty-five Different Trades and Professions Represented by the Patients Admitted to the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Two Pavilions have had to be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds, and the Number of Patients Reduced from 75 to 60.

$25,000 Wanted this Year to Carry on this Great Work.

With a view of helping to bring to the attention of the public the needs of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have pleasure in publishing the following letter, in which an appeal is made for funds.

Dear Friend,—

It again becomes necessary to make an urgent appeal for funds for the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

A very heavy debt is pressing upon the trustees.

In addition to this, funds must be provided for the maintenance of patients. Last month there was a deficiency of nearly $1,500 over and above receipts from all sources.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives was opened eighteen months ago. 225 patients have been admitted.

No patient has ever been refused admission because of his or her poverty.

1,000 patients have been cared for in the two Muskoka Hospitals, the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The majority of these have either been cured, or so helped that they have been enabled to again become bread-winners for the family.

The public are beginning to find evidence of our work.

Already there has been a decrease of nearly 25 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption in the Province of Ontario.

The last report of the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health shows that in the last three years the deaths from consumption in Ontario have decreased from 3,484 to 2,694, a decrease of 790, or nearly 25 per cent.

This is the more gratifying when we remember that for a number of years previously the same report showed a steadily increasing death-rate prior to 1899.

Who will doubt that the work of our two Hospitals in Muskoka, and the persistent educational campaign carried on, has not helped to secure this surprising result?

In what better way can your gifts bring so good a return?

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 60.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

Very truly yours,

W. J. Gage

Deadly "La Grippe"

Or Epidemic Influenza is Caused by an Air Germ. The Most Scientific Remedy is Catarrhozone

Two years ago, the medical journals commented widely on the marvellous success of Catarrhozone, which assisted very largely in stamping out the epidemic raging at that time. Cases that had resisted all other treatment were at once relieved and through the great healing powers of Catarrhozone further progress of the malady was arrested.

It is doubtful whether in the whole range of medicine a more lasting cure can be found. If a patient has any warning of the approach of La Grippe he has only to inhale the germ killing vapor of Catarrhozone a few times daily and escape entirely.

Even as a preventive of colds and catarrh it is a wise precaution to always carry a Catarrhozone Inhaler in your pocket. At the first shiver or sneeze you can ward off an impending attack by merely inhaling a few breaths of Catarrhozone Fatal consequences can often be avoided in this way. The Inhaler is beautifully finished and made entirely of hard rubber. It can be conveniently carried in the vest pocket ready for use in church, at work, in the theatre, street car, anywhere, at any time. The complete Catarrhozone outfit contains a large bottle of inhalant, sufficent to keep recharging the inhaler for two months. It costs $1.00 and is guaranteed to cure. Sold by all druggists or sent direct to your home by mail if the price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., or Hartford, Conn. U.S.A.

New Township Opened

In the list of surveys for 1904, for which instructions have been issued by the Ontario Crown Lands Department, it is noted that Mr. A. J. The New Opera House

Mr. Wm. Fair, the energetic financial agent of the new Opera House Company, has been assured by Mr. A. J. Small, the Opera House magnate of Toronto, that the work will proceed. A site, next the Oriental, belonging to the Dickson Company, has been secured, and the only thing necessary now to make an Opera House for Peterborough a realization is the response of the citizens in the way of subscribing stock. Mr. Fair will wait upon the persons from whom it is expected that subscriptions will be received in a few days.

Police Court

— Adam Hall, J.P., occupied the pedestal at the police court yesterday, in the absence of Police Magistrate Dumble. The wages cases, which were enlarged from Saturday, came up again. Joseph Larome was charged with not having a tag for his dog, but the case was discharged, as the dog did not belong to him. The charges of assault and of disorderly conduct against a man named Robins were enlarged until this morning.

NEW CHAPEL DEDICATED

Place of Worship at Mount St. Joseph

His Lordship Bishop O'Connor Performed the Ceremony—Sermon by Ven. Archdeacon Casey.

Yesterday morning was a pleasing, exciting and memorable occasion in the history of the Sisters of the Order of St. Joseph, the new chapel just finished, having been dedicated by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor of this Diocese, assisted by a number of the clergy, amongst whom were Ven. Archdeacon Casey, of Lindsay, who preached the sermon; Rev. Father McColl, rector of St. Peter's cathedral, who acted as deacon; Rev. Father Scott, of Wolfe Island, deacon of honor; Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Enniskore, sub-deacon; Father Dr. O'Brien, master of ceremonies; Rev. Father Conway, of Norwood; Father Crowley, of North Bay; Father John O'Brien and Father Galvin.

The mass and ceremony was held in the new chapel, which now forms a part of the parent structure, making it not only a conspicuously attractive building, and an ornament to the locality in which it is situated, as well as a credit to the order of St. Joseph. At the conclusion of the service his lordship briefly addressed the gathering, saying the building was now specially dedicated to the Sacred Heart of Jesus for the use and service of those who sought to emulate the life of Him who on earth went about doing good and who gave up his life for us all.

In his sermon Ven. Archdeacon Casey reviewed the history of the sisters in this vicinity from its inception in 1881 down to the present time. The C.P.R. had not then been built, and their field of labor extended almost from Ottawa on the one hand to Rainy River on the other. He also dealt with the organization movement and told of the activity of those who formed it. References were also made to the good work done by them along the line of railway during its construction, the services rendered in educating the Indian children near Fort William, as well as the erection of the three-storey addition to hospital for the accommodation of the citizens in the western country. Effective work was also done in Cobourg, where a magnificent school had been erected lately. The sermon of the venerable archdeacon, who is a former resident of this town was really eloquent, and was much liked by those in attendance, the text being "Jesus said unto him, thou shalt love the Lord thy God with thy whole heart, thy whole soul, and with thy whole mind. This is the first and greatest commandment: and the second is like unto this. Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. On these two commandments depend the whole law and the Prophets," as found in St. Matthew the 21 chapter and 37 to 40 verse.

The dimensions of the new addition are 77 by 44 feet. The corner stone was laid on the 26th of July last. The architect was Mr John Belcher and the contractors Messrs. Rutherford Bros. and Mr Shirley.

EXCURSION TO TOWN

West York Farmers' Institute Will Run an Excursion to Peterborough

On Monday last a committee of gentlemen representing the West York Farmers' Institute came to Peterborough to make arrangements for the running of an excursion to our town. Heretofore this organization has usually made the city of Guelph its objective point. This year they decided to come here instead. The excursionists will, therefore, arrive on June 4th, by special train, about 9.30 in the morning, and stay with us until 6.30 in the evening. The Weston Junior C.L.A. team will accompany the party—which will likely be composed of between 500 and 600—and play a game with the local organization.

IS IT RIGHT?

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—I see by today's Times that at a special meeting of the Board of Education it was decided to purchase the Separate school grounds at a cost of $30,000 for the site of the proposed new Collegiate Institute building. Such a purchase would place the Catholic portion of our community in an invidious position, inasmuch as the Protestant portion who held the adjoining grounds under precisely the same conditions have given up their part for the common weal—Protestant and Catholic alike—without money and without price. As the Collegiate Institute is for the good of the Catholics as well as the Protestants, surely the church can rise equal to the occasion and shew the same generosity as displayed by their fellow Christians of another denomination. Besides it would dissipate ugly rumors respecting the carrying of its by-law

Yours etc.,

THE PROSPECT BASIN AND MAMMOTH TUNNEL GROUP of 30 claims and Tunnel site aggregating 570 acres of mineral ground all held by location, and free from any conflict as to title; also in same location, three mill sites and one lode claim, total 25 acres all now being patented

THE LEAD CARBONATE GROUP, adjoining the Gold King, of 78⅝ acres all of mineral territory; this group is patented

THE STONY PASS GROUP, 110 acres in Stony Gulch, surveyed for patent which will shortly be applied for; no adverses; title perfectly clear.

Total area Mineral territory.....758½ acres.
" " Mill and building sites..... 55 "
" " Timber properties..... 90 "

Total 903½ acres

This was the total acreage held at organization of the Stony Pass Mining Company in December 1902. Since that date 230 acres additional have been located in Prospect Basin and surveyed with view of applying for patent at an early day.

Complete Saw Mill plant located in Cement Creek, capacity 20,000 feet per day; Lumber on hand in mill yards and at the Hercules shaft 500,000 feet. Round logs ready for the mill 300,000 feet. Cost to Company approximately $5,400, market value lumber alone $5,100.

TIMBER RESERVES.

Estimated timber, on timber and mineral lands owned by Company, 5,000,000 feet. Contiguous territory controlled by Government from which timber can be had for cutting providing same is used for mineral purposes 40,000,000 feet.

Total cost of development to date, present management, $53,000.00
" " " " former owners - 18,000.00
" " surface improvements, buildings, saw mill plant, horses, wagons, ore cars, track, tools, etc. - 17,000.00
" " Machinery paid for and to be installed - 6,000.00

$99,000.00

Above items do not include moneys expended for additional properties since Company was organized, which approximate $26,000.00.

Plant of machinery for tunnel now being installed, and all will be in operation within 30 days.

The Hercules shaft will be equipped with machinery at an early date it being impossible to do so now owing to the heavy snows.

With the Hercules property equipped with a hoisting plant, (good for a depth of 1000 feet) we will immediately sink the present shaft to a depth of 500 feet driving levels at each 100 feet to fully open the ore bodies now developed to the 145 foot point.

The Mammoth Tunnel is now in nearly 800 feet. We are confident that with the machinery in operation we will be enabled to drive the tunnel at least 200 feet per month; we are now about 600 feet from one of the main leads crossing the Tunnel. Our machinery should be in operation in about 30 days, which will put us in shape to drive ahead and cut the above mentioned lead by August 1st.

We have recently cut a number of small veins carrying high values in lead, copper and silver. These are all spurs to the vein ahead of the Tunnel and a certain indication of the vein ahead of us.

With the Hercules developed to a depth of 500 feet and the Mammoth Tunnel through the vein and brought to the producing stage, we will be given an accurate basis for calculation as to the tonnage output which may be attained for milling purposes, then mill will be built.

In the meantime only the high grade Smelting ores will be shipped the profits from which will aid us materially in further opening up the properties and building up a treasury reserve for future operations and mill construction. It is likely in view of present favorable conditions, that the sale of treasury stock will be discontinued after August 1st.

Stock is now selling at 60c a share. It will be but a short time when stock will be selling at $1.00 per share, and will do so on merit.

DIVIDENDS.

We are confident that dividends will be inaugurated early in 1905, and be continuous thereafter, and gradually increase in proportion as property developes to at least 30% per annum within two years from date of first dividend.

Considering the extent of the properties and intrinsic value underlying the stock, the shares should, with that dividend in force, sell at from $3.50 to $4.00 per share.

With active development resumed on the Hercules and regular shipment of ore going to the Smelter, we will issue monthly reports to our stockholders. These should commence with the First of July.

The surface improvements on the several groups consist of 3 blacksmith shops, 2 stables, 2 large boarding houses and kitchens, coal sheds, shaft house, saw mill buildings, pipe lines, tunnel buildings, wagon roads, besides rails, railroad switch, bridges, etc.

With the equipment on the Hercules and the Mammoth Tunnel in working order, it will be unnecessary to expend finds for any other purpose but actual developments. By having our own horses and wagons, we have saved on haulage more than enough to pay for them. The Saw Mill plant, too, has paid for itself. Lumber at Silverton is worth from $18.00 to $20.00 per M., the cost to us by reason of having a mill is not over $10.00 per thousand feet.

In my next report to you it will be my pleasure to inform you that everything is in shape for a season of active operation and that shipments of ore have commenced.

Very truly yours,

A. A. BROWN.

The above is a copy of report issued early in April. Stock sells at 60c and will soon sell at $1.00 per share. The object is to build a Stamp Mill this year and Smelter as soon as enough ore is produced from these mines to run Mill and Smelter continuously. In no other form of production is capital assured of such large and certain profits as with Mining and Smelting combined under one management. It is likely that this will be accomplished by the Stony Pass Mining Co, within the next year. I will be happy to furnish you with all available information regarding these matters.

Yours truly,

ROBERT HARRISON.

TERRIBLE SLAUGHTER OF MEN IN BATTLE AT KIN CHOU

Japanese Lost Close on to 4,000 Men-- Russian Loss Not Yet Ascertained but It is Thought to be Very Heavy Four Hundred of Their Dead were left on the Battle Field

Tokio May 29.—The Russians have abandoned Nan Quay Ling and have been driven from Sanchilipy, retreating towards Port Arthur.

The Japanese have captured fifty cannon.

The Russians left 400 dead in the the Kin Chou Nanshan fight. On the Japanese side the killed and wounded number 3000.

AN OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

Washington, May 29.—The following cablegram from the Foreign Office at Tokio was received at the Japanese legation to-day.

"Tokio, May 29.—The commander of the army attacking Kin Chou reports that a detachment of our troops, consisting of infantry, artillery and engineers, occupied Nan Kwan Ling on the morning of May 27.

"The enemy fled in the direction of Port Arthur, after burning a railway station at Shan Shi Ili Tao, northwest of Dalny.

"On the 26th our troops captured 50 guns, besides many other things.

"The number of the enemy's dead alone and left in the field amount to 400. Our casualties including dead and wounded is estimated at 3,000."

DALNY NOW ISOLATED.

Rome, (May 29.—According to a despatch from Tokio, received here, the Japanese have attacked the town of Talien Wan. Their occupation of the junction of the Dalny railway with the main Port Arthur line, it is added, isolates Port Dalny.

DETAILS OF THE FIGHTING.

Further details of the fighting, in addition to those already published show that it lasted all Wednesday and Thursday, and was characterized by great ferocity. The Japanese captured Kin Chou on Thursday, meaning, and then pressed on to Nan Shan Hill, which was the strongest part of the Russian line. A series of batteries, strongly emplaced crowned its crest, while rifle pits extended around its sides. Mines had been placed lower down on the hill, and on the eastern sides were stretched well made wire entanglements. The Japanese made a series of assaults before the Russians finally yielded the position. They centred their fire on the Russian batteries, in which they were aided by four gun boats from Kin Chau Bay and succeeded in silencing many of the enemy's guns.

The Russians had constructed a series of trenches around the hill on a terrace protected by wire entanglements and other such devices. The Japanese made a series of rushes, but they were in vain. The deadly rifle and cannon fire of the enemy checked them repeatedly.

TAKEN AT BAYONET POINT.

Finally at three o'clock in the afternoon the Japanese returned and stormed the crest of the hill. The Russians held to their positions doggedly, and it was seven o'clock in the evening before the Japanese finally gained possession of the ridge at the point of the bayonet. The tokio correspondent of the London Morning Post remarks that the Japanese attack was similar to that against the Chinese in 1894, but, according to the Tokio correspondent of the London Express the stand made by the Russians does not compare favorably with that made by the Chinese.

FOUGHT AGAINST GREAT ODDS.

A Japanese officer of high rank made the following statement:

"The Japanese in attacking Kinchau and Nanshan Hill had to fight against great odds. The Russians were in full command of the strategic advantages afforded by nature and these advantages were augmented by the newest inventions for defence. The forts on Nanshan Hill were armed with heavy guns. The Japanese had only field guns being unavailable on account of the difficulties of transportation. Our army deserves great credit for having driven the Russians from this stronghold. It was a feat previously considered to have been impossible.

"I fear our losses have been heavy but we have gained the strongest point barring our way to the investment of Port Arthur."

NEARING PORT ARTHUR.

The Tokio correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph says he learns that the Japanese troops are now within twelve miles of Port Arthur. He predicts a further surprise, as Japan is now increasing her efforts in all directions. Some experts believe that the Japanese will now rest for a few days; other predict that they will press on and storm Port Arthur, no matter what the cost. A division of veterans of the Chinese War have been landed for that purpose.

JAPAN'S DIFFICULT TASK.

St. Petersburg, May 29.—Capt. Jakovloff former commander of the Russian battleship Petropavlovsk who was wounded when his ship was destroyed at Port Arthur on April 13, in an interview regarding the possibility of the Japanese capturing Port Arthur, declared that it would take 150,000 man with magnificent artillery, to accomplish the task.

Asked as to the number of men in the Port Arthur garrison Captain Jakoleff said it was much larger than was stated in the telegraphic reports—much over 32,000; but he declined to state what would be the exact number when the defenders of Kin Chou positions retired within the fortress.

MANY BATTLES TO BE FOUGHT.

He discussed with some detail the difficulties of the approach. After the outer line of fortifications is reached said he, a great number of detached positions must be captured before the enemy could even reach the inner ring of defences. The taking of each position would necessitate a bloody battle, and their capture would leave the citadel untouched, and, to his mind, impregnable.

A great deal, of course, would depend upon the relative merits of the artillery of the opposing forces. The Russian guns could not be judged by the results of the Yalu; where the Russians had only light advance guard artillery against the heavy siege guns which the Japanese were bringing up for use in Manchuria. Port Arthur, Captain Jakoleff said, had mounted numerous large guns landwards, while Makaroff's system of range finding is so nearly perfect that the Japanese never ventured within reach of the shore batteries.

PROVISIONED FOR A YEAR.

As illustrating the fact that the Japanese artillery is not necessarily invincible, the captain said the battleship Petropavlovsk was struck by a 12-inch shell at a distance of two and three-quarter miles, and her armor was penetrated to a depth of only two inches.

He declared that Port Arthur was provisioned for a year, and said all the damaged ships there had been repaired, except the Retvisan and the Czarevitch. The latter, he asserted, ought to be ready to-day, and the former within a week.

Tokio May 29.—Revised figures show that 61 non-commissioned officers and 376 blue jackets were killed and drowned, 7 officers and 13 non-commissioned officers and 50 blue jackets slightly wounded, and 12 blue jackets seriously wounded in the sinking of the Japanese battleship Hatsuse by a mine off Port Arthur on May 15. Two hundred and thirty-five non-commissioned officers and men lost their lives on the cruiser Yoshino which was rammed and sunk by the cruiser Kasuga on the same day the Hatsuse was blown up. The Navy Department has not yet received a detailed report of the two disasters.

ARE SURPRISED.

New Chwang, May 29.—A staff officer just from Mukden says the deliberation and precision of the enemy has surprised General Kuropatkin, who at first believed the Japanese campaign would be one of dashing recklessness, with more theatrical display about the manoeuvres than strategy.

A Chinese merchant, who left Dalny five days ago, says the Russians have vacated the town, which at the time of his departure had not been occupied by the Japanese forces. The latter were still engaged in landing troops at Kin Chou Bay. It is said upon excellent authority that the Japanese plan is to use a force of 100,000 men in their operations against Port Arthur, and take it by storm in a fortnight. They realize that their losses in the execution of this plan will be severe, but it is considered better to risk that than to keep a large army idle for three months. They do not propose, it is further said, to penetrate into the interior of the country any further than Mukden.

The Russian authorities have secured two million pounds in coin by French steamer.

RUSSIAN ACTIVITY.

The Japanese Again Successful in a Slight Engagement.

Feng Huang Cheng, Manchuria, via telegraph to Fusan, Corea, May 28.—Increased activity characterizes all the movements of the Russians in the neighborhood of Siouyen. Small parties appear daily moving in the direction of Takushan, though there is no evidence of a big movement. All is quiet seven miles to the north of Feng Huang Cheng, on the road to Liao Yang. A large force of Russian cavalry suddenly appeared yesterday five miles to the northeast of Feng Huang Cheng, but being promptly met by a strong detachment of Japanese infantry, retired in some haste.

Stockholm, May 28. — Russian attempts to bluff Sweden into abandoning its project for fortifying the east coast of Gotland have only elicited from the authorities here a declaration that the kingdom means to take all measures advisable for securing the neutrality of Swedish waters. The charge made by the Russians that submarines have been built in Sweden for the Japanese Government have been officially denied.

—As a result of Stratford's first year of city ownership of the waterworks, the commissioners have handed the city a surplus of $15,000.

"ROB ROY'S" FIRST TRIP

The Tidy Little Craft Makes a Run to Rice Lake

Mr. R M. Roy's trim little yacht, the Rob Roy, made her first trip of the season on Saturday, to Rice Lake. On account of the high water there was some difficulty un getting through under the C. P. R. bridge. The smokestack and funnels had to be removed, and even then she barely was able to get through. She will not be able to get up to her own wharf, at the Peterborough boat house, until the water subsides.

The Rob Roy has been enlarged and greatly improved. A new boiler, an 15 horse power engine has been put in and 10 feet added to her length. She will now carry 50 passengers or more.

LABOR DENOUNCES THE GOVERNMENT.

The Abolition of the Department of Labour Demanded

LABOUR GAZETTE SCORED.

Sir William Mulock's Publication Declared to be a Fraud and an Enemy of Labour.

Montreal, May 30.—The prominent members of the city will ask the Dominion Government to abolish the Labor Department, and to discontinue the publication of the Labor Gazette, which is the official organ of the department.

This decision was reached at a great meeting held in their new temple, at No. 5 Place d'Armes Square.

The meeting was one of the most interesting held in the history of this powerful labor organization. There was not one dull moment during the four hour session.

The vote to demand from the Laurier Government the abolition of the Labor Gazette was unanimous. There were several hundred members present and there was not one vote recorded against the resolution.

The delegates to the Trades and Labor Council were instructed to attend the next meeting of that body, and ask that similar resolutions be passed.

It was also decided to inaugurate a campaign that will ring from one end of the Dominion to the other, with the view of putting the Labor Gazette out of business.

It was claimed by the various speakers that the Labor Gazette is not published in the interests of labor, but in the interests of the American and Canadian Manufacturers' Associations.

Strong exception was taken to the statements made in the last number of the Gazette, by the Montreal correspondent, that all iron moulders as coremakers in the various foundries of the city were fully employed.

It was said that this statement was not in accordance with facts and that no such information was given to the correspondent by any of the officers of the Iron Moulders' Union.

The report of the shop committees showed that large numbers of men are out of employment, and that the state of affairs is so serious in the iron industry that they are working on the docks and at any odd job they can find to do.

The chairman of the Out-of-Work Committee stated that they also had a large number of foreigners on their hands, who had been induced to come here under false representations, and whom they had to assist. This, he said, naturally accentuated the seriousness of the trouble.

Before the debate closed it was decided to call a mass meeting of all the iron workers of the city, which will be several Thousand, to discuss the situation and map out plans for future action.

Letters were then read by the secretary from Liverpool, Manchester and Glasgow, asking if it was true there was a scarcity of iron moulders in Canada, as had been stated in all parts of the old country, by the walking delegates of the Laurier Government and agents of corporations.

The secretary was instructed to answer the communications with as little delay as possible, stating that the Canadian labor market is now flooded, and that thousands of Italians and other foreigners are exulting on charity, and that their condition is deplorable. The officer was instructed to lay stress on the fact that the condition in the iron foundries is such that men are compelled to work for the civic authorities for $1.50 per day.

It was then decided to hold an entertainment in the new Labor temple on the evening of June 2 for the purpose of raising money to assist those who are out of employment.

QUAKERS LOST ON SATURDAY.

A Caughnawaga - Norwood Team Give Them Their First Defeat This Season

Caughnawaga-Norwood — 2.
Quakers—0.

The line of wins chalked down to the Quakers was broken on Saturday afternoon for the first time this season, when they met a picked team from Norwood's beat and Caughnawaga. The schedule called for a return game with Caughnawaga and the locals travelled to the "Football City," expecting to meet that team. But as their opponents had got wind of the fact that Manager Sullivan was bringing his fastest aggregation and a stronger team than the one that had administered a defeat to them on their visit to Peterborough, it would be useless to go up against such a bunch, so rather than default fell back to the only resort, viz., to run chances of defeating the visitors by getting together a team composed of Howson, Nichol, Finlay and Lamey, of Norwood, and the remainder from Caughnawaga. This is claimed to be contrary to the rules of the league, as Norwood is grouped with the O. C. W. and Bridgenorth and had played three games this season, and then disbanded.

The Quakers protested the game on these grounds and will await the decision of the executive as to whether or not Caughnawaga was justified in playing the team they put in the field Saturday.

The game was called for 2 o'clock but it was 2.30 before the teams lined up, the locals kicking against the wind. During the first half it was anybody's game, the ball being kept pretty much to the centre of the field, and it was a battle royal for the wings and centre halves, honors being about equally divided, although a strong wind was blowing in favor of Caughnawaga-Norwoods. The forwards were mixing it up in good shape, when Howson and Lamey worked in a nice piece of combination, took it down the field, but only to find a barrier in Ben Simpson, who set it up, but down it came again and Howson planted a hard one at Bellegham who took care of it, and soon the ball was travelling into the opponents territory, C. Fitzgerald and Renton getting in a piece of clever work that resulted in a goal kick. Crowley made a long shot at Bellegham from centre which passed along outside the goal post. Renton secured the ball, made a dash down the field, but lost it to Nichol and Lonergan, one taking the man while the other played the ball, down it came straight into Bellegham's arms, who made a run but was caught by Referee Noble and Nichol had a free kick but Simpson was in the way.

This concluded the first half, neither team scoring.

It was the general opinion that when the Quakers held their opponents down in this half that in the second, with the wind to the good, they would finish with the long end of the score but play had only been in progress about three minutes when Howson and Lamey, who had been doing good work throughout the game, got past Doris and Simpson and landed the ball under the tape, followed by another in about ten minutes. M. Nichol putting the lucky shop. This seemed to bring the Quakers out of the lethargy they had fallen in at the beginning of the second half. Simpson and Doris did great work at back down the field came the ball, Cundal rushed it past Nichol, kicked on goal, but it went wide. The ball travelled from end to end, and towards the finish of second half the Quakers were rushing things and kept it pretty much in the vicinity of their opponent's flags. The locals were working hard to score. Simpson made a clever run, passing man after man, but was met by Nichol, Coughlin and Finlay, who secured the ball and back it travelled, Howson and Kempt worked it in the flags and kicked it through on a foul, but before time expired. Cundal made another shot on goal from a pass from C. Fitzgerald, but it went high and the game finished 2—0 in favor of Caughnawaga-Norwood.

The following players represented the teams:

QUAKERS. CAUGHNAWAGA.

Goal.
Bellegham, Prest

Backs.
R. Simpson, Finlay
J. Doris, Lonergan
P. Fitzgerald, Nichol

Forwards.
W. Parnell, Kemp
M. Guerin, Coughlin
J. Guerin, McNichol
T. Brooks, Howson
G. Cundal, Lonergan
E. Renton, Crowley
C. Fitzgerald, J. Lonergan

Goal Umpire — Caughnawaga-Norwood, Kelly; Quakers, Bartlett.
Referee—A. Noble.

NOTES.

Howson, Lamey and Kempt played a star game and did excellent work.

The Quakers' forwards played the ball too much, three or four taking after the ball at once, instead of letting one take the ball and the other the man. Their opponents were well up on this particular point and did very effective work.

Simpson and Jim Doris, the wise old owl, were called upon quite often to break up many a rush.

The "Dipper Club" did not accompany the boys—no wonder they lost.

A reubish old gent inquired of Manager Sullivan: "Why you fellows are all laughing over being beaten. Youd think they'd be feelin' d—— blue." "Oh, no," said Jack, "we feed them plenty of oats. They can't always win. I don't think they have been eating the 'Banner brand' lately though."

If the Quakers win their protest they have practically won their district, having to play but one game with Keene at home.

The Quakers speak in the highest terms of the treatment they received.

The following are the games won and lost by the Quakers.

May 7—Tie at Keene, 1—1.
May 11—Won from Caughnawaga at Peterborough, 2—1.
May 14—Won from Harwood at Peterborough, 2—0.
May 21—Won from Harwood at Harwood, 2—0.
May 28—Lost to Caughnawaga and Norwood, 0—2.

There are six married men on the lineup of the Quakers. The single men claim that they are all "jonahs."

Ben Simpson attributes the loss of the game to the fact that he left his blocks at home. While Jimmy Doris, the wise old owl, is mum.

Manager Sullivan continues to wear the "smile that won't come off."

Better to lose now than later in the season.

It looked like an off day for many of the Quakers.

PETERBOROUGH'S NEW TELEPHONE SERVICE

Construction of the Line to Be Gone on with at Once

Mr. W. Lytle arrived in town on Friday night to take charge of the construction work of the new Telephone Company, just organized in this town, and which is known as the Canadian Machine Company. He is now taking hearing, as it were, and looking over the ground preparatory to starting with the work. The manager has, we understand, met with excellent success in the securing of subscribers, enough having been promised to ensure a well distributed service throughout the town. Mr Lytle was formerly with the Bell Company and is, no doubt, well fitted for the work he has undertaken.

It is just possible that more wiring may be underground than the contract calls for in consequence of the large number of subscribers coming forward and promising to take stock.

A despatch from Kingston announces that that city will follow Peterborough's example in this matter, and will likely ask the Canadian Machine Telephone Company to quote them prices. An application by the Bell people for a renewal of the contract there has been denied.

NOW IN OPERATION

Peterborough Has a New Industry in Taylor & Co's Cement Works

Taylor & Company's new cement works situated on Victoria avenue, in the northern part of the town is now in daily operation, and visitors desirous of seeing the same in running order or wishing to inspect the product as it is turned out, may do so. The works are on the southern side of the Hilliard property, a part of which was purchased by the council, for the purpose.

Mr. W. Taylor, who is a practical workman in the several lines made, carried on an extensive brick yard in Beaverton, as well as a saw mill and other works. He is assisted by Mr. Warren Hall, who looks after the labor employed, and who is an enthusiast as to the success of the undertaking.

The structures are quite close to the stone, gravel and sand pits, which furnish no small or inconsiderable portion of the raw material used in the production of the line of goods made. An elevator conveys these materials into the building, and to a series of screens situate on the second floor, through which they fall into others, until they are finally separated into the sizes, when they drop down into bins or pits ready for the mixers. A twenty horse power motor drives the machinery, but the mixing of the material is done by hand, and put into moulds for the various kinds of articles desired, such as sewer pipes, door steps, window sills, building blocks, etc., when the moulds are removed and the several articles thus made are dried in the sun ready for use. This latter requires very little time, and they are then stowed away in piles ready for delivery or shipment, as occasion requires.

THE INSURGENTS WIN FIGHT.

Dominican Minister of War Among the Killed.

Cape Haytien, May 30.—A serious battle was fought to-day between the Dominican troops and the revolutionists at Esparanza, on the road from from Monte Cristi to Santiago, near Mao.

The revolutionists were victorious. Many were killed or wounded on both sides. General Raoul Cabrera, minister of war, who commanded the government troops, was killed and his body taken to Navarette.

The revolutionists are before Navarette, where another battle will be fought. The government troops are waiting for reinforcements.

The United States cruiser Detroit and the gun boat Newport are off Monte Cristi.

—Port Hope Guide: Mr. John Hodge, who recently sold his farm near Kendal, to Amos McMullen, has bought a very handsome place with fifteen acres of land bordering on the town of Peterborough. The purchase price was something over $4,000. Mr. Hodge will take possession some time this fall.

HE SHOUTS AT AN ARCHBISHOP.

Parish Priest in Germany Tries to Avenge Alleged Persecution.

Berlin, May 30.—The correspondent of the Tablegatt at Freidburg, Breslau, says that Dr. Rieger, the parish priest of Ploschiem, fired a revolver at the archbishop of Freiburg, Dr Loerber, but missed him. Dr Rieger is said to believe that he is the victim of persecution and that the archbishop is his enemy.

MANY CLERKS DISMISSED

Period of Hard Times Have Struck Wall Street

New York, May 30.—Hard times have struck Wall street, and, according to one of the largest operators on the Stock Exchange to-day, more than 2,500 clerks have been dismissed from various offices in the last two weeks. Many of these men have not known a day of idleness in a score of years, and now they find themselves without employment and the prospects of obtaining any until prosperity returns to the street. Such a period of depression has not been experienced in Wall street in many years, and entrenchments have been ordered throughout the district. Nearly all the big brokerage concerns and banking houses found it necessary to reduce working forces. A member of the Exchange said there was no prospect of improvement in business for the present at least. Brokerage and banking houses are doing 30 per cent. less business than a year ago.

TO SET ASIDE BIG LAND GRANTS

The New Temiskaming Sub-Commission Has Importation to Do.

Toronto, May 30.—Town sites of 1000 acres each, to be selected along the line of the Temiskaming Railway, adjacent to stations or proposed stations, and a land grant of 4,000,000 acres along the 200 miles of the line-ends of delimitation into town-ships, are the two questions to be dealt with by a new sub-commission under the Temiskaming railway commissioners which was appointed yesterday.

Three of the sub-commissioners have been chosen, Aubrey White, deputy-minister of crown lands, being chairman, and Hon. E. J. Davis naming Thomas W. Gibson, director of mines, and Thomas Southworth, director of colonization, and the commission will appoint the other two.

Only a part of the land grant is likely to be set apart at first, and the price per acre of this will be determined by the sub-commission.

It is claimed that much of the district is very rich in minerals, and these will be sold with the land. All timber, except pine, will also go with the land.

NO PLACE FOR WILD MEN

How a Western Cowboy was Handled in Weyburn

Weyburn, Alta., May 28.—The quiet town of Weyburn, on the Soo line, was much disturbed by a man who came from Idaho some weeks ago. He paraded the streets of Weyburn in the afternoon shooting holes through the verandah of one of the hotels. A citizen who had his head out of a window was ordered to take it in or he would put a hole in it. Another citizen was compelled to hold up his hat while he took a shot at it. When this citizen told him to keep quiet or he would be run in, bluntly was that there was no Canadian who could arrest him. He did not stop at that; he offered to bet $25 that no Northwest Mounted Police could arrest him. The Justice of the peace telegraphed to Hall's for Constable Lett, who arrested this wild and woolly man from Idaho in the boarding house. He took the revolver from him, and then with the same gun he compelled him to hold up his hands to receive the handcuffs, which were adjusted in quick order. This is one of the many courageous acts performed by Constable Lett, who in the opinion of everyone who saw the act should at least receive several strikes for his cool, courageous work. He also arrested two others, completing the three arrests inside of 30 minutes. Our American friends join with us in saying that the time is past years ago in Canada for one man to rule a town, and that there is nothing better for a man of this type, than the Northwest Mounted Police, backed up by Canadian law.

THROW A SHELL THIRTY MILES

Wonder Gun Being Construct For Uncle Sam

IT BEATS ALL RECORDS

Another Gun Promised That Will Carry One Hundred Miles

New York, May 30.—The New York Tribune gives a description of a new gun now being manufactured for the United States.

What certain experts declare to be the record-breaking gun of the world the safest in construction and most powerful in range capable of hurling a 100-pound projectile through space with a velocity of thirty-five hundred feet a second, it says, is now nearly completed for the United States government. The shell, at its highest possible point of flight, would be about ten miles above the earth, soaring four miles above the top of Mount Everest, in the Himalayas, believed to be the highest peak on the globe. The swift pace of this shell would be sufficient to girdle the earth in about ten hours. This projectile, after going thirty miles, would have power enough left to penetrate six inches of steel.

This is the new, rapid-fire, six-inch thrown who tube gun, composed throughout its entire length solely of rolled steel sheets and superimposed layers of polished steel wires. It is to be finished by May 1 and taken to Sandy Hook to be tested. Its completion, some experts say, will mark a memorable era in the system of artillery manufacture, and, owing to its solidity and its alleged non-bursting qualities, the great velocity of its shell and its stupendous range, hopes are bright that it will prove itself to be the most formidable death-dealing engine of warfare in existence, and that the famous gun kings of Europe will be now outclassed by American ingenuity in the production of a fighting machine far excelling their latest weapons and almost double in power and range those now in use in this country. A Tribune reporter recently visited the plant of the Scott Iron Company of Reading, Pa., to look at this leviathan as it lay cradled in the lathe, wrapped up in its mantle of twenty-one miles of steel wire. It is 313 inches long and weighs twenty thousand pounds.

This weapon has been constructed according to the calculations of a ballistic engineer of authority, Col. John M. Ingalls, U.S.A., retired. His predictions for this six-inch gun now on the lathe are startling enough—a range of thirty miles with an elevation of forty-five degrees. More startling are his figures for a ten-inch gun of the same kind, built in proportion, having a powder chamber of 14,259 cubic inches and using a charge of 300 pounds of smokeless powder. This, he declares, at an elevation of forty-five degrees, would send a 600-pound projectile with a velocity of 2,900 feet a second to the distance of fifty-nine miles.

The shell at its highest point of flight would be about seventeen miles above the surface of the earth. The monster shot, as it left the muzzle, would have an energy in its blow which would be equal to lifting sixty of the biggest freight locomotives ten feet in the air.

It is possible, moreover, according to the inventor, J. Hamilton Brown, to construct a sixteen-inch or twenty-inch gun of the same type with increased proportions and additional layers of wire enlarged powder chamber, etc., which would have a range of a hundred miles.

After Col Ingalls had verified and re-verified his calculations and was forwarding the results to the inventor of the gun, he himself was amazed at the range of his computation, saying:

"The results are so astounding that I have hesitated to give them, since I feel sure that no one will believe them. However, I have made no mistake in my calculations, and loyalty to my methods and tables should give me courage—so here they are."

THE BREWERS' STRIKE.

Toronto, May 28.—Local labor leaders have decided to take a hand in the brewery workers' strike and have appointed a committee to inaugurate a local option campaign. The fight will be conducted on the same lines as that of the big brewery workers strike in Boston two years ago, which cost the union over $80,000 before a settlement was reached.

TERRIBLE SLAUGHTER OF MEN IN BATTLE AT KIN CHOU

Japanese Lost Close on to 4,000 Men-- Russian Loss Not Yet Ascertained but It is Thought to be Very Heavy Four Hundred of Their Dead were left on the Battle Field

Tokio May 29.—The Russians have abandoned Nan Gary Ling and have been driven from Sanchilipy, retreating towards Port Arthur.

The Japanese have captured fifty cannon.

The Russians left 400 dead in the the Kin Chou Nan-shan fight. On the Japanese side the killed and wounded number 3000.

AN OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

Washington, May 29.—The following cablegram from the Foreign Office at Tokio was received at the Japanese legation to-day.

"Tokio, May 29.—The commander of the army attacking Kin Chou reports that a detachment of our troops, consisting of infantry, artillery and engineers, occupied Nan Kwan Ling on the morning of May 27.

"The enemy fled in the direction of Port Arthur, after burning a railway station at Shan Shi Hli Tao, northwest of Dalny.

"On the 26th our troops captured 50 guns, besides many other things.

"The number of the enemy's dead alone and left in the field amount to 400. Our casualties including dead and wounded is estimated at 3,000."

DALNY NOW ISOLATED.

Rome, May 29.—According to a despatch from Tokio, received here, the Japanese have attacked the town of Talien Wan. Their occupation of the junction of the Dalny railway with the main Port Arthur line, it is added, isolates Port Dalny.

DETAILS OF THE FIGHTING.

Further details of the fighting, in addition to those already published show that it lasted all Wednesday and Thursday, and was characterized by great ferocity. The Japanese capturen Kin Chou on Thursday morning, and then pressed on to Nan Shan Hill, which was the strongest part of the Russian line. A series of batteries, strongly emplaced crowned its crest, while rifle pits extended around its sides. Mines had been placed lower down on the hill, and on the eastern sides were stretched well made wire entanglements. The Japanese made a series of assaults before the Russians finally yielded the position. They centred their fire on the Russian batteries, in which they were aided by four gun boats from Kin Chau Bay and succeeded in silencing many of the enemy's guns.

The Russians had constructed a series of trenches around the hill on a terrace protected by wire entanglements and other such devices. The Japanese made a series of rushes, but they were in vain. The deadly rifle and cannon fire of the enemy checked them repeatedly.

TAKEN AT BAYONET POINT.

Finally at three o'clock in the afternoon the Japanese reformed and stormed the crest of the hill. The Russians held to their positions doggedly, and it was seven o'clock in the evening before the Japanese finally gained possession of the ridge at the point of the bayonet. The Tokio correspondent of the London Morning Post remarks that the Japanese attack was similar to that against the Chinese in 1894, but, according to the Tokio correspondent of the London Express the stand made by the Russians does not compare favorably with that made by the Chinese.

FOUGHT AGAINST GREAT ODDS.

A Japanese officer of high rank made the following statement:

"The Japanese in attacking Kinchau and Nanshan Hill had to fight against great odds. The Russians were in full command of the strategic advantages afforded by nature and these advantages were augmented by the newest inventions for defence. The forts on Nanshan Hill were armed with heavy guns. The Japanese had only field guns being unavailable on account of the difficulties of transportation. Our army deserves great credit for having driven the Russians from this stronghold. It was a feat previously considered to have been impossible.

"I fear our losses have been heavy but we have gained the strongest point barring our way to the investment of Port Arthur."

NEARING PORT ARTHUR.

The Tokio correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph says he learns that the Japanese troops are now within twelve miles of Port Arthur. He predicts a further surprise, as Japan is now increasing her efforts in all directions. Some experts believe that the Japanese will now rest for a few days; other predict that they will press on and storm Port Arthur, no matter what the cost. A division of veterans of the Chinese War have been landed for that purpose.

JAPAN'S DIFFICULT TASK.

St. Petersburg, May 29—Capt. Jakovloff former commander of the Russian battleship Petropavlovsk who was wounded when his ship was destroyed at Port Arthur on April 13, in an interview regarding the possibility of the Japanese capturing Port Arthur, declared that it would take 150,000 men with magnificent artillery, to accomplish the task.

Asked as to the number of men in the Port Arthur garrison Captain Jakoleff said it was much larger than was stated in the telegraphic reports—much over 25,000; but he declined to state what would be the exact number when the defenders of Kin Chou positions retired within the fortress.

MANY BATTLES TO BE FOUGHT.

He discussed with some detail the difficulties of the approach. After the outer line of fortifications is reached said he, a great number of detached positions must be captured before the enemy could even reach the inner ring of defences. The taking of each position would necessitate a bloody battle, and their capture would leave the citadel untouched, and, to his mind, impregnable.

A great deal, of course, would depend upon the relative merits of the artillery of the opposing forces. The Russian guns could not be judged by the results of the Yalu; where the Russians had only light advance guard artillery against the heavy siege guns which the Japanese were bringing up for use in Manchuria. Port Arthur, Captain Jakoleff said, had mounted numerous large guns landwards, while Makaroff's system of range finding is so nearly perfect that the Japanese never ventured within reach of the shore batteries.

PROVISIONED FOR A YEAR.

As illustrating the fact that the Japanese artillery is not necessarily invincible, the captain said the battleship Petropavlovsk was struck by a 12-inch shell at a distance of two and three-quarter miles, and her armor was penetrated to a depth of only two inches.

He declared that Port Arthur was provisioned for a year, and said all the damaged ships there had been repaired, except the Retvizan and the Czarevitch. The latter, he asserted, ought to be ready to-day, and the former within a week.

Tokio May 29.—Revised figures show that 61 non-commissioned officers and 378 blue jackets were killed and drowned, 7 officers and 13 non-commissioned officers and 50 blue jackets slightly wounded, and 12 blue jackets seriously wounded in the sinking of the Japanese battleship Hatsuse by a mine off Port Arthur on May 15. Two hundred and thirty-five non-commissioned officers and men lost their lives on the cruiser Yoshino which was rammed and sunk by the cruiser Kasuga on the same day the Hatsuse was blown up. The Navy Department has not yet received a detailed report of the two disasters.

ARE SURPRISED.

New Chwang, May 29.—A staff officer just from Mukden says the deliberation and precision of the enemy has surprised General Kuropatkin, who at first believed the Japanese campaign would be one of dashing recklessness, with more theatrical display about the manoeuvres than strategy.

A Chinese merchant, who left Dalny five days ago, says the Russians have vacated the town, which at the time of his departure had not been occupied by the Japanese forces. The latter were still engaged in landing troops at Kin Chou Bay. It is said upon excellent authority that the Japanese plan is to use a force of 100,000 men in their operations against Port Arthur, and take it by storm in a fortnight. They realize that their losses in the execution of this plan will be severe, but it is considered better to risk that than to keep a large army idle for three months. They do not propose, it is further said, to penetrate into the interior of the country any further than Mukden.

The Russian authorities have secured two million pounds in coin by French steamer.

RUSSIAN ACTIVITY.

The Japanese Again Successful in a Light Engagement.

Feng Huang Cheng, Manchuria, via telegraph to Fusan, Corea, May 28.—Increased activity characterises all the movements of the Russians in the neighborhood of Siouyen. Small parties appear daily moving in the direction of Taku-shan, though there is no evidence of a big movement. All is quiet seven miles to the north of Feng Huang Cheng, on the road to Liao Yang. A large force of Russian cavalry suddenly appeared yesterday five miles to the northeast of Feng Huang Cheng, but being promptly met by a strong detachment of Japanese infantry, retired in some haste.

Stockholm, May 28. — Russian attempts to bluff Sweden into abandoning its project for fortifying the east coast of Gotland have only rejected from the authorities here a declaration that the kingdom means to take all measures advisable for securing the neutrality of Swedish waters. The charge made by the Russians that submarines have been built in Sweden for the Japanese Government have been officially denied.

—As a result of Stratford's first year of city ownership of the waterworks, the commissioners have handed the city a surplus of $15,000.

"ROB ROY'S" FIRST TRIP

The Tidy Little Craft Makes a Run to Rice Lake

Mr. R. M. Roy's trim little yacht, the Rob Roy, made her first trip of the season on Saturday, to Rice Lake. On account of the high water there was some difficulty un getting through under the C. P. R. bridge. The smokestack and funnels had to be removed, and even then she barely was able to get through. She will not be able to get up to her own wharf, at the Peterborough boat house, until the water subsides.

The Rob Roy has been enlarged and greatly improved. A new boiler, an 15 horse power engine has been put in and 10 feet added to her length. She will now carry 50 passengers or more.

LABOR DENOUNCES THE GOVERNMENT.

The Abolition of the Department of Labour Demanded

LABOUR GAZETTE SCORED.

Sir William Mulock's Publication Declared to be a Fraud and an Enemy of Labour.

Montreal, May 30.—The iron moulders of the city will ask the Dominion Government to abolish the Labor Department, and to discontinue the publication of the Labor Gazette, which is the official organ of the department.

This decision was reached at a great meeting held in their new temple, at No. 5 Place d'Armes Square.

The meeting was one of the most interesting held in the history of this powerful labor organization. There was not one dull moment during the four hour session.

The vote to demand from the Laurier Government the abolition of the Labor Gazette was unanimous. There were several hundred members present and there was not one vote recorded against the resolution.

The delegates to the Trades and Labor Council were instructed to attend the next meeting of that body, and ask that similar resolutions be passed.

It was also decided to inaugurate a campaign that will ring from one end of the Dominion to the other, with the view of putting the Labor Gazette out of business.

It was explained by the various speakers that the Labor Gazette is not published in the interests of labor, but in the interests of the American and Canadian Manufacturers' Associations.

Strong exception was taken to the statements made in the last number of the Gazette, by the Montreal correspondent, that all iron moulders an coremakers in the various foundries of the city were fully employed.

It was said that this statement was not in accordance with facts and that no such information was given to the correspondent by any of the officers of the Iron Moulders' Union.

The report of the shop committees showed that large numbers of men are out of employment, and that the state of affairs is so serious in the iron industry that they are working on the docks and at any odd job they can find to do.

The chairman of the Out-of-Work Committee stated that they also had a large number of foreigners on their hands, who had been induced to come here under false representations, and whom they had to assist. This, he said, naturally accentuated the seriousness of the trouble.

Before the debate closed it was decided to call a mass meeting of all the iron workers of the city, which will be several thousand, to discuss the situation and map out plans for future action.

Letters were then read by the secretary from Liverpool, Manchester and Glasgow, asking if it was true there was a scarcity of iron moulders in Canada, as had been stated in all parts of the old country, by the walking delegates of the Laurier Government and agents of corporations.

The secretary was instructed to answer the communications with as little delay as possible, stating that the Canadian labor market is now flooded, and that thousands of Italians and other foreigners are existing on charity, and that their condition is deplorable. The officer was instructed to lay stress on the fact that the condition in the iron foundries is such that men are compelled to work for the civic authorities for $1.50 per day.

It was then decided to hold an entertainment in the new labor temple on the evening of June 2 for the purpose of raising money to assist those who are out of employment.

QUAKERS LOST ON SATURDAY.

A Caughnawaga - Norwood Team Give Them Their First Defeat This Season

Caughnawaga-Norwood — 2.
Quakers—0.

The line of wins chalked down to the Quakers was broken on Saturday afternoon for the first time this season, when they met a picked team from Norwood's best and Caughnawaga. The schedule called for a return game with Caughnawaga and the locals travelled to the "Football City," expecting to meet that team. But as their opponents had got wind of the fact that Manager Sullivan was bringing his fastest aggregation and a stronger team than the one that had administered a defeat to them on their visit to Peterborough, it would be useless to go up against such a bunch, so rather than default fell back to the only resort, viz., to run chances of defeating the visitors by getting together a team composed of Howson, Nichol, Finlay and Lamey, of Norwood, and the remainder from Caughnawaga. This is claimed to be contrary to the rules of the league, as Norwood is grouped with the O. C. W. and Bridgenorth and had played three games this season, and then disbanded.

The Quakers protested the game on these grounds and will await the decision of the executive as to whether or not Caughnawaga was justified in playing the team they put in the field Saturday.

The game was called for 2 o'clock but it was 2.30 before the teams lined up, the locals kicking against the wind. During the first half it was anybody's game, the ball being kept pretty much in the centre of the field, and it was a battle royal, for the wings and centre backs, honors being about equally divided, although a strong wind was blowing in favor of Caughnawaga-Norwoods. The forwards were mixing it up in good shape, when Howson and Lamey worked in a nice piece of combination, took it down the field, but only to find a barrier in Ben Simpson, who sat it up, but down it came again and Howson planted a hard one at Bellegham who took care of it, and soon the ball was travelling into the opponents territory, C. Fitzgerald and Renton getting in a piece of clever work that resulted in a goal kick. Crowley made a long shot at Bellegham from centre which passed along outside the goal post. Renton secured the ball, made a dash down the field, but lost it to Nichol and Lonergan, one taking the man while the other played the ball, down it came straight into Bellegham's arms, who made a run but was caught by Referee Noble and Nichol had a free kick but Simpson was in the way.

This concluded the first half, neither team scoring.

It was the general opinion that when the Quakers held their opponents down in this half that in the second, with the wind to the good, they would finish with the long end of the score but play had only been in progress about three minutes when Howson and Lamey, who had been doing good work throughout the game, got past Doris and Simpson and landed the ball under the tape, followed by another in about ten minutes. M. Nichol putting the lucky shot. This seemed to bring the Quakers out of the lethargy they had fallen in at the beginning of the second half. Simpson and Doris did great work at back down the field came the ball, Cundal rushed it past Nichol, kicked on goal, but it went wide. The ball travelled from end to end, and towards the finish of second half the Quakers were rushing things and kept it pretty much in the vicinity of their opponent's flags. The locals were working hard to score. Simpson made a clever run, passing man after man, but was met by Nichol, Coughlin and Finlay, who secured the ball and back it travelled, Howson and Kempt worked it in the flags and kicked it through on a foul, but before time expired. Cundal made another shot on goal from a pass from C. Fitzgerald, but it went high and the game finished 2—0 in favor of Caughnawaga-Norwood.

The following players represented the teams:

NOTES.

Howson, Lamey and Kempt played a star game and did excellent work.

The Quakers' forwards played the ball too much, three or four taking after the ball at once, instead of letting one take the ball and the other the man. Their opponents were well up on this particular point and did very effective work.

Simpson and Jim Doris, the wise old owl, were called upon quite often to break up many a rush.

The "Dipper Club" did not accompany the boys—no wonder they lost.

A rumbish old goat inquired of Manager Sullivan: "Why you fellows are all laughing over being beaten. You'd think they'd be feelin' d—— blue." "Oh, no," said Jack, "we feed them plenty of oats. They can't always win. I don't think they have been eating the 'Hammer brand' lately though."

If the Quakers win their protest they have practically won their district, having to play but one game with Keene at home.

The Quakers speak in the highest terms of the treatment they received.

The following are the games won and lost by the Quakers.

May 7—Tie at Keene, 1—1.
May 11—Won from Caughnawaga at Peterborough, 2—1.
May 14—Won from Harwood at Peterborough, 2—0.
May 21—Won from Harwood at Harwood, 2—0.
May 28—Lost to Caughnawaga and Norwood, 0—2.

There are six married men on the lineup of the Quakers. The single men claim that they are all "goners."

Ben Simpson attributes the loss of the game to the fact that he left his blocks at home. While Jimmy Doris, the wise old owl, is mum.

Manager Sullivan continues to wear the "smile that won't come off."

Better to lose now than later in the season.

It looked like an off day for many of the Quakers.

PETERBOROUGH'S NEW TELEPHONE SERVICE

Construction of the Line to Be Gone on with at Once

Mr. W. Lytle arrived in town on Friday night to take charge of the construction work of the new Telephone Company, just organized in this town, and which is known as the Canadian Machine Company. He is now taking hearing, as it were, and looking over the ground preparatory to starting with the work. The manager has, we understand, met with excellent success in the securing of subscribers, enough having been promised to ensure a well distributed service throughout the town. Mr Lytle was formerly with the Bell Company and is, no doubt, well fitted for the work he has undertaken.

It is just possible that more wiring may be run underground than the contract calls for in consequence of the large number of subscribers coming forward and promising to take stock.

A despatch from Kingston announces that that city will follow Peterborough's example in this matter, and will likely ask the Canadian Machine Telephone Company to quote them prices. An application by the Bell people for a renewal of the contract there has been denied.

NOW IN OPERATION

Peterborough Has a New Industry in Taylor & Co's Cement Works

Taylor & Company's new cement works situated on Victoria avenue, in the northern part of the town is now in daily operation, and visitors desirous of seeing the same in running order or wishing to inspect the product as it is turned out, may do so. The works are on the southern side of the Hilliard property, a part of which was purchased by the council, for the purpose.

Mr. W. Taylor, who is a practical workman in the several lines made, carried on an extensive brick yard in Beaverton, as well as a saw mill and other works. He is assisted by Mr. Warren Hall, who looks after the labor employed, and who is an enthusiast as to the success of the undertaking.

The structures are quite close to the stone, gravel and sand pits, which furnish no small or inconsiderable portion of the raw material used in the production of the line of goods made. An elevator conveys these materials into the building, and to a series of screens situate on the second floor, through which they fall into others, until they are finally separated into the sized, when they drop down into bins or pits ready for the mixers. A twenty horse power motor drives the machinery, but the mixing of the material is done by hand, and put into moulds for the various kinds of articles desired, such as sewer pipes, door steps, window sills, building blocks, etc., when the moulds are removed and the several articles thus made are dried in the sun ready for use. This latter requires very little time, and they are then stowed away in piles ready for delivery or shipment, as occasion requires.

THE INSURGENTS WIN FIGHT.

Dominican Minister of War Among the Killed.

Cape Haytien, May 30.—A serious battle was fought today between the Dominican troops and the revolutionists at Esparanza, on the road from from Monte Cristi to Santiago, near Mao.

The revolutionists were victorious. Many were killed or wounded on both sides. General Raoul Cabrera, minister of war who commanded the government troops, was killed and his body taken to Navarette.

The revolutionists are before Navarette, where another battle will be fought. The government troops are waiting for reinforcements.

The United States cruiser Detroit and the gun boat Newport are off Monte Cristi.

—Port Hope Guide: Mr. John Hodge, who recently sold his farm near Kendal, to Amos McMillan, has bought a very handsome place with fifteen acres of land bordering on the town of Peterborough. The purchase price was something over $4,000. Mr. Hodge will take possession some time this fall.

MANY CLERKS DISMISSED

Period of Hard Times Have Struck Wall Street

New York, May 30.—Hard times have struck Wall street, and, according to one of the largest operators on the Stock Exchange to-day, more than 2,500 clerks have been dismissed from various offices in the last two weeks. Many of these men have not known a day of idleness in a score of years, and now they find themselves without employment and the prospects of obtaining any until prosperity returns to the street. Such a period of depression has not been experienced in Wall street in many years, and entrenchments have been ordered throughout the district. Nearly all the big brokerage concerns and banking houses found it necessary to reduce working forces. A member of the Exchange said there was no prospect of improvement in business for the present at least. Brokerage and banking houses are doing 30 per cent. less business than a year ago.

TO SET ASIDE BIG LAND GRANTS

The New Temiskaming Sub-Commission Has Importation to Do.

Toronto, May 30.—Town sites of 1000 acres each, to be selected along the line of the Temiskaming Railway, adjacent to stations or proposed stations, and a land grant of 4,000,000 acres along the 200 miles of the line and its delimitation into town-ships, are the two questions to be dealt with by a new sub-commission under the Temiskaming railway commissioners which was appointed yesterday.

Three of the sub-commissioners have been chosen, Aubrey White, deputy-minister of crown lands, being chairman, and Hon. E. J. Davis naming Thomas W. Gibson, director of mines, and Thomas Southworth, director of colonization, and the commission will appoint the other two.

Only a part of the land grant is likely to be set apart at first, and the price per acre of this will be determined by the sub-commission.

It is claimed that much of the district is very rich in minerals, and these will be sold with the land. All timber, except pine, will also go with the land.

NO PLACE FOR WILD MEN

How a Western Cowboy was Handled in Weyburn

Weyburn, Alta., May 28.—The quiet town of Weyburn, on the Soo line, was much disturbed by a man who came from Idaho some weeks ago. He paraded the streets of Weyburn in the afternoon shooting holes through the verandah of one of the hotels. A citizen who had his head out of a window was ordered to take it in or he would put a hole in it. Another citizen was compelled to hold up his hat while he took a shot at it. When this citizen told him to keep quiet or he would be run in, bluntly was that there was no Canadian who could arrest him. He did not stop at that; he offered to bet $25 that no Northwest Mounted Police could arrest him. The justice of the peace telegraphed to Hall site for Constable Lett, who arrested this wild and woolly man from Idaho in the boarding house. He took the revolver from him, and then with the same gun he compelled him to hold up his hands to receive the bracelets, which were adjusted in quick order. This is one of the many courageous acts performed by Constable Lett, who in the opinion of everyone who saw the act should at least receive several strikes for his cool, courageous work. He also arrested two others, completing the three arrests inside of 30 minutes. Our American friends join with us in saying that the time is not years ago in Canada for one man to rule a town, and that there is nothing better for a man of this type than the Northwest Mounted Police, backed up by Canadian law.

THROW A SHELL THIRTY MILES

Wonder Gun Being Construct For Uncle Sam

IT BEATS ALL RECORDS

Another Gun Promised That Will Carry One Hundred Miles

New York, May 30.—The New York Tribune gives a description of a new gun now being manufactured for the United States.

What certain experts declare to be the record-breaking gun of the world the safest in construction and most powerful in range capable of hurling a 100-pound projectile through space with a velocity of thirty-five hundred feet a second, it says, is now nearly completed for the United States government. The shell, at its highest possible point of flight, would be about ten miles above the earth, soaring ten miles above the top of Mount Everest, in the Himalayas, believed to be the highest peak on the globe. The swift pace of this shell would be sufficient to girdle the earth in about ten hours. This projectile, after going thirty miles, would have power enough left to penetrate six inches of steel.

This is the new, rapid-fire, six-inch Brown wire tube gun, composed throughout its entire length solely, of rolled steel sheets and superimposed layers of polished steel wires. It is to be finished by May 1 and taken to Sandy Hook to be tested. Its completion, some experts say, will mark a memorable era in the system of artillery manufacture, and, owing to its solidity and its alleged non-bursting qualities the great velocity of its shell and its stupendous range, hopes are bright that it will prove itself to be the most formidable death-dealing engine of warfare in existence, and that the famous gun kings of Europe will be now outclassed by American ingenuity in the production of a fighting machine far excelling their latest weapons and almost double in power and range those now in use in this country. A Tribune reporter recently visited the plant of the Scott Iron Company of Reading, Pa., to look at this leviathan as it lay cradled in the lathe, wrapped up in its mantle of twenty-one miles of steel wire. It is 313 inches long and weighs twenty thousand pounds.

This weapon has been constructed according to the calculations of a ballistic engineer of authority, Col. John M. Ingalls, U.S.A., retired. His predictions for this six-inch gun now on the lathe are startling enough—a range of thirty miles with an elevation of forty-five degrees. More startling are his figures for a ten-inch gun of the same kind, built in proportion, having a powder chamber of 14,259 cubic inches and using a charge of 300 pounds of smokeless powder. This, he declares, at an elevation of forty-five degrees, would send a 600-pound projectile with a velocity of 2,900 feet a second to the distance of fifty-nine miles.

The shell at its highest point of flight would be about seventeen miles above the surface of the earth. The monster shot, as it left the muzzle, would have an energy in its blow which would be equal to lifting sixty of the biggest freight locomotives ten feet in the air.

It is possible, moreover, according to the inventor, J. Hamilton Brown, to construct a sixteen-inch or twenty-inch gun of the same type with increased proportions and additional layers of wire enlarged powder chamber, etc., which would have a range of a hundred miles.

After Col. Ingalls had verified and reverified his calculations and was forwarding the results to the inventor of the gun, he himself was amazed at the range of his computation, saying:

"The results are so astounding that I have hesitated to give them, since I feel sure that no one will believe them. However, I have made no mistake in my calculations, and loyalty to my methods and tables should give me courage—so here they are."

The fight will be conducted on the same lines as that of the big brewery workers strike in Boston two years ago, which cost the union over $80,000 before a settlement was reached.

Detroit Specialist Discovers Something Entirely New for the Cure of Men's Diseases in Their Own Homes.

YOU PAY ONLY IF CURED.

Expects No Money Unless He Cures You—Method and Full Particulars Sent Free—Write for It This Very Day.

A Detroit specialist who has 14 certificates and diplomas from medical colleges and state boards of medical examiners, has perfected a startling method of curing the diseases of men in their own homes; so that there may be no doubt in the mind of any man that he has both the method and the ability to do as he says, Dr. Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their names and address. He wants to hear from men who have statement that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic troubles, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotency, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but illumines all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, nervous debility, etc.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him, and if he accepts your case for treatment it is equivalent to a cure, as he does not under any consideration accept incurable cases for treatment; and, remember, if he does accept your case you may pay perhaps you are cured. He sends the method, as well as his booklet on the subject, containing the 14 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply

A LONG WAR IS NOT POSSIBLE.

With the rapid advance of the Japanese and the continued retreat of the Russians, people who look ahead are beginning to discuss the possibilities of ending the war. There seems to be no present prospect of ending it by complete victory of one of the belligerents. Even the Russians, we should think, must have given up the dream of signing a triumphant peace in Tokio before the end of the year. Complete conquest of the Russians by the Japanese, on the other hand, is physically impossible.

Whatever humiliation the Russians may anticipate, we do not dread that of making a treaty of peace with a victorious army in Moscow or St. Petersburg. They are as secure against the Japanese as they were against Charles XII. and Napoleon. It is even doubtful if any territory that really belongs to them will be invaded, unless it be at Vladivostock. At worst, they will only be driven out of territory that they have taken from China and not yet incorporated with Russia.

This will create a deadlock which Russia promises to make the prelude to a long and determined struggle. Driven back into Siberia, the government declares that it will recruit its armies there out of the millions of European Russia for a re-conquest of the territory lost to Japan. It is quite impossible to compute the length and severity of the war this policy would inaugurate. Acting on the defensive in a territory thoroughly known and wisely fortified, Japan could resist forces ten times as strong as those she is driving out of Manchuria. How is Russia to bring up such forces over a long and weak line that fails her under a far less strain?

If the nation did not break down in bankruptcy and revolution in the attempt, the powers of Europe would interfere to put an end to it. The forces of civilization will not endure disturbance of trade and industry, waste of capital and strain of credit by the prolonging of a vain struggle. Nations are compelled to admit a moral defeat and to make peace on the basis of their probable status after complete exhaustion. In this case the good understanding established between France and England, the allies of the belligerents, affords convenient means of mediation. France can put pressure upon Russia at any time by refusing to lend more money.

The Japanese are making intervention easy for England by disavowing all desire to gain territory and promising to be content with a protectorate over Corea and the opening of Manchuria to world trade under Chinese sovereignty and international guaranties. After Russia has been driven out of Manchuria, we do not see how any power in Europe could refuse support to an effort to compel her to make peace on this basis.

A NEW HOPE.

The man who makes two blades of grass grow where one or none grew before is a benefactor, but he can't hold a candle to the man who can make hens lay freely in the winter. Somebody in the agricultural department at Washington thinks he has found the valuable secret. The talk is that it is based on forcing early molting in the fall, which can be accomplished by judicious feeding. The idea is to have the new plumage grown before cold weather begins. In case molting is much delayed the production of the new coat of feathers in cold weather is such a drain on the vitality of the fowls that few, if any, eggs are produced until spring.

The government agriculturist made a number of tests during the past winter with two-year-old Rhode Island Reds and White Leghorns. The method of promoting early molting consisted in withholding food, either wholly or in part, for a few days. This stops egg production and reduces the weight of the fowls. They are then fed heavily on a ration suitable for the formation of the feathers and the general building up of the system, beginning August 5 the chickens received no food for thirteen days except the very small amount they could pick up in fifteen by one hundred foot runs. They were then fed liberally on mash, beef scraps, corn, wheat and oats—i. e., a ration rich in protein or nitrogenous matter, which is believed to be especially valuable for promoting the growth of feathers as well as muscle. The hens stopped laying on the seventh day. Thirty days after the test began the Rhode Island Reds had practically a complete coat of new feathers, had begun to lay, and within a week from that time one-half of the hens were laying regularly, while another lot of Rhode Island REeds, which had been fed continuously, were just beginning to molt and the egg production had declined materially. The White Leghorns were a trifle slower in molting than the Rhode Island REeds, but otherwise the treatment affected them in a similar way.

It will be well enough to wait awhile before becoming very enthusiastic over this discovery. If it pans out according to hope it will be a big thing and eggs will not be 45 or 50 cents a dozen just when they are most wanted.

JUNE CANADIAN MAGAZINE

A beautiful colored frontispiece, entitled "Sunset on the Bay of Fundy," is a feature of the June "Canadian Magazine." The opening article is entitled, "The Building of a Railway," by Hopkins J. Moorhouse, with some interesting photographs illustrating the newest methods in railway building, besides a full page reproduction of the historic driving of the golden spike on the Canadian Pacific Railway in November, 1885. Equally conspicuous are two interesting articles on Toronto's Great Fire, illustrated with numerous drawing and photographs. These articles make this number one to be carefully preserved as containing the most complete record of an event which will always be prominent in Canadian history. "The Automobile for 1904" is described and illustrated by T. A. Russell, who clearly indicates the improvements which are being so rapidly made in this kind of locomotion. The editor describes the origin of the present struggle between Russia and Japan, reviewing briefly the events of the past fifty years. Hall Caine gives a graphic sketch of Thomas Hardy, the famous British novelist. The short stories are by Guy de Maupassant, W. A. Fraser, Marguerite Evans, and Edward F. Strange. Walter S. Johnson pictures the pleasures of travelling "By Canoe," and Stanbury R. Tarr tells some curious stories under the title "Amusement in Statistics." Miss Helliwell in her department dilates upon the beauty of Canadian scenery and the general indifference of Canadians to it. John A. Cooper in "People and Affairs," writes of Party Fidelity, Prohibition, Women and Universities, Mormonism and Immigration. The other features of the magazine are quite equal to the best that this publication gives each month.

Faded Women Need Richer Blood

It Stamps the Glow of Robust Health on Cheeks and Lips. How Blood is Made Rich and Red Enough to Beautify the Complexion.

A bright rosy complexion can easily be acquired. All that is necessary is to purify the blood and supply it with an increased number of red corpuscles. The simplest method of doing it is to introduce more iron into the system, which is always lacking where the complexion is pallid or sallow.

Iron in a concentrated form, specially adapted for internal use is contained in the most efficient state in Ferrozone, which is noted for marvellous blood building properties. No matter how weak or poor the blood may be, Ferrozone will enrich and nourish it. The immediate result is a better color, which will improve steadily under Ferrozone.

Every girl that takes pride in her complexion would find Ferrozone of greater value than cosmetics or face powders. Its influence is lasting, whereas artificial beautifiers are but a temporary aid. Thousands that have used Ferrozone are glad to endorse it strongly because it certainly is the best remedy for pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and poor complexion than money can buy.

Miss Minnie E. Stirling, of Lancaster, writes, "I can recommend Ferrozone to everyone who needs something to clear up their complexion. Before using Ferrozone my skin was sallow, and had a very unhealthy color. After the first box of Ferrozone there was a great improvement and when I had used three boxes I felt much better and had a satisfactory color in my cheeks."

Mrs. C. T. Warwick, of Bradford, says: "My daughter was greatly benefitted by using Ferrozone. She used to have a sickly color and never looked as if she was strong. After using two boxes of Ferrozone she felt better and her color was wonderfully improved. This encouraged her to continue Ferrozone and in a few weeks she looked like a different person and had a clear rosy complexion. Ferrozone accomplished wonders for my daughter."

Ferrozone is just what most girls and women need. It builds up their system, improves their looks, and makes them feel what buoyant good health really means. Price 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50 at all druggists. Beware of substitutes and get Ferrozone when you ask for it. Mailed to your address by N. C. A BIG BATTLE ON.

Japanese Have Carried Kinchow at the Point of the Bayonet.

Tokio, May 28.—On reliable authority a Daily Star correspondent is able to state that the Japanese troops bombarded Nangkwangling, a fortified position on the narrowest joint on the Kinchow peninsula yesterday. After a fierce fire the Mikado's men carried the position. Early this morning the force attacked Kinchow, where there is a strong castle. The castle was carried by assault, the Japanese exhibiting the greatest daring. The troops are now attacking the Russian positions on the heights to the southward in the direction of Port Arthur.

High Class Investment

THE OREGON MINING AND SMELTING COMPANY

Offer to Canadian investors a limited amount of stock of the above company The property owned by the Company consists at the present time of about 500 acres, which are located in the Tarryall District and Park County, Colorado. This whole district has been known for years on account of its rich placer ground, and is now prominently before the public owing to the number of very good properties which have been opened up recently producing, principally, gold, and lately some that are producing Platinum. On the Oregon property there are a number of well known veins of low grade ore that will yield a profit by being treated on the ground of the company. The company have recently opened up a fine vein in the Hawkeye group and this vein shows not only good values but an immense amount of ore which alone would make the property very valuable. Assays from ore taken from various parts of this property range from a few dollars to $373 per ton in gold. We have very little silver, lead or copper in the district. The company have a shaft 240 feet deep, with a good shaft house thoroughly well equipped with all modern machinery to develop same. They are now driving a tunnel which is in about 700 feet and which will cut the Hawkeye vein about 300 feet deeper than where it is opened at present. There is enough ore exposed on the property of this company to keep them busy for a number of years and the reason for selling stock at the present time is to secure funds to build a mill. The company will probably join with the Almaden Company in building this mill. There is water enough to furnish water power and over 100 acres of fine spruce and pine timber. The affairs of the company have always been managed in a business-like economical manner and there are no officers' salaries. The monies received from the sale of stock go direct into the property.

I can heartily recommend this stock as a safe, as well as an unusually good investment, because of the immense amount of ore which the company have already opened up. It is not a mere prospect, but the property has been developed by expense of a considerable amount of money and time.

The company is splendidly officered by men of integrity and high standing. The company has not pushed the sale of stock the last year owing to a delay in getting title to the ground from the Government, but now that has been satisfactorily adjusted and work will be pushed to a finish.

The number of exceedingly rich strikes which have been made during the last few weeks in the various camps in the State of Colorado is the best evidence of the prosperity of the mining business. Almost every camp in the state has opened up rich bodies of ore, and Park County is well in the lead in that line.

There are only $25,000 of stock for sale, at $1.00 per share. The company is capitalized at $200,000, and the advantage to the investor of selling the stock at par, is that every share is fully paid up and non-assessable.

THE PROSPECT BASIN AND MAMMOTH TUNNEL GROUP of 30 claims and Tunnel site aggregating 570 acres of mineral ground all held by location, and free from any conflict as to title; also in same location, three mill sites and one lode claim, total 25 acres all now being patented

THE LEAD CARBONATE GROUP, adjoining the Gold King, of 78½ acres all of mineral territory; this group is patented

THE STONY PASS GROUP, 110 acres in Stony Gulch, surveyed for patent which will shortly be applied for; no adverses; title perfectly clear.

" " Timber properties..... 90 "

Total 903½ acres

This was the total acreage held at organization of the Stony Pass Mining Company in December 1902. Since that date 230 acres additional have been located in Prospect Basin and surveyed with view of applying for patent at an early day.

Complete Saw Mill plant located in Cement Creek, capacity 20,000 feet per day; Lumber on hand in mill yards and at the Hercules shaft 500,000 feet. Round logs ready for the mill 330,000 feet. Cost to Company approximately $5,470, market value lumber alone $5,100.

TIMBER RESERVES.

Estimated timber, on timber land mineral lands owned by Company, 5,000,000 feet. Contiguous territory controlled by Government from which timber can be had for cutting providing same is used for mineral purposes 40,000,000 feet.

" " Machinery paid for and to be installed 6,000 00

$99,000.00

Above items do not include moneys expended for additional properties since Company was organized, which approximate $26,000 00.

Plant of machinery for tunnel now being installed, and all will be in operation within 30 days.

The Hercules shaft will be equipped with machinery at an early date it being impossible to do so now owing to the heavy snows.

With the Hercules property equipped with a hoisting plant, (good for a depth of 1000 feet) we will immediately sink the present shaft to a depth of 500 feet driving levels at each 100 feet to fully open the ore bodies now developed to the 145 foot point.

The Mammoth Tunnel is now in nearly 800 feet. We are confident that with the machinery in operation we will be enabled to drive the tunnel at least 200 feet per month; we are now about 600 feet from one of the main leads crossing the Tunnel. Our machinery should be in operation in about 30 days, which will put us in shape to drive ahead and cut the above mentioned lead by August 1st.

We have recently cut a number of small veins carrying high values in lead, copper and silver These are all spurs to the vein ahead of the breast and a certain indication of the one ahead of us.

With the Hercules developed to a depth of 500 feet and the Mammoth Tunnel through the vein and brought to the producing stage, we will be given an accurate basis for calculation as to the uniform output which may be attained for milling purposes, then mill will be built.

In the meantime only the high grade Smelting ores will be shipped the profits from which will aid us materially in further opening up the properties and building up a treasury reserve for future operations and mill construction. It is likely in view of present favorable conditions, that the sale of treasury stock will be discontinued after August 1st.

Stock is now selling at 60c a share. It will be but a short time when stock will be selling at $1.00 per share, and will do so on merit.

DIVIDENDS.

We are confident that dividends will be inaugurated early in 1905, and be continuous thereafter, and gradually increase in proportion as property developes to at least 30% per annum within two years from date of first dividend.

Considering the extent of the properties and intrinsic value underlying the stock, the shares should, with that dividend in force, sell at from $3.50 to $4.00 per share.

With active development resumed on the Hercules and regular shipment of ore going to the Smelter, we will issue monthly reports to our stockholders These should commence with the First of July.

The surface improvements on the several groups consist of 3 blacksmith shops, 2 stables, 2 large boarding houses and kitchens, coal sheds, shaft house, saw mill buildings, pipe lines, tunnel buildings, wagon roads, besides rails, railroad switch, bridges, etc.

With the equipment on the Hercules and the Mammoth Tunnel in working order, it will be unnecessary to expend finds for any other purpose but actual developments. By having our own horses and wagons, we have saved on haulage more than enough to pay for them. The Saw Mill plant, too, has paid for itself. Lumber at Silverton is worth from $18.00 to $20.00 per M., the cost to us by reason of having a mill is not over $10.00 per thousand feet.

In my next report to you it will be my pleasure to inform you that everything is in shape for a season of active operation and that shipments of ore have commenced.

Very truly yours,
A. A. BROWN.

The above is a copy of report issued early in April. Stock sells at 60c and will soon sell at $1.00 per share. The object is to build a Stamp Mill this year and Smelter as soon as enough ore is produced from these mines to run Mill and Smelter continuously. In no other form of production is capital assured of such large and certain profits as with Mining and Smelting combined under one management. It is likely that this will be accomplished by the Stony Pass Mining Co, within the next year. I will be happy to furnish you with all available information regarding these matters.

Yours truly,
ROBERT HARRISON.

Jap Closing on Port Arthur

Reported to Have Stormed and Captured Kin Chou.

MORE BATTLE RUMOURS.

The Japanese Forces Said to Have Reached Within Ten Miles off Port Arthur.

From the best information obtainable, it is learned that the Japanese have landed near Kinchau, and are advancing along the railway to Port Arthur. Those that landed at Pitsewo are traveling down the east side of the peninsula to Dilny, and those that landed at Takushan are going to reinforce the Feng Wang Cheng army.

There was a violent storm in the Gulf of Pechili last night. A fleet of four ships passed here at noon going east.

There is a rumor current here among the Chinese that the Japanese are now within ten miles of Port Arthur.

A letter received here from a Japanese correspondent says the Japanese landed a regiment of troops at Kerr Bay (north-east of Talienwan Bay, Liao Tung Peninsula), on May 19.

St. Petersburg, May 28.—Yesterday the people of St. Petersburg were eagerly buying the newspapers in the hope of getting some confirmation of the report of the big battle, alleged to have been fought outside Port Arthur, in which the Russians were victorious; but, almost needless to say they were disappointed. The latest reports are to the effect that the Japs are within ten miles of Port Arthur, and, as usual, the Russians plan is "to fall back after harrassing the invaders." The trouble is that on the Liao Tung peninsula this plan cannot be pursued indefinitely as it could on the Yalu. If the Japs are within ten miles of Port Arthur, the Russians have not very far to fall back and not much time for "harassing the invaders." Once arrived at Port Arthur, there can be no further falling back; there will be a fight to a finish. At St. Petersburg there is great confidence in the land fortifications of Port Arthur; but the Japs know what they have undertaken to do. They have been there before on a similar errand and although the fortifications have been greatly improved during the Russian occupation, we imagine the Japs have accurate information with regard to every detail as they have in the war office at St. Petersburg. One of the most astonishing things in the war has been the completeness and correctness of the information possessed by the Japanese.

The bulk of the Japanese army is still in the neighborhood of Feng Wang Cheng and only advancing with the most extreme caution. Possibly the Japanese plan is to mark time Port Arthur is taken, and the great Japanese army now on the peninsula and on the sea, is set free to aid in offensive operations against General Kuropatkin.

ITALIANS ARE OUT OF WORK

Three Thousand Italians in Montreal who Have No Employment.

CAME TO WORK ON G. T. P.

Construction Not Having Commenced, There is No Work Which They Can Do.

Montreal, May 28.—There are, it is conservatively estimated, at least three thousand Italians in the city at the present moment who are out of employment. Most of these were induced to come to this country in the expectation of obtaining work upon the railways, but thus far these expectations have not been realized. Nor is the outlook for the immediate future any too promising.

The thought of those who induced these men to come to Canada was that the work of construction upon the Grand Trunk Pacific would have been commenced long ere this. Information was widely circulated throughout Italy that work was awaiting ten thousand men, but the Grand Trunk Pacific is still being discussed by Parliament.

Thus far, the railways have taken on the usual quota of Italians to perform the work incidental to the maintenance of their tracks, but the great majority of these are continued in employment from season to season, so that the new comers could not expect to obtain work, in any large numbers, should new extensions be undertaken. Not a few of the arrivals have in this manner been taken by the C. P. R. to work upon the expanding lines in the west. But even in this respect the demand has been limited compared with what it has been in other years, owing to the vast influx of immigrants during the past winter and spring.

The result has been that over three thousand of the Italians who arrived in Montreal in the hope of securing employment with very slight delay, are still roaming the streets. They may be seen in groups at almost every corner of the down town section. While some few of them have still some money in their possession, the majority came to the country with only sufficient to see them through a couple of weeks after arrival.

Count F. Massa, the Italian Consul-General, when seen at his home in this city, yesterday morning, said that, when men were out of employment, and relying upon charity for subsistance, they were naturally in a pretty bad way. He denied, however, that any of them were starving, the Italian Immigration Society having arranged to provide bread to all who applied at the Society's headquarters in Windsor street. In this manner, the persons had been looked after yesterday morning.

When asked whether the immigration of Italians was keeping up Count Mazza said that on the 20th of last month he had cabled to the Government in Rome to use its influence to prevent any more men coming to Canada for the present. That order had naturally put a stop to any of it at immigration. But the Government could not naturally put a stop to all immigration from Italy. Many are in the habit of getting their passports to Switzerland or Germany, eventually finding their way to Canada.

The Count was of the opinion that the Federal Government should do something to assist those Italians who had been induced to come to Canada through misrepresentation as to the exact condition of the labor market. It was, he said, a source of menace to the community to have so many men about lacking employment.

Mr. R Candori, the agent of the Italian Immigration Society, when seen at his office, was not very hopeful that there would be an improvement in the demand for the class of labor supplied by the Italian immigrants.

FOUR-PAW-SELLS CIRCUS.

Will Exhibit in Peterborough on Saturday July 2.

It is positively certain that the great Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers' mighty united circuses will exhibit in Peterborough, on Saturday, July 2, and the people of this vicinity will not have to leave town to see what is generally acknowledged as one of the greatest shows on earth. This year all new features are promised, few of which have ever been seen in America.

Among them for the first time here and, in fact, anywhere except under their canvases, will be seen those perennial Parisian favorites, the seven Rivers Lecuyers. These remarkable performers appear in the only original equestrian acts known to the circus for the past half century. The Szarvasi Frencz Troupe of Hungarian Magyars, with unpronounceable names and incomparable exhibitions of their kind, are new and novel phenomena of the peculiar dances, heroic acrobatics and mysterious melodies of their prehistoric race. Davolo, whose terrific achievement of "looping the loop" on a bicycle has caused such universal amazement and comment, is now associated with two other equally marvellous cyclists who bring Prodigious Posthos, who masters the almost incredible feat of leaping a fifty foot wide chasm on his head. Mons. Hubert, the extraordinary atomic French innovator, among other originalities leaps from the ground to the bare back of his horse while holding aloft a sulky by its thills. An Arctic feature, which would almost stagger the Ice Trust, has been added to the menagerie, in fourteen living full grown Polar bears the greatest number of these ferocious animals ever seen at one time by human eye. So world famous in champion manual and drill contests have the original and only Aurora Zouaves become, that little need be said in praise of the pre-eminent efficiency in arms and action, recognized everywhere from West Point to St. Petersburg. Something like one hundred different equestrian, aerial, acrobatic, gymnastic and animal acts are spread upon the millionaire menu. The stupendous Adam Forepaugh herd of elephants still participate in stately quadrilles and minuets, and the Sells Brothers' mammoth military masters march and manoeuvre after a fashion to make the Czar hunger for them.

Italian Labour Plentiful

Scores of Italians are in town looking for work. They are being employed in the construction of sewers and work of this kind, and in some cases they have taken contracts as farm hands. A despatch from Montreal, which we published in another column, says that there are several thousand stranded Italians in that city, who came to Canada to work on the Grand Trunk Pacific.

TO CANADIAN INVESTORS

I desire to call the attention of investors to the

Smuggler Gold Mining Co.'s Proposition

of which I am the authorized agent

Investments in mining stocks where they can be purchased cheaply whose property contains merit and whose directors are men of unquestionable honor and integrity, and especially when sufficient work has been done to guarantee a producing mine and the leads have been demonstrated to be permanent, offer the greatest opportunity for large returns from modern investments.

The shrewdest capitalists of England and America are giving more attention to mining properties and putting more money into them than at any time in the past history of the world.

The Smuggler Group consists of five full sized claims, to-wit: The Smuggler, Gangoo, Bear Jack, Star and Red Rock, located in the Greenhorn District of Eastern Oregon. Surrounding mines are Potosi, Pride of Pendleton, Bonanza and Rockefeller, developing work to the extent of 1,000 feet of tunnelling, drifts and crosscuts have been made, exposing hundreds of tons of high grade ore, averaging from $25 to $45 per ton, based on smelter returns and for the purpose of equipping the mines a limited number of shares of Treasury Stock will be sold at 25 cents per share, the par value of which is $1.00.

THE GREAT WORK GOING ON IN MUSKOKA.

1,000 Patients Treated in the Two Muskoka Hospitals — the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Surprising Decrease of 25 Per Cent. in the Last Three Years in Deaths from Consumption.

Fifty-five Different Trades and Professions Represented by the Patients Admitted to the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Two Pavilions have had to be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds, and the Number of Patients Reduced from 75 to 50.

$25,000 Wanted this Year to Carry on this Great Work.

With a view of helping to bring to the attention of the public the needs of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have pleasure in publishing the following letter, in which an appeal is made for funds.

Dear Friend,—

It again becomes necessary to make an urgent appeal for funds for the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

A very heavy debt is pressing upon the trustees.

In addition to this, funds must be provided for the maintenance of patients. Last month there was a deficiency of nearly $1,500 over and above receipts from all sources.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives was opened eighteen months ago. 236 patients have been admitted.

No patient has ever been refused admission because of his or her poverty.

1,000 patients have been cared for in the two Muskoka Hospitals, the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The majority of these have either been cured, or so helped that they have been enabled to again become bread-winners for the family.

The public are beginning to find evidence of our work.

Already there has been a decrease of nearly 25 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption in the Province of Ontario.

The last report of the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health shows that in the last three years the deaths from consumption in Ontario have decreased from 3,484 to 2,694, a decrease of 790, or nearly 25 per cent.

This is the more gratifying when we remember that for a number of years previously the same report showed a steadily increasing death-rate prior to 1899.

Who will doubt that the work of our two Hospitals in Muskoka, and the persistent educational campaign carried on, has not helped to secure this surprising result?

In what better way can your gifts bring so good a return?

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 50.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

Very truly yours,

W. J. Gage

Old Hagar's Secret

BY MRS. M. J. HOLMES

Author of "For a Woman's Sake," "Love's Triumph," "Purified by Suffering," "A Grass Widow," "Woman Against Woman," Etc.

his parents.

"People here respect George, too, quite as much as if he were a Conway, and I sometimes think they like him all the better for being so kind to his old father, who comes frequently to the store. Grandma, I begin to think differently of some things from what I did. Birth and blood do not make much difference in this country, at least, and still I must acknowledge that I should feel dreadfully if I did not love George and know that he is the kindest husband in the world."

The letter closed with a playful insinuation that as Henry Warner had gone, Maggie might possibly marry Arthur Carrollton, and so make amends for the disgrace which Theo had unwittingly brought upon the Conway line.

For a long time after finishing the above, Madam Conway sat rapt in thought. Could it be possible that during all her life she had labored under a mistake? Were birth and family rank really of no consequence? Was George just as worthy of respect as if he had descended directly from the Scottish race of Douglas, instead of belonging to that vulgar woman? "It may be so in America," she sighed, "but it is not true of England," and sincerely hoping that Theo's remark concerning Mr. Carrollton might prove true, she laid aside the letter, and for the remainder of the day busied herself with preparations for the return of Arthur Carrollton, who had written that he should be with them on the first of December.

The day came, and, unusually excited, Maggie flitted from room to room, seeing that everything was in order, wondering how he would meet her, and if he had forgiven her for having been so cross at their last interview in the woods. The effect of every suitable dress in her wardrobe was tried, and she decided at last upon a crimson and black merino, which harmonized well with her dark eyes and hair. The dress was singularly becoming, and, feeling quite well satisfied with the face and form reflected by her mirror, she descended to the parlor, where any doubts she might have had concerning her personal appearance were put to flight by Anna Jeffrey, who, with a feeling of envy, asked "if she had the scarlet fever!" referring to her bright color, and saying, "she did not think too red a face becoming to any one, particularly to Margaret, to whom it gave a blowsy look, such as had more than once heard Mr. Carrollton say he did not like to see!"

Margaret knew well that the dark-browed girl would give almost anything for the roses blooming on her cheeks; so she made no reply, but simply wished Anna would return to England, as for the last two months she had talked of doing. It was not quite dark, and Mr. Carrollton, if he came that night, would be with them soon. The car whistle had sounded some time before, and Maggie's quick ear caught at last the noise of the bells in the distance. Nearer and nearer they came; the sleigh was at the door, and, forgetting everything but her own happiness, Maggie ran out to meet their guest, nor turned her glowing face away when he stooped down to kiss her. He had forgiven her ill-nature, she was certain of that, and very joyfully she led the way to the parlor, where, as the full light of the lamp fell upon him, she started involuntarily, he seemed so changed.

"Are you sick?" she asked, and her voice expressed the deep anxiety she felt.

Forcing back a slight cough and smiling down upon her, he answered, cheerfully: "Oh, no, not sick. Canada air does not agree with me; that's all. I took a severe cold soon after my arrival in Montreal," and the cough he had attempted to stifle now burst forth, sounding to Maggie, who thought only of consumption, like an echo from the grave.

"Oh, I am so sorry," she answered, sadly, and her eyes filled with tears, which she did not try to conceal, for, looking through the window across the snow-clad field on which the winter moon was shining, she saw instinctively another grave beside that of her mother.

Madam Conway had not yet appeared, and as Anna Jeffrey just then left the room Mr. Carrollton was for some moments alone with Maggie. Winding his arm around her waist, and giving her a most expressive look, he said: "Maggie, are those tears for me?"

Instantly the bright blushes stole over Maggie's face and neck, for she remembered the time when once before he had asked her a similar question. Not now, as then, did she turn from him away, but she answered frankly: "Yes, they are. You look so pale and thin, I'm sure you must be ill."

Whether Mr. Carrollton liked blowsy complexions or not, he certainly admired Maggie's at that moment, and, drawing her closer to his side, he said, half playfully, half earnestly: "To see you thus anxious for me, Maggie, more than atones for your waywardness when last we parted. You are forgiven, but you are unnecessarily alarmed. I shall be better soon. Hillsdale air will do me good, and I intend remaining here until I am well again. Will you nurse me, Maggie, just as my sister Helen would do, were she here?"

The right chord was touched, and all the soft, womanly qualities of Maggie Miller's nature were called forth by Arthur Carrollton's failing health. For several weeks after his arrival at Hillsdale he was a confirmed invalid, lying all day upon the sofa in the parlor, while Maggie read to him from books which he selected, partly for the purpose of amusing himself, and more for the sake of benefiting her and improving her taste for literature. At other times he would tell her of his home beyond the sea, and Maggie, listening to him while he described its airy halls, its noble parks, its shaded walks and musical fountains, would sometimes wish aloud that she might one day see that spot which seemed to her so much like paradise. He wished so, too, and oftentimes when with half-closed eyes, his mind was wandering amid the scenes of his youth, he saw at his side a queenly figure, with features like those of Maggie Miller, who each day was stealing more and more into his heart, where love for other than his nearest friends had never before found entrance. She had many faults, he knew, but these he possessed both the will and the power to correct, and as day after day she sat reading at his side, he watched her bright, animated face, thinking what a splendid woman she would make, and wondering if an American rose like her would bear transplanting to English soil.

Very complacently Madam Conway looked on, reading aright the admiration which Arthur Carrollton evinced for Margaret, who in turn was far from being uninterested in him. Anna Jeffrey, too, watched them jealously, pondering in her own mind some means by which she could, if possible, annoy Margaret. Had she known how far matters had gone with Henry Warner, she would unhesitatingly have told it to Arthur Carrollton, but so quietly had the affair been managed that she knew comparatively but little. This little, however, she determined to tell him, together with any embellishments she might see fit to use. Accordingly, one afternoon, when he had been there two months or more, and Maggie had gone with her grandmother to ride, she went down to the parlor under pretense of getting a book to read. He was much better now, but, feeling somewhat fatigued from a walk he had taken in the yard, he was reclining upon a sofa. Leaning over the rocking-chair which stood near by, Anna inquired for his health, and then asked how long since he had heard from home.

He liked to talk of England, and as there was nothing to him particularly disagreeable in Anna Jeffrey, he bade her be seated. Very willingly she complied with his request and after talking awhile of England, announced her intention of returning home the last of March. "My aunt prefers remaining with Madam Conway, but I don't like America," said she, "and I often wonder why I am here."

"I supposed you came to be with your aunt, who, I am told, has been to you a second mother," answered Mr. Carrollton, and Anna replied: "You are right. She could

FOR CANADIAN INVESTORS

THOMAS PATTERSON & CO.

BROKERS, PETERBOROUGH

HAVING BEEN APPOINTED CANADIAN FISCAL AGENTS OF THE

CRIPPLE CREEK ENTERPRISE GOLD MINING COMPANY

of Colorado, beg to inform their customers and investors generally that they have secured a block of stock of this Company, which they now offer for sale at 35 cents per share—par value $1.00.

This stock is bound to advance rapidly. All Shareholders are on an equal basis, no preferred stock. This is a proposition in all its details so simple that every shareholder will know at all times the value of his holdings. With the vast quantities of ore now in sight, and the facilities that will be put into operation to mine it, every dollar invested in this way may yield ten, twenty and a hundred fold. As has been chronicled in hundreds of instances in Cripple Creek, where persons have purchased stock in the early stages of a mine, the price at which the stock is offered is such a bargain that it cannot fail to be subscribed for at an early date, therefore investors should act quickly.

The shares are fully paid up and non-assessable (no individual liability). Each and every share represents a distinct and liberal portion of an enterprise which it is fully believed will produce millions of dollars.

The Cripple Creek Company is splendidly officered by men of high repute and with an expert knowledge of mining in all its details. The Company was organized to operate in Colorado, and properly incorporated under the laws of that State.

In the incorporation of the Company 500,000 shares of the capital stock were set aside for development purposes, and cannot be used in any other way.

We will be pleased to give full particulars to investors, and would say in conclusion, Buy now! Get in on the ground floor, as the stock will quickly advance.

C.P.R. STEAMERS; RUSSIAN MINES

The Only Way in Which the Canadian Boats Can Be Injured.

IT IS BY A DRIFTING MINE

The Manager of Steamships Cannot Believe Russians Would Scatter Mines on High Seas.

Montreal, May 28.—While recognizing that the Russians, if acting deliberately, have adopted a policy contrary to the usages of civilized warfare in sowing the Yellow Sea with destructive mines, the officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway in this city are not disposed to believe that the company's interests are seriously at stake.

"Our vessels," remarked Mr. Arthur Piers, the manager of the company's steamship lines, "run too far south of the scene of warfare to be seriously endangered. The one way in which one of them could come in contact with a mine would be by the instrument of destruction floating far beyond its original location.

"Doubtless this will account for the recent destruction of the Japanese men-of-war. It is scarcely conceivable that the Russians would so far depart from the recognized usages of modern warfare as to deliberately jeopardize the safety of vessels belonging to non-combatants. If the sowing of mines in the high seas were to be permitted for a moment, there would be no vessel that would be free from danger. For no matter how carefully a mine might be secured, there would always be the danger of its drifting from its moorings.

"So far as I can see, therefore, there is no likelihood of danger to Canadian Pacific steamers except in a contingency such as I have indicated. The course of our vessels is hundreds of miles from the scene of any probable naval conflict at the present time."

METHODIST CONFERENCE.

Annual Sessions for the Bay of Quinte Opens on Monday

For the first time in ten years, the Methodist body of the Bay of Quinte district will hold its annual conference in Peterborough. The Stationing committee will meet in the Charlotte street church, at 7.30 p.m. on Monday, May 30th, and the Ministerial session will convene on Wednesday, June 1st, at 9.30 a.m. Interesting features of the conference will be an address by the Rev. Dr. Potts, on educational matters, and an illustrated lecture by Chancellor Burwash, of Victoria University, under the auspices of the Theological union, the latter of which is set down for Saturday evening, June 4th. Dr. Potts has, with others, recently returned from the Holy Land, where he had the honor of preaching on Olive Hill, and we have no doubt his address will be especially well attended and deeply interesting.

The official program of the conference will appear in Monday's issue.

The Copper King Group contains one vein 30 feet wide, 8 feet of which runs from $10 to $100 per ton, and the Company owns 9,000 feet on this vein.

Ore running from $18 to $50 per ton is continually being shipped from the gold property, and 24 samples taken from widely different portions of the vein system averaged $38 25 per ton.

OUR WATER SUPPLY

New Set of By-Laws, Rules and Regulations Published

The Water Commissioners recently passed a set of bylaws, rules, regulations, etc., with a schedule of rates, for the use of water consumers, as well as forms of application, which they are now distributing free to all who are interested.

These bylaws and rules have been prepared with care, as well as much labor by the Commissioners and it is not too much to ask the citizens generally to observe them. Water users and plumbers are especially requested to look carefully into the subject matter contained therein and to govern themselves accordingly, as it is in the interests of the commissioners to see that they are rigidly enforced.

Some radical as well as important changes have been made, but as the documents will be widely circulated, and as it is desirable that all citizens should make themselves acquainted with their several provisions, The Times deems it better not to attempt to them, lest some should refrain from giving them the consideration which their importance demand.

FORCING THE RUSSIANS TOWARDS PORT ARTHUR

An Official Report—Swept the Enemy Away—Will be Used as a Base—Town Completely Invested—Details of the Fighting.

London, May 27.—The Japanese legation has received the following official despatch from Tokio:

"Kin Chou and all the heights in its vicinity have been taken, and our troops are pushing the Russians towards Port Arthur."

Tokio, May 27.—After five hours of desperate fighting the Japanese captured Kin Chou yesterday evening.

San Quan Ling, a stronghold of the enemy, was taken later after a hot fight.

An artillery duel still continues.

A Russian gunboat bombarded the Japanese left flank from Talienwan Bay, while the Japanese warships worked with the army from Kin Chou Bay.

SWEPT THE ENEMY AWAY.

Tokio, May 27.—The Japanese troops have swept all the Russians from their defences west of Talienwan Bay. It is now improbable that the latter will be capable of offering any further serious resistance in the territory north of Port Arthur.

AN OFFICIAL REPORT.

Washington, May 27.—The following cablegram has been received at the Japanese Legation:

Tokio, May 27.—The commander of the army attacking Kin Chou reports as follows:

"On May 21 reconnaissance was made, and the enemy's cannonading showed that they had at Nan Shan Hill, south of Kin Chou, four 15-centimetre shrapnel guns, ten 9 to 15-centimetre cannon (10.5 centimetre shells), proved the range of 9,500 metres, twenty 12-centimetre quick-firing, besides at least ten fort guns. At the foot of the hill there were wire netting and mines. On May 22 the attacking force commenced the operations as pre-arranged. On May 23, reconnaissance was made which discovered the enemy's right wing on Hushantow with about eight heavy guns facing the sea. Fragments of the enemy's shells showed that they had twenty centimetre guns, fifteen centimetre short cannon, eight 10 1-2-centimetre cannon, and seven centimetre quick-firers. Small bodies of infantry and artillery of the enemy were observed, stationed at Kin Chou. On the morning of May 25 our forces attacked Kin Chou, engaging with the enemy's artillery on Nan Shan Hill. At dawn of May 26 we commenced cannonading, which lasted five hours, while three Japanese warships assisted the land forces from Kin Chou Bay. The enemy's gunboats attacked our left wing Talienwan. We took Kin Chou at 5.30 a.m. of the same day, and after a severe fight occupied Nan Shan Hill and pursued the enemy."

WILL BE USED AS A BASE.

London, May 27.—Baron Hayashi, the Japanese Minister, discussing the recent fighting north of Port Arthur, said today:

"Kin Chou will be occupied as a first base. The neighboring hills will be strongly fortified in order that they can be held indefinitely. For food supplies and ammunition Port Dalny will be second base.

"The possession of Kin Chou will be of invaluable aid in the campaign against Port Arthur. The hills command positions of the country for several miles in the direction of Port Arthur. I presume from the action at Kin Chou that the Russians intend to make another stand at Port Dalny. Their justification for defending Kin Chou must have been the belief that their numbers were able to cope with ours, so I expect that practically all the available Russian troops have been moved out from Port Arthur in the attempt to head off the investment."

TOWN COMPLETELY INVESTED.

Tokio May 27.—Vice-Admiral Togo has now established a complete blockade around the southern end of the Liao Tung Peninsula. This completely envelopes Port Arthur, from the seaward, and probably marks the opening of the final investment of the town and its fortifications.

DETAILS OF THE FIGHTING.

Tokio May 27.—The Japanese army swept the Russians from Kin Chou last evening and in a desperate night attack stormed the almost impregnable position of the Russians on Nanshan Hill west of Talienwan. The battle raged in the hills all through the night, and fragmentary telegrams from the Japanese headquarters report that the engagement is still in progress and that the Japanese are still pursuing the Russians south Nanshan and the head of Talienwan Bay. The Russians had made elaborate preparations to check the Japanese movement south on the Liao Tung Peninsula toward Port Arthur. The had fortified the high ground on the south shore of Talienwan Bay, their works extending to the east and the west. The extreme Russian right was at Hushang Tao and the extreme left at Nanshan Hill. The hill was the strongest part of the line, a series of batteries, strongly emplaced, crowded its crest, while rifle pits extended around its sides. Mines had been placed lower down on the hill and around the base on the northern and eastern sides were entanglements. Another line of defences also protected with wire entanglements, extended from Yen Chia Tung near the head of Talienwan Bay, due north of Liuchia Tien, which lies south of Kin Chou. A strong Russian force was posted at Kin Chou. It consisted of infantry and artillery. The Japanese first occupied the line of hills to the east of Kin Chou. Their position had formed an almost perfect right angle, showing its southern front to Talienwan and its western front to Kin Chou. Chiu Le Chan village was the apex of this angle; the extreme right of the Japanese line rested at Chen Cha Tien which is almost due north of Chiu Li Chan, while the extreme left was at Chaifanho, a village due east of Chiu Lichan. Back of this angle the attacking force assembled in complete security.

THE GREAT WORK GOING ON IN MUSKOKA.

1,000 Patients Treated in the Two Muskoka Hospitals — the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Surprising Decrease of 25 Per Cent. in the Last Three Years in Deaths from Consumption.

Fifty-five Different Trades and Professions Represented by the Patients Admitted to the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Two Pavilions have had to be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds, and the Number of Patients Reduced from 75 to 50.

$25,000 Wanted this Year to Carry on this Great Work.

With a view of helping to bring to the attention of the public the needs of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have pleasure in publishing the following letter, in which an appeal is made for funds.

Dear Friend,—

It again becomes necessary to make an urgent appeal for funds for the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

A very heavy debt is pressing upon the trustees.

In addition to this, funds must be provided for the maintenance of patients. Last month there was a deficiency of nearly $1,500 over and above receipts from all sources.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives was opened eighteen months ago. 225 patients have been admitted.

No patient has ever been refused admission because of his or her poverty.

1,000 patients have been cared for in the two Muskoka Hospitals, the Sanatorium and the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The majority of these have either been cured, or so helped that they have been enabled to again become bread-winners for the family.

The public are beginning to find evidence of our work.

Already there has been a decrease of nearly 25 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption in the Province of Ontario.

The last report of the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health shows that in the last three years the deaths from consumption in Ontario have decreased from 3,484 to 2,094, a decrease of 790, or nearly 25 per cent.

This is the more gratifying when we remember that for a number of years previously the same report showed a steadily increasing death-rate prior to 1899.

Who will doubt that the work of our two Hospitals in Muskoka, and the persistent educational campaign carried on, has not helped to secure this surprising result?

In what better way can your gifts bring so good a return?

We have no endowment, excepting the provision recently made by Canada Life, Confederation Life, and North American Life Insurance Companies for maintenance of 2 beds each for a year.

We can only rely on the philanthropy of our people and a knowledge of our needs.

Last year we asked $20,000 to reduce the debt and to pay for care of patients. We had a generous response, receiving $10,000, gifts coming from Halifax on the east and Yukon on the west. This year our needs are greater than ever. We will require $25,000.

The Bishop of Selkirk, Caribou Crossing, Yukon, sending $10.00, writes: "The trifling remittance I send is intended to express our sympathy for the sufferers in other parts, rather than to imply a special need for your institution here."

We are grateful for the large gift. We are grateful for the small gift; all gifts are helpful.

On account of our pressing needs, will you not make this your special charity?

During the year, for lack of funds, we had to close several pavilions, reducing the number of patients from 75 to 50.

The sorrowful part of our work is that nearly all of those in the Free Hospital are young men or women who were striving to make a place for themselves in the world. Many of them have wife, or child or husband anxiously watching the struggle for life.

Your gift will help to bring gladness to so many. Will you have the joy of giving?

Very truly yours,

W. J. Gage

You Take It Mixed With Air

A Powerful Destroyer of Disease Germs Which Cures Every Type of Catarrh Bronchitis and Throat Trouble.

Ever since Adam the air of the Pine woods has been known to possess marvellous healing properties. In fact doctors claim that people living in the balsamic atmosphere of the woods never contract consumption or catarrh.

A new remedy that embraces all the healing curative powers of the pine woods has at last been realized. It contains the balsams, the ozone and many other antiseptics that make it an absolute cure for all catarrhal diseases.

For years doctors have been looking for just such a remedy and claim the newly discovered Catarrhozone is the most effectual, the most scientific cure for catarrh, bronchitis and winter ills, they have ever met.

So powerfully healing is Catarrhozone that simple colds in the head and coughs can be cured in less than an hour. Chronic catarrh is eradicated from the system in the most thorough manner. It doesn't matter whether the catarrh affects the nose, throat or stomach, it can be completely driven from the system by using fragrant healing Catarrhozone.

The remotest parts of the lungs and air passages often contain germs of catarrh and consumption which cannot be reached by ordinary treatments. But the searching vapor of Catarrhozone carries its antiseptic healing power direct to those isolated spots. So thoroughly does Catarrhozone reach all diseased surfaces that it cures for all time, and no relapse need ever be feared.

"My nose was so stuffed up from catarrh that I could not breathe except through my mouth," writes John D. Perkins, a well known merchant in Hamburg. "My breath was horribly offensive and my digestion was completely knocked out. I used Catarrhozone and was cured in two weeks. I wouldn't take five thousand dollars for the benefit and good health I received from Catarrhozone which I can recommend as a certain, absolute cure for catarrh."

Two months' treatment costs $1.00; sample size, 25c. At druggists or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Bartford Conn., U.S.A., and Kingston, Ont. Catarrhozone always cures—refuse a substitute, and insist on getting Catarrhozone when you ask for it.

Buried Apples

Mr. John E. Terrill, says the Port Hope Guide, buried several barrels of apples last fall as an experiment and this spring when he dug them out they were in splendid condition. But the experience of an Attica, N. A. S. Andrews

Not only was every available seat in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church occupied last night, but the entrances leading to the edifice were also crowded with eager listeners to the melodious and harmonious sounds of Master Clarence Glass, the soloist from Sherburne Street Methodist Church Toronto. The grounds and sidewalk in front of the church also contained a goodly number of listeners.

Some Bad Italians

The Globe says: Mr. Michael Basso, the Italian court interpreter has been asked by the Chief of Police of Peterborough to go down there to see if he can help the police in the matter of finding out who stabbed a young Canadian down there. In speaking of the Italians in Peterborough, Mr Basso said: "I don't know one town in Canada where there is such a bad lot of Italians as in that place. When they are questioned by the police they say the know nothing of the affair. The English people threaten to clean the Italian colony out of the city unless the culprit is forthcoming."

The Engineer was Startled.

Lindsay Post: As the Kenosha was forging slowly out of the lock Monday afternoon on her way to Port Perry her funnel collided with the electric power cable connecting the Flavelle mills and elevator. Contrary to the expectation of the spectators, the cable did not break, but rasped along the iron until the tension caused it to spring upwards. Evidently the gutta percha covering was worn away by the scraping against the funnel, because a burst of flame shot up, the engine room bells began to jingle and the engineer, when he jumped to the lever received a shock that threw him against a wall close by and set his nerves tingling in most unpleasant fashion. The cable was next day raised above the danger point.

Cost of Cement Walks

Last year there was laid in Barrie over five miles of concrete walks with a total area of 125,840 square feet at a cost of $11,445.10 or an average cost of 9 1-10 cents per foot. Ward 1 was the cheapest at 8 4-8 cent, while Ward 4 was the most expensive, its average being 10 1-10 cents per square foot. With the exception of a few odd pieces, the walks are of excellent quality and will compare favorably with granolithic walks anywhere. Comparison with figures given for other places shows that few towns, if any, in Ontario, have secured their walks at such a low figure, in many cases the price being several cents higher per foot. The walks were laid by men employed by the council, that body finding day labor cheaper than doing the work by contract. Cement being cheaper than last year, Stayner has contracted for the laying of granolithic sidewalks this year at 9 1-2 cents per square foot. It cost Orillia about 1 01-2 cents last year.

A Fifty Million Dollar Problem

The above title is the caption of an interesting pamphlet issued by the passenger department of the Grand Trunk Railway System in connection with the World's Fair at St. Louis, April 30th to December 1st, 1904. The publication contains a very comprehensive and interesting description of the fair, given in the speech delivered by the Hon. Richard Bartholdt in the House of Representatives, Washington. The information contained in the brochure will tell you how to solve the "$50,000,000 problem," and help you to decide upon the best way to reach St. Louis, the cost, many suggestions, and a number of side trips that can be taken en route with the price of tickets, etc. The pamphlet is for free distribution, and may be obtained from any of the Agents of the Grand Trunk Railway System.

SPRING CROPS IMPROVE

Reports Indicate a Brighter Agricultural Outlook Since the 15th.

Reports being received by the Department of Agriculture indicate that there has been an improvement in the the spring crops since the 15th of the month, the date to which the recently issued report was complete. Some localities say that despite the late spring there is now more vegetation than is the average at this date. There has too, in many localities been a surprising recuperative power shown by the fall wheat and clover.

It is expected that fully 10,000 Orangemen will attend the celebration. They will not include a vast number of people who do not belong to the order.

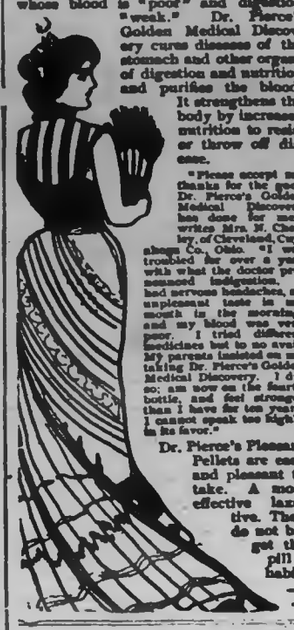
The Dead[illegible] Trail

Of disease is often the trail marked by a woman's gown. A recent investigation showed a horde of microbes, including those of influenza, consumption and a dozen other varieties, gathered in the trail of a woman's dress.

The microbe is everywhere, but its prey are the weak and feeble people whose blood is "poor" and digestion "weak." Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition and purifies the blood. It strengthens the body by increased nutrition to resist or throw off disease.



"Please accept my thanks for the good Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has done for me," writes Mrs. H. Chesley, of Cleveland, Cuyahoga Co., Ohio. "I was troubled for over a year with what the doctor pronounced indigestion. I had nervous headaches, an unpleasant taste in my mouth in the morning, and my blood was very poor. I tried different medicines but to no avail. My parents insisted on my taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I did so; am now on the fourth bottle, and feel stronger than I have for ten years. I cannot speak too highly in its favor."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are easy and pleasant to take. A most effective laxative. They do not beget the pill habit.

Mrs. Rielly, who was up looking after the fastenings of the windows, had an exceedingly narrow escape, being rendered unconscious by the shock. Had Kenpatrick's mare, however, no
